Warsaw, March 31.—An enjoyable event of Monday evening of last week was an oyster supper and entertainment, in which the members of the Methodist Epworth League and their invited friends took part. Preceding the serving of the bivalves several hours were spent in games, vocal and instrumental music and literary numbers, in which the following took part: Rev. Dr. Marvin, Misses H. and M. Brown, Beatrice Selkirk, Ruby Crowe, M. Nesbitt and Mr. C. G. Watts.

The many friends of Rev. Mr. Currie will be pleased to learn of his recovery from a severe attack of lumbago by which he was confined to the manse last week.

Owing to the result of an accident Rev. John Gray, D.D., of Knox College, Toronto, who was to have taken service in the Presbyterian church here was unable to attend. Mr. Alex. Watts supplied the vacancy.

The Easter openings in connection with the millinery department of A. F. Choate's departmental store, will be held on Wednesday, April 7th, and following days. The department is this season in charge of Miss L. DeLany, of Toronto.

Mr. Wm. K. Payne, Peterborough, spent Tuesday and Wednesday with relatives here.

Won't Hurt To Eat It.

Enjoy Your Meals Without Fear of Dyspepsia or Upset Stomach.

Nothing will remain undigested or sour on your stomach if you will take Diapepsin after your meal. This powerful digestive and antacid, though as harmless and pleasant as candy, will digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all the food you can eat.

Eat what your stomach craves without the slightest fear of indigestion or that you will be bothered with sour risings, belching, gas on stomach, heartburn, headaches from stomach, nausea, bad breath, water brash or a feeling like you had swallowed a lump of lead, or other disagreeable miseries.

If you can get from your pharmacist a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin you could always go to the table with a hearty appetite, and your meals would taste good, because you would know there would be no indigestion or sleepless nights or headache or stomach misery all the next day; and, besides, you would not need laxatives or liver pills to keep your stomach and bowels clean and fresh.

Pape's Diapepsin can be obtained from your druggist and contains more than enough triangules to thoroughly cure the worst dyspeptic. There is nothing better for gas on the stomach or sour odours from the stomach or to cure a stomach headache.

You couldn't keep a handier or more useful article in the house.

Bethany Young Lady United In Marriage To Omemee Man

Miss Emma Graham Becomes the Wife of Mr. Widdes of Omemee Havelock Young Lady Assisted the Bride—Other Notes From Railway Town.

NUMBER OF VISITORS.

Examiner Special.

Havelock, March 31.—A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Graham, "Ebenezer" Bethany, on Wednesday, March 24th, at 5 p.m., when their youngest daughter, Emma, was joined in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. Widdes, of Omemee. Rev. Mr. Adams, of Bethany officiating in the presence of about fifty guests. At the hour appointed, to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by Mrs. Adams, the bridal party entered the drawing room (the bride leaning on the arm of her father), and took their places under an arch of evergreens brightened with white carnations and lilies of the valley. The bride was becomingly attired in a beautiful Empire gown of white taffeta silk with long trail and wore the customary veil caught up with lilies of the valley, carrying a pretty bouquet of white roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Eva Bryans, of Havelock, looked pretty in a dainty white organdie dress, with sash of tuscan satin ribbon and carried a pretty bouquet of carnations. The groom was ably assisted by Mr. Norman Fee, of Omemee. At the conclusion of the ceremony, when congratulations were bestowed upon the young couple, the bride led the way to the dining room, where a sumptuous repast was partaken of. The groom's gift to the bride was a black Persian Lamb coat with sable trimming and to the bridesmaid, a beautiful brooch set with chip diamonds and pearls, to the groomsman, a tie pin. The many beautiful presents received testify the high esteem in which the bride and groom are held. They will take up residence in Omemee.

Mrs. Widdes has for many years been organist and choir leader in the Ebenezer Church, and on Tuesday evening previous to the wedding a number of the members of choir and congregation gathered at her home and presented her with a cabinet of silver accompanied by the following address:

Dear Friend,—We, the members and friends of Ebenezer Church, having learned of your intention to enter a new field of labour, feel that it would be great ingratitude on our part, to allow you to pass from our ranks, without in some way expressing our respect for you, not only as a member of our society, but as a citizen of our neighbourhood.

We appreciate your services as organist in our church, both in the public service and in our Sunday School. We recognize the fact that such responsible positions are not successfully filled, without the exercise of patience and self-sacrifice. Patience in the performance of the duties of the position and self sacrifice in the attainment of the greatest amount of good. Such characteristics in leader of the service of song are not only worthy of our respect and appreciation, but also of our remuneration.

The breaking of the ties which bind us together, not only as Christian workers, but as neighbours and friends, are not always the most pleasant experiences of our lives, yet are sometimes necessary, and can be overruled by the master hand of God so as to result in higher good.

We shall miss you from our midst, not only as organist, but in the service of song your voice will be missed.

We congratulate you on the approaching event, which is to make you a member in the ranks of married folk, and join in wishing you the very choicest of weather and everything that goes to make this the most pleasant and enjoyable event of your life, and further pray that the blessing of the Giver of all good may attend you and yours, through all the journey of life.

And on this, the last night which we shall have the privilege of addressing you as Miss Graham, we ask you to accept this gift, not as a remuneration for your service, but as a slight token of our appreciation of your service amongst us, and our respect for you, as a member of our society.

Signed on behalf of the Ebenezer congregation.

MRS. E. WHITE.
MRS. W. H. LEE.
Ebenezer.

Mrs. Widdes made a very suitable reply, expressing her regret of leaving her many friends, but assured them that a warm spot in her heart would still remain for them, and she would often think of them gathered at Ebenezer Church to unite in worship.

Miss Hilda West of, Trent Bridge, was the guest of the Misses Bryans on Sunday.

Miss Edith Hubble, of Trenton, is the guest of her parents, Mr and Mrs. Thos. Hubble.

Mrs. Steve O'Hara and baby returned home Monday, after a few days' visit at her home, Eganville.

Mrs. Joseph Cowan and children returned home from Tweed on Monday, where they have spent the last week, the guest of her brother, Mr. Walter Hardy.

A WAR CORRESPONDENT'S NARROW ESCAPE.

Mr. Frank Scudamore, the great war corresepondent, who sent many of the Canadian despatches during the late Boer war, owes his health to Zam-Buk. He has passed unscathed through twenty-nine battles, but a scratch which turned to blood-poisoning nearly ended his days. Zam Buk saved him and he writes as follows:

"I have proved Zam-Buk such a blessing that I want others to know of its merits. The poisonous dye in some underclothing I was wearing got into a scratch I had sustained and blood-poisoning set up. Inflammation was followed by great pain and swelling, and then ulcers broke out on my legs. For some time I could not walk a few steps, nor even put my feet to the ground. On my left leg, below the knee, I had seventeen ulcers which caused holes, into which I could put my thumb. On the right leg I had fourteen ulcers. Medical treatment failed to relieve, homely remedies were applied in vain. Week followed week and I gradually got worse, until I was worn out with pain and lack of sleep. On the advice of a friend I obtained some Zam-Buk and left off everything else while I tried it. It seemed to give me almost instant relief from the pain, and in a few days I noticed that it was healing the ulcers. This was cheering indeed, and gladly I persevered with the Zam-Buk treatment. Bit by bit the poisonous matter was drawn out. The ulcers were healed, and new healthy skin grew over the previously diseased places. I am now quite cured and in gratitude I mention these facts that other sufferers from skin disease may know of something which will cure them.

Zam-Buk is a sure cure for eczema, ring worm, ulcers, abscesses, piles, bad leg, suppurating wounds, cuts, burns, bruises, chapped hands, and cold cracks, and all skin injuries and diseases.. All druggists and stores sell at fifty cents box or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, upon receipt of price.

LATE HAPPENINGS AT PRENEVEAU

Preneveau, March 30.—Mrs. Jackson and family, of Cobalt, are holidaying at Maple Lodge, Preneveau.

Mr. William Armstrong and Miss Mabel Armstrong spent Sunday in Norwood.

The sawing machine, which is run by Mr. Wm. McMullen, and which broke down some time ago, is now operating again at the farm of Mr. A. Dunk.

Mr. and Mrs. Lemick McGowan have been on the sick list lately.

All our loyal Irishmen paid homage to St. Patrick on the seventeenth, in the good old way, by the wearing of the green.

Mr. Thos. McQuaig visited at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Bert Robson of Preneveau.

We are pleased to mention that Mr. Allan Elmhirst and family are now out of quarantine for scarlet fever. We are glad to see Frank's pleasant smile once more for he was sorely missed by the pupils of S. S. No. 2, Belmont,, during his six weeks' absence.

Miss Winnie Hickey is at present a guest at Maple Lodge.

Mrs. Randall W. Anderson of Cobalt, is spending some time with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Warren, Preneveau.

Mr. John A. Sexsmith, M.P., spent Sunday at his home here.

A young horse, owned by Mr. Joe. Rylott, of Victoria, ran away a week ago last Sunday, upsetting the buggy and practically ruining the harness.

Mr. Meller, Methodist clergyman, visited in this vicinity a couple of days this week.

Inspector J. Coyle Brown, of Peterborough, paid his annual visit one day this week at S. S. No. 2, Belmont.

Mrs. John Johnson of Preneveau is holidaying in Havelock at present.

Mrs. Post, who has been under the weather, is now improving.

A most enjoyable evening was spent last Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Fletcher. A very pleasant time was spent in card playing and dancing, and the party broke up at daylight, well satisfied with their evening's amusement.

Miss Lizzie Clark, who has been very ill with quinsy, is now on the road to recovery.

We advise starting a "Lost and Found" column in the Preneveau news. It would be very convenient indeed as it might assist some one whose driving whip was lost, strayed or stolen.

Mrs. Covert and family of Victoria, have removed to the home of Mr. Jason Roe, Preneveau.

The report that the Acker family are quarantined for scarlet fever has been confirmed.

GETTING A WAITER.

To get a waiter quickly in a big cafe is at times very difficult, but a Germantown man recently learned a method from a New York friend which is guaranteed instantly to bring not one but several waiters. This Germantown man was giving a dinner in one of Philadelphia's swellest cafes, with the New Yorker and two women as his guests. After a long delay a waiter came and took the order. Then one of the women decided that she must make a change in her order. The host signalled one waiter after another without avail. After about ten minutes of violent gesticulating on his part the New Yorker said:

"I'll bet you $5 I can bring a waiter to this table within 30 seconds."

"I'll take the bet," said the Philadelphian, drawing out his watch. The New Yorker reached over into the middle of the table, picked up a thin delicate glass and deliberately dashed it to the floor. Instantly every waiter in the room came dashing up to see what was the trouble.

"Change one tumbler up on the bill," said the New Yorker laconically, "and change one of those oyster orders to Blue Points."

As the waiters dispersed he added "I guess you owe me a five-spot, old man."

Retained In the Role.

By CARL WILLIAMS.

Copyrighted, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.

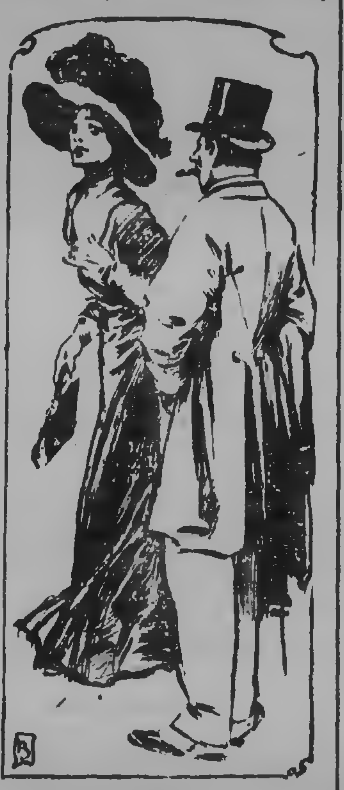
Melrose was agog with excitement. The local billposter was banging the paper of the Denham Repertoire company for a three night run. And Maggie Denham hailed from Melrose. "Margaret Denham" she was billed, but Melrose recognized her.

It was the first time that what Melrose called "a real theater troupe" had visited the little town. This in itself would have meant much, but Maggie in addition created an epoch in town history.

Melrose could not know that she was to be a star only for this brief engagement in Melrose. Maggie had happened to mention that she had been born in Melrose, and the astute manager had changed the name of the company from the Metropolitan to Denham Repertoire company for the three night stay.

He well knew the value of a local name in a small town. Occasionally Maggie had let fall some scrap of information as to her departure from the town that told the rest of the old story of the girl who had run away from home to go upon the stage.

Maggie's story differed from most, for she had succeeded in achieving her ambition. She had become a fairly useful player of parts in the smaller companies.



'I'M GLAD HE DIDN'T SEE ME LAST NIGHT AS THE ADVENTURESS."

This was her second season with the Metropolitans, and she smiled confidently when Quinlin, the manager, asked her if she felt strong enough to play the star part for three days.

It involved a little extra rehearsal, but Maggie was delighted. She would show Tom Chambers and the rest of Melrose that she had made a success.

Tom came ahead of the rest of Melrose, because there had been a time when they two were almost engaged, and she still thought tenderly of those courtship days.

She looked about eagerly when the company arrived; but, though every one else in town appeared to have come to the train to stare curiously at Maggie Denham's troupe, Tom was not there.

With a curious sense of blankness Maggie climbed into the ramshackle bus that was to convey the company to the hotel. Her triumphant entrance into her home town had gone for naught just because one man was not there.

She was angry and surprised to realize that she still cared more for Chambers than she had ever admitted when he had tried to win her.

She had not long to wait, however, for information about the recreant one. Presently a string of callers came to the hotel, and all of the friends of her school days crowded the hotel parlor, all talking at once.

From the babel of voices Maggie gathered that Tom had left town the day before with the evident purpose of avoiding her. The blood throbbed in her temples.

It was to give Tom a lesson that she wanted to show to Melrose how well she had succeeded. Now he would not witness her triumph, and she turned strangely depressed until the manager, versed in the handling of the erratic omen of the stage, sensed the situation.

"Anyhow, you can do your best," Quinlin reminded her, "and leave behind a record that he will be proud of."

"And who may 'he' be?" demanded Maggie truculently.

"I don't know," confessed Quinlin promptly, "but there is usually a 'he' somewhere, and since he does not seem to be around I thought you might like my suggestion."

Maggie waved him off with a jesting remark, but her heart was lighter. Here was something that she could do. So it happened that even her fellow players wondered that evening at the brilliancy with which she played her part.

"You'll land on Broadway yet," they assured her, but even this promise of reaching the goal of all actors did not cheer the girl, and when the performance was over she hurried back to the hotel, only to creep into bed and cry herself to sleep.

On the third and last day of the engagement Tom appeared suddenly in town, and, though she could not see him in the badly lighted auditorium that night, Maggie felt that he was there, and she acted with a touch of tenderness that lent new beauty to a naturally sympathetic role.

John Benjamin, one of the important eastern theatrical men, had stopped over to wait for a train and had drifted into the opera house, where the manager overwhelmed him with attentions. As he watched the girl work he nodded his head.

"I'd like to steal your leading woman," Benjamin said to Quinlin. "I can place her in a road company for a year under one of my good stage directors and then bring her into New York."

"Go ahead and steal," invited Quinlin. "She's a nice little woman, and if you can place her the contract she made with me won't hold her back. I'll tell her to write to you."

The big manager nodded his thanks, looked at his watch and hurried off to make his train.

Maggie only nodded carelessly, when Quinlin hurried back with word that the way to Broadway was open to her at last.

She could not think of business when Tom was out there in the darkened auditorium watching her. She needed to give all of her attention to her performance, and she played the last act with a rich sincerity that won the audience completely.

Not until the curtain had fallen and the other players crowded around to congratulate her upon the opportunity she had earned did she seem to realize what it all meant, and then she accepted listlessly what the other women of her profession would have given years of their life to attain.

She slipped from the stage door alone to go to the hotel, but as she emerged Tom stepped forward with outstretched hands.

"I had to come to see you," he said brokenly. "At first I vowed that I would stay out of town while you were here, but I had to come back, and I'm glad I did.

"I thought that you would be tough and common, Maggie, like the rest, but you can't be that and play as you did tonight. That wasn't acting, and when I saw you as you really are, and not as I thought that you would be, I wanted to get up and shout to you to come right to me and we'd get married, as we used to plan when we were children. Will you come and marry me, Maggie? I've got a fine farm now, and you'll never regret it, dear."

"I don't think I will regret it," agreed Maggie happily, "but I didn't think you'd want me, Tom."

"You know what they think about actresses here," he reminded her. "I guess I thought pretty much the same, but you—well, when I saw you come on the stage looking just as you used to do I knew you were my Maggie still!"

He clasped her hands, unable to say more, but Maggie understood. To the Melrose minds all player folk were followers of the devil. Perhaps the ingenuous role she had played had won Tom. He wanted for his wife the woman she had played. And she knew it would be easy to continue in that role with Tom as opposite.

She felt that she could continue her success in that part, and so she let him kiss her before she pushed him gently from her with a whispered command to come to the hotel in the morning. Together they would see Quinlin and secure the release from her contract.

As she entered the hotel the manager was waiting for her. He had taken from his trunk her contract for the season, and this he handed to her.

"This sets you free, my girl. You can go to Benjamin and Broadway," he said smilingly. "I'm glad that at last the Metropolitans have contributed a real star to Broadway."

"I'm not going to Benjamin," replied Maggie. "I'll play the season out for you if you want me to, but I made a real human hit in the part tonight, and I'm going to keep on playing it for Tom here in Melrose. Gee, Mr. Quinlin, I'm glad he didn't see me last night as the adventuress."

Ice Sport For Danish Children.

In Denmark one of the favorite forms of exercise on the ice is a game wherein the skaters can have their fun and also the tots who prefer to ride upon sleds.

A large pole is fixed upright in the middle of the frozen pond, and a crossbeam is attached, the whole affair being kept from toppling over by means of a large wagon wheel, through whose hub the upright pole is thrust and which lies flat upon the ice. To the end of the longer section of the transverse beam a string of sleds is attached, and then eight or ten of the large lads and lassies begin to skate in a circle, pushing the beam around with them, while the little fellows climb on the sleds.

Around and around they go, faster and faster, amid shouts of delight, until the string of sleds is flung out across the ice like the lash of a long whip. It often becomes necessary for those who are furnishing the motive power to slacken speed in order to let the coasters get back into a better position, centrifugal force having stretched them out sometimes almost to the banks of the lake.—Pathfinder.

Had the Proof.

"I wonder if Jones is married."

"No."

"Did you ask him?"

"I didn't have to. I heard him telling what he would do if any wife of his came out in a directoire gown."

Charles Lamb and His Pipe.

Greatest among the votaries of the pipe was Charles Lamb. He smoked furiously, incessantly—smoked with an air that commanded the respect of his friends. Dr. Parr, who watched him with amazement, ventured to ask how it was he had acquired such a marvelous power. "I toiled after it, sir," replied Lamb, "as some men toil after virtue." He was always on the point of giving up tobacco, but he never quite succeeded. Even as late as 1827, when he had long since professed to have abandoned the habit, he said that, though an extinct volcano, he still emitted occasional puffs.

The Wrong Track.

The visiting parson at Dartmoor was handling convict 99 consolation in small chunks.

"You should not complain, my misguided friend," he said. "It is better to take things as you find them."

"Yer on the wrong track, parson," replied the prisoner. "It were practicing that theory that got me nabbed."—London Telegraph.

Versatile.

"It was as much as I could do to keep from laughing when Miss Gushher remarked that her fiance was 'so versatile.'"

"Meaning Dumbley? Well, he is rather versatile."

"Nonsense! He's a regular idiot."

"Yes, but he's so many kinds of an idiot."

The Sex Today.

The Modern Woman—Sh! Don't scare him. Go quietly and get a piece of cheese, and I'll catch the dear little thing.

A Memory.

"That man said he never forgets a favor."

"He speaks truly," answered Senator Sorghum. "He did me a favor fifteen years ago and has been talking about it ever since."

WHY AM I ILL?
HOW TO TELL.
Does every cold affect your back, and cause a feeling of chilliness, followed by disturbance of the kidney action.
Does the use of spirits, tea or beer excite the kidneys? Are you easily worried and annoyed over trifles? Are the feet and hands cold? Circulation bad? Do the feet and legs swell? Is there puffiness under the eyes? Do you have rheumatism, poor eyesight, headaches and backaches? Is there gravel or any unnatural action of the kidneys?
If you have any of the above symptoms your kidneys are either weak or diseased, and these symptoms are warnings of more serious troubles to follow; Bright's Disease, Diabetes or Dropsy.
Whatever you do, whatever you think your disease is, look well to your kidneys at the first sign of anything wrong. Give them just the aid they require in Doan's Kidney Pills, the Great Quaker Kidney Medicine, and see how well and fit you feel after even a few doses.
Mrs. O. Warren, Radisson, Sask., writes: "I was troubled with very severe pains in my back for years. I tried everything I could think of but they did me no good. A friend told me about Doan's Kidney Pills and after taking two boxes, I have not been troubled since."

FEAR AND ANGER.

A Naturalist Says They Generate Sharp Bodily Odors.

"Do you know that when you're afraid or angry there is a certain odor comes from your body?" asked the naturalist, and the friend who had been about to swear at the conductor because he had asked him a second time for his fare forgot his grouch in amazement. "Well, the wild animals know it if you don't," continued the naturalist. "Now, it's not all advertising talk that the animal trainers have no fear of their animals, because they have to be without fear in order to get control over the beasts. Otherwise the beasts would smell the fear odor and make short work of the humans. You know how every once in awhile you read something about an innocent child handling venomous snakes without harm. Well, it's because the child is too innocent to have any fear, so the snake is tractable with him. You notice how your domestic animals, the dog or the cat, will slink from you when you're angry even before you've uttered a word. Well, it's because they smell the anger odor. And I'll tell you another thing. If humans refrained from all drugs, alcohol and meat they would also have the same keen sense of smell that animals have. That is the way I live, and I can smell—well, I can smell too much for a big city like this, so I'm going to hike back to the woods, where only sweet odors will come to my nostrils."

MAKING NEEDLES.

From the Coil of Fine Steel Wire to the Finished Product.

In the making of needles a coil of fine steel wire is first run into an elaborate machine and cut into pieces the length of two needles. These lengths are gathered into little bundles, and each end of the wire is sharpened at the rate of hundreds a minute by being pressed against a grindstone, the sparks, flying in a continuous stream, making a miniature firework display. Two eyes are next stamped in the center of the wire, which is then broken in half, forming two needles, and roughly "first finished" by having the burs rubbed down.

At this stage the needles are still soft wire and need hardening, so they are soaked in a bath of hot oil and when cool again are quite hard and brittle. Then follows the polishing process, when, done up in bundles of thousands, the needles are continually rolled in sand for a period of seven days, coming forth from the process with a fine polish.

Lastly they are threaded on wires, and a little friction makes the eyes bright and clear before they are taken to the packing room.

Willing to Suffer.

A little Washington girl had for a long time wanted a Boston bull terrier. One day, during her convalescence from an attack of pneumonia, the youngster broached the subject to her mother, begging that she induce her father to procure such a dog.

Her mother's response was to the effect that, as daddy did not like dogs, the chances were that he would be unwilling to buy one. Then, perceiving the expression of disappointment that came to the face of the little invalid, the mother's heart melted, and she said:

"Wait till you get well, dear; then we will see."

"Oh, no," answered the child. "The sicker I am the more likely he will be to buy it for me."

The Surprise.

"That's one of the biggest surprises I ever got," said the theater manager.

"How did you get it?"

"See that man over there? He came to my office and told me that we were having a lot of bully shows this season. Said last week's production was the best yet and that he'd sent all his friends to see it. Went on to say that his favorite actor was with this week's show and he'd break his neck to get here."

"Well, where does the surprise come in?"

"He left without asking for a pass."

Sore Chest Croup

You often have pains in the muscles, in the side, the back, the neck, or chest. If the inflammation is severe the pain will be intense.

Nothing so quickly cures local inflammation, so thoroughly drives out pain, as "Nerviline," which is without an equal for penetrating, soothing, pain-relieving power.

Nerviline simply can't fail to cure, because it's a perfect antidote for all the pains and aches that invade the family.

Nerviline

"For ten years we have used Polson's Nerviline in our home," writes Mrs. M. E. Graves of Freeport. "For hard, croupy colds there is nothing better. In case of a chill, sudden cold, or neuralgia, Nerviline cures before the trouble gets serious. I have used Nerviline for chronic rheumatism and lame back and find it a wonderful remedy."

All dealers sell Nerviline in large 25c bottles. Get it to-day.

TEETH AS THEY GROW

The Way Nature Forms and Fixes Them in the Gums.

THEY ARE NOT MADE OF BONE.

Teeth Are Really Skin Structures In Respect to Their Mode of Origin. The Variety of Form Which Adapts Them For Varying Uses.

Familiar to everybody as are the teeth, few persons, save those who have dipped into their history viewed from the scientific side, can form an adequate idea regarding their true nature. If the man in the street were asked to construct a classified list of his bodily belongings he would almost certainly place teeth in the section which included the bones. There appears reason for his choice. Teeth are hard and bonelike in structure, and they are fixed in the jaws. These facts would seem on the face of things to justify the inclusion of the teeth in the list of skeletal structures. This view of the teeth, however, is readily proved to be incorrect. We have only to appeal to nature's way of making a tooth—in other words, to study its development—to assure ourselves that teeth are not bones at all, but structures of a very different kind.

The first indication of tooth formation begins in very early life with the formation of a groove in the gum, or mucous membrane lining the mouth. This furrow is the birthplace of the teeth. From the groove arise as many little projections of the gum as there are to be teeth. Each projection we call a papilla.

Now, this little body contains a plentiful supply of blood vessels, destined to bring to it the raw material—blood—out of which not teeth alone, but all other organs, tissues and secretions, are manufactured. The papilla, besides, is composed of and particularly invested with living cells of special kind. These cells are to be regarded as the workmen which fabricate the tooth. The material specially required for tooth formation consists of compounds of lime associated with other substances.

Around the papilla and upon it, as on a mold, the hard material of the tooth is deposited. It is elaborated into a substance which, under the microscope, shows a special structure of its own, differing widely from that which is represented in bone. The great bulk of a tooth consists of ivory or dentine, as it is also called. This is a dense, hard substance which shows a texture composed of an infinite variety of microscopic tubules.

But at the crown of the tooth especially we meet with a layer of different kind and of still harder consistence. This is the enamel, which ranks as the hardest substance in the body. Its position on the crown of the tooth bears a relation to the resistance to wear and tear the tooth is intended to exhibit, the softer ivory being thus protected from the obvious results of the process of attrition. Thus on the papilla, as on a living mold, the tooth is formed, its substance coming to cover, as in an envelope, the little projection itself.

Long before the tooth, however, is completed the groove in the gum has become partitioned off into a series of sacs or compartments. The furrow itself becomes converted into a tube by the upward growth and union of its edges in the middle line. Then succeeds division into sacs, in each of which a papilla is present and in each of which a developing tooth is contained.

If the hard materials of the tooth be found around the papilla we discover thus that the tooth is a hollow and not a solid structure, for the pulp inside every tooth, a substance richly supplied with nerves and blood vessels, really represents the papilla of the early stages. The tooth's nourishment is thus duly provided for, since processes of the pulp pass into the minute tubules of the ivory and so contribute to the maintenance of the vitality of the organ.

When the tooth is completed within its sac, all that remains is for it to appear in the jaw, in which provision has been made for its fixation. A tooth "cuts" the gum when through upward pressure on the sac it bursts through its investment and takes the place nature has mapped out for it in the armamentarium of the mouth.

Now, in all this history there is no hint given us of any connection between bone formation and tooth development save indeed for the connection between the two structures in the jaw. The gum is the present tissue of the teeth, and the gum is simply the skin layer of the body folded inward at the mouth to form the lining membrane of that cavity, while it is continued onward, with variations in its organization, to form the lining of the digestive tubes as well. Teeth are therefore truly skin structures in respect of their mode of origin, which, after all, is the surest and indeed the only test of the nature of any living tissue or part.

By all odds the very longest tooth in the world is that of the narwhal, which grows into a twisted ivory pole often exceeding six feet in length.—A. Wilson in Illustrated London News.

A FAMOUS LIBRARY.

Origin of the System of "Boning" For College Examinations.

Just before examination time college students begin to study at top speed. Usually they call that unwonted occupation "cramming," "grinding" or "boning." The first, of course, means literally stuffing knowledge into themselves. The second was suggested by the phrase about keeping one's nose to the grindstone. But how about "boning?" It was a grateful student who thus dubbed the process of absorbing information, for he named it after the "trot" or "pony" that he used.

It was the famous Bohn library of translations to which the English student resorted as an ever ready help in time of trouble. Henry George Bohn started his library in 1846 and began what afterward become a big business. For one thing, he began purchasing "remainders"—that is, the old plates of standard works and translations—and printing cheap editions from them. Bohn found the publishing of standard foreign works in English so profitable that he developed the business, and it used to pay to buy translations from poor hack A. B.'s who were glad enough to get a farthing or two for their knowledge.

Finally practically all the ancient classics and some modern ones were obtainable in the Bohn library, and so popular did they become among students who feared being plucked that Bohn's German was turned into English, and "boning" was henceforth recognized as digging into dead writers' works by means of the crafty publisher's translations.

VOODOOISM IN HAITI.

The Vexed Question of Human Sacrifice In the Worship.

That the hold which the voodoo worship has on the people of Haiti is stronger than the power of the church is shown by the fact that the day before the writer's inspection of a voodoo temple in the mountains, where he saw six goatskin drums, a Roman Catholic priest had visited the district and made his ministrations conditional on the people destroying their instruments, but they refused. The government does not, as a rule, interfere with the practices of the cult on account of the political influence of its leaders.

The question whether human flesh is now eaten in connection with the voodoo ceremonies is a perplexing one, which it is impossible to answer with any degree of confidence. Local opinion is divided on the matter. Some assert that the practice is secretly in vogue; others categorically deny it. No one can be found to state that he has been an eyewitness of any such sacrifice. The conclusion which the writer came to is that there is no organized human sacrifice taking place as a part of the voodoo ceremonial, but that in ordinary life an occasional instance of cannibalism occurs—as murder cases occur in civilized countries—where the perpetrator, probably from a tribe of anthropophagi, becoming temporarily insane or highly excited, reverts to the aboriginal habit. It should be added that public opinion generally reprobates the act, and the educated Haitien is thoroughly ashamed of the dark stain which lies upon his country.—London Times.

A Pious Advertisement.

Moral suasion of the most ingenious kind is evident in the following advertisement printed in the Pennsylvania Gazette for June 23, 1787. The author of this little masterpiece is supposed to be no other than Franklin himself. "D. F.," then, stands for Deborah Franklin:

"Taken out of a pew in the church some months since a Common Prayer Book bound in red, gilt and lettered D. F. on each cover. The person who took it is advised to open it and read the eighth commandment and afterward return it into the same pew again, upon which no further notice will be taken."

Why Papa Was Still.

"Harold," said his mother, "you were very restless in church this morning. Why couldn't you keep still, like your father?"

"I don't know, mamma," replied the observant youngster, "unless it was 'cause I wasn't asleep."

Her Query.

"Where is my husband's valet?" asked Mrs. Sorer.

"He is fitting on Mr. Sorer's new boots, ma'am," the butler answered.

"And is my husband with him?" she inquired.

A Distinction.

Mistress—Who was that gentleman that came in just now? Servant—It wasn't a gentleman, ma'am. It was only the master, who came for his umbrella.—London Tit-Bits.

WHEN WOMAN RULED.

The Maternal System of Descent and Female Supremacy.

"Professor Thomas, in 'Sex and Society,' tells us that 'the maternal system of descent is found in all parts of the world where social advance stands at a certain level, and the evidence warrants the assumption that every group which advances to a culture state passes through this stage,'" says the Duchess of Marlborough in the North American Review.

"In Australia and Africa, with few exceptions, descent was formerly reckoned in the female line; on the continent of America, in China and Japan traces of this system are found, and in parts of India it is still in full force. Among the American Indian tribes and the aborigines of Australia missionaries and ethnologists are able to bear witness that 'the women were the great power among the clans as everywhere else.'

"As a natural consequence laws of rank and property follow the strictest maternal line, and women had in some cases the right to dismiss their husbands, keeping the children to succeed themselves and be members of their own clan.

"And after the establishment of the male system the women still held property—a survival from maternal times. A form of divorce pronounced by a husband was 'Begone, for I will no longer drive thy flocks to the pasture!'"

A SOLAR ECLIPSE.

How It Can Happen, Considering the Size of the Moon.

It has been asked how a total eclipse of the sun can possibly happen, as the moon is smaller than the sun.

A self luminous body, like the sun, scatters light in all directions, and when the rays fall upon a nonluminous body they are intercepted from the space immediately behind it, and a shadow is thrown a certain distance in that direction. Another celestial body, deriving also its light from the sun, will upon entering the area over which this shadow is cast be deprived of its luster either wholly or in part. This is what happens to the earth in a solar eclipse. The sun and earth revolve in the same plane of the ecliptic, and the moon, being but slightly inclined to that plane, interposes between them once in every revolution, so that it happens that they are sometimes all three in the same line. When this occurs a portion of the moon's opaque sphere is seen projected upon the sun's face, intercepting its light, proportionate with the magnitude of the eclipse, which depends upon the distances separating the centers of the sun and moon at the middle of the phenomenon. Only in cases where these centers precisely correspond can there be a total obscuration.

A Great Scheme.

Herbert Heavey, weighing 285 pounds, decided to reduce electrically. He wrapped a coil of copper wire round his waist, connected it with the telephone apparatus and, sure enough, began at once to grow lighter at the rate of several pounds a minute.

"This is a grand scheme," chuckled Heavey, pulling out the waistband of his trousers, which was already a foot too big for his waist.

Then suddenly the telephone bell rang.

"Is that Herbert Heavey?" a gruff voice asked.

"Yes," was the reply.

"Well, this is the exchange," snapped the voice. "Will you please stop frying scrapple with the telephone wires? Our office is all full of nasty fat."—Exchange.

Winter.

In winter nature ceases from her labors and prepares for the great change. The wind sweeps through the great forest with a sound like the blast of a trumpet. The dry leaves whirl in eddies through the air. A fretwork of hoary frost covers the plain. The stagnant water in the pools and ditches is frozen into fantastic figures. In the low hanging clouds the sharp air, like a busy shuttle, weaves her shroud of snow. There is a melancholy and continual roar in the tops of the tall pines like the roar of a cataract. It is the funeral anthem of the dying year.—Longfellow.

Skin Diseases.

A diseased or disfigured skin will always leave its stamp on the mind of the individual. Many people suffering from disfiguring skin diseases avoid society and lose all pride in their personal appearance. When the skin breaks out in eruptions and sores it is due entirely to an impure condition of the blood.

In all such cases Burdock Blood Bitters will quickly purify the blood and drive all the impurities out of the system.

ITCHING RASH CURED.

Mrs. J. J. Magee, Jr., Kinmount, Ont., writes: "In the spring of 1906 I was troubled with a Rash that broke out all over me. It was the worst on my face and head, had a dry, scaly top, and when I would get warm it would become very itchy. I tried the doctor's medicine but it did me no good, so I then got one bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters and before it was all used the Rash was entirely gone."

SORES ON FACE.

Mrs. Harvey Barkhouse, Gold River, N.S., writes: "I was greatly troubled with Sores on my face and finally became so bad I had to go to the doctor about it, but he could do nothing to help me.

"I thought about Burdock Blood Bitters and decided to try a bottle. I cannot recommend B.B.B. enough, as I had not taken all the bottle before my face was cured."

NEW FANGLED IDEAS BEING CUT OFF

Old Ways Good Enough For Premier Whitney.

HE CHECKS DOWNEY'S BILL

Premier Opposes Measure to Enforce Notification In Tuberculosis Cases and It Is Withdrawn — Cabinet Ministers Are at Variance Regarding It, and Take Opposite Sides In the Debate.

Toronto, March 31.—Compulsory notification of tubercular disease was the subject of the debate yesterday in the Legislature which at least exhibited a considerable amount of independence of opinion on the part of members of the Cabinet and the Government generally.

Notification is not for the purpose of placarding residences or removing patients to hospitals, but merely to ensure that proper information as to the treatment and cure of the disease should be imparted.

Premier Whitney would have none of it and declared the ideas of 30 or 40 years ago were good enough for him. Three thousand people die every year of consumption, but if they did not die of that, argued Sir James, they would die of something else.

Joseph Downey, sponsor of the bill which was prepared by the Provincial Board of Health, Hon. W. J. Hanna, Hon. Adam Beck and others made a good fight for the bill, but Sir James was obdurate and killed it.

Dr. R. F. Preston resumed the debate adjourned on the second reading of Mr. Downey's bill. There were features connected with the bill he did not propose to support as he considered them unworkable. He agreed with Dr. Godfrey that a commission should be appointed and a report from such a body might later on be acted upon with advantage.

A. C. Pratt considered time would be wasted by a commission. The time was come for action, as the facts were sufficiently known.

A. MacKay (North Oxford) was followed by Hon. A. G. MacKay, who thought the fate of the bill was less important than whether the House was prepared to do something to stop the disease.

Premier Whitney had no doubt that when Mr. MacKay heard from the Provincial Secretary, he would find that the Government had been doing its full duty. The conclusion to which he and his colleagues had arrived was that the bill could not be accepted. He did not need to go outside the House for reasons. Not one physician had supported the bill.

They would be guilty of cruelty through the system of notification, and the bill did not provide for the most lamentable cases of all where there was no physician. The people too poor to employ physicians had the penalty imposed on them. He appealed to both sides of the House not to impose this burden on the people, but rather to ameliorate and soften the excited public mind. If a man had a tendency to expectorate he was told he must go to a sanitarium. He could not find language too strong with reference to the dire effects if such impressions got abroad.

Hon. Adam Back rose to express his appreciation of all that Mr. Downey did in the fight against the white plague.

Hon. W. J. Hanna praised Mr. Downey for his work on the subject, but some exception had been taken by the medical men at the audacity of a private member introducing such a bill. The Provincial Board of Health had been entrusted with the bills introduced last year and Mr. Downey's bill represented what the doctors on the Board of Health considered desirable. The Government had already paid $80,000 for relief, $35,000 to assist construction and the rest for maintenance.

Mr. Downey had to retire on account of the Premier's opposition, but he said a few things. If the way to treat the disease was by a policy of silence and secrecy, and if the universe was to be turned back and they were to accept the ideas of 30 or 40 years ago, then there was nothing in the bill. Any element of success in dealing with the disease would be based in future on the principle of compulsory notification and he would reintroduce and reintroduce and reintroduce it.

The Sunday car question was finally disposed of yesterday by the private bills committee as far as Port Arthur and Fort William are concerned. A clause was inserted in the bill providing that employes shall not work more than ten hours a day for six days a week, except under special circumstances. A heavy penalty is provided.

A Hunting Accident.

Gladstone, Man., March 31.—A young man, aged 21, son of Francis Roulat of Sandy Bay, had the bones shattered below the knee on Saturday night and lay out on the marsh two days and nights. A gun strapped to a toboggan, which was drawn by dogs, exploded and caused the accident.

Von Buelow's Denial.

Berlin, March 31.—Chancellor von Buelow, in the Reichstag yesterday denied he was on bad terms with Emperor William, saying that, on the contrary, his relations with His Majesty were most agreeable. The chancellor urged the passage of the law providing a tax on inheritance.

Think He's Dangerous.

Orangeville, March 31. Adam Harper of East Luther Township, who has been paying attention to a sick girl whom he has never seen, by writing her scores of letters and who recently threatened to do some shooting, has been locked up as a dangerous lunatic.

Another Escape.

New Westminster, B.C., March 31.—James Mullin, a convict serving time here for theft, committed in Vancouver early this year, escaped from the penitentiary Monday afternoon, but was recaptured.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

Mr. Augustine Birrell reintroduced the Irish land purchase bill in the British Commons yesterday.

The grand jury found no bill against J. A. Derbyshire, charged with bribery at Brockville.

A company is asking assistance at Port Hope to establish a daily steamship service between Picton and Toronto.

The Ontario Government has ordered an investigation into a charge made against the Fort Frances Lumber Co.

President Eliot of Harvard University has been offered the position of United States Ambassador to Great Britain.

A dozen suffragettes, most of them from the provinces, were arrested yesterday in a raid on the House of Commons at Westminster.

M. Cruppi, French Minister of Commerce, told the French Senate yesterday at it must either accept the Franco-Canadian treaty or a tariff war.

Mr. Thompson, bookkeeper in the Oliver Typewriter Co.'s office at Montreal, received a telephone message that his mother was dying. He hastened home, but found her well, and then returning to the office he found that thieves had ransacked the place.

Gathered For Congress.

Toronto, March 31.—The registration of commissioners for the Laymen's Missionary Congress this morning closely approached four thousand, and the limit of 1,500 seats for ministers had been passed by 200, who will be admitted, but may have to stand, as each seat is assigned by number.

The Presbyterian mission committee met yesterday, and one of the laymen, who desired his name withheld from the public, presented a check for $5,000 to the fund.

The local Methodist committee met yesterday afternoon and definitely accepted $125,000 as the sum to be raised for foreign missions this year by the Methodists of Toronto.

The general mission board of the Methodist Church also held a meeting and agreed to an expansion of the foreign mission work.

Sat All Night.

Quebec, March 31.—The first streaks of dawn and even broad daylight found the Legislature in full swing after an all-night's sitting.

It was due to the refusal of the Opposition to vote a sum of $170,000 which appeared in the estimates to be voted for colonization roads that the House sat so unusually long. The objection of the members on the left side of the House was that they wanted full explanations as to how the amount would be expended, and just how much would be spent in each constituency.

The item was finally voted at 6.30 a.m.

Elevators Along G.T.P.

Winnipeg, Man., March 31.—There will be between thirty and thirty-five new elevators under construction along the G.T.P. within a few weeks, said J. E. Dalrymple, assistant freight traffic manager of the road, yesterday morning.

Trying to Head Castro Off.

Caracas, Venezuela, March 31.—The Venezuelan Government is trying to persuade the governor of the Island of Trinidad to prevent Ciprisano Castro from disembarking from the steamer Guadeloupe at Port of Spain.

He Swung Her No More.

It was at a suburban dance, and the room was crowded, so much so that it was difficult to get round in the waltz without bunking into other couples every few moments. A young man grew tired of it at last and thought he would suggest sitting out the rest of the dance; so, blurting out the first words that came into his head, he said to his partner:

"I say, there isn't room to swing a cat round here. Let's sit it out!"—London Answers.

AFTER DEATH.

Large Parts of the Body Retain Life For a Time.

To the unscientific citizen it is something of a surprise to learn that large parts of the body are alive and useful after the phenomenon popularly known as death has taken place. Few of us suspect, for example, that our kidneys and hearts after we have died ourselves can in most cases be resuscitated and that if by some surgical miracle they could be transplanted into another body they would quickly resume their functions. This, however, is a well demonstrated medical fact. The human heart has been removed from the body more than thirty hours after death and made to beat again. Dr. Carrel himself has taken the heart from one dog and inserted it in the neck of another, connecting the aorta with the carotid artery of the new heart and the vena cava with its jugular vein. In a few moments the live dog had two hearts rhythmically beating, one recording a pulse of eighty-eight and the other a hundred.

Science has yet framed no precise definition of death. The human body teems and quivers with life, only a small part of which becomes a part of individual consciousness. The healthy man hardly realizes the numerous and complex activities of his internal organs. The alimentary canal is the abiding place of millions of micro organisms, the activities of which only occasionally influence our daily life. Bodily tissue everywhere is constantly breaking down and constantly building up, and yet it is only in the last few years that even science has begun to understand the beautiful chemical reactions involved in the process.—McClure's Magazine.

THE COOK'S INJURY.

Painful to Her and to the Dinner Guests as Well.

There was company at dinner, and the platter in front of the host contained a fine roast of beef. He drew the sharp carving knife across the ringing steel a few times, just because that is a way carvers have, drove the fork deep into the steaming beef, described a scalping knife flourish in the air and gracefully began operations.

Two nice and tender slices clear across the roast had resulted, and he was turning off the third when the blade struck a skewer, made a sliding upward motion and came out at the top, with a result that the proposed slice looked like a frost bitten leaf curled up by the sun.

He could not say intense things in the presence of his guests, but he froze his wife with a look, made a grim joke about the indigestibility of roasted hard wood, inquired whether the butcher also ran a woodyard, dug the skewer out viciously and ordered little Willie, who had made several attempts to tell something, to keep still or leave the table. His evident temper led to an embarrassing silence, and Willie saw an opening that he could not resist.

"Cook has burned her nose orful," he announced.

"Too bad," said the father, whose good humor was coming back. "How did she do it?"

"Trying ter pull them skewers out with her teeth."—London Tit-Bits.

Bloozes and Blouses.

"Where will I find the bloozes?" asked the woman who had just returned from London.

"De bloozes!" exclaimed the elevator man, staring pop eyed and vague. "De bloozes—w'y, dey mus' be on de—'scuse me, madam, you'd better ask de floorwalker."

"Certainly, madam; second floor. James, take the lady to the second floor—blowses—lawngery waists, y' know."

Woman's World

CHARLOTTE MANSFIELD.

English Society Woman Who Expects to Meet President In African Jungle.

Charlotte Mansfield, the well known English authoress, has just started from England to embark on one of the most adventurous journeys ever undertaken by a woman. She proposes to go from Cape Town, South Africa, to Cairo, Egypt, a distance of 5,000 miles, accompanied by only native guides. Part of the way lies through practically unexplored country.

Midway in the South African jungle she hopes to meet President Roosevelt. Though the meeting place is not as yet determined upon, Miss Mansfield thinks it will be somewhere near Nairobi, north of Lake Tanganyika. The natives of this district are known to be treacherous and hostile, and as Miss Mansfield will be the only white woman among them the situation is likely to prove highly interesting, to say the least.

The adventurous woman spent all her spare time lately in learning how to use firearms, so that should she be attacked in making one of the most perilous trips on record she will be able to give a good account of herself.

What will carry Miss Mansfield through successfully is perhaps the daring character of her project. Though not the first journey made by a white woman through this portion of Africa, it is the first time one of her sex has attempted to "go through" on the lines laid down by Miss Mansfield. Most others who have made the trip have done so from necessity, going from one part of the district to another in order to reach some permanent residence in the country and having as little to do with the natives as possible. With Miss Mansfield, however, it is different. She intends to try to "affiliate" with the natives, to learn their habits of thought and to study their customs. She is a great believer in the psychology of the native races, and, as she is somewhat of a seer herself, will strive to get "en rapport" with the aborigines in a way hitherto undreamed of by others.

Despite all Miss Mansfield's disclaimers as to the danger that may attend her in passing through this country, persons acquainted with the matter say that it is a risky thing for a woman to do. She has already received hosts of letters from white residents in Africa—wholly unknown to her—warning her against undertaking so perilous a trip, but, as all her arrangements are now made, she says there is no turning back.

Miss Mansfield has achieved fame in England in various walks of life. She is a well known author and as a poet enjoys the distinction of being called the "Ella Wheeler Wilcox" of England.

Musical Leadership Her Goal.

Mrs. Meredith, daughter-in-law of George Meredith, novelist, stepped into the breach in Harrowgate the other day and wielded the baton as substitute for the conductor of the municipal orchestra, one of the best in England. It was one of the few times in England that a woman has conducted an important orchestra, and so much publicity has followed that Mrs. Meredith has been invited to direct other bands throughout the country at special performances. She is a music lover and daily entertains her father-in-law at the piano. She has been successful as a composer of songs and is ambitious to write an opera. She believes English composers will hold their own with German, French and Italians in operatic compositions, and she has made the prediction that the next great magician of music will be a woman. This seems like a rash promise, but Mrs. Meredith argues that, as Charlotte Bronte rose to great heights as a novelist and Elizabeth Browning achieved distinction as a poet, matching that of Rosa Bonheur as a painter, it is blind prejudice to hold women are unequal to a great operatic work.

The Good Will Habit.

A habit of holding a kindly attitude of mind toward everybody has a powerful influence upon the character. It lifts the mind above petty jealousies and meannesses. It encircles and enlarges the whole life. Where we meet people, no matter if they are strangers, we feel a certain kinship with and friendliness for them if we have formed the good will habit.

In other words, the kindly habit, the good will habit, makes us feel more sympathy for everybody. And if we radiate this helpful, friendly feeling others will reflect it back to us.

On the other hand, if we go through life with a cold, selfish mental attitude, caring only for our own, always looking for the main chance, only thinking of what will further our own interest, our own comfort, totally indifferent to others, this attitude will after awhile harden the feelings and the affections, and we shall become dry, pessimistic and uninteresting.

ANAEMIA
Pale Cheeks, Bad Color

Chlorosis or anaemia is simply thinness of blood

If confined too much indoors, anaemia develops, because the lungs are insufficiently supplied with oxygen, and the blood is consequently ill-nourished and half-starved.

But there is a cure.

Dr. Hamilton has solved the problem in his famous pills of Mandrake and Butternut, as a blood enricher their equal is not known.

All the functions upon which life depends are helped by Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

Richness and purity are instilled with wonderful promptness into the vital fluid. Healthy color supplants that pallid, ashen face. Better appetite, strong digestion, and dreamless sleep are sure to follow, because of the increased blood supply furnished by Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

The Confessions of a Clever Girl.

The secret is out. A girl who has a reputation for being extremely clever and brilliantly original has confessed that she is not original at all. Neither, says she, is she clever. She is merely observing. She keeps her eyes open and makes use of what other people have found out.

Possibly you know a girl who has a reputation for being very clever in her way of doing things. Her little dress accessories are always different and always attractive. If you are invited by her to a dinner or luncheon or an informal thimble party you are perfectly sure before you start that the whole affair will be marked with original little touches. The place cards, the favors and the entertainment planned will be unique and a little different from the ordinary kind. In a burst of enthusiasm you say to your hostess: "Oh, but you are so clever! How do you ever think up such pretty things?"

In all probability she will tell you that she doesn't think of them at all—that she just copies them. This you may set down to modesty, but in nine cases out of ten it is the truth.

That girl has merely strained herself to be observing. She reads the papers and magazines, and when a clever idea is suggested she cuts it out and files it away in her book of suggestions. When she sees salad served in a new way at some smart dinner she makes a mental note of it, and the next time she has a guest she tries her new salad course.

So, while this girl has made for herself a reputation of being extremely clever, according to her own way, she is not clever at all. She merely uses the things that other people have thought of. So there is really little excuse, after all, for the woman who is invariably satisfied with the commonplace. The better ways are here for the taking.

Much Dancing In the Capital.

Washington has gone dancing mad. Never was dancing such a craze, and notwithstanding hints that such capers were not beseeming the chief executive of the United States the president recently has thrown dull care to the winds and sought diversion in the gay waltz and the spirited barn dance. Miss Roosevelt has been the reason for giving weekly dances in the White House since the first of the year, and all Washington, young, old and middle aged, has set out to dance. The president is as skillful in picking a way through the intricacies of modern waltzing as through hunting country. He enters into the festive spirit and dances vigorously. Grizzled generals and stately admirals and diplomatists so covered with honors and decorations as to look like the kaiser lead forth the blushing buds and whirl in the barn dance. This lively measure is the favorite.

New Jars For Cereals.

The newest jars for cereals, herbs and condiments are so attractive that they may very properly adorn a room other than the kitchen.

They are in opal ware, in oddly shaped bottles and jars, and show designs in bright colors. The cherry displays a most natural looking bunch of this fruit below the label, and the rooster shows this bird in all his vanity. There are fifteen pieces in all. The price for the set complete is $7.

As a wedding gift these jars would be much appreciated—indeed, probably more than an expensive piece of bric-a-brac.

She Caught the Germ.

Dollie had been away with her parents, and, being very keen on old china, they had gone into many shops to look at pieces, and she had heard much talk about the various marks and the consequent value of the china. Some time after a sailor friend was visiting them and showed her a tattoo mark on his arm.

"Oh, mamma, do come and look," exclaimed Dollie.

And then after watching her mother examining the mark she added, "Is he valuable, mother?"

Mrs. Browning and Her Grandmamma.

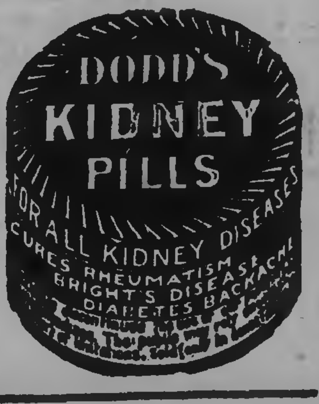
A copy of Mrs. Browning's "Battle of Marathon," the epic she wrote in her thirteenth year, has been sold for $400. The value of the volume was no doubt increased by the autograph of the author, who presented this particular copy to her "dearest grandma" as a birthday gift. Even that little attention did not prevent grandmamma from saying that she had far rather see Elizabeth's hemming more carefully finished than to hear so much of her bookish achievements.

Russian Tea Jelly.

Russian tea jelly, which is sometimes served like a frappe in place of ices at afternoon "at homes," is easily made. Turn two and a half cupfuls of boiling water and the juice of a lemon over four heaping tablespoonfuls of tea, add a heaping tablespoonful of gelatin dissolved and a little sugar. Stir thoroughly and strain into a wet mold.

Spinach as a Salad.

Cold spinach left in the vegetable dish after dinner is good served again in the form of a salad. Season it well with salt and pepper, dress with mayonnaise and decorate with a few small lettuce leaves and one or two hard boiled eggs sliced crosswise. A tiny young onion sliced may be sprinkled over the salad or alternated with the slices of eggs as a garnish.



What Dr. Anna Shaw Says.

Mr. Roosevelt's letter on woman's suffrage provoked a reply from the Rev. Anna A. Shaw at Buffalo the other day. She declared that the president evidently was not fully informed on the subject, adding, "But, then, he writes on so many different subjects that it is not possible for him to be thoroughly informed on all of them."

Ladies, Take Notice.

Mrs. Sarah Platt Decker says that some day she will write a paper on the subject of ink, as in her travels about the country she has never found more than five or six women, otherwise good housekeepers, who had inkbottles with decent writing fluid in them, and how many women feel an answering throb of sympathy!

NEW MEMBERS MAKING GOOD.

Younger Generation at Ottawa Are Brainy Crowd of Men.

Old Parliamentarians tell us that the new House of Commons is a distinct improvement upon its immediate predecessors. Not only has the West sent a body of men who are of high intellectual calibre as well as of great physical strength, but the new men from Ontario are a decided advance upon those who preceded them. But while this is so, some of the new men show a disposition to "butt in" on important discussions with a frequency which is not pleasing to the "Old Guard," and they do whisper that there have been heart-to-heart talks in the Conservative caucuses, in which men like Dr. Sproule and David Henderson have protested against the habit of the new men in expressing their views, and that the newcomers have retorted that they did not choose to come to Ottawa to have their mouths padlocked, and that if the "Old Guard" did not like it they could do the same thing.

On the other hand, the new Liberal members have kept themselves better under control in the House, but if gossip be true they have not been silent in caucus, and have emphatically told the old-timers on their side that there must be a change of fiscal policy in the direction of either an increase of the British preference or a general lowering of the tariff all round.

The budget debate is expected to give an opportunity for the frank discussion of the low tariff views of the West, and it would not be surprising to find that some of the Western Conservatives will go as far as their Liberal friends in urging progress towards freer trade.

Indians Die of Strange Disease.

Seventy-two Indians dead from a strange disease at Fort Chippewyan, and several hundred in the other four posts of the Hudson Bay Co. in the Mackenzie river district, is the startling news brought from the north by Angus Brabant, inspector of trading posts for the Hudson Bay Co. in the Mackenzie river district, who arrived in Winnipeg recently.

Hunters on the trail are suddenly stricken with it, and trappers in the bush are seized with fatal results within a few hours.

In a country where some 85 per cent. of the people gain a living directly from the Hudson Bay Co. by the furs they sell it is a serious thing when the fur catch is practically nothing. That is the condition this year, and Brabant says that less than one per cent. of the people are engaged in trapping. They have all turned to fishing, but the fish, too, are exceptionally scarce. Lynx are said to be responsible for the scarcity of fur for once every seven years for some unaccountable reason they trek towards the east, covering a swarth some two hundred miles in width and killing off every animal in that swarth from west to east.

This has been the hardest winter ever experienced in the Mackenzie river district, according to the oldest Indians. For two months the thermometer averaged 38 below zero, and frequently dropped to 70 below.

The Rise of Melville.

The fact that the Grand Trunk Pacific is spending large sums of money on its terminal facilities at Melville, the town from which the line to the Hudson Bay will start, directs renewed attention to this point. Melville is situated in one of the most fertile portions of Western Canada, and midway between the Great Lakes and the Rocky Mountains. Six months ago Melville did not exist, except on the maps of the railroad company, but today there are over 1,200 people living in the town, and every train from the east and west brings in more settlers and investors attracted from all over the Dominion by the possibilities of another financial centre rising out of the prairies. Those who have studied the situation closely predict an immensely prosperous future for Melville. By many it is believed that it will be a metropolis before the Grand Trunk Pacific is completed from coast to coast.

POLITICIANS AND THEIR TRICKS.

How Alexander Smith Saved the Day In Prescott In 1896.

Appeals to creed prejudices of a humorous character form a large part in every Canadian election. Particularly was this the case in 1896 when the issues were extremely complicated. It will be remembered that the outcome was the return of a French Roman Catholic Premier elected largely by ultra Protestant votes over a Protestant Prime Minister, who was offering a measure of remedial legislation. Despite the great bitterness of the fight, there were genuinely ludicrous episodes.

For instance, in the riding of Prescott, the electors, though very largely French, were inclined to stand by the Tory party against one of their own race because the clergy were strong Tupper men. This was not the case in Quebec, where the populace were dissatisfied in the matter of tithes, but Prescott is an Ontario riding where the clergy have not the same legal powers. The Liberals were bound to have the riding, and one of the French organizers struck upon a happy scheme. The chief organizer at that time was Mr. Alexander Smith, who, when clean shaven, bears a strong resemblance to the accepted type of Roman Catholic clergyman. He was asked to come to a point in Prescott where a large meeting of French-Canadians was to be held. When he got there he was instructed to come upon the platform and simply to obey instructions. These were that he should sit with his collar turned up, and whenever appealed to by the chief speaker to merely nod his head in acquiescence whenever appealed to.

Mr. Smith carried out instructions, and after the meeting was over asked what the rigmarole meant.

"Why, I told them that you were an English-speaking priest from Toronto who approved of Laurier's policy entirely, but did not know much French. At the proper moment I would appeal to you, and I must say your acting was fine."

What "Borough" Signifies.

The word "burgh" in Saxon stood for "castle;" hence towns anciently erected in the vicinity of castles for their protection had this name conferred upon them, and the soldiers who garrisoned these were called burghers, so the inhabitants of these towns received the same name. These also being formed into a community, the constitution formed for their regular government was denominated the borough laws.

OLD PEOPLE!

Need Vinol because it contains the very elements needed to rebuild wasting tissues and replace weakness with strength. It fortifies the system against colds, and thus prevents pneumonia.

This is because Vinol contains iron and all of the medicinal body-building elements of Cod Liver Oil, taken from fresh cods' livers — but no oil. Vinol is not a patent medicine. Everything it contains is named on bottle.

POOR BLOOD

Elderly people feel the cold keenly, because their blood is thin, sluggish and watery. Vinol is the ideal blood tonic and strength maker. It creates a hearty appetite, promotes digestion, purifies and enriches the blood and invigorates the entire body.

COUGHS AND COLDS

Elderly people are very susceptible to coughs and colds, which so often develop pneumonia. Don't lose time experimenting with other remedies when we guarantee Vinol to cure. Vinol has carried many an old person through a hard winter without a cold or cough.

76 YEARS OLD

The grand-niece of Alexander Hamilton says: — "I am 76 years old, have a hearty appetite, sleep soundly, and feel active and well. Thanks to Vinol, which is the finest tonic and strength creator I ever used. Vinol is a God send to old people."

80 YEARS OLD

"I was so feeble I had to be wheeled about in an invalid's chair, and took cold at the slightest cause. Vinol built up my strength so I could walk a quarter of a mile. I am delighted." — MRS. M. BLOOM, Lewistown, Pa.

Whitla Threatened.

Sharon, Pa., March 31.—The Whitla family left here yesterday presumably for Atlantic City. Before going away Mr. Whitla turned twenty-five threatening letters over to the United States postal authorities. These letters have been received within the last day or two. All were mailed at railroad postoffices and will be hard to trace.

One letter states unless Mr. Whitla uses every effort to free the prisoners his home will be dynamited. A second letter demands that $5,000 be deposited at some point in Ohio, which money, it is stated, will be used to defend the Boyles.

Australia Will Not Take Action.

Melbourne, March 31.—The Premiers of New South Wales and Victoria have decided to offer one Dreadnought to the Imperial Government on behalf of their respective states.

This offer is a result of negotiations between the two states, undertaken since it became apparent that the Commonwealth Government was not prepared to take any step in this direction.

Subscriptions will be made on the basis of population, New South Wales contributing $4,000,000 and Victoria $3,000,000.

A Delegation to London.

Ottawa, March 31.—It is probable that after the session closes a delegation representing the Cabinet will visit London to confer with the imperial authorities on this subject. This delegation is certain to include Sir Frederick Borden, Minister of Militia, and Hon. L. P. Brodeur, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, with, probably, another.

Huge Check Is Signed.

Montreal, March 31.—The check for $2,750,000 signed by James Ross, president, and John Mackay, secretary, of the Dominion Coal Co., on the Bank of Montreal, to the order of the Dominion Iron & Steel Co., was paid over to J. H. Plummer last evening at 7 o'clock, and the president of the steel company left last evening for Toronto.

TO BUY CONTROL OF THE G. T. P.

Hon. Mr. Fielding Introduces G. T. P. Resolution.

ON PRAIRIE SECTION ONLY

Is In Nature of Banking Transaction, Says Finance Minister, and Pays Four Per Cent. — Conservative Leader Rehashes Old Objections But Does Not Specifically Oppose the Measure.

Ottawa, March 31.—The Government's resolution providing for temporary assistance by way of a loan of ten million dollars to the G.T.P. to enable the company to finance the balance of the construction of the prairie section, occasioned in the Commons yesterday a prolonged discussion of the whole bargain between the Government and the company. Borden and his Opposition supporters were in a pessimistic vein as to the potentialities and future of the road. They rehashed the pre-election criticisms as to the folly of the original bargain, charged that the people had been grossly misled in 1903, and generally made all the political capital possible out of the increased cost of the road as compared with the original estimates. At the same time they carefully refrained from specifically opposing the resolution.

In presenting his resolution Mr. Fielding said it in no way interfered with the contract with the railway, but was in the nature of a banking transaction, the Government proposing to lend the railway that amount of money at 4 per cent. interest.

The reason for this loan to the railway was the excess of cost over the estimate and the extension of the praire section 130 miles west of the point contemplated. The company's present estimate of cost was $34,059 per mile, while the estimate of Mr. Schreiber, Government engineer, was $34,943. According to the company's estimate the amount required to complete the road would be $9,688,425. That included the repayment to the parent company of the amount advanced to go on with the work. While the contract provided for only a 75 per cent. guarantee up to $13,000 a mile, and while the Government could compel the G.T.P. to go on and float the securities themselves, if the company were held to its bargain it would have to dispose of the securities at very much below par. On one or two occasion recently the Government had to pay a trifle over 4 per cent., but he thought the money could be got for four.

The prairie section would be the most profitable portion of the road and there was very little risk in advancing the money. For this loan the Government would get a mortgage, but which he did not consider a valuable security, as there were three prior mortgages, the first for the original guarantee, the second for the G.T.P. Co., while the third security was a lien on the equipment. The bonds to be given back for this loan would have time guarantee of the parent company.

He had every confidence in the ability of the company to meet its obligations and he had no hesitation in asking Parliament to agree to the loan.

Mr. R. L. Borden then submitted a statement showing, of the total cost of the road, only one-tenth was provided by the Grand Trunk, and that in the shape of a guarantee of bonds. The statement is:

People's Contribution — Government's total guarantee $66,658,000; Government loan, $10,000,000; interest for seven years on mountain section, $13,413,759; cost of eastern section, $190,000,000; total (approximately), $270,000,000.

Grand Trunk Contribution—Guarantee, $28,750,000.

Mr. Borden criticized at length the position of the Government with regard to the construction of the railway, and asked: "What is it proposed to secure for the people of Canada?" The Grand Trunk, which is to provide a guarantee of $28,000,000 out of a total of $300,000,000, is to receive for the assistance so given $25,000,000 of common stock, and the people of this country, who are providing nine-tenths of the whole expenditure and guarantees, are to receive absolutely nothing in respect of any share whatever in the future development, which shall result from this enterprise when the great western country shall have made this $25,000,000 of stock worth at least $100 a share.

"Having regard to the money the people of this country have put into this great enterprise, is it not pertinent to ask. What do you purpose to do for the people of Canada?"

W. F. Maclean (South York) submitted the proposition that the country should purchase the controlling shares of the Grand Trunk Co.'s common stock. The proposal was vigorously applauded by many of the Opposition members.

Mr. Maclean moved, seconded by Joseph Russell (East Toronto), that the resolutions be amended by the addition of:

"And be it further resolved: That in order to have still more effective security for its commitments and to absolutely control and own a national transcontinental railway system, Parliament is hereby authorized to purchase the controlling shares of the Grand Trunk Co.'s common stock."

Mr. Maclean said that after listening to Mr. Borden's able statement he was forced to the conclusion that the speech led to a declaration in favor of public ownership, for he showed that the country is committed to nine-tenths of the cost of the G.T.P., the other tenth being supplied by the parent company, the Grand Trunk.

Pardee, Northrup, Martin (Regina), Maddin (Cape Breton), Turriff (Sask.), and Mr. Ames also participated in the debate, which goes over till Tuesday next.

MARINE HEADS INTO THE BASKET

Only Three of the Suspended Officials Are Reinstated.

GOURDEAU SUPERANNUATED

Deputy Minister and Agent Harding Are Retired—Eighteen Members of Service Are Dismissed For Dereliction of Duty and Accepting Gratuities—Decision of Minister Tabled In the Commons.

Ottawa, March 31.—The decision of the Minister of Marine and Fisheries upon the recent Cassels' enquiry, which has been confirmed by order-in-council, was laid upon the table of the House yesterday. The Minister deals with the officials named by Judge Cassels as follows:

Lieut.-Col. Gourdeau, Deputy Minister, retired with superannuation.

Commander Spain, dismissed.

J. F. Fraser, commissioner of lights, dismissed.

J. U. Gregory, agent at Quebec, dismissed.

F. J. Harding, agent at St. John, retired with superannuation.

George D. O'Farrell, inspector of lights, Quebec, dismissed.

C. Thomson Schmidt, inspector of Government steamers, dismissed.

John Kelly, inspector of lights, New Brunswick, reinstated.

J. L. Richard, assistant inspector of fog alarms, Quebec, reinstated.

Capt. Charles Koenig, dismissed.

A. E. Beauchemin, dismissed.

Capt. McGough, temporary suspension and reinstatement.

Paul Boldus, engineer steamer Druid; Thorault, engineer, C.G.S. Champlain; A. Roy, engineer cruiser Princess; Jos. Belanger, chief engineer lightship Anticosti; Jos. Fontaine, chief engineer C.G.S. Montcalm; Malcolm Morris, engineer cruiser Curlew; H. H. Stewart, chief engineer C.G.S. Aberdeen; J. Ferguson, chief engineer C.G.S. Minto; A. Sampson, chief engineer dredge No. 8; Eugene Belanger, chief engineer C.G.S. Christine; A. Leitch, second engineer Aberdeen; E. Filteau, machinist Quebec agency, suspension confirmed and their further employment in the Department terminated.

In regard to Lieut.-Col. Gourdeau the order sets forth that "Col. Gourdeau, now in the 63rd year of his age, and over 47 years in the Government service, applied in March, 1908, for leave of absence preparatory to superannuation; that in some cases Col. Gourdeau has shown a lack of discretion, but nothing has been adduced to show that he has profited either directly or indirectly by any action he may have taken."

As to Commander Spain, wreck commissioner, the order-in-council sets forth that a statement was made against this officer by the Auditor-General to the effect that he had been charging accounts for traveling and other expenses to which he was not entitled; Commissioner Cassels states that Commander Spain was allowed the fullest latitude of explanation, but that no satisfactory explanation of his action was forthcoming.

J. F. Fraser, commissioner of lights, made certain purchase in direct disobedience to the orders of the Minister of Marine and Fisheries and the commissioner also finds against him in regard to some other matters brought up during the investigation."

As to J. U. Gregory it is stated he has been agent at Quebec since 1870; was suspended on March 31, 1908, and that it was proved that he had exacted sums of money on accounts due by the Department to contractors and others.

The case of F. J. Harding, Departmental agent at St. John, N.B., is dealt with at some length. He had financial transactions in the way of loans with those having contracts or other dealing with the Department, but such loans were accustomed to be made to him by personal friends before they had dealings with the Department, and there was no proof of overcharges by those persons. Having been stricken by paralysis, Mr. Harding was unable to give evidence at the investigation.

In regard to Inspector O'Farrell of Quebec, it is pointed out that he must have known that sums of money given him by contractors, were given for the purpose of influencing him in the passing of accounts.

Inspector Schmidt is referred to as accepting bribes in receipt of money from persons to whom he gave certificates.

In the case of Capt. Chas. Koenig, of the Druid, who has been dismissed, it is pointed out that he received gratuities from Government contractors with whom he had dealings in his official capacity. The same is found in regard to Dredging Inspector Beauchemin.

In regard to Capt. McGough of La Canadienne, reinstated, it is observed that he received some small gratuities, but was recommended for lenient treatment by the commissioners.

In regard to the other officials dismissed, the order-in-council observes that it has been shown they received considerable gratuities from Government contractors and that "their authority was therefore greatly impaired."

Biggest Medical Fee.

Los Angeles, March 31.—What is said to be the largest fee ever paid a medical practitioner in California for services in a single case will be received by Dr. John W. Trueworthy of this city for attention upon the late E. J. ("Lucky") Baldwin. It will be about $100,000.

Arrested In Indiana.

St. Thomas, March 31.—W. E. Mears, formerly of St. Thomas, and latterly of Komoke, Ind., was arrested here yesterday on a charge of embezzlement from the firm of Dailey & Co.

Navigation Soon to Be Open.

Montreal, March 31.—The Dominion Government steamer Montcalm has broken through the ice at Cape Rouge. There is clear water 30 miles above Quebec.

TO BUILD DESTROYERS.

Australian Premier Outlines Plan of Aiding Motherland.

Melbourne, March 31.—Mr. Andrew Fisher, the Federal Premier, speaking on the question of defence yesterday, said the purely voluntary system of defence had absolutely broken down. The Government felt the time had arrived to institute some form of compulsory training, commencing with boys of ten and ending at twenty. In addition to the three torpedo-boat destroyers of the river type, already ordered, it is proposed to obtain within three years' time four ocean-going destroyers and sixteen more of the river class, and, if possible, to build these vessels in Australia. This would give the motherland the help she had a right to expect from a wealthy and prosperous son.

Mr. Fisher added: "When I was asked to offer a Dreadnought I said that was not our policy. It was merely a spectacular display, and probably the Admiralty would say they did not need a ship for this year's program."

MAY GIVE DREADNOUGHT.

Ontario and Manitoba Talking of It, Says a Rumor.

Ottawa, March 31.—Information was received here last night that Manitoba and Ontario are in communication and have practically agreed to offer to contribute a Dreadnought to the Imperial navy.

Premier McBride of British Columbia has telegraphed that if anything of this nature is contemplated, his province desires to participate. The Province of New Brunswick has intimated that it is prepared to follow suit.

The question is the sole topic of gossip in the corridors and there is a general feeling that the question should be reopened.

Hon. W. S. Fielding of the Cabinet is said to be very anxious that a more tangible expression of Canada's feeling should be shown than the passing of a resolution.

The Conservative caucus to-night will discuss the question.

Big New Bridge Opens.

New York, March 31.—The new Queensboro' Bridge, connecting New York and Long Island City, was informally opened to pedestrians and vehicles yesterday. It cost about $15,000,000 and has been about ten years in building. There are five spans, the longest of which is 1,183 feet, that being the longest span in America. The height of the floor above the East River is 135 feet. The bridge has a capacity which exceeds any other in the world. It is a double-decker, with two 16-foot promenades and room for the elevated car tracks on the upper floor. The main roadway is 56 feet wide.

Prohibition In Nova Scotia.

Halifax, N.S., March 31.—A resolution was introduced in Nova Scotia Legislature yesterday afternoon for provincial prohibition.

It was moved by Mr. Campbell, Union Reform member for King's County, and seconded by R. H. McKay, Liberal for Pictou, who recently defeated C. E. Tanner in the bye-election.

Rev. Mr. Cooper, Liberal for Queen's County, moved adjournment. It is understood he will oppose prohibition, claiming that the present laws give better results.

Amending Industrial Disputes Act.

Ottawa, March 31.—In the House yesterday Claude Macdonnel introduced a bill to amend the Industrial Disputes Act.

It seeks to empower railway employes to call for a board of conciliation without the necessity of polling the men; for equal payment for members of the board; 30 days' notice by employer or employe of any change in conditions of employment; and it throws on the party giving notice the onus of calling for a board.

Sons Change Names.

Belgrade, March 31.—King Peter issued a ukase yesterday changing the names of his sons. The step is taken to preserve the name of George as head of the house of Karageorgevitch.

The new crown prince has been made a lieutenant in the army.

The local press is voicing the demand that he be sent to European colleges to complete his education.

Dynamite Explodes.

THE PRESS VISIT.

The following postal communication to The Examiner given below, is unsigned, but its characteristics leave very little doubt as to the identity of the writer, who is no stranger to Peterborough readers. The card is as follows:

"A Few Thoughts on the Press Visit."

Two or three factories do not make a city.

Modesty is a rare possession.

All in a newspaper is not true or even news.

It would be better to be ignorant than believe all you read.

ALL FOOLS' DAY.

To-morrow is April first, and therefore "All Fools' Day," and a festive occasion for the practical joker. It would be well for the citizen whose exuberant spirits tempt him to kick an innocent looking hat or paper bag from the pavement to fight shy of such articles to-morrow, as they are liable to be loaded. Look before you leap is a good motto any time, but on April Fools' Day it is better than an accident policy. A word to the wise is sufficient. How many do you need?

GOES TO GAOL

Cobourg, March 29.—A young lad named Baker, who resided at Warkworth, raised quite a sensation some little time ago by charging that some persons shoved him into a baker's oven to give him an idea of what future punishment was like. Crown Attorney W. F. Kerr investigated the charges, which proved to be groundless. On Monday last the boy was taken by a constable from a northern town to the Mimico Reformatory.

LENTEN SERVICES.

At St. John's Church and St. Luke's church this evening there will be special speakers for the mid-week Lenten services. The season of Lent is now almost at a close and the people have taken a great interest in the special services. It is hoped that even larger numbers will turn out for the concluding meetings of this season of special prayer and devotion.

PAY FOR VERANDAH

The Ladies' Aid Society of St. Andrew's Church have undertaken the erection of a colonial verandah for the manse and will meet the expense themselves. They intend to hold a number of concerts and at homes and will thereby secure the necessary funds to erect the verandah. It will be a decided improvement of the Manse and should give it an added dignity in keeping with its position adjoining the church.

WATER WORKS BY-LAW CARRIED BY 161 BUT POWER MEASURE WAS DEFEATED

Ratepayers Endorse the Water Commissioners Policy But Are Dubious Over the Operations of the Power Committee and Return a Verdict of 42 Against the By-law

INTEREST IN THE MEASURES WAS NOT GENERAL

The ratepayers of Peterborough carried the by-law to provide $120,000 for the erection of a new dam and pumping station for the waterworks department by a substantial majority, a plurality of 161 people favouring the measure, but they turned down the by-law from the City Council asking for $15,000 for the construction of a powerhouse at the water works dam, the majority against the measure being 54.

The total vote polled was small, the interest shown in the fate of the two measures being not nearly as great as would seem from the discussion in the press before the vote was taken. In all 857 votes were polled on the water works by-law, and 856 on the other measure.

The waterworks by-law seemed to be generally approved of by the people, only two divisions going against the measure. In Divisions 1 and 2 which were united for voting purposes yesterday there was a majority of four against the proposition and Division No. 9 turned it down by two votes, but the other divisions gave fine majorities. Divisions 7 and 8, and Divisions 13 and 14 being especially liberal in their support.

On the other hand six out of the eight polling divisions were unfavourable to the power by-law. Divisions 7 and 8, and Divisions 13 and 14 supporting the by-laws, while the others went against it. Following are the figures:

Ald. Turner's Suggestion Carried Out Meter Readers To Wear Badges

The suggestion made by Ald. J. J. Turner, at a recent meeting of the City Council, to have meter readers and inspectors of the Light and Power Companies wear some distinguishing badge, has been acted upon. Yesterday Ald. Turner received a letter from Mr. J. H. Larmonth, manager of the Peterborough Light and Power Co., intimating that circulars were being sent around to the company's customers informing them that in future meter readers would wear a badge, and not to allow any person to go through their premises for the purpose of reading either gas or electric light meters or counting their lamps unless the meter reader or inspector wore a badge. A drawing of the badge was on each circular.

Ald. Turners' suggestion is a good one and the company is to be complimented on the readiness with which it has been complied with.

Peterborough To Be Well Represented At Convention

The local Protestant churches are well represented at the convention in connection with the Laymen's Misionary Movement, which opened in Toronto to-day, and at which some 4,000 delegates will be present. Nearly all the churches have appointed delegates who have gone to Toronto, or who will go to-day or to-morrow. The list, as complete as could be obtained, is as follows:

Knox church— Rev. H. J. Keith, Messrs. R. F. McWilliams and Richard Chiles.

George Street Methodist church—Rev. E. A. Pearson, Messrs. B. F. Ackerman, B. Shortly and D. W. Dumble.

Territorial Staff Band Will Give Fine Concert On Saturday

The Canadian Territorial Staff Band will visit Peterborough on Saturday and Sunday, April 3rd and 4th, and will give a grand musical festival in the Salvation Army barracks on Saturday evening at 8 o'clock. Mr. T. F. Matthews will be chairman and a splendid programme will be presented. At 11 a.m. the regular service will be held, the visitors taking part in it. At three o'clock in the afternoon a service of praise will be held, Rev. E. A. Pearson presiding. At 7 p.m., the regular evening service, the Staff Band will render selected music.

This band is under the direction of Brigadier H. Morris, and has won the reputation of being well balanced and of possessing a wide repertoire of selections. The programme for the Saturday evening concert and also for that of Sunday afternoon presents some excellent numbers. Besides ensembles by the band there are solos, and the male choir is said to be very good. Those interested in good music are expected to be largely represented. All the members of the band are officers, with exception possibly of one or two. Their visit has been looked forward to for a long time by the members of the local corps band, and for the reason that Bandmaster Greene's musicians have a good name in the music world the visitors will undoubtedly appear at their best.

WILL NOT BE GIVEN ON FRIDAY NIGHT

The playlet "A Scheming Lieutenant," which was to have been presented on Friday evening by the Philomathean Society, of the Collegiate Institute, has been indefinitely postponed, owing to the illness of Miss Katie Leary, who was taking part. It is not likely that it will now be put on until after the Easter vacation.

PETITION OF BARBERS

Is Now Being Circulated Among the Bosses to Secure Closing at 11 o'clock on Saturday Nights.

TO MEET OLD EVIL.

The journeymen barbers of the city are beginning to take steps to provide against working into the small hours of Sunday mornings. They are petitioning the bosses to sign a request to close the shops at 11 o'clock on Saturday evenings. It is not known what amount of success is attending their efforts, but the journeymen are anxious to have a change made revolutionizing the abuse which exists through the carelessness and thoughtlessness of many men. A barber stated to an Examiner reporter that the habit of getting around for a shave just before midnight was almost without exception unnecessary.

If the petition is largely signed it will be presented to the council to be arranged in by-law form, and after that, well events will shape their own course after the by-law is assured.

TO ENLARGE ITS FACTORY

East City Furniture Co. Will Build Large Addition to Present Quarters This Coming Summer.

MORE SPACE NEEDED.

The East City furniture factory is to be enlarged during the coming summer. An addition one-half the size of the present building will be built to the rear. Such was the information given an Examiner reporter to-day by Mr. T. Oke, manager of the Peterborough Furniture Company. Mr. Oke started business nearly two years ago, having built the factory now occupied by the Peterborough Lubricator Company. It was sold last July and a much larger one was erected, immediately to the east of it.

The business has grown to such an extent that a further enlargement is made necessary. Mr. Oke stated that he had a great many orders for sideboards, tables and dressers, and to carry on the business satisfactorily, more space was required. The addition would be used as a packing and elevator room.

An order for five thousand boxes is now being filled for the Rapid Tool Company.

AFTERMATH OF THE DEFEAT OF POWER BY-LAW AND THE OPINIONS OF ALDERMEN MOST CONCERNED

The results of yesterday's ballot on the two by-laws were the subjects of much discussion on the street to-day, and from the amount of talk over the out'come, there seemingly was considerable interest taken in it. There were few statements made that anyone was pleased that the power by-law was defeated, but everyone was wearing that "I told you so" look as if before the voting day they were sure that the people would not support the measure. There was a noticeable indecision among the citizens as to whether the committee had gone deeply enough in to the question for information regarding it, and not a few men spoke in this vein: "Why if they had built the power house, there would not have been enough water to drive the wheels, I read that in So-and-So's letter." and the situation seemed to be that there had been too much said about the by-laws, causing confusion and mystification, and there were not a few questions of suspicion about the interest that some parties showed in the by-law.

The Examiner reporter saw some of the City Fathers this morning, and the general feeling was that a mistake had been made in defeating the Power by-law.

Ald. Gillespie stated that he firmly believed that the ratepayers made a mistake in defeating the power by-law, as the scheme to develop power at the new waterworks dam was in the interests of the people. He had confidence in the report of the engineers upon whose report the Council adopted their proposition. He would, however, support the council in working up a power policy to be submitted to the people at some future date.

The engineer stated that the power was there. If engineers' reports cannot be taken as true and correct, then the council will have difficulty in future in framing a policy that will be carried by the ratepayers.

"If the power is there, I think the electors should have supported the by-law," Ald. Morrow replied. "The committee was relying on the statements of the Water Commissioners in their reports, and they had stated that the possibilities of developing power existed."

Ald. Morrow considered that the citizens have shown by the vote they cast yesterday that they are in favour of the city owning its own power for street lighting and other purposes.

Ald. Bradburn was asked if he thought the people had been sufficiently informed regarding the power. "There has been more explanation and information given out regarding this by-law than any other that I have known of." He also stated it as his conviction that a mistake had been made.

Enjoyable Evening Spent At The Charlotte St. Church

Those who spent the evening with the Young Peoples' Society of Charlotte Street Church last evening at their social and entertainment, were unanimous in their conclusion that it was one of the most pleasant and entertaining events of the season.

The programme, which was varied and rather unique in its character, was commenced with a piano solo by Miss Gracie Edmonson and was much appreciated. The next number was a splendidly executed sketch, entitled the New Minister's First At Home, in which five young people took part. It set forth very humorously the trials which a young minister and his wife are forced to endure in moving from place to place.

It was followed by a social feature which got the people mixed up and made them better acquainted in getting the largest number of autographs on their cards. The one having the most got a prize.

Then came a vocal duet by the Misses Lee, and a solo by Mr. Lee, who is the newly-appointed soloist of Charlotte Street Church, both of which were heartily encored and enjoyed.

A splendid piano solo by Miss Flo Reid and a recitation by Miss Maud Titterson was followed by another laughable sketch entitled "Advertising for a Companion," and executed by four young ladies, all of whom took their parts excellently and with much ease.

A very entertaining number was the Conundrum Contest, in which everyone took part and enjoyed greatly.

A sweetly rendered solo by Miss Maisie Cunningham was followed by that ever popular tableau, "The Reveries of a Bachelor," in which twenty young ladies and the said Bachelor tok part; the scenic and lighting effects of which were splendidly carried out under the able management of Mr. Gordon Horsley. Refreshments, always a valuable adjunct, were then served.

The Convener of the Social Committee, Miss Alma Frowde, and her capable staff of workers, are to be congratulated on the success of the evening.

Big Laymen's Missionary Movement Convention Begins

Examiner Special.

Toronto, March 31.—Practically four thousand men were assembled in Toronto when, this morning at 11 o'clock the Canadian National Congress of the Laymen's Missionary Movement was opened in Massey Hall. This convention is the first of its kind. To it delegates have come and are coming, not only from all Canada, but from many foreign lands. Five hundred out of 2,50[illegible] laymen come from Toronto, and 1,500 clergymen will complete the assemblage. Yesterday morning those who had charge of the work of arranging accommodation for the new comers were very busy.

The conference has one great object to consider, the adoption of an adequate missionary policy for Canada. Not Presbyterians, nor Methodists, Anglicans, nor any one Protestant denomination is concerned, but all are interested together. The gathering is thus unique. This is the first time in which the church people of any nation have considered the topic of missions in such a manner. In view of the great crowd of delegates and of the fact that the accommodation of Massey Hall will, without question, be strained, none but fully accredited delegates are to be given admission. Overflow meetings for the accommodation of the general public are arranged for.

This morning at 11 o'clock a prayer service was held in the school house at St. James Cathedral. Mr. S. J. Moore, of Toronto, conducted the service. At 2.15 proceedings commenced in Massey Hall. Thursday and Friday nights there will be two public meetings in the Metropolitan Church.

Sir Andrew Fraser, of London, England, will be entertained by the Presbyterian laymen at luncheon in the Temple Building on Friday. He will be a guest at Government House during his sojourn here. A luncheon to the Executive Committee will be given in the King Edward Hotel on Thursday by the Canadian members. The Anglican delegates will hold a luncheon Friday night.

While the main Congress is in session, the various denominations composing it will hold meetings in several of their largest churches.

THE BY-LAWS

The result of the voting on the two by-laws submitted yesterday is both satisfactory and unsatisfactory. The endorsation of the Waterworks dam by-law was very manifestly in the public interest. The defeat of the power by-law was not in the public interest.

The adoption of the Waterworks by-law, will insure the erection of a dam and associated works, which, while not adding anything to the general tax-rate, will give Peterborough one of the best in all respects, as it is now as to mains, waterworks systems in the Dominion.

It is probable that the Commissioners will decide to proceed at once with the work. Labour is plentiful, employment is needed and materials are cheap, as compared with the prices of the past few years.

The defeat of the power by-law was due, no doubt, to other causes than lack of merit in what it provided for. It is probable that the electors who pronounced upon it did not fully understand its importance and advantages, and hostile self-interest had its share of effect.

By the defeat of the by-law the electors have deprived the city of a cheap means of getting a supply of power amply sufficient to do our own street lighting and if needed domestic lighting at an immense reduction from the figures now paid, and leave a considerable supply to dispose of to manufacturing industries.

It might also be remembered that the whole power developed can in the day-time be released for industrial power purposes, lighting requiring only the use of the power at night, an advantage that should not be lost sight of in reflecting upon which the city has lost—temporarily at least—by the rejection of the power by-law. In other cities, Montreal, especially, arrangements have long been in existence, by which the power required for lighting at night is devoted during the day to manufacturing purposes.

Then perhaps the electors did not and do not appreciate, the necessity in the interests of the city's industrial expansion of additional power. If Peterborough is to improve upon its industrial position, we shall need every pound of power that can be developed in connection with the Waterworks dam, all that could be developed at the Auburn dam, or at Burleigh Falls, or at Healey's Falls.

The matter of power development in connection with the construction of the Waterworks dam is not yet disposed of. With a change of location, of the proposed power house, forebays, etc., from the ease to the west of the new dam the cost can be greatly reduced — by making common foundations, forebays, tail-races, etc., for the Waterworks plant and the power plant.

This matter will bear further discussion. It is well worth the consideration of the electors. It can be shown that additional power is needed; and that it can be developed in connection with the Waterworks dam at a surprisingly low figure.

PURE SEED

It is well known to farmers that one of the first essentials to a good crop is good seed. The truth of this has been too often practically demonstrated to need additional proof. Therefore the standing field crops competition, of which the particulars are given in another column are, and should be, of great interest to the progressive farmer. To any other farmer appeal is useless. These competitions have been both an educational and a financial success, prize winners being able to sell their prise grain one hundred per cent. above the market prices. These competitions stimulate an interest in growing first-class seed grain; encourage the growing of seed for next year's crop in a field by itself, using only the best seed for this purpose; they promote the obtaining of pure seed, free from other varieties, promoting the sowing of seed from clean vogorous crops of uniform stand and they insure careful and intelligent farming and the production of seed free from weeds, which are one of the greatest foes ta successful farming operations. Farming, now-a-days must be conducted on careful, painstaking principles to be successful. In every community we see that the successful farmer is the one that takes pains with his farming. These competitions with a view of exciting the production of pure and good seed provide incidental conditions, that have an effect in producing good results on the farm beyond the specific object of winning a prize. As a matter of fact the competitor, by the very fact of the competition and what it involves, stands to derive, possibly, a greater advantage than the man to whom the prize is awarded.

CANADA'S SHARE

The place which Canada occupies in the Imperial family, was strikingly shown in the debate in Parliament on Monday, by the unanimity of sentiment and action. In discussing the relations of this country to the problem of Imperial defence, for once in our parliamentary deliberations the voice of party was silent; both sides vied in friendly rivalry in asserting loyalty to the integrity of the Empire and of intelligent determination that Canada should do its share in its defence. This country, as Sir Wilfrid Laurier showed has not been remiss in its duty to the Mother Land. We have taken over the garrisons at Halifax and Esquimault; in five or six years we have trebled our expenditure upon the militia; and we are prepared to do similarly in connection with the naval department of national defence. The resolution unanimously adopted in Parliament on Monday, not only declared that Canada was willing and ready to make any sacrifice required to do her full duty when the need may arise, but also committed this country to the speedy organization of a naval service, "in co-operation with, and in close relation to, the Imperial navy on the lines suggested by the Admiralty at the last Imperial Conference." We have thus manfully and without panic or excitement deliberately acceptel the responsibility, that rests upon us as a growing nation, of providing for our own protection and, expressly, if incidentally, thereby strengthening the arm of Imperial defence. This seems to be the course most consistent with our capabilities and position as a nation in the making, most pleasing to the Home Country, which is thus assured of both material and moral support, the latter perhaps the more effective means of defence under the circumstance. It shows the world that Great Britain is not isolated and alone but that the great colonies, the great self-governing dominions, the Greater Britain, are with the Motherland when her interests and through them the interests of all are threatened.

THE GRANARY OF THE WORLD.

The Dominion's wheaten arch in London, at the Queen's Jubilee, bore the proudly prophetic legend: "Canada, the Granary of the Empire." The Examiner has from time to time insisted that Canada is better employed in cultivating the arts of peace and progress—in striving by steel highway, and canal, to realize her possibilities as the Granary of the Empire, than in maintaining standing armies and building war fleets. While Canadians are modestly making such a claim outsiders are doing more for us and are discussing Canada's ability to be not only the Empire's but "The World's Granary," the United States press is showing a disposition to admit and even prove the growing importance of Canada. The Literary Digest, an especially high-class publication, contains an article on "Canada as The World's Granary." Here is a significant extract:

> "The centre of gravity in the world's wheat market shifted when the United States found that our people consumed all the wheat raised in our territory, leaving none for exportation. Yet even now this country raises more wheat (634,000,000 bushels) than any other single country in the world and about sixty times as much as Canada. Canada, however, is looked upon by some Italian economists as the coming bread-giver of the civilized world, although at this moment Italy itself is producing nearly twice as much wheat as the Dominion. According to a writer in The Minerva (Rome), the help of the Dominion in giving bread to the hungry is now urgently needed. This supreme cereal, although at present cultivated so widelyand so plentifully, says this Roman weekly, is beyond the reach of such multitudes that 'many economists have published statistics of an alarming character, as they tend to prove that the human race increases so fast that it is in danger, in the near future, of meeting the fate of Count Ugelino.'" The writer tries to reassure the alarmists by pointing to Canada, and says: Fortunately the cultivation of wheat has for the last few years been developed to a phenomenal degree in the fertile and boundless plains of Western Canada, and the production is all the while increasing. The day is not far distant when Canada, cultivated with eager industry by the robust arms of the immigrants who are crowding in, will become the granary of the world, as Egypt was of the Roman Empire."

The article adds that these statements are supported by statistics to show that this country does not consume a tenth part of her wheat production, and that railways and other media of transportation are being provided to bring Canadian cereals to Atlantic and Pacific ocean seaports, and that in a few years this Dominion, from being tenth on the list of grain producing countries, will harvest more grain than any single country in the world. It is further pointed out that at the present time western Canada, long the abode only of Indians, half-breeds and cowboys, and ranches, under squatter's title, is in process of productive settlement by sturdy farmers, Sweedes, Germans, Scotch and English, and last, but not least, pioneers of experience from our own (United States) West. Another extract says:

> "When it is estimated that 25,000,000 bushels suffice for the home consumption of Canada, it will be seen how vast a quantity of wheat is available for expeortation. It has been calculated by Canadian statisticians and publicists that in twenty-five years the area of the wheat fields in Western Canada will amount to 6,000,000 acres. As the average production of each acre is 18.98 bushels, which is 50 per cent. more than the average productivity of the rest of the world, Canada will be able to put upon the market an amount of grain equal to half of the world's total production, which at the present moment does not exceed 1,500,000,000 bushels."

The realization of these possibilities gains assurance for the result of past harvests. The Digest goes on to say:

> "The harvest of last year brought $100,000,000 to the farmers of Canada. This success in the cultivation of grains has inspired the movement which eventually must result in the abandonment of every other department of agriculture, in order that every effort may be concentrated on the production of wheat."

Shall we Canadians, who simply aspire to became the "Granary of the Empire," be less ambitious than our neighbours, who advance us to the place of "The World's Granary?" Yet we have little Canadians who try to "sit on" even an attempt to earn the more restricted title. We have Little Canadians who oppose the building of the Transcontinental Railway, an absolute necessity if we are to realize the tithe of our possibilities as a grain producing country. Yet these same human dormice, who hybernate the year round, demand that Canada shall send Dreadnoughts to the mother country, when [illegible] railways we have built and th[illegible] we are building will produce an annual wheat crop of a value to build twenty Dreadnoughts a year, and to feed the whole British army and navy to boot.

WHO OWNS THIS COUNTRY?

The Sudbury Dairy Northern Star thus relieves its mind:

> It is about time that the preposterous idea that New Ontario is the private property of older Ontario got a severe jolt. This is about the only section of the civilized world where men who tackle the job of conquering the wilderness are subjected to the process of having their pockets picked practically before they get a roof on their shack. The sooner it is understood that the men of the North have come up here to possess the land for themselves and their descendants, the better. When the western sections of Ontario were settled by hardy pioneers it never occurred to them to allow themselves to be forced to contribute the bigger portion of their assets to the eastern and older settled sections. The shoe was, in fact, on the other foot if anything, and the newer districts were helped. The treatment of the North has been, and is now, based on a different principle. The east, west and south have got together, and by brute force are simply robbing the North of everything they can lay hands on. What right in the name of common honesty has Queen's Park to take a single tree or an ounce of silver more than New Ontario's proper proportion towards the general fund which the whole Province has to raise to pay expenses of Government. There never was a more monstrous proposition than for a comparatively small (but thickly populated) section of the Province to lay claim to all the natural resources of the country from Lake Ontario to the North Pole. Under existing circumstances the inhabitants of New Ontario have about as many rights to the land they live in as the wild animals. The principal difference between them being that the men are tame, so delightfully tame in fact that they appear to be willing to stand for anything. The idea for instance of their representatives in the Legislature scrambling for a few thousand, thrown to them for colonization roads like doughboys to a dog team, while they are allowing the country they represent to be robbed of millions to support lunatic asylums and pauper institutions in the sunny south, is most instructive. It is about time that a few of the more intelligent men of the district got together and formulated some kind of policy. The absent treatment which is being administered at present to the North by the rest of the Province bids fair to leave nothing of the patient but the grinning skeleton of a magnificent possibility.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Sudbury is expanding—onwards and upwards. We have received the first number of the Daily Northern Star, published at Sudbury. It is an eight-page, well written and well-printed sheet, quite metropolitan in appearance and contains a liberal proportion of live advertisements.

Relation of the Liver and Kidneys

Functions such that each suffers when the other is deranged.

Complicated Cases can only be cured by combined treatment such as Vitol.

The liver filters poison from the blood. The kidneys also filter poisons from the blood. When the liver becomes sluggish and torpid in action, or is giving too much work by over eating, the kidneys have to help out with the work of filtration, therefore the kidneys are overtaxed. The result—biliousness, indigestion and constipation, and after a time the kidneys are affected and you have a backache, urinary derangements and kidney disease. You feel drowsy, lazy, tired; skin becomes dry and hot. Fig Pills will put you right at once ;they cleanse the liver and the kidneys and purify the blood. You feel like a new person. Take one at bedtime. Price 25c box.

WARNE DRUG CO., Special Agts.

The series of extremely unsatisfactory results of municipal government in Montreal, has led the Herald to affix at the head of its editorial columns the following slogan:

> The administration of Montreal's affairs should be placed in the hands of a small executive body chosen independently of the city council, but responsible for the introduction of proposed legislation into the council and for the carrying of it into effect when passed.

Dairying In Nova Scotia.

In a recent issue of The Halifax Chronicle, a King's County farmer writes telling of his success in dairy farming in Nova Scotia. "Dairying," he says, "is the most neglected branch of farming in the Maritime Provinces. While some few sections are doing quite a business, making milk to supply towns and cities, and in some cases condensing factories, yet, our cheese and butter factories are doing a very small business, and the fact is that to-day we are importing butter and cheese that could all be made in our province." He goes on to point out that in this way thousands of dollars are annually going out of the province to the United States and upper Canada for fertilizers, mill-feeds, and dairy products, which could easily be produced in Nova Scotia itself. Ten times as much of the dairy products as are produced at present could be made, and employment would thus be furnished for many of the young men of the province who have very little to do in the winter months.

Canadian Steamer Records.

The C.P.R. liner Empress of Britain, which left Liverpool on Friday, Feb. 12, docked and landed her passengers at Halifax, N.S., on Thursday morning, the passage from the Mersey occupying 5 days 21 hours 7 minutes. Her passengers reached Montreal on Friday morning, Toronto on Friday evening, and Winnipeg on Sunday morning. The same company's Empress of Ireland came very near eclipsing her previous record of 5 days and 19 hours from port to port, when she docked at Deep Water, Halifax, at 10.55 o'clock on the previous Thursday morning. She left Liverpool at 6 p.m. on Friday, Jan. 29 She was 5 days 19 hours and 45 minutes from light to light, being off Chebucto Head at 9 45 a.m.

Gringo Songs In '49.

In the gringo days, the days of old, the days of gold, the days of '49, amusements and recreation in California could only be found in the mining towns when a strolling singer made an appearance in some saloon, the admission fee paid by frequent visits to the bar. The words were set to well known ballad tunes, and if the singer "caught on" he or she was rewarded by small nuggets thrown on the improvised table stage. As the old record says, they were "sung with great applause," to which was added the landlord's warning call, "Come, come, gents, don't let the barkeeper go to sleep."—"Out West."

Strenuous Methods.

"Got a good scheme."

"What?"

"Gave my fiancee a phonograph."

"For heaven's sake, why?"

"None of the other fellows will call on her now."—Cleveland Leader.

Fiction

A White Man's Choice.

By MARTHA M'C.-WILLIAMS.

Jimmy Marion was no great shakes. In the mind of Brush Creek, Jimmy had but two redeeming qualities. One was being his father's son, the other that he had wit enough to love his father's ward, Cressy Oliphant.

Upon a summer morning Cressy called to him over her shoulder: "Jimmy, do come on! You are the slowest old thing! An' you know I hate a man or a horse without lots of go!"

They were riding uphill. Cressy's whiplash whined accompaniment to her words. Jimmy had a talent for saying nothing. Still, as he came within easy hail he piped amiably, "Cress, I been wonderin' all this mornin' if you won't never learn better'n to gallop a horse uphill."

"I've been wonderin' if you will ever learn anything," Cressy retorted, slashing savagely at a near bush.

Jimmy opened his eyes. "Whut's the matter, cross cat?" he asked. "You come ridin' with me—nobody didn't make you—an' I've let you pick your own road an' go your own gait."

"If you've tired of me I'll go on by myself," Cressy said irritably, half wheeling her horse.

Jimmy kept beside her. "You needn't try to run away from me," he said. "I been knowin' all the way you felt bad, an' I reckon I know whut about."

"You don't. What is it?" Cressy answered all in a breath.

Jimmy laughed tranquilly. "I fetched you a letter yistiddy evenin'—a letter frum Charley."

"What business have you to know that?" Cressy demanded. "He's comin' today. That's why I am runnin' away."

"Ef he pesters you I'll make him go right back," Jimmy said promptly; then his face fell. "But it'll be sorter awkward. Old Charles is all the own cousin I've got. Pappy an' mammy think nigh as much of him as they do of me."

"You ought to hate him. Why don't you?" Cressy demanded.

Jimmy stared.

"Hate him!" he repeated slowly. "Why should I hate him? He can't help bein' whut he is—smart an' bright an' good lookin'—no more'n I can help bein' whut I am."

"And whut is that?" Cressy asked crisply.

Jimmy drew a deep breath.

"A born fool," he said humbly. "But I got sense enough to know it. All I can do is to be a real white man, an' it ain't white to hate Char—anybody better off."

"You are worse than a born fool—a made one," Cressy cried passionately. "An' you won't stand up for yourself. You won't even say you love me. You drive me to tell you I know it"—

"You can't help but know it," Jimmy broke in. "You been knowin' it ever sence you were knee high. I been fool enough to think sometimes maybe you might fetch yourself to take me—an' the place"—

"I do love—the place," Cressy interrupted, a smile dawning in her stormy eyes. "An' it has belonged to the Marions ever sence the Indians went away."

"I know," Jimmy said wistfully, "but don't let that bother you, Cress. There's jest us two of the name—Charles an' me. You needn't never leave—the place—no matter whut happens." Then persuasively, "Let us leave all this talk until next year."

"Charley is not so patient," Cressy said, swallowing hard. "He insists on a definite answer today."

"I lay he don't get it—not until you are good an' ready," Jimmy said, with a quick smile, patting her hand. Then he ran on haltingly, "Cressy, I love you all I know how, but don't you let that count if—if you love—anybody else."

They were nearing a roadside gate. As Cressy went through it she said, with her head very high: "Go home, Jimmy, an' give Charley his answer. Tell him I don't know, an' I don't want to know."

* * * * * * *

As Jimmy went up the walk he saw his mother at the sitting room window, very white and moaning faintly. He rushed inside. His father met him, all his hale ruddiness changed to ashen gray. Charley had come and sat at Squire Marion's desk, his pen racing over a sheet of legal cap. Without looking up he called: "Saddle me a fresh horse, Jimmy, the best you've got. The minute this is signed I must ride like the devil."

"Whut's up?" Jimmy demanded. His father clutched his shoulder, leaned heavily upon it and gasped: "Son, son, we're on the edge of ruin! Charley found out early this mornin' that Gill Magee had run away with all the county money! An' me on his bond for $50,000! I trusted Gill like my own brother!"

"There, there, Uncle Jim," Charley interposed. "Walls have ears sometimes, and we must not leave one loophole in this precious document. It's a deed of gift, Jimmy. Uncle Jim makes over to you everything—land, money, stock and crops."

"What for?" Jimmy asked, his eyes wide.

Charley laughed shortly. "For the best of reasons—to save himself from beggary and keep a roof over his head. But I've written it down for a consideration of $1, love and natural affection. Sign, quick, Uncle Jim. Unless this goes on record before Gill Magee's pranks get wind it will be worth less than the paper it's written on."

"Oh, it's hard!" the old man moaned. "In my old age too! I never did think I could be brought to any of them coverin' up tricks. I've been so proud to hear folks say, 'As honest as a Marion.' But what else can I do? I'm old—seventy next month! I can't let my home go! I can't take my wife to the poorhouse!"

"You'll have me, pappy, no matter what comes," Jimmy said, lifting his head and throwing his arm about his father's bowed shoulders. So holding him he moved to where his mother sat, lifted her to her feet and with his free arm drew her to his breast. Then he turned to his cousin and said clearly: "Charley, it was good in you to think of us this a-way. But I can't see things your way. Now Gill's gone bad, by the Lord, he shan't take old Jim Marion with him. I love the place, every stock an' stone an' red clay hill in it, next to—my own people. But I won't keep it unless I can keep it honest"—

"Are you crazy?" Charley broke in. "I can change the beneficiary in a trice. Say, Uncle Jim, won't you trust me? I'll certainly never take advantage of your trust. Speak quick. We have just three hours' grace, and it will take two at least to get back to the courthouse."

"I—I don't believe I keer to save things except for Jimmy," Squire Marion began brokenly.

Charley sprang to his feet and stepped in front of his cousin. He was white with anger and apprehension. In a high, shaken voice he cried: "For God's sake, Jimmy, don't doom your father and mother to beggary. It makes me feel like shooting you to hear you quibble and prate when all their comfort, it may be their lives, hangs on the matter of a minute."

"They have got me," Jimmy reiterated.

Charley flung up his hands. "You!" he cried, with the intensest scorn. "What are you? What can you do—without money or brains?"

"Work—all day an' all night," Jimmy said sturdily. Charley drew back a step, his face twitching. He bit his lips hard before he went on.

"Another thing—think of Cressy. She will end by marrying you if you keep the place. It is that which has stood between me and winning her. I know it. Remember, I am speaking now against myself. I cannot do less in face of all I owe my uncle and my dear, good aunt. Speak to Jimmy, both of you. If he still refuses to save you, sign this deed and put it in my power."

Mrs. Marion nestled close to her son. Her husband broke away from them and leaned from the open window. Jimmy's eyes followed the father's gaze as it rested upon the familiar fields, the trig barns, the deep, shadowy woodlands belting the clear land. Could they give it up and go away, strangers in a strange land?

Stronger, more insistent was the thought of Cressy. How should a beggar lift eyes to her? No, not a beggar except for work! Somehow the word was a tonic. He faced half about, drew his mother in front of him and said, with many breaks: "Charley—I—I—can't talk with you. But the Lord—help me—to show I—can work with you."

Squire Marion stepped beside his son, linked arms and said: "Ruin or no ruin, Charley, I'll do as Jimmy says. If the money must all go, let it. Lord, what is all the property in the world beside findin' that I've got a real man fer my son?"

"The best man in the world," Cressy cried, breaking tempestuously from an ambush of half closed door. "I had to come home right behind you," she panted to Jimmy. "It—it is not true—what he said," nodding toward Charley. "Now you have lost everything else I ask you to—to take me."

"Amen. The Lord be praised," Squire Marion said, catching Cressy in his arms. Charley darted away, swearing under his breath. Jimmy? Jimmy put his head upon his mother's shoulder and cried for the first time since he was ten years old.

Jimmy showed the stuff he was made of by working through five hopeless years trying to save the homestead, mortgaged to its full value. Cressy helped him, singing about the place, her face always sunshiny, her tempers all blown away. Still, there was rejoicing, indeed, when Gill Magee came back from the Klondike with money enough to make good all his luckless sureties had paid. Little Jim, aged four, high in the arms of his doting grandmother, held the canceled mortgage in a candle flame and laughed to see it burn. Across the hearth the grandfather looked on with eyes that did not see and murmured brokenly, "The righteous shall not be forsaken nor his seed beg bread."

The Sauce Was Sour.

From time immemorial in China a donation of 20,000 taels to charity has secured for the donor the much prized peacock's feather, while for half that sum a title of nobility is conferred on one's ancestors to the third generation. The late emperor of Brazil followed the same method when erecting a hospital in Rio de Janeiro. Having found difficulty in obtaining the necessary funds, he announced that the title of "baron" was to be conferred on every subscriber of 100,000 milreis and that of "count" on subscribers of 250,000 milreis. This announcement produced the desired effect, and the hospital was soon completed. The opening ceremony was performed by the emperor and attended by a large number of the newly ennobled, who did not altogether relish the words inscribed in letters of gold on the gable of the new building, "Human Vanity to Human Misery."

When a Woman Goes to Bed Mad.

When a man comes home at night his wife pours forth a recital in a mill stream of all that has happened all day. Then she gets a hook, puts on her bait and begins to fish to find out what he has done all day, and she never catches a thing. Then she goes off to bed mad because she told so much.

TRIED TO BE NICE.

But Fannie Made an Awful Mess of It With the Old Lady.

"When Fannie is bent upon pleasing," sighed Fannie's younger sister, "she can certainly make a horrible mess of things. Last Sunday Charlie Evans, having arrived at the point where he felt he wanted his family's opinion of me, invited us both up to take tea with his mother. The minute I laid eyes on his mother I knew Fannie would get in trouble—she simply can't help getting nervously foolish when there's a religious person around.

"Charlie's mother kissed us and, addressing herself to Fannie as the elder, said something about our being very sweet to come and see a daughterless old woman. Whereat Fannie looked at Charlie and his two brothers and replied feelingly that it must be a terrible disappointment to have only them. Mrs. Evans, to rectify my sister's misapprehension, told us proudly that she had three more sons, not present.

"By this time Fannie realized that she had made a bad beginning and leaped further in with the supposition that the other three were off having a good time instead of moping at home. The older lady drew herself up and said severely:

"'My three sons are in heaven, Miss Barnes.'

"'Oh, how awful!' came Fannie's ready gasp.

"'No, not awful at all!' and Mrs. Evans was positively glaring at us. 'I feel that they were specially blessed in being allowed to pass thus early to their Lord. They died as little children.'

"'Dear me, how glad you must have been!' blurted out flustered Fannie.

"By this time I had kicked a hole in her ankle, and that quieted her for awhile. She might have kept still for the rest of the evening had not her pet subject, the higher education of woman, come up for the old lady's disapproval. Then Fannie made a handspring into the conversation by remarking that when we had more educated mothers there would be less infant mortality.

"And, mind you, Fannie was really trying to be nice for my sake."—New York Times.

THE WORD "ALPHABET."

It Comes Through the Greeks and Hebrews From Phoenicia.

When we speak of our A B C's as our "alphabet" we are using a word hoary with age, that, as far back as we can trace it, came from the eastern shore of the Mediterranean sea, thousands of years before the Hebrews went up there and took possession of the land of Canaan. Back of the people who occupied that land before the events of Exodus were written we are not able to trace the word, for we have not sufficient knowledge of them or of their etymological history before we find them in Canaan.

It has been only within recent years that we have been able to know that the word "alphabet" came to us from the Phoenicians. Before that we supposed that it came to us from the Hebrews, through the Greek. As we say "A B C" the Greeks say "alpha beta" (the first two letters of their alphabet), which when it reached us became "alphabet." This we supposed had come to the Greeks from the Hebrews, who called their first two letters "alph" and "beth," but since then we have found that both the Greeks and the Hebrews got the word "alphabet" from the same source, which was the Phoenicians.

The people of Phoenicia had the same letters, "alph" and "beth," which have suffered but little change in sound down to our A and B. Alph meant simply an ox, the sign of it being a conventional ox's head, with the lower part of the face turned slightly to its right, and beth meant a house, which was pictured by the rude outline of a primitive dwelling, which had a superfluous line added to distinguish it from other characters very like it, as we place a tail on a Q to distinguish it from an O. So the first two letters of our A B C's were originally an ox and a house and gave the name of all of the twenty-six letters which we call our "alphabet."—New York Herald.

A "Rest Cure" at Home.

The harassed brain-worker who finds himself "at the end of his tether" from strain and overwork should try the effect of a modified "rest cure" at home. A day or a week-end in bed is far better than any drugs you can buy if your "nerves" are due to overstrain and lack of rest. Learn how to relax. Overwork is not so likely to cause "nerves" as worry, lack of method, and eternal rush and bustle. The craze for country cottages is an indication that people are realizing the need for regular periods of rest and quiet, away from the crowd and the hustle of life. But many people must live always in the noise and racket of city life. What of them? If they live the strenuous life they must cultivate the quiet and restful mind.—The Quiver.

Her Knowledge of Law.

People have some curious ideas as to the work performed by judges. Mr. Justice Bigham, referring to his new position as president of the English Admiralty and Divorce Division, said that a lady on hearing of his appointment, remarked, "Is he going to the Admiralty Division? How very nice! I hope he will see that we shall have a strong navy."

Might Be Worse.

MAMMOTH FOSSILS.

Deposit of Dinosaurian Bones to Be Collected.

The German Government has decided to send an expedition to the southern part of German East Africa to examine, and make a careful collection from, the remarkable deposit of Dinosaurian bones discovered last year by Prof. Eberhard Fraas in the upper cretaceous formation of Tendaguru, in the Lindi district. According to the report of Prof. Fraas, published last August, the deposit resembles that of the famous Bone Cabin quarry in Wyoming, from which the Americans have obtained so many remarkable gigantic reptiles.

The huge bones lie weathered out on the surface of the ground, and can be followed by digging into the sandy marl and sandstone beneath them. Many of the bones are in their natural relative positions, showing that at least some parts of the skeletons were buried before their surrounding soft parts had decayed; and Prof. Fraas publishes a striking photograph of a nearly complete hind limb and foot before removal from the excavation in which it lay.

All the specimens brought back by Prof. Fraas for the Royal Wurtemburg Museum in Stuttgart, where they are now mounted, belong to a large herbivorous Dinosaur which he names Gigantosaurus. They appear to represent an animal from fourteen to fifteen meters in length, closely related to the well-known Diplodocus and Morosaurus from Wyoming. The skull remains unknown, but both vertebrae and limbs are represented by numerous specimens.

Further explorations will probably result in the discovery, not only of the missing parts of Gigantosaurus, but also of the reptiles which must have lived with it.

WEIGHT OF THE SOUL.

Scientist Figures That It Weighs Three-Quarters of an Ounce.

Again the question as to whether the soul has any weight or not has come to the front, and Fournier d'Abbe declares that he weighed one man's psychological entity and found that it tipped the beam at three-fourths of an ounce. Possibly there are persons in the world with bigger souls than that. Fournier d'Abbe is the secretary of the Dublin Society for Psychological Research, and his theory is that "psychomeres," or soul particles, make up the soul, and that that part of a human being has weight. In order to test his theory, he selected a man dying with tuberculosis, because death from that disease generally occurs with little or no muscular movement and thus the beam of the scales could be kept in more perfect balance.

"The patient," he says, "was under observation for three hours and forty minutes before death, lying on a bed arranged on a light framework built upon delicately balanced platform beam scales. The patient's comfort was looked after in every way, although he was practically moribund when placed upon the bed. He lost weight slowly at the rate of one ounce per hour, due to evaporation of sweat. During all three hours and forty minutes I kept the beam end slightly above balance near the upper limiting bar in order to make the test more decisive if it should come. At the end of three hours and forty minutes he expired, and, suddenly, coincident with death, the beam dropped with an audible stroke, hitting against the lower limiting bar and remaining there with no rebound. The loss was ascertained to be three-fourths of an ounce."

Of Interest to Cigarette Smokers.

How tobacco happened to fall under the ban of a certain well-known woman's organization is a bit of inside history which is interesting. Back in the late seventies a group of New York cigar manufacturers observed that the cigarette habit was increasing and threatened to cut into the consumption of cigars. To offset this encroachment they employed a trio of clever Bohemian writers to prepare and circulate in the press blood-curdling stories describing the so-called poisonous character of cigarettes and the awful fate which awaited those who persisted in smoking them. I knew one of these writers intimately, and I have often heard him relate how he and his fellows were wont to sit night after night in a cloud of cigarette smoke and "grind out" these articles for the liberal compensation of two cents a word. These stories, while amusingly impossible to chemists and scientists, were taken in good faith by the reading public and eventually attracted the attention of the women's temperance organization, which soon added a "department of narcotics" to its work of reform.—Carl Werner, in The Bohemian Magazine.

Provident.

"Don't you think May is perfectly reckless in the way she gets divorces?"

"Oh, no!" replied the second actress, dabbing on a little more paint. "She never gets a divorce from one husband until she has another under contract."—Philadelphia Ledger.

ANY remedy that benefits digestion strengthens the nerves.

The nerve centers require nutrition. If the digestion is impaired, the nerve centers become anemic, and indigestion is the result.

Peruna is not a nervine nor a stimulant. It benefits the nerves by benefiting digestion.

Peruna frees the stomach of catarrhal congestions and normal digestion is the result.

In other words, Peruna goes to the bottom of the whole difficulty, when the disagreeable symptoms disappear.

Mrs. J. C. Jamison, 61 Marchant street, Watsonville, Cal., writes:

"I was troubled with my stomach for six years. I tried many kinds of medicine, also was treated by three doctors.

"They said that I had nervous dyspepsia. I was put on a liquid diet for three months.

"I improved under the treatment, but as soon as I stopped taking the medicine, I got bad again.

"I took the medicine for two years, then I got sick again and gave up all hopes of getting cured.

"I saw a testimonial of a man whose case was similar to mine being cured by Peruna, so I thought I would give it a trial.

"I procured a bottle at once and commenced taking it. I have taken several bottles and am entirely cured.

"I have gained in strength and feel like a different person. I believe Peruna is all that is claimed for it."

Nervines, such as coal tar preparations, are doing a great deal of harm. Sleep medicines and headache powders are all alike,—heart depressants, and should not be used. The nerves would be all right, if the digestion were good. Peruna corrects the digestion.

Croup Quickly Cured.

Don't Let the Child Choke to Death While Waiting For the Doctor.

Hyomei, the miraculous, antiseptic dry air treatment, will cure croup in either the first or second stages. Easily inhaled, even when the breathing is irregular, it reaches more promptly than any other remedy the terribly inflamed membrane of the windpipe. It's soothing balsams act immediately, the inflammation is allayed and the swelling reduced.

George H King, of 22 Wellington street, South Woodstock, says: "We would not think of keeping house without Hyomei. It has warded off colds, croup, coughs and sore throats for all of our three children many and many a time. When a child breathes badly and through the mouth and the glands around the eyes and nose commence to swell, then is the time that we find the Hyomei quickly relieves the trouble and gets the bronchial tubes, lungs and throat cleared up."

THE FAMILY GATHERING AT MURRAY ST. CHURCH

On Wednesday evening the entire membership of Murray Street Baptist Church will take tea together at 7 o'clock, and an hour later the church roll will be called.

This is an annual occasion, and is the great gathering of the church family. The members at a distance received their notices ten days ago, and responses are coming in on each mail. No doubt the capacity of the edifice will be taxed to its utmost capacity.

The report of the committee appointed to bring in a recommendation regarding a new building will be presented.

COLLEGE CAPS AND GOWNS WORN BY CHURCH CHOIRS

The Murray Street Baptist Church has adopted an innovation, and what is better, a decided improvement, in connection with their choir—a uniform attire for both ladies and gentlemen composing it. This consists of neat black college gowns for both sexes with the addition, for the ladies, of the "mortar board" cap. On Sunday morning last the full choir appeared in this garb and the universal comment was favourable. To the eye of one not connected with the congregation, the appearance of the choir in their modest sober and even dignified attire suggested a seemliness and subdued effect more in keeping with the reverence which should be felt and expressed by a church choir in all their relations, than the usual inconsistent and varied forms of vanity that find expression in feminine head-gear.

Park St. Hockey Team Were Banquetted By The Ladies Of The Congregation Last Night

Very Enjoyable Event in which the Work of the Seven Was Recognized—Representatives of Other Teams Were Present.

The ladies of Park Street Baptist church last evening showed in a tangible way their appreciation of their hockey team by tendering them a complimentary banquet in the church hall, at which were also present a large number of the team's supporters and representatives from the Y.M.C.A., the Church League, and the other senior teams in the league. The ladies added another signal success to their already long list by the tempting spread they had prepared to satisfy the epicurean tastes of their guests. Near the close of part the first the voltage of the power company's lines dropped and the hall was left in semi-darkness, and in the interval, until the old, reliable kerosene-electric lamps could be procured, the assembly was favoured with a selection by the Orpheus Male Quartette.

During the second part of the programme the honorary president of the club, Rev. Mr. Riddiford, fulfilled the onerous duties of toastmaster, and his native humour was always evident in his comments on any subject. In his introductory remarks he expressed the pride he felt in being surrounded in his work by a group of young men, whom he found to be all-round good fellows, and who, by combining their energies, were building up a strong guild, which would prove a strong factor in carrying on the social and spiritual work of the church.

The toast to the King was enthusiastically honoured and was responded to by Mr. Green and Rev. Mr. Potter, who, in neat speeches, paid tribute to Edward VII., the great peacemaker, emperor of the greatest empire the world has known, and brought out in strong contrast his diplomatic and peace-loving qualities against the rash and impulsive nature of his fire-brand nephew, the Kaiser William.

"Canadian Athletes" was responded to by Mr. Hassard, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., who paid tribute to the Canadians who made such a great showing at the Olympic games, and at several of the great recent international meets. He was glad to see the churches entering into sports and believed the religious side of their work was thereby strengthened, and their action would result in making and keeping all sport clean. He congratulated Park Street A. C. on the good work they had thus accomplished and wished them continued success. Mr. E. N. McWilliams, the commended the club members for the good sportsmanship they had exhibited during the past season and for their enterprise in opening a rink in their section of the city.

The toast to St. Andrew's, the league champions, was replied to by Mr. Flanagan, while Messrs. Reid and Curtis responded to the toasts to Knox and George Street teams, respectively. Lastly, the toast to the ladies was honoured and replied to in a witty speech by the Rev. Mr. Riddiford, who, mindful of things painfully present, thought how mournful and drear would be the time should it ever hap' that their should be no ladies for us, pies and cakes and all to bake.

During the programme the Orpheus Quartette rendered several selections which were heartily supported.

A vote of thanks was tendered the ladies, the quartette and all who had helped make the event a success, and the evening was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem.

Y. W. C. A. Gymnasium Classes Gave Splendid Exhibition

Closing Exercises in the Collegiate Assembly Hall Last Evening Drew Large Audience—An Interesting and Entertaining Programme—Effective Training of Miss I. Coventry, Physical Instructress.

WAS A GREAT SUCCESS.

Again last evening as in years past, the young ladies and girls of the Y.W.C.A. were greeted with a large and appreciative audience on the occasion of their annual Gymnasium exhibition. It was held in the Assembly Hall of the Collegiate Institute and that spacious auditorium was filled with the friends of the classes who were loud in their applause of the programme presented. Miss I. Coventry, the physical instructress of the Young Women's Christian Association, directed the classes last evening and the precision of movement with which the different exercises were given was the result of effective training on her part and reflected great credit on her ability as a physical directress.

The various movements were carried out in perfect time, the skill and gracefulness of the young ladies being a feature of the programme, deserving of special mention. Not only did the seniors excel themselves but the intermediates and the juniors too, went through their drills to the hearty approval of all present.

The Programme

The programme which was exceedingly interesting from beginning to end was as follows:

PART ONE

Fancy March—Senior Class.
Sailor Drill—Junior Class.
Dumb-Bell Exercises—Boys' Class.
Hoop Fantasia—Intermediate Class.
Club-Swinging—Seniors.
Teddy Bear Frolic—Juniors.
Wand Exercises—Junior Class.
Flag-Drill—Boys' Class.
Dumb-Bell Swinging—Intermediates

PART TWO

Wooden-Doll Drill—Seniors.
Wand Exercises—Boys.
Sailor's-Horn-Pipe—Three Juniors.
Lantern March—Intermediates.
Vocal (Selected)—Mr. K. Shook.
The Jumping Jack—Master Ewart O'Shea
Dumb-Bell Exercises—Juniors.
Sword-Dance—Misses Jessie Cressman and Marguerite Sanderson.
Scarf-Drill—Seniors.

The programme was somewhat varied from the numbers given by the gymnasium classes, Mr. Kenneth Shook contributed a vocal solo most acceptably. He had to respond to an encore. The "Jumping Jack" dance by Master Ewart O'Shea was a feature of the evening. It was given in the costume of a Court Jester and so remarkably well that the audience insisted on bringing him back. Miss Jessie Cressman and Marguerite Sanderson danced the sword-dance, performing the difficult steps with ease and in perfect time.

Space will not permit any lengthy details on the drills and marches, suffice it to say that they were excellently given. Probably the most amusing numbers were the "Teddy Bear Frolic" by several tots and the "Wooden Doll Drill" by the seniors. In the former the juniors were attired to represent Teddy bears and with their laugh-provoking antics brought down the house. The "Wooden Doll" drill by the young ladies was somewhat of a novelty and an encore was demanded. Those present witnessed two exceedingly pretty spectacles in the presentation of the "Hoop Fantasia," and the "Lantern Drill."

A great deal of credit for the success of the affair is due to Miss M. R. Rannie, who was the accompanist for the evening. She played in perfect time, the marching of the classes being in unison with the music, and the adaptation of her selections could not have been improved upon.

During the evening, Misses Coventry and Rannie were the recipients of numerous presentations of flowers from the classes.

Those Who Took Part.

Seniors—Misses H. Currie, M. Currie, S. Garrett, J. Hawkey, H. Mendel, M. Morrison, M. Mainprize, M. Smith, Tate, Tracy, A. Udy, I Sanderson, M. Reid, and A. Florence.

Intermediates — Dorothy Dobbin, Marion Harstone, Kathleen Moore, Gladys Patterson, Leta Houston, Alberta Fowler, Hazel Austin, Corine Legrendre, Aileen Wade, Helen Lytle, Lillie Simpson, Edith Richardson, Elsie Mowat, Isabel Nesbitt, Eva Hartley, Maud Morris, Dorothy Hill and Gladys Fife.

Juniors—Esme Aylmer, Hilda Cubitt, Grace Patterson, Vera Stock, Phyliss Clementi, Alfreda Law, Lenore Lyle, Ada Lane, Bessie Mather, Betty Mowat, Gladys Mulholland, May Read, Edythe Kerr and G. McCarthy

Boys — Leon Webb Bob. Hayes, Max Kennedy, Jamie Pogue, Jack Davidson, H. Whitcroft, W. Kimberly, Herbert Young, Leonard Hall, Earl Tooley, Russell Pogue, Charlie Gardner, Dudley Pearson, Ewart O'Shea, Stanley O'Shea and Stanley Brown.

HOW FRED SIMPSON WAS RECEIVED BY LINOSAY PEOPLE

Fred Simpson was in Lindsay on Monday night, and the press comments are interesting.

The Warder remarks:—

Mr. Fred Simpson, Ojibway Indian, Marathon runner, vaudeville singer, church choir leader and so forth, was in town last night.

Fred sang "Rainbow" at a five-cent show last night, the first verse and the chorus — and sang it very well, too. He was in great shape last night, and evidently Tom Eck trains the redskin in music as well as long distance running.

"Give me a smile—once in a while," he carolled and the girls laughed.

Mr. Simpson, Esq., was dressed up for a fete. His linen was perfect, and his dusky face fairly shone. A very respectable looking chap is the runner when togged out for the stage.

Down at Hiawatha, where Simpson lives, his sublime gift of song comes in handy on Sundays, when he is precentor at the church. He is a respected member of the community, and in many ways is far different from his fellow redskin, the Hon. Thos. Longboat.

Simpson runs Wood in Brantford on Thursday and left this morning for Toronto.

The Lindsay Post says:—

A Post reporter called on the distinguished sprinter at the Simpson house. Fred was donning a dress suit when the scribe entered, but extended a warm handshake.

In answer to a question regarding his health, Mr. Simpson said he had been suffering from a severe cold and a large bottle of cod liver oil standing on the dresser was an evidence of the fact that the cold was still with him.

"I was in no shape to run Shrubb," he stated. "This cold has knocked me out, and I have done no training for some days."

Fred's manager wired him to report at Toronto to-day, so his appearance here this week will only be for one night.

The Ojibway was very much disappointed when he found out that he had forgotten to bring some music. However, he lost no time in preparing a song, and sang that catchy number "Rainbow" during the evening in a voice which showed considerable sweetness.

When asked his opinion regarding the Marathon Derby in New York on Saturday, Mr. Simpson stated that he would not be surprised to see Dorando win the race.

Fred Simpson has many friends in Lindsay, and in order to demonstrate his appreciation of the kindness extended him, he will forward a consignment of souvenirs which will be presented to the ladies visiting Wonderland on Thursday evening.

TO-DAY IN THE STOCK MARKET.

Furnished by J. N. Barber.—

New York, March 31.—Stocks recovered yesterday's loss right at the opening this morning, and then proceeded to make new high records in several instances, the most conspicuous of which was Southern Pacific, which sold the highest in its history. C.P.R. opened a point higher and then gained nearly two more. Erie was again in demand at higher prices, as were Reading, Atchison, Con. Gas, People's Gas and St. Paul. The tone of the market was good, and the easy absorption of the offerings yesterday afternoon did much to help bullish sentiment. The market shows no change from the last two weeks, and seems to be gradually working to higher levels.

OBITUARY

MARTIN WELSH

The death occurred early this morning at his late residence, River Road, Auburn, of Mr. Martin Welsh. The deceased had been ill for sometime. He was in his eighty-third year. He was very highly esteemed in the community and was for years a resident of this city.

Three sons and three daughters are left to mourn his loss. The daughters are Mrs. Leahy and Mrs. O'Heron, Auburn, and Mrs. Bowen, of Toronto. The sons are Messrs. Michael, of Campbellford and Martin, and Joseph, in the States.

The funeral will take place on Friday morning at nine o'clock from the family residence to St. Peter's Cathedral, and thence to the Roman Catholic cemetery.

Avoiding a Touch.

When it comes to a question of tact in treating a would-be "toucher," R. J. Fleming has all other diplomats and jolliers beaten a long way.

It was when R. J. was Mayor of Toronto that he was at the height of his popularity. Many were the callers at the City Hall who claimed either friendship or acquaintance with him, and most of them wanted some favor. Some, of course, wanted to make a touch, and as Mr. Fleming was not then quite as prosperous as he has since become, he decided that he could not lend all these friends all the money they wanted. So he hit on an ingenious plan.

Suppose John Smith, old friend, came in. The mayor would shake John's hand with his right and pat John's shoulder with left, greeting him most effusively. "Well, John, what can I do for you to-day?" he would ask.

John would murmur a request for the loan of $5.

"Good," would be the mayor's answer. "Come back here to-morrow morning at 9 o'clock. The $5 I keep for lending purposes is out just now, but is due to be returned at nine to-morrow. If it comes in then you'll be welcome to it, my friend."

What could John do but slip sheepishly out, and of course he could not summon up sufficient nerve to call next morning at nine.

Mr. Barnard's Mistake.

Mr. G. H. Barnard, the Conservative who defeated Hon. William Templeman in Victoria, B.C., told a good story on himself in the House of Commons the other night. When the estimates were brought down he noticed that they contained a vote of $150,000 for Victoria harbor, and to use his own words: "In the innocency of my guileless youth, and being unaccustomed to the wiles of political life I jumped to the conclusion that the vote was for Victoria, B.C., and on the strength of that assumption wired out forthwith to Victoria to inform the Inner Harbor Association that there was a vote of $150,000 for that harbor."

It was only a few days later that he learned that the vote was really for Victoria harbor on the Georgian Bay. Then when the matter was discussed in the House he had the audacity to ask that the Government should persuade the Canadian Pacific Railway Co. to change the name of their Georgian Bay port in order that it might not be confused with the port on the Pacific Ocean. His reply came promptly from a fellow Conservative, who sits near him (William Wright, of Muskoka) that Victoria harbor was one of the places of call of Samuel Champlain, and that it "was one of the oldest places in Canada, certainly much older than Victoria, B.C."

Peterboro Man Claims Estate.

A Peterboro man, Edgar Page, Gilmour street, lays claim as an heir to a portion of a celebrated estate in England, and one concerning which much has been said in despatches from England lately. It is the estate of the late Sir Henry Page of Bothwell, England, and is said to be worth $750,000,000. Sir Henry died in 1820 and since then many claims have been filed for a share of his enormous wealth and many acres.

Edward Page claims to be a direct descendant of Sir Henry Page, and thinks if his claim were established, and he is confident it could be, he would be heir to a considerable fortune. A short time ago a family in St. Thomas laid claim to a share of the estate, which was confirmed when their solicitor visited England. Through some legal process it would appear the settlement of claims in connection with the estate has been delayed for some time, but now the different claimants are getting consideration.

A Troublesome Mirror.

"Mamma," said Flossie, "this old looking glass isn't any good."

"Why, what's the matter with it, dear?" asked her mother.

"Every time I try to look in it," explained Flossie, "my face gets in the way."

CANADA'S FOREIGN RELATIONS IMPORTANT CURRENT ISSUE

>
> Our relation to Britain is nowhere set down in law.

Incidental to his lecture on "Canada's Foreign Relations," Professor Adam Shortt, of the Civil Service Commission, Ottawa, at the meeting of the Canadian Club last night dwelt briefly upon the present important issues which are the subject of so much discussion in the Empire and which are particularly stirring up considerable feeling in our own country. His object in referring to it, he stated, was to emphasize the importance of this great country of ours, recognizing its position to the other countries of the world. There was nothing in the present situation that was not known to all persons concerned for several months past. The most apprehensive feature is the fact that such an excitement can be created on such short notice and that it should become so widespread. It raised the issue as to the responsibility of some of the party organs in the Empire. A species of Yellow Journalism is creeping up and overwhelming leading organs which were previously without the taint of yellow tendencies. There seemed to be a decided effort to stampede the colonies, the United States and other countries. By their apparent calling "Wolf! Wolf!" they were trifling with the most sacred elements which go to make up this great nation of ours.

The Remedy

To counteract this influence there was needed a more intelligent understanding of the situation. The people would not then be dependent suddenly and without previous knowledge of what has been going on. it should be possible and it is possible for the leading men to keep themselves well informed on these matters in order to direct the great mass of the people who have not that opportunity. The reading of the papers referred to would, in themselves have furnished the antidote needed.

A Reasonable Comment

If one-tenth of the information were true Professor Shortt had seen among all the comment only one that was based on reason. It was to the effect that Britain should immediately go over and capture the whole German outfit. They have not a single vessel of the type spoken of and could not make a stand against England. In so doing they would paralyze Germany who would be unable to strike at England excepting its trade. It would be nothing short of insanity on the part of Germany should she wish to clash with England.

Taking for granted that Canada is a nation many have maintained for a long time that it was unpatriotic and disloyal to think of being a nation. It was Lord Milner who stated that the first duty of Canada was to develop a thoroughly national spirit and only as it develops that will it be able to take its part in the Empire.

Cannot Stand Alone

Professor Shortt went into the question of colonial development showing that Great Britain's policy had built up in its colonies parts of the Empire and not mere possesions. The people of the colonies were as truly Britishers as those at home, and it was due to Britain's system that although beginning much later than other countries she soon outstripped all the other colonizing countries. No country to-day endeavours to stand alone. If Canada were to become an independent organization, and she were looking around for some nation to connect with, how would she link up? There are only two possible connections. Either with the United States or Britain. With these two sections of the world she has most in common racially and in other forms. Everything points towards her linking with Britain and there is no possible reason for her breaking this connection with the home country.

Why should there be any question of what stand Canada should take if the Mother Country needed her assistance? Professor Shortt pointed out that her duty was as clear as that of a son whose father, mother or sister had been injured in any way. Our relations to Britain are nowhere set down in law. The link binding her with the colonies is undefined but must not be broken. Precedent and custom had established the bonds which link the Empire.

What was needed was an intelligent knowledge of our relations with the Mother Country. There is no panic among those men who count for much in England because they are acquainted with the situation and are not led away by rumour and "panicky" report. Canada should also have foreign representatives not to take an independent attitude from Britain's but to be associated with her, for it is impossible for Britain to understand the details of Canadian situations. In this way the parts of the Empire would be linked together on a basis that would avoid friction.

A vote of thanks was passed to Professor Shortt on motion of Messrs. R. E. Wood and D. Hughes Charles. Mr. O'Connell on behalf of the club conveyed it in a pointed though brief speech.

On motion of Dr. M. A. Morrison, seconded by Mr. R. E. McWilliams, the following committee was appointed to nominate the officers for next year: Messrs. F. D. Kerr, A. Mowat, W. R. Morris, L. M. Hayes and A. Montizambert.

Professor Shortt remarked that he had delivered the address at the club's first meeting and he was the last speaker for this year. There is still another meeting but no outside speaker will be present. As on former occasions the service for the luncheon which was held as usual at the National Hotel was most satisfactory.

SENSATIONAL SUIT SALE THIS MORNING AT CRESSMAN'S

Crowds Block the Sidewalk—Printers' Ink and Cut Prices Irresistible.

The salesladies in Cressman's annex had their hands full at an early hour this morning. The announcement made by the press that a lot of sample wash suits, ranging in price from $2.50 to $7.00, would be sold for 98c each at 7.30 o'clock this morning, brought out a surprisingly large crowd of ladies. At 7 o'clock and before the store opened the crowd began to arrive, and continued to increase until the sidewalk became thickly blocked with eager shoppers. As soon as the doors were opened the throng of eager, matutinal bargain seekers made a determined rush and filled the store. Simultaneously the salesladies "got down to their knitting," and in less than seven minutes, it is said, one hundred and fifty suits had been parcelled up, and a similar number of happy buyers sent away, struggling to get back out of the store. At least twenty-five telephoned orders had also been received, but had to be declined, because of the rule of the firm that neither telephone orders nor orders from their own employees could be recognized. So much for good, live advertising in The Examiner.

THE AMERICAN DERBY AND SOME DOPE ON THE CONTESTANTS

The talk of the sporting world just now is the big American Derby at the Polo Grounds, New York, on Saturday, in which the contestants will be Henry St. Yves, of France; A. Shrubb, of England; Tom Longboat, of Canada; Dorando, of Italy; Johnny Hayes and Mat Maloney, of the United States. Dorando seems to be the favourite, even Shrubb calling on the son of Italy to bring home the bacon. The Capri bun maker is always fit, and just now seems to be in the pink of condition. There is just this about it, however, that Shrubb and Dorando, both of whom want to run their races out in front, may kill each other off in the preliminary stages of the race, leav- the honours to the slower men who content themselves with an even pace all the way. And here Tom Longboat can't be overlooked. It is said that the Indian is not in shape, but the same story was told before other races in which he won handily, and the Redskin may repeat the performance. St. Yves is the dark horse, and all the cracks seem a little worried over what the Frenchman is liable to do. He has some wonderful performances to his credit, and doesn't seem lacking in stamina as well as speed, for his last race was a win over a road covered with slush and mud, and on a bitterly cold day. It is not thought that Maloney, good as he undoubtedly is, will be in the running, as it is figured that he has not got the head to successfully figure out the possibilities of such a field, while Hayes is not taken seriously, his two defeats at the hands of Dorando having put him in the hasbeen class as far as the public is concerned.

THE STANDING FIELD CROP COMPETITION FOR FARMERS

The following circular issued by the Ontario Department of Agriculture will be of much interest to the progressive farmers of this as well as every other section of the province. Agricultural Societies are required to offer each not less than $50 in prizes, of which sum the Department of Agriculture will contribute $30.00. The following "rules and regulations" will give the necessary information to proposing competitors:

Having in view the excellent results obtained in 1907 and 1908 in stimulating a greater interest in the production of better seed grain, Agricultural Societies will again be assisted in the holding of competitions in standing field crops during 1909 under the following regulations:

Competitions will be limited to one crop, to be selected by the society, which should be the one of most importance to the farmers of the district. Entries for competition must consist of not less than five acres, and when beans and potaoes are entered, the minimum plot must not be less than one acre.

Selection must be made from the following crops, viz., Spring, Fall or Goose Wheat, oats, barley, rye, corn, peas, alsike clover, red clover, potatoes, beans or any other staple crop produced for seed in Ontario.

Competitions shall be limited to members of an agricultural society, and the fields entered must not be more than fifteen miles from its headquarters. Competitors shall be allowed to make entry in only one society and but one entry can be made by each competitor.

Societies desiring to enter this competition must notify the Superintendent not later than the First Day of May, and must make not less than ten entries nor more than twenty-five.

All individual entries must be forworded by the secretaries of the societies to J. Lockie Wilson, Superintendent of Agricultural Societies, Parliament Buildings, Toronto, before the First of June, 1909.

Societies may, if thought advisable, charge competitors an entry fee of not more than one dollar.

An amount of not less than $50 must be offered in prizes by each society, to be divided as follows: $15, $12, $10, $8, and $5. Of the above amount the Ontario Department of Agriculture will contribute $30. The balance is to be contributed by the society, and this $20 can be counted as expenditure for agricultural purposes in the yearly financitl statement.

The Ontario Department of Agriculture will furnish expert judges free of charge.

Large prizes will be offered by the Department for two bushel sacks of grain at both Guelph and Ottawa Winter Fairs, the competition for which will be confined to prize-winners in the Standing Field Crop Competitions. Full particulars will be furnished later to the prize winners.

In addition to the above, arrangements have been made with the Directors of the Canadian National Exhibition, to be held in Toronto August 28th to September 3th, to donate $240 in prizes for a sheaf exhibit of grain from the fields, the owners of which were awarded prizes in the Standing Field Crop Competitions. For this Sheaf Exhibit the Province has ben divided into three districts and prizes amounting to $80.00 will be awarded to competitors in each of the three divisions mentioned below for the following kinds of grain:

	Wheat	Oats	Barley	Rye
First prize ..	$6	$6	$6	$6
Second prize .	5	5	5	5
Third prize. ...	4	4	4	4
Fourth prize ..	3	3	3	3
Fifth prize	2	2	2	2

Division 1. Includes Muskoka, Parry Sound, Haliburton, Nipissing, Manitoulin, Algoma, and other districts in New Ontario.

Division 2. All counties east of York and Simcoe.

Division 3. York, Simcoe, and all counties west and south-west of same.

Each sheaf entered must contain not less than ,000 stems and must not be boxed and shipped C.O.D. to the Superintendent of Agricultural Products, Exhibition Park, Toronto, not later than August 20th. All entries for this exhibit must be made to J. Lockie Wilson, Parliament Buildings, Toronto, before August 2nd, 1909.

RUNNING.

Now that Tommy Longboat has gone to New York with Big Tim O'Rourke, Bill Davis and Mrs. Longboat to look after him, and Tom Flanagan the irrepressible leaves to-night, the interest in the big $10,000 Marathon is getting keen around here.

Two bookmakers who are laying prices on the race are reported to have five thousand dollars in wagers between them on the race.

"I have a thousand dollars alone in Dorando money, and it's not all from Italian gold belts," said one layer yesterday. "The Englishmen are laying strong on Shrubb, while St. Yves has a good following. Longboat is only being nibbled at, while Maloney and Hayes are rank outsiders."

The betting accurately sets forth public opinion in Toronto. There are a whole lot of people in Toronto who say that there will be nothing to the race but the Indian, but they will not wager anything on it. They all admit that the Indian cannot be in the pink for the big race, but say that he has done enough to make him good enough to beat the field. They count on the Onondaga's stamina to carry him through.

Tim O'Rourke, who sticks to the Indian in all this muss, said Sunday before he boarded the train, "Now I have kept my mouth shut about this thing, but take it from me, Longboat will win."

Flanagan Laughs

Tom Flanagan thinks Alfie Shrubb's crack about what he will do if Flanagan appears on the track at the polo grounds is a scream.

Shrubb says he will have Flanagan thrown out of the grounds if he appears on the track, and says he will stop the race if Flanagan goes roaming around interfering.

"He'll have me thrown out of the grounds, will he," quoth Flanagan today, "well I wager I stay there longer than he does if it comes to an issue, and you can tell Shrubb for me that if I see that I can be of any assistance to Tom Longboat in this race, I will be right out on the track. Shrubb's crack about interference in the race in New York is ill-advised. He said right after the New York race that he had no complaint to make about me or those Canadians who helped me encourage him when he falted at Madison Square Garden. He said plainly we had not interfered with him in any way."

Postponed.

The At Home, which was to have been held by the Ladies' Aid of St. Andrew's church on Friday night, has been postponed until next week.

GENTLEMEN WHO ARE BALD.

It is not often an opportunity occurs at your door to see the latest Parisian and New York styles in Hair Goods, yet such is the case, as Prof. Dorenwend of Toronto, is visiting this town, and invites your inspection of these goods at his private apartments reserved at the Hotel.

These Hair Goods styles, when properly adjusted protect and ornament the head, soften and beautify the expression of the face, and consequently tone up an aged appearance. Be sure and see them at Oriental Hotel, Peterborough, on Wednesday, April 7th.

Grabbed and Held On.

A teacher in one of the schools of Berlin has given to the papers of that city a composition written by one of the pupils in his school on the subject "The Kaiser," in the course of which the young author says: "Prince Wilhelm was born on the kaiser's birthday. From the dome of the castle 101 salute shots were fired. The old grandfather and old Wrangel hopped into a cab and went to the schloss, and old Wrangel said, 'The boy is all right,' and the father made a bow from the balcony, and it was awful cold. And when the boy was baptized his father held his watch in front of the little fellow's nose, and he grabbed it and never let go again because he is a Hohenzollern."

The Caspian Sea Puzzle.

No one can tell what is happening in the Caspian sea. For years past its waters have been falling, and it has been supposed that the great inland sea was gradually drying up. Recent soundings revealed the astonishing fact that the Caspian is at present actually deeper than it was a century ago. There is only one possible hypothesis. The bottom of the sea must be dropping out.

ELGIN AS DIPLOMAT.

How Governor-General Walked Into Hearts of Americans.

Perhaps no treaty between these countries, certainly no commercial treaty, was more important or caused more discussion, both when it was entered into and after it was abrogated, than the reciprocity treaty negotiated on behalf of Canada by Lord Elgin, who, like the Earl of Dufferin, will always be remembered as one of the ablest statesmen who ever presided over the Government of this country.

A British lord then, as now, was an object of deep interest to Washington society, and Lord Elgin was soon launched upon the current of that swift and troubled stream. Upon being informed that the chief obstacle to the passing of the treaty was the Democratic majority in the Senate, he set himself to work to diplomatically overcome that hostile party. "He entered upon a round of festivity, seemingly careless, but always directed towards a definite end." Elgin's attractive and clever secretary was Mr. Lawrence Oliphant, a rising young writer and diplomatist. One day the secretary, wearied with a round of lunches, dinners and receptions, remarked innocently:

"I find most of my intimate friends are Democratic Senators."

"So do I," said Lord Elgin dryly. The fact was that Elgin had captivated the Senators by his social qualities, and his capacity for repartee and racy anecdote.

"He sat long at table with his new friends," writes Prof. Wrong, in his charming life of Lord Elgin, "and, if we may believe Oliphant, they drank vast quantities of liquor; at one feast there was a vessel of champagne on the table in which 'you might have drowned a baby,' and Lord Elgin, who abhorred even smoking, seemed to hold his own at these feasts; seemed, for his watchful secretary thought that he really drank, not more than one glass during a whole evening." To show how rapidly Lord Elgin made his way into the confidence of his new friends, Prof. Wrong tells of his accompanying a party of revellers at midnight to a popular Senator's house. The Senator had gone to bed, but he was routed out, coming to the door wearing only a night-shirt. "All right, boys," he said to the Governor-General of Canada and his companions, "you go in and I will go down and get the drink." The "boys" went in and soon their host reappeared, still in his night-shirt, with his arms full of bottles of champagne, on top of which were two large lumps of ice.

Several American writers charged that Lord Elgin floated the treaty through on champagne, but for these opinions the sole basis is Oliphant's narrative. He was the author of satirical novels, and through his account of that famous treaty-making is a vein of satire and humorous fiction. He described Washington—that was in 1854—as "a howling wilderness of deserted streets running out into the country and ending nowhere, its population consisting of politicians and negroes."

Ten days after his arrival Lord Elgin told Mr. Marcy, the United States Secretary of State, that the Democratic majority in the Senate was favorable to the proposed treaty; and sure enough it passed.

Late at night in a dimly-lighted, spacious room Lord Elgin and Mr. Marcy, each with a secretary, met to sign the momentous document. It was read aloud by Lord Elgin, and checked by the secretaries. The satirical Oliphant describes the scene—"the aged Mr. Marcy listens, while he picks his teeth with a pair of scissors, or cleans out the wick of a candle with their points, which he afterwards wipes on his grey hair."

A few minutes past midnight the signatures were affixed, and, adds Oliphant: "There is something strangely mysterious and suggestive in the scratching of that midnight pen, for it may be scratching fortune or ruin to toiling millions."

In 1866 the treaty came to an end, and the danger brought about by the abrogation to Canada's position as a British possession was one of the rallying cries for Confederation. "I am in favor of a union of these provinces," said George Brown, in a speech delivered at the time, "because it will enable us to meet without alarm the abrogation of the American Reciprocity Treaty."

Too Much For Him.

She looked up at him.

"You love me, George," she said. "You have told me you would do anything to prove your love."

"Anything, dearest," he fervently murmured.

Her steady gaze did not waver.

"My new suit from Paris has come," she said, "together with my new hat and my new puffs. I will array myself in these, and you will walk down the avenue with me tomorrow afternoon."

He turned pale and hesitated.

"This is the acid test of love," she coldly added.

He mutely shook his head as he arose.

"I can't do it," he hoarsely gasped and went away deeply sorrowing.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Stiff One.

It was raining outside, and little interrogative Irma was in one of her worst or at least most trying moods. Father, busily writing at his desk, had already reproved her several times for bothering him with useless questions.

"I say, pa, what"—

"Ask your mother!"

"Honest, pa, this isn't a silly one this time."

"All right this once. What is it?"

"Well, if the end of the world was to come and the earth was destroyed while a man was up in an airship, where would he land when he came down?"—Everybody's Magazine.

No Cause For Uneasiness.

"I want you," said the penurious head of the firm to his confidential secretary, "to look into the case of young Robinson. We are paying him $17 a week, and he is living in finer style than I am."

"I don't think it will be necessary to do any investigating on that account. I can explain it at once. He is a young man of fairly good tastes."—Smart Set.

THE EGYPTIANS' SECRET

The Egyptians of Pharoah's time were a wonderful people. The pyramids for instance, put our modern buildings to shame. Where such huge blocks of stone were carved—how they were moved and put in place—are mysteries to modern minds.

The Egyptians were skilled physicians, too. We know that they used fruit juices in treating many diseases. Some years ago, a physician in Ottawa discovered a method of combining the juices of apples, oranges, figs and prunes, by which the most remarkable results have been obtained.

Whether "Fruit-a-tives" (these combined fruit juices in tablet form) are a re-discovery of the prescriptions of the ancient Egyptians, will probably never be known.

Certainly, the ancients never had a more effective remedy than "Fruit-a-tives" for all Stomach, Liver, Kidney and Bowel Troubles. "Fruit-a-tives" are sold by dealers at 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, or trial box, 25c—or sent postpaid on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

HE IS GOING TO LIVE IN CALGARY

Mr. J. E. Crough, Well Known Local Athlete, Leaves on Saturday.

Mr. J. E. Crough leaves on Saturday morning for Calgary, stopping a few days en route at Toronto. In his departure Peterborough loses one of her best known and most clever athletes. Jack, as he is familiarly known, has been a member of many Peterborough rugby, association football and hockey teams, and his going will leave a gap that will be hard to fill, especially on next fall's rugby team, where he was counted upon to be one of the stars. He will be an acquisition to some of the western teams.

WAGGON SANK IN ROAD ON HUNTER STREET

A heavy waggon load of grain got stuck in the road on Hunter street, near Queen street, this morning. The road was not any too solid where excavation had been made for a sewer and when the heavy waggon, with its load, drove over it, one of the rear whels sank above the axle. Two teams were unable to draw it out, and it was left standing there until further assistance could be procured.

MONTREAL GIRL HAS VERY STANGE STORY OF HAVING BEEN ROBBED

Examiner Special.

Montreal, March 31—Miss D'Amour, cashier for Wilder's down town branch, was last night seized on Beaver Hall Hill by two ruffians while on her way to deposit the day's receipts at the main office on St. Catherine street.

One of her rubbers having come off, Miss D'Amour stopped to replace it. The men seized her and bundled her into a cab, where a covering was placed over her head and her cries stifled. She was taken to back of the fountain near the cemetery gate, where the robbers relieved her of $148 which she had placed in her stocking. Having obtained the money the brigands then started to drive to the city. On approaching the outskirts Miss D'Amour screamed with the object of attracting attention from passers by. Upon this her captors opened the door and threw her out of the swiftly moving vehicle. In falling out Miss D'Amour succeeded in grabbing about $40 from the hands of the men. She was found by a resident of Mance street at the corner of Mount Royal. The girl had lost consciousness at the house of her rescuer, and it was about an hour before she could speak.

Miss D'Amour was attacked in Wilder's store and after being knocked unconscious robbed of $180 of the [illegible] several weeks ago by an [illegible]. She states that though she does not know the men she is certain one was her former assailant.

CENTRAL MILLING COMPANY TO DOUBLE THE PRESENT CAPACITY OF THEIR MILL

Directors Met Yesterday and Declared 8 Per Cent. Dividend for Past Year—To Turn Out 400 Barrels of Flour Per Day.

WAS A SPLENDID YEAR.

The present capacity of the Central Milling Company's mill, which is two hundred barrels of flour per day, is to be doubled within the next few months. Such was the decision reached at a meeting of the directors held in the office of the mill yesterday. The president, Mr. John Stoddart was in the chair and the following directors were present: Messrs. David Carlow, Belleville; J. Murty, W. Fisher, J. Hall, P. Dawson, and Armstrong.

The past year has been one of the most successful since organization and encouraging reports will be presented at the annual meeting which will be held in the course of a few weeks. The directors decided to declare an eight per cent. dividend to shareholders this year.

The increasing of the capacity of the mill will not necessitate the enlarging of the building but the installation of new machinery. This will be done during the summer months, the mill having likely to close down for a month while the new machines are being placed in position. The business of the Central Milling Co. has assumed enormous proportions of late, the flours manufactured in their mill becoming of wide reputation.

HAS COUNT ZEPPELIN PERISHED IN THE AIR?

Examiner Special (2.45 p. m.)

Berlin, April 1.—The gravest fears are entertained to-day for the safety of Count Zeppelin and fourteen others, who are his guests aboard his new airship in which the party attempted to make a flight from Friedsrichaven to Munich. The ascent was made at sunrise. Owing to the fierce gale that sprang up shortly after the flight was begun the idea of landing at Munich was abandoned, the wind driving the airship out of the contemplated course. The ship when last seen was drifting before the wind in apparently unmanageable condition.

Six Campers On The River This Side Of Campbelltown

A few days ago an article appeared in one of these columns stating that two young men had gone down the river in a canoe. That afternoon a real genuine snowstorm blew up like a southern simoom. It was learned to-day that there are no less than six men camping on the river between here and Campbelltown. They are not living out in this airy style suggestive of July for the mere pleasure there is attached to it but for rat catching purposes. The muskrat season has now opened and one tent is located at Piney Plains, others near Hales Bridge, Oak Orchard, Devil's Elbow, above Campbelltown and at this latter point. It is learned that they have not had much luck of late owing to the ice in the creeks being yet unbroken. The river is open practically to the lake. Wild black ducks and widgeons are very plentiful, being much more numerous than in the autumn. From now until the warm weather sets in these birds are plentiful along the river. The atmospheric conditions have not been what might be considered the most suitable, snow and wind having been prominent of late.

Electric Lighting Of Market Clock Nearer Materialization

Alderman McIntyre is trying to have the market clock illuminated and within a month his proposal will be considered by the Property Committee of which he is a member. He brought the question up at last night's meeting but the committee are not sure yet of the amount of money they are going to have at their disposal for side issues. Alderman McIntyre had a communication from Messrs. Alexander and Miller offering to put three hood reflectors on each dial at a cost of $75.00. When complete the cost per annum for each lamp would be three dollars. There was some doubt expressed among the members as to whether the clock if lighted in this manner will be able to be clearly seen at night. Some expressed the belief that it would not be discernible at more than a few blocks. However, an attempt will likely be made. Alderman McIntyre agreed to chairman Bradburn's suggestion to leave the matter for one month.

Scarlet Fever Epidemic Is Reported Still Unabated

If there is one thing for which many people of this city feel truly grateful it is that Peterborough has escaped the epidemic of smallpox which for months past has been raging in towns and villages on nearly all sides and particularly to the south.

However, while smallpox has not scourged the place there is scarlet fever raging with apparently unabated flame. During March there were 24 cases of fever reported and since January the average has been ranging around that figure. Letters have been written by citizens calling for stricter measures in quarantining houses. The Board of Health "discussed the question" and yet there does not seem to have been much improvement in the situation.

DEPARTMENTAL HOUSE CLEANING.

The Liberal Government is evidently in earnest in procuring civil service reform in its widest sense. It not only provides for the elision of the political element in the matter of appointments, but in its actions warns civil servants that they must give honest service. The Department of Marine and Fisheries was found, on investigation procured by the Government, to have certain officials, who, not content with their reasonably liberal salaries, prostituted their position to personal gain, of course at the expense of the general interest. After thorough investigation, which fixed the responsibility there has been dismissal of the offending officials, the heads lopped off including those in all positions from the highest to the lowest in the department. Hon. Mr. Brodeur is in good time with his departmental housecleaning.

Canada's shipping in 1908 totalled 90 million tons, of which 19 millions was sea-going and 71 millions coasting and inland tonnage.

IMPERIALISTIC BUNCOMBE.

With characteristic obtrusive "loyalty" some of our Canadian naval jingoes are agitating for thrusting a Dreadnought upon the Mother Country. The first Lord of the British Admiralty said in his place in Parliment only a few days ago: "We don't require any more ships at present," and perhaps he knows as much of the situation as the aforementioned jingoes. The Mother Country is sensitive as to any, even implied, admission of a suggestion that her own strength is lessening and that she needs help. In commenting upon New Zealand's splendid offer of a Dreadnought, the London Times, which expresses the solidest and best-informed British public opinion, says, "Britain is prepared to maintain her supremacy in the quarter challenged OF HER OWN STRENGTH ALONE." The Times forecast, as the proper action, the action which Canada actually took on Monday. In the same article it says: "The best use to which the welcome naval co-operations now offered by the Dominions can be applied is towards strengthening the defences, each in its own quarter. World co-operation in that matter will prove the truest form of co-operation in the end." There is something sane and reasonable in this and it contrasts strongly with the demand of some enthusiastic "Imperialists," who, displeased with the unanimous action of the Dominion Parliament, are demanding that the provinces take the matter in hand, and build a string of Dreadnoughts for presentation to Great Britain. The Dominion Parliament dealt with the question in an entirely unpartizan manner, but the jingoes are attempting to give the Conservative party the credit, as it has long falsely claimed, of all the loyalty extant. The despatches say that the provinces under Conservative control, British Columbia, Manitoba, Ontario and New Brunswick are to club to present a Dreadnought or Dreadnoughts to Great Britain. The buncombe in this proposal lies in part in the fact that the provinces have no more constitutional power to build British ships than they have to build a wharf in New Zealand. The jingoes only want a chance to talk. If we were in the days of wind-wafted war ships, they could furnish the propelling force in abundance. Canada has taken the sane, the dignified and the proper attitude, in providing, as the London Times says "the truest form of co-operation," "the strengthening of its own defences."

A Dreadnought costs between ten and fifteen million dollars, and the battleship of the most modern type to-day may only be fit for the scrap heap to-morrow.

THE FRUITS OF FAITH

The Examiner has upon its desk a copy of the first issue of "The Cobalt Citizen"—a veritable "voice crying for the wilderness, to make the paths stranght" for the first cry of the "Citizen" is a demand for railway extension. The "Citizen" is not only a type of a good six column eight page paper well printed, and well written, but a type of progress, of the fruits of faith and of enterprise, and of rapidity of developments. The "Citizen" is published in the centre of the greatest silver mining district in the world. A few years ago this was what Sir James Whitney, when in opposition sneeringly dubbed "the land of the stunted poplar," thereby meaning that it was worthless. But the Ross Government saw more deeply into the wilderness and caused the northern country to be explored and built the first provincially owned railway in the Dominion, with results such as we see to-day and or which The Cobalt Citizen is the clarion-voiced expression, the embodiment of a grand story of growth. This growth to continue must have more railways. "Jed," Mr. W. A. Roebuck, formerly of the Toronto Star, who writes the first page of the "Citizen," printed in wide column measure, a la Saturday Night, and similarly well written, has a strong article on the necessity of building feeders for the Temiscamingue and Northern railway, in order to secure the fuller measure of development possible in view of existing conditions. Transportation is as essentially co-related to progress and growth as the axe is to the felled tree. In this truth lies the justification of the Canadian Pacific Railway, the Canadian Northern Railway, the Temiscamingue and Northern Railway and the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway. Faith united with action brings great results.

Canada's output of silver in 1908 was $9,125,909, of which the greater bulk was supplied by the Cobalt district.

THE CANADIAN CLUB.

The Vancouver World says that "Adapting an admirable idea whoch has been followed with great success by many Clubs throughout the Dominion, the Canadian Club of Vancouver has issued a publication containing an account of the proceedings of the Club from the date of its inception in August, 1906, to the close of the year 1908. Apart altogether from the appeal which it naturally makes to members of the Club, and valuable as it is as an historical document dealing with the early days of a Club the membership of which now exceeds 680, the publication is a collection in handy form of memorable utterances by distinguished men on subjects of current interest, and importance, most of which are of permanent value. The addresses which find place in the publication range from the eloquent utterances of the Governor-General at the inaugural luncheon on Christmas Day, 1906, on "Vancouver in Its Relation to the Destiny of Canada," to the entertaining talk of Mr. Alleyne Ireland, in November last, on "Ruling Races and the North." This book will be supplied free of charge to all members in good standing, and extra copies may be had at a cost of twenty-five cents by applying to the secretary, Mr. D. Von Cramer." This course, if followed by all Canadian Clubs, would result in a valuable addition to the literature of the country, and would be a record of the opinions of the prominent men of Canada, whose addresses reflect current opinion of the best informed character, upon events which constitute the material out of which history is made. An interchange of these records would provide each Canadian Club with a library whose value could hardly be estimated, in giving permanency to addresses which, without such a record, will be mere matters of memory.

LONDON'S VASTNESS.

What may be described as an interesting attempt to bring London's vastness within the limits of comprehension was made by Mr. George J. Head in a lecture delivered at the Surveyor's Institute on "Giant London." The lecturer opened with a few digestible facts, such as that the Administrative County of London is 117 square miles in area, that it contains 2,134 miles of streets, 623,591 houses, sheltering five million souls, and 329 railway stations. Tracing the growth of the great metrpolis he said the period of most rapid development was immediately succeeding the Napoleonic wars. The growth in value was no less extraordinary than the growth in bulk. He gave some amusing examples of this. A piece of land in St. Clement Danes rented by the Corporation of London for six horseshoes was now worth $15 or $20 a square foot. Between 1860 and 1900 the price of freehold land near the Bank of England rose from $75 to $350 per square foot. In Old Broad street a property let at $1,500 per annum 63 years ago was now worth $15,000. The rateable value of the City of London had risen from $60,000 a year in 1339 to $26,866,370 in 1907.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY.

There is nothing vain in striving to look as well as possible. We aim to beautify our homes and the grounds surrounding them. If we own horses or other live stock we do not stint in grooming or in feeding—we do all that tends to improve their health and apeparance. We cultivate flowers for their beauty—why should we not cultivate ourselves, our bodies as well as our brains? There are many to look at us, you know.

The first requisite of good looks is health. There must be no pallor, no dullness of eye and no circles or bags beneath the eyes. The skin may be freckled, but it can and should be clear and fine. Good health and proper care will insure that. Bright eyes are attractive, regardless of colour, and dark circles or puffiness about the prettiest pair of eyes ever set in human head make them as unattractive as ugly orbs. The signs of bad health are unmistakable—and far from attractive. Given a clean, clear skin, bright eyes and well-cared-for teeth, and features may be passed over, always provided that they are not abnormal. Even then it is sometimes possible to tone them down by accentuating good features.

Fresh air is the best medicine to be found, and it is a pity that circumstances do not permit everybody to make free use of it every hour in the day. But there are badly ventilated business places in which so many women have to earn a living, and stuffy cars in which we must all ride if we wish to get about. A few fortunate ones have private conveyances, but they can be counted on account of smallness of numbers. Our homes can be ventilated to suit us, however, and it is possible for all of us to get a little of the outdoor freshness each day.

Trolley cars are altogether too convenient—they tempt one to ride distances which can easily be covered on foot. Only the occasional woman has the courage to walk whn she can, even curtailing her right to transportation over long distances by finishing her journey on foot. There is in Ottawa a business man who pines for exercise and seizes every opportunity to walk. He is a regular theatre patron and has easily persuaded his wife to fall into the habit of leaving the car some blocks away form the playhouse. He declares that he enjoys the performance better after a liberal dose of fresh air. This is the same man who once bought a dog that needed a good deal of exercise and got it, with the man as a companion. While he kept to that habit he was as near perfect health as modern life permits.—Ottawa Free Press.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Germany used the "mailed fist" in dealing with the Servian trouble, Premier Asquith had to confront the femaled fist—the Suffragettes assail him with fists and umbrellas.

Some London Aldermen are to be "invetigated" in connection with something peculiar in connection with contracts for the isolation hospital in that city. Our own aldermen have adopted an easy way of avoiding any such charges.

To read the columns of warlike messages from Mayors of half the towns in Ontario, our own Mayor Lang included, shouting the conviction that Canada should at once beat her ploughshares and pruning hooks into battle axes and plunge into the turmoil of old world quarrels, one cannot but be struck with the idea that the most effective possible way to back up Britain and overawe Germany would be to organize a new regiment of Mayors only and dispatch it at once to England. A thousand worships pumping out sulphurous fumes on the chalk hills of Dover would be much more terrible than one warship on the troubled waters below.—"Jed" in Cobalt Citizen.

A POPULAR LAMENT.

Where Would Society Be If One Was Judged for the Sins of Others.

"Oh, I tried one of those hair tonics sometime ago and it never did me a bit of good."

That's what many people are saying to-day when they refuse Herpicide a trial.

It would be as sensible to say "I never travel on a railroad because I read see collisions mentioned in the papers."

Newbro's Herpicide is specially made to destroy the germ that is living on the roots of your hair.

That is why it is so exceedingly efficacious—it is there for the sole purpose of ridding the hair of this parasitic growth, after which the hair grows as nature intended.

Sold by leading druggists. Send 10 cents in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

For sale by McDermid and Jury, druggists; also Payn's Drug Store. One dollar bottles guarnateed.

CATCHY PINOL WINDOW AT WARNE'S DRUG STORE

Suggestive Window Dressing Attracts—Original Ideas Well Demonstrated.

In the window of Warne's Drug store may be seen a very effective advertisement for Pinol Expectorant, which has attracted scores of passers by. In the dressing of the window, pine trees fresh from the woods are shown, the trees being tapped and the gum oozing therefrom. The floor of the window is covered with pine saw dust and leaves to give a forest effect. In one corner is a tripod with three irregular sticks, from which are suspended an old iron pot in which is being boiled the twigs and needle branches of the pine trees. Just peeping into view above the view of the pot is a bottle of the finished product. A bulletin at the back of the window informs the public that Nyal's Pinol will stop that hacking cough, etc. The effect, which is well carried out, is the handiwork of Mr. S. N. Ridley, in charge of the prescription department of the store, who stands a good chance for the $25 prize offered by the Pinol Company for the most effective window trim of their preparation.

A FOOL LETTER

A popular young club man, also prominently connected with an uptown business establishment, received the following missive this morning, the full import of which he realized only after several very careful perusals:

Vingt-trois, April 1st, '09.

Dear Sir,—Having recently been informed as to your whereabouts, and having in memory your many acts of kindness and consideration towards others, and knowing your insatiable desire for the perception of truth, and the erudition of the savant, it has come to me that the right and proper thing for to do is to strive to fulfil the Golden Rule, and to do to you as I am certain you would do to me, were I in a like predicament, at the same time assuring you of my unmitigated felicity in affording you the satisfaction, which you may derive from being made acquainted with the startling and probably to you, humiliating fact, the discovery of which was made long ago, but which I now desire to bring before your notice, namely: that this is the first day of April in the year nineteen hundred and nine.

Trusting that you will believe me dear sir, to be now, and always, yours indispensably, for the suppression of verbosity in men.

URSTUNG AGAIN.

Mount Everest of the Hamalayas is the highest mountain peak in the world, being over 29,000 feet high. The 18,000,000 packets representing one year's output of "Salada" Tea would, if placed end to end, produce a pyramid 5,000,000 feet in height, or 193 times higher than the highest mountain in the world. Can you grasp the magnitude of the demand for "Salada" Tea? 131

MICHAEL ANGELO IN THE SISTINE CHAPEL

Illustrated Lecture by Prof. Young of Trinity University in Y.W.C.A. Hall Friday Night.

We anticipate a treat in the stereopticon lecture to be given to-morrow evening by Prof. A. H. Young, of Trinity University. His subject is "The Paintings of Michael Angelo in the Sistine Chapel," and the lecture will be illustrated by unusually fine slides. The story of the artist's life is mast interesting. Unable to obtain financial aid the young artist sculptor, with tireless energy, chiselled with his own hand from the quarry the materials for his work. Professor Young will give a short account of the artist's life before showing the many beautiful pictures, including the wonderful picture of the Last Judgment. The public are invited.

On account of this lecture the regular Friday evening Bible Class will not be held.

The Junior Sunshine Club will meet on Saturday afternoon from 2 to 4.

Press Association Thanks The Council And Publishers Of Peterboro' For Reception

It is evident that the members of the Canadian Press Association, who visited Peterborough last Saturday were pleased with the reception that was tendered them on that occasion. While here many of the members expressed themselves as being delighted with the visit and a more formal expression of their thanks and pleasure has been received from the Association in the shape of the following resolution:

"By resolution of the Executive of the Canadian Press Association unanimously adopted at a meeting while returning from Peterborough, I am instructed to express to you and to the members of the Peterborough Press Club the sincere appreciation of our organization of the hospitality which you accorded us on the occasion of our visit to your city on Saturday last. The programme which you had planned for our entertainment proved a most enjoyable one, and the unanimous verdict of the party was that the Press Club of Peterborough are all "Jolly Good Fellows."

Very truly yours,
J. R. BONE,
Sec.-Treas.

The local publishers did everything in their power to see that the visitors had a good time and they are pleased that such has evidently been the result of their efforts. However, a large share of the credit for the success of the reception is due to Mayor Rush, Ald, Turner, the Chairman of the Reception Committee, and the other members of the Council, who threw themselves into the work of entertaining the visitors with a whole-souled vim that left no doubt as to the result. To Mr. E. G. Patterson of the Canadian General Electric Works, Messrs. Bruce Fowler and Torrance Jack, of the Canadian Cordage Company, and to Mr. W. H. Denham and assistants, of the Quaker Oats Company are also due the thanks of the publishers for their kindness in looking after the visitors. While it is true that there are many factories in the city which are relatively as important as those visited, it was not possible in the short time at the disposal of the visitors to visit them all, but the attention of the party was drawn to them. On another visit there will perhaps be more time available.

Mayor Rush has also received the following letter of thanks:

Mayor Henry Rush,
Peterborough, Ont.:

Dear Sir,—I have been instructed by the Executive of the Canadian Press Association to express to you, to Alderman Turner, and the other members of the Peterborough City Council, the sincere thanks of the members of our organization for your splendid entertainment of us in Peterborough on Saturday, March 27th. We particularly appreciated the trouble you went to to meet and welcome us at Burketon, Junction, your accompanying us on the tour of inspection through your industrial concerns, and also your co-operation in the arrangements for our entertainment at luncheon and your words of welcome there, and many personal courtesies. The visit to Peterborough was a most enjoyable one in every way, and will long be remembered by those of our body fortunate enough to partake of your hospitality on that occasion.

Yours very truly,
(Signed) J. R. BONE,
Secretary-Treasurer.

Prospects For Building Operations Are Promising

Members of the Various Crafts State That They Expect a Good Summer—Work Has Already Been Begun—Many Small Buildings Proposed.

LARGER BUILDINGS ALSO.

Building operations are again being commenced, the season, like that of the robins' return, being now due. Already not a few builders have thrown their tools into their kit, and have resumed work after four months of rest, and on every side they are looking forward to a good year. In the first place they consider that it is time for a change to the old time briskness of several years ago. On Saturday nights recently the builders have been out in almost as large numbers as the young ladies on the millinery warpath. The meetings, too, of the labourites, in their open air hall just north of Simcoe street, on George street, have been exceedingly well attended. Everything is pointing to the re-awakening of the building season, and from street reports expectations are going to be realized. It is somewhat premature to give a forecast of what is promised as the contractors themselves hardly know as yet what is or what is not.

An Examiner reporter, in conversation with a prominent builder, was assured that there is going to be a large number of houses erected this summer. This in itself will mean considerable work, and it is further considered that as the summer wears on there will be even more buildings commenced. In respect to larger buildings, the outlook is quite encouraging. Developments are expected in the near future, and while some of the builders are already at work, the others are apparently braced by the feeling that it is only a matter of days until the stonemason's hammer and the bricklayer's trowel, and the carpenter's saw are all uniting in a merry chorus of industry and prosperity. The workmen are wearing the Jas. T. Powers smile which is one of the accompaniments of his song: "Hello, People! People, Hello!"

Annual Roll Call At The Murray Street Baptist Church

The annual roll call of the congregation of the Murray street Baptist church was held last night, and was characterized by the largest roll call in the history of the church. The evening was a most profitable and enjoyable one. The gathering sat down to a sumptions supper at seven o'clock, the good things provided being greatly enjoyed and afterwards the committee on improved accommodation submitted a report which indicated the necessity of increased accommodation for the church and this matter will be gone into at once. Afterwards the roll call took place, the event being most enjoyable.

Horse Decamped, Leaving Young Man Stranded Here

A good story is being told to-day of a young man who lives about two miles from the city, and who is accustomed to drive in occasionally to visit one of Peterborough's fairest daughters. Last night the young man, who shall be nameless as far as this article is concerned, made one of his periodic wooing trips into Peterborough and left his horse in a hotel yard. All went well until he attempted to harness up his horse for the return journey when the animal decided that he would travel light for the remainder of the trip and bolting out of the yard hit the trail for home leaving Mr. Young Man and his buggy behind. There was nothing for him to do but Longboat it the two weary miles that separated him from home and then return with the horse for the vehicle, and this he did although not with very good grace.

British Consul In West Indies For 27 Years Visits Peterborough

Mr. S. Galbraith, of Glasgow, Scotland, was in the city yesterday, and was registered at the Hotel National. Mr. Galbraith was for twenty-seven years the British Consul in the West Indies, and only lately retired. He is on a tour through Canada, and having heard of the great hydraulic lift-lock at Peterborough desired to see it before returning to the Old Country. He was much impressed with this city. He went east this morning.

La Nouvelle Mode Refers To Miss Wallis' Studio

La Nouvelle Mode says of the work of Miss Katherine Wallis:—

An Interesting Studio.

As a rule a sculptor's studio is not perhaps so generally attractive to the uninitiated as that of a painter, Naturally it is well decorated as, when a real "work-shop," it is wise to have as few impedimenta in the way of ornamental draperies and other unnecessary accessories as possible. But for all that much pleasure is experienced in spending an afternoon chez Miss Katherine Wallis, the well known Canadian sculptor, who has just returned from her native land to the home she has chosen in an interesting quarter in Paris, where she is in a nest of art labourers like herself. In Canada, Miss Wallis had much success with her exhibitions, Montreal, Toronto and Peterborough being the favoured localities. In Montreal the exhibition received visits from Lord and Lady Grey, Lady Evelyn Grey, and all the well known residents of this art loving and encouraging city. Miss Wallis, staying with Mrs. Haultain, was most hospitably entertained, charming functions being given in her honour, whilst she received not only flattering commendation and criticism of her clever work, but practical and valuable appreciation, for several were bought by people noted for their love of Art, who were delighted to be able to add such valuable treasures to the collections they are making.

In Toronto also, Miss Wallis was warmly received, her beautiful statue "Mercury, charmed by his own inventions," being bought by the Government of Ontario, where it is an ornament to the Government Museum.

Amongst other works which received special admiration were "The Pied Piper," "August's Child," and "Mon Petit Chou," which have appeared in the Paris Salon and elsewhere, the last named, representing a delightful baby seated in a cabbage, and chuckling roguishly to himself, having been invited to the Autumn Exhibition in Liverpool, whence, by special request, it travelled on to the City Art Gallery at Leeds. Miss Wallis has, undoubtedly, a great future before her, already she has made a name for herself, and has received encouragement from Rodin, whilst genuine admiration has been expressed for her talent, strength, and originality by Dampt and other Masters.

Undoubtedly, Miss Wallis owes much to her marvellous talent, energy and courage, but to her professor, Monsieur Oscar Waldmann, the noted sculptor, great credit is also due, and Miss Wallis was extremely fortunate in having the opportunity of including in her Canadian exhibitions, several splendid works by Monsieur Waldmann, and of thus giving the people in the Dominion the pleasure of admiring them. Monsieur Waldmann's animal groups are full of power and originality, and his clever portraits are greatly appreciated in Paris and elsewhere. Miss Wallis, when at home in her Paris studio, receives visits from many artists, and other interesting people who enjoy a chat over a cup of tea, and an inspection of her work, past and present; just now she is busy preparing for the Paris Salon, and other exhibitions.

THE ORIGIN OF ALL FOOLS' DAY.

To-day, April 1st, is the universal birthday, according to dear old dyspeptic Carlyle—April Fool or All Fools day—sacred to practical jokes—efforts of fools of the moment to make fools of others. The French call the victims of April first fooling, poissons d'Avril or April fish—suckers, as modern day slang would make it. History affords no definite clue to the origin of the day and its pranks. English literature has no reference to it before the middle of the eighteenth century. The day was undoubtedly observed among the Hindoos on a date corresponding to our April 1st. The date of its first appearance in English literature being about contemporaneous with the British predominance in India makes it probable that the fools' festival idea was imported from the East Indies. In Hierology April 1st is sacred to St. Milito, of Sardis, A. D., 200, St. Hugh, Grenoble, 1132, and St. Gilbert, of Caithness, Scotland, 1240. William Harvey discoverer of the circulation of the blood was born April 1st, 1578, and Tamerlane, who put so much blood in violent circulation died on April 1st, 1405.

A correspondent sends the following:

We would remind the Examiner's readers, for their own sakes that this is the day of the joker. The practice of making April Fools of our neighbours is looked upon with leniency on this one day of the year. The origin of the practice is unknown but is claimed by some to be a relic of Paganism. Others from the Druids and as far back as Solomon's Temple. However, it is not here intended to write an article upon the subject but just a word to our readers to be careful today to be neither too inquisitive nor too obliging in order that they be not too ungenerously reminded before the close of the day that this is the First of April. By referring to the 12th Chapter of Jeremiah, and the 20th verse the whole subject is explained in a very few words.

Spread Value of Daylight.

Ottawa, April 1.—The special committee of the House, which will consider Mr. E. N. Lewis' Daylight Saving Bill, met yesterday morning. It was decided to notify school boards and boards of trade and municipalities and towns and villages throughout the country. F. D. Monk told the committee he had received many letters from Montreal approving the object of the bill.

Death Reveals Marriage.

Chicago, Ill., April 1.—An inquest revealed the fact that James E. Goddard, believed by friends and relatives to have been a bachelor, had been married months before his death. Goddard was possessed of a quantity of real estate, which it was supposed would go to Mrs. Henry Ames and Mrs. Charles Aymer of Toronto, his sisters.

Cast Off Wife For "Affinity" Who Is Now Seeking Divorce

Julia Kuttner, for Whom Earle of "Affinity" Fame Discarded His Wife, Says He Is Crazy—Sheriff Serves the Papers—The Denouement of Scandalous Affair.

ANOTHER BUBBLE BURSTS.

Middletown, N.Y., April 1.—Ferdinan Pinney Earle of "affinity" fame, was yesterday served with papers by Sheriff Decker, of Orange County, in an action begun by Julia Kuttner Earle for an annulment of the marriage. Mrs. Earle alleges that she has discovered that Earle is a lunatic and asks that her marriage be annulled and that she be allowed to resume her maiden name, and that the child Edmund Erwin Earle, less than one year old, be allowed to take the name of his mother, Edmund Erwin Kuttner.

Mrs. Earle alleges that when she married Earle his marriage to Emilie Marie Fischbascher of Paris, was still in force.

Returning from the West, where, it is said that he was an inmate in a sanitarium, Mr. Earle was met at his Summer home at Monroe by Sheriff A. L. Decker, of Orange County, and served with a summons and complaint in the actions begun by Mrs. Earle No. 2 to secure the annulment of her marriage to him.

In the Fall of 1907 Earle told his little French wife, Emilie Marie Fischbascher, and his child, that he no longer loved them, but instead had met his "affinity" and "soul mate" in the person of Miss Julia Kuttner. The wife took her child and went to her parents in France, Earle going to the dock to see them off.

Mobbed in Town.

On returning to Monroe Earle was mobbed by his townspeople. Then Earle and his affinity went abroad and were married in Venice. They returned to this country in April, 1908, and Earle again narrowly escaped being mobbed by the villagers.

The next chapter in Earle's history saw him a prisoner in Goshen jail on a charge of having struck and choked his "affinity" and "soul mate" because she persisted in nursing her week-old baby.

After forty-eight hours in jail Earle was released on bail, and later the Grand Jury failed to indict him. This was in August last. Mrs. Earle left her husband, but his family induced her to return and again live with him. Earle in January of this year, it was currently reported, that Earle had gone to a sanitarium. Now comes the application of Mrs. Earle for the annulment of her marriage.

In the complaint Mrs. Earle says that she was married to Earle March 17, 1908, at Venice, Italy; that at the time of marriage Earle was a lunatic, incapable of contracting marriage, and that he has since been and is still a lunatic; that on January 12, 1909, she discovered that he was of unsound mind, and has not since lived with him. Mrs. Earle also alleges that there had been no divorce between Earle and his first wife at the time of his second marriage, and therefore she asks that her marriage to Earle be annulled and that she be given the custody of their child, and that the child be entitled to assume the family name of the plaintiff and be called Edmund Erwin Kuttner. The following assertions appear in the papers in the action commenced by Mrs. Earle.

First Marriage a Farce.

She alleges that at the time of her marriage, the defendant had a former wife then living. Emile Marie Fischbacher Earle to whom the defendant was married at Paris, France, on or about the 24th day of March, 1903, that such marriage was at the time of the aforesaid marriage between plaintiff and defendant, and still is, in full force and effect.

That the marriage of plaintiff and defendant as aforesaid was contracted by plaintiff without any knowledge on her part that such former marriage was in full force and effect, and on the contrary plaintiff alleges that she was informed by the defendant and fully believed at the time of such marriage that the defendant had been duly divorced from the said Emilie Marie Fischbacher Earle by a court of competent jurisdiction, and such marriage aforesaid was duly entered into by the plaintiff upon the full belief that the said defendant had been divorced from such Emilie Marie Fischbacher Earle.

Gowganda A Straggling Town Runs Along Lake For A Mile

Another Interesting Letter From One of the Youngest Towns in New Ontario.

CONDITIONS AS THEY ARE.

Examiner Special.

Gowganda, April 1.—Probably the first thing that strikes the visitor is the straggling appearance of Gowganda. It is strung out along the lake front for over a mile, following the bend of the shore; banks, hotels, eating houses, stores, stables, cabins and tents in a long line. The front street is at present along the frozen surfece of the lake. Here, stuck in the ice, are signs of all sorts, crudely lettered, announcing the excellence of Bill Jones' eating house, or extolling the wares vended by some enterprising merchant who has a fine line of prospectors' supplies.

Price of Food

So far the prices for supplies range: Eight dollars a sack for flour, twenty cents a pound for sowbelly bacon, ten cents a pound for beans, and beef sells for twenty-five cents a pound. The cattle furnishing the beef are driven in on the trail and slaughtered here. We met an outgoing sleigh loaded with the hides of the victims. There are two cows in town, but fresh milk is only obtainable by millionaires.

Hotel Fare

The average hotel fare, though substantial enough, can hardly be called epicurean. Beans are omnipresent on the bill of fare—beans innocent of savory trimmings, and lubricated with cubes of pork fat. But what will you? Sixty miles from the railroad, away back in the bush.

Hotel Rates

Meals cost 50 cents, and hotel rates run to $3 per day. Altogether, the accommodation is very fair, when one considers that every pound of supplies has been labouriously freighted in, and that the buildings were hurriedly thrown together only two months ago.

Houses Built of Logs

In regard to building material the bulk of the houses are constructed of logs. But the sawmill is working hard now to supply the demand for lumber. Great dissatisfaction is expressed at the Government's action in regard to the timber. All pulp wood in the Temagami reserve (pulp wood, of course, includes everything but pine) is owned by a millionaire lumberman at Ottawa. The pine, of which there is a great deal, both red and white, is owned by the Provincial Government.

Stumpage Charges

Under the laws of Ontario, the timber in the district is reserved, so the mill owner has to pay $20 per thousand for his pine logs.

Lumber at $55 a Thousand

And the same lumber costs the public only $55 per thousand and $18 per thousand for slabs! But that is not the worst. The saw-mill man announces his intention of raising the price of his product to $75 per thousand before long. Wages are high, transportation of machinery is expensive, and no one grudges the saw-mill a good profit. But it does exasperate men to pay famine prices for rough lumber and logs right here in the heart of the dense forests. Just imagine paying more for standing timber in Temagami than for sawn logs in Toronto. However, lumber must be had, and the mill is grinding it out at the rate of from six to ten thousand feet per day. Not even the sawdust is being wasted here. The enterprising people are putting up ice in anticipation of July suns and fly time. They feed the chaff from the buzz-saw; while men camping out in tents this weather are glad to put a layer of sawdust between their blankets and the frozen ground.

Water Commissioners Reduce Charge Per Hydrant To $27.50

The Finance Committee of the City Council waited upon the Water Commissioners yesterday afternoon at their meeting and asked for a decrease in the charge to the city per hydrant from $35 to $25. Alderman Bradburn who headed the deputation stating that he thought the latter was a fair rate.

Mr. T. F. Matthews was in the chair and there were present, Messrs. W. H. Moore, W. H. Hill, and W. Henderson. Those of the Finance Committee who were present were Aldermen Bradburn, Phelan, Gillespie and Mayor Rush.

Alderman Bradburn said that he thought the charges made by the commissioners for hydrants were too much. For 179 hydrants the city had been charged $30 each and for 34, thirty-five dollars had been the tax. Compared with other towns and cities of similar size as Peterborough, the rate was very high. Alderman Bradburn would consider $25 a fair charge.

Mr. Matthews said that there should be a surplus of seven or eight thousand dollars this year and he thought that probably a rate of $27.50 might be given the city. The commissioners, he said, would give the matter their earnest consideration.

After the deputation of the Finance Committee had left the Water Commissioners discussed the matter of a reduction in the charge. It was finally decided to place the rate at $27.50 This will mean a saving to the council per year of $702.50.

THREW AWAY THE BREAD AND KEPT THE MONEY

A strange man called at a residence on Water street the night before last inquiring after money and something to eat. A young lady and her mother were alone in the house at the time. The door bell was rung but when the young lady went to answer it the visitor had already entered and was standing in the hall.

He wanted money and food. He was given twenty-five cents and some bread and butter. He evidently only wanted the money as when he left the house he was seen to throw the bread away.

WHY SOME GIRLS DO NOT MARRY

There is one thing that really does vex poor little Cupid. He hates to see so many girls in the world unmarried. It isn't right, he grunts, every woman ought to sit at the head of her husband's table; and if he had his own way the woman who might marry and won't would be exported to an island in the far Pacific.

Of course, Cupid is aware that there are plenty of women who have loved man and lost him, and never care anybody else again. He sympathizes with these women. But the number of really nice girls who never have a husband or dear little children and are yet fitted to be such excellent wives and mothers is appalling.

Cupid complains and looks around. He wants to find out the reason and from inquiries he has caused to be made he finds that the meddling mother is at the bottom of the trouble as a rule.

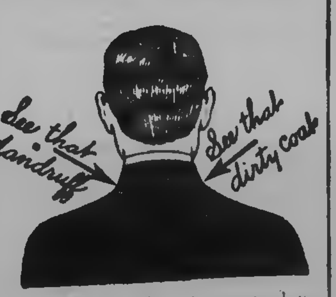
She is one of those good creatures who always say the wrong thing and never do the right action. A man comes to the house. She rakes up all the things that are likely to annoy him. She asks him was it his sister who was expelled from school, or young Brown's sister.

It doesn't matter which it was. She has said the wrong thing. If it were his sister, he will hate her for mentioning the fact; if it were young Brown's sister, he will be furious with her for confusing the girl with his sister.

She will, just at a time when he is feeling very sentimentally inclined toward her little daughter, say: "Oh, Maudie, dear, do you remember the day you got into such an awful temper and kicked the cat?"

And poor Maudie, who is really in love, did not want him to know that she could ever be tempted to kick a cat or get in a naughty temper.

A meddlesome mother does more to prevent a girl's getting married than all the other foes of Cupid put together. Plague on her, says Cupid.



A FILTHY CONDITION

Many a man, otherwise scrupulously clean, is dandruff dirty. The small, persistent germs of dandruff working all day as well as night are constantly throwing off the small white dandruff scales which, falling on the shoulders of a coat, give it a filthy appearance which is repulsive to the friends of the victim.

Many men allow this condition to exist because they believe there is no cure for dandruff; they have tried various so-called cures with unsatisfactory results, and naturally condemn all.

The famous prescription called Parisian Sage is put up in America, but only by the Giroux Mfg. Co. of Buffalo, N.Y., and Fort Erie, Ont. It is for sale in Peterborough by Wm. Madill, who guarantees it to cure dandruff in two weeks, or money back.

Parisian Sage is guaranteed to do more; it will make short, thin hair grow long, lustrous and luxuriant; it will stop hair from falling out; it will cure all diseases of the scalp. Wm. Madill guarantees it — every bottle of it. The price is only 50 cents, and if you want to stop the filthy dandruff flakes from lodging on your coat and disgusting your friends, get a bottle at once.

City To Offer Several Strips Of Land On Aylmer St. For Sale

Property Committee Considers the Question and Will Ask Council to Sanction Their Step—Meeting Held Last Night.

OTHER BUSINESS PLANS.

The Property Committee met last night with Alderman Bradburn in the chair and Aldermen Duncan, McIntyre, Hicks and Mayor Rush present. One question which was dealt with was the sale of several strips of land on the extended part of Aylmer street, near Westcott street. These will be sold if the sanction of the city is obtained.

Chairman Alderman Bradburn reported that Architect Blackwell would furnish the committee with the specifications for the new isolation hospital. While these are being prepared the committee will visit the Hilliard farm and select a site for the building.

Alderman Bradburn said the city owned a part of a lot on Aylmer street, 40 x 80 feet, which was purchased for the opening of Aylmer street south. The property was bought from Mr. John McMahon. A real estate dealer offered to purchase it and asked the committee to place a price on it.

The committee thought it would be well to sell it if a reasonable price could be secured. The committee will therefore recommend the council to authorize the committee to sell.

The committee also received offers for a strip of land adjoining Mr. G. H. Savigny's property at 235 Westcott street. The offer was for $100.

Mr. W. S. Robinson offered $100 for the strip adjoining his property.

It was decided that both strips be sold at the price offered.

The committee also asked the council for authority to sell the three-cornered lot on Murray street near Stewart, which has been used for piling the old wooden walks on.

Repairs to Roof

A communication was received from Engineer Hay, stating that the roof on the building presented to the city by the Nicholls estate, opposite the city buildings, was leaking now and he recommended that it be repaired at once.

The committee will ask the council for authority to have the roof repaired.

The chairman brought up the matter of the refuse ground for the next year. The present agreement expires the 30th of April, and something must be done. The city pays $400 a year now.

He stated that he saw the lot Mr. Stevens offered. There are about 4½ acres in it, and he asks $800 and states he could get a man to work the ground and look after the trenches if the city did not charge any rent for it. If this could be made satisfactory it would pay for itself in two years.

The committee will look into the matter at once and see what can be done.

Our Spring Wash Fabrics Are 'Taking' Splendidly

We must have picked out the very material, colours and patterns that the people of Peterborough prefer, for our wash goods are fairly flying from our counters and shelves. Probably there's one more reason, too—our prices. It may be that folks realize the truth of the fact that our values are considerably better than those offered by any other store—that nowhere else can you get such fine qualities, attractive designs and varied choice at such very tiny prices.

Our "two best sellers" are the two-toned striped chambrays and Scotch Ginghams, but there's not a fabric we're offering that hasn't proved popular. Come, look them over, they'll do their own talking for us and you'll enjoy the viewing.

LICENSE FEES TO GO UP

Hon. Mr. Hanna Presents Amendments to Liquor License Act and Would Increase Penalties For Illegal Selling—Stuff May Now Be Confiscated in Transit—School Bill Discussed Yesterday.

Toronto, April 1.—Hon. W. J. Hanna's presentation of the new amendments to the Liquor License Act was a notable feature of yesterday's proceedings in the Legislature. An increase in the license fee from $1,200 to $1,600 is a feature of the amendments.

A substantial change was proposed in the sub-section dealing with fines imposed for selling without a license, the amount being raised from $50 to $100 for the first offence to not less than $100 or more than $200.

For a second offence the penalty is four months imprisonment, and the suggestion to raise this to six months was made.

Mr. Hanna was not sure that this was desirable, as four months was as effective as four years.

Another amendment enables the Department to seize liquor in transit to places were the sale would be illegal.

Power is also taken to sell liquor so seized to dealers, and to pay all freight or express charges from the proceeds.

The Manitoba law is also adopted, permitting the seizure of liquor anywhere except in private houses.

Agents of persons or companies not domiciled in Ontario, who take orders for delivery of liquor in the province must take out a "sample and commission license," costing $300 a year. This follows the Quebec law.

Hon. A. G. MacKay expressed his gratification over the adoption of his suggestion of two years ago, that hotels without bars in local option districts should be licensed. A nominal fee of $5 is imposed, and the license may be transferred without charge.

Mr. MacKay thought that if such a license was taken out by one house the others would follow suit, as the license would be a guarantee to the public of proper inspection and equipment and would naturally attract patronage.

The recently appointed inspector is given power to visit and inspect any tavern or house for which a license is issued, and to see that the laws as to protection, safety, comfort and convenience of guests are properly observed.

Another section requires the disclosure of names of persons selling liquor to minors, under penalty of three months imprisonment.

Breweries are prohibited from selling liquor to private persons, and must confine their sales to the trade.

Dr. Forbes Godfrey, West York, moved his resolution for the appointment of a commission to investigate methods for treating pulmonary tuberculosis, and establishment of a provincial sanitarium. He objected to the statement that the medical profession was opposed to compulsory notification, and that provincial jealousy was the cause for the bill of Mr. Downey being rejected.

Before compulsory notification was resorted to, he wanted the Legislature properly informed regarding the best methods to be adopted on treating the disease, and from that information a complete and efficient organization to be established.

Dr. Godfrey emphatically stated that neither he nor the medical profession were opposed to the principle of compulsory notification. He was glad to see that the Provincial Board of Health and Provincial Secretary were moving in certain directions, but in the absence of information and statistics no adequate policy could be adopted.

Dr. Nixon felt it was due to the medical profession to say a word.

They had been threatened with the re-introduction of Mr. Downey's bill. No medical man in the House or the province would refuse to do his part in stamping out tuberculosis.

He was not opposed to compulsory notification, but to Mr. Downey's bill, and hoped that something would be done that might bear fruit.

The Legislature devoted last night's session to a consideration in committee of Hon. Dr. Pyne's bill respecting public schools.

Major J. J. Craig (Wellington) created amusement by opposing the clause calling for the retirement of public school inspectors at the age of 65. He cited the Premier, Attorney-General and Provincial Treasurer as men under the ruling who would be called upon to go into "retirement."

Mr. Valentine Stock also opposed the clause, and the Liberal leader also supported them. Hon. Dr. Pyne capitulated and the age limit was raised to 70 years.

Before recess Sir James Whitney referred to the agitation throughout Canada regarding a contribution to Imperial defence, and said:

"I have been receiving a number of telegrams from different parts of the continent and I may say in reference to this question that I have communicated with no person on this subject, and I have received no communication.

"In my opinion, I may say, Canada has missed an opportunity which may never come again. Had Parliament immediately and spontaneously appropriated the value of a Dreadnought, or even two, such ships, with an intimation that further aid would be forthcoming in case of need, that action, coming in concert from other British dominions, would have shown to the world at large that the British communities are ready to meet any attack upon the Empire. Such a demonstration would have cleared the atmosphere, saved further expenditure and created a lasting effect among the nations of the world who are looking on." (Cheers.)

Hon. A. G. MacKay, in reply, said that if the resolution as unanimously carried at Ottawa was followed out in fact as well as in name he for one would not wish it supplemented in any way by any one of the provinces.

"WOMEN!"
"Are You Nervous?"
The results of modern civilization are evidenced in an increase of nervous disorders. It could not be otherwise with the way we eat, drink, lose sleep, and keep up a continual round of excitement. The work, the worry, the excitement, all tell upon the nerves till they cry out in revolt, and will not be placated till a remedy such as
MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS
come along with their nerve-strengthening and energizing properties, and restore them to their normal condition.
Mrs. Wm. Levi, Markdale, Ont., writes: "I had for several years been troubled with nervousness, and, like many others, spent lots of money on medicine that did me no good. I was so bad that the least noise would make me jump and my heart would thump so you could hear it plainly and I could not lie on my left side at night. I saw a few testimonials of others and decided to try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and to my great joy and surprise they completely cured me and it only took six boxes to do it. I have a neighbor, Mrs. Rickett, and I induced her to try them and they effected a cure. I can endorse their use for anyone afflicted as I was."
Price, 50 cents a box, 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Dominion Express Package Goes Astray In Transit.

Montreal, April 1.—A report is current that the Dominion Express Co. has lost a package containing $25,000.

The money is said to have gone astray on a train between here and Toronto.

The money was on the way between Montreal and Ottawa via Toronto.

It had been placed in the safe and when the safe was opened the package is reported as having been missing. The package was in charge of Express Messenger Rutledge, who is in Ottawa now.

The loss was not discovered until the car reached Ottawa, and at the company's office in this city it was impossible to get any information or denial of the story, it being said the only persons competent to speak were not available.

Criminal Cannot Marry.

New York, April 1.—A judiciary order of much interest to sociologists was issued yesterday by Judge Foster of the Court of General Sessions in the case of Albert E. Johnson, a 20-year-old youth several times arrested for theft.

The magistrate forbade the youth to marry under penalty of a long term of imprisonment, which he declared he would impose in punishment of a larceny committed three years ago, and on which he had at the time suspended sentence.

As he was about to be sentenced for this offence, for breaking his parole, a young girl, who declared she was his fiancee, interceded for him. It was at this juncture that Judge Foster issued the novel order.

"I have no intention of permitting a marriage which will breed more criminals," said he.

May Seek Divorce.

Berlin, April 1.—Frau von Bohlen and Halbach, who was Bertha Krupp, one of the wealthiest women in the world, intends to divorce her husband, rumor has it.

The Berlin Zeitammiting says:

"Frau Bertha is dissatisfied with the treatment her husband has accorded her. She is said to be cold, haughty and intractible. But, it is said, too, that since the death of her younger child two months ago she has been subject to attacks of melancholy which have destroyed the family peace."

Friends say that both Herr and Frau von Bohlen are overworked in managing their gigantic business and fortune and that both long for rest.

Favors Tariff Bureau.

Washington, April 1.—President Taft yesterday declared himself in favor of a tariff bureau to be created at this session of Congress. He believes that such a bureau would be of great assistance to him in the application of the maximum and minimum principle of the Payne bill in the negotiations of foreign trade agreements, as well as in furnishing detailed information to Congress and to the White House on various tariff questions as they arise.

Students Strike.

New York, April 1.—Recitations were generally cut yesterday by the students of Manhattan College, a Roman Catholic institution, the boarding students of which Tuesday declared a strike because of grievances complained of, over matters of discipline.

The removal of Brother Peter as president is demanded by the students, because he disciplined students who stayed out late.

Awarded $1,250 For Breach.

Brockville, April 1.—Miss Grace Herbison of Junetown was awarded $1,250 damages for breach of promise against Charles M. Quinn of Lansdowne. She sued for $5,000. The solicitor for Quinn took exception to certain features of Justice MacMahon's charge, which was strongly in favor of the plaintiff.

The court room was crowded to standing room, hundreds being attracted from the country.

"Whip" Taylor's Birthday.

Ottawa, April 1.—Yesterday being the birthday of George Taylor, chief Conservative whip, that gentleman decorated the desks of the Commoners, Grit and Tory alike, with two rosy apples.

Subsequently Major Currie passed the hat and a handsome souvenir was presented to the whip.

NOVEL CURE FOR CATARRHAL ILLS.
Stops Bronchitis, Relieves Hoarseness, Cures Asthma, Prevents Throat Irritation.
The most effective way to treat and cure ailment of the breathing organs is by inhalation.
New as this method is in application, its practice is as old as man. Down from Adam has spread the reputation of the air of the pine woods, charged with balsam and healing for diseases of the throat, lungs and nasal passages.
Yet medical men neglected to employ the natural curative agency for diseases of the throat, lungs and nasal passages until the wonderful results which attended the Catarrhozone dry air method were brought to their notice and compelled attention.
The air of the pine woods, charged with little drops of balsam and ozone, has been enhanced by the Catarrhozone method through the addition of vegetable antiseptics more powerfully healing than the air of the pine woods.
This balsamic and healing vegetable compound is broken up by the air INTO MINUTE PARTICLES so small that the air is enabled to carry them to the remotest parts of the lungs, throat and nasal passages—in fact, it is the air of the pine woods concentrated a thousandfold, and you can have it at home.
FAILURE IS IMPOSSIBLE.
You can now understand why Catarrhozone cures with such certainty. It is medicated air carried to the seat of bronchitic congestion or situation here the micro-organisms which excite asthma or hay fever exert their baneful and dangerous influence.
The air distributes evenly over the entire diseased surfaces a covering of healing Catarrhozone. Immediately congestion is relieved, inflammation is subdued, the microbes which cause the trouble are destroyed, and cure follows as inevitably as the sun follows the night.
THOUSANDS CURED DAILY.
No other medicine has achieved such remarkable success, and to-day not less than twenty thousand physicians in America alone are prescribing Catarrhozone. And why? Simply because they realize that a healing remedy like Catarrhozone which air carries direct to the sore, inflamed membranes is bound to cure every form of Catarrh, all types of bronchitis and throat trouble, and will almost instantly stamp out coughs, colds, sneezing and bronchial deafness.
CATARRHOZONE CURES.
The reputation of Catarrhozone has grown by leaps and bounds. It reaches the diseased spot. It cures speedily. Almost the first use gives such relief in the worst cases that most people cannot understand its action.
Don't experiment longer—Catarrhozone means sure cure. Two months' treatment (guaranteed), price $1.00; smaller size, 50c. at all dealers, or the Catarrhozone Company, Kingston, Ont.

MY LUCKY DAY

Mr. Thomas Wylie (Box 384), Galt, says:—"It was the luckiest day of my life when I struck PSYCHINE, for I truly believe I shouldn't be alive now but for that.

"A neglected cold was the beginning of my trouble, and what seemed to be a simple ailment, soon developed into a serious and dangerous condition. I got so low that it was scarcely possible for me to walk around, and I lost so much flesh that I looked like a skeleton. I was just about ready to 'hand in my checks,' although only 20 years of age. The medicine the doctor gave me made me worse and I got disgusted. Then I struck PSYCHINE."

"PSYCHINE did miracles for me. The first bottle gave me new life and courage, and in less than no time I began to put on flesh rapidly, and I felt I was on the high road to recovery. My appetite returned, and I 'ate like a hunter,' as the saying goes. My friends were surprised, and hardly knew me. In three months I was as strong and well as ever, and returned to work in the mill. I have not had a day's illness since. Nobody could wish for better health than I enjoy, and it is all owing to PSYCHINE. It should be in everybody's hands."

For Coughs, Colds, Loss of Appetite, Throat, Lung and Stomach Trouble, take Psychine. Druggists and Stores sell at 50c and $1.00. Send to DR. T. A. SLOCUM, Limited, Spadina Avenue, Toronto, for a TRIAL FREE.

FRED SIMPSON'S LAST CHANCE INDIAN HAS TWENTY MILE RACE WITH APPLEBY ON GOOD FRIDAY

Toronto, March 31.—It is do or die with a vengeance for Fred Simpson, the Ojibway Thunderbolt, on Good Friday. The Indian Marathoner gets a chance to retrieve the laurels he lost to "A. Shrubb, world's champion," a couple of weeks ago, by trimming Fred Appleby, Shrubb's conqueror in the first outdoor race of the Canadian season.

Appleby beat Shrubb who defeated Simpson.

Where do you figure the Indian?

Nowhere on that bald proposition, but sand your tracks and back up a bit. Appleby defeated Shrubb at 15 miles, Shrubb cleaned Simpson up at 12 miles, and Simpson beat Appleby in the Olympic Marathon.

Simpson and Appleby meet at 20 miles.

Simpson is a Marathoner—a 20 and 26 mile man. Appleby is a 15 mile man.

Simpson's Race

As far as race conditions, Simpson seems to have Appleby on the hip. The race is right at the redman's best distance — the Hamilton Herald distance, where he ran second twice in near record time.

He can have no excuses this time if he loses.

"I'm not whining much about the Shrubb-Simpson race result," said Tom Eck, the Indian's handler, "but Simpson was suffering from a severe cold, and I wanted a week's postponement. If I had got that there would have been a real race, but Simpson would have been second just the same. Now I have my man at his own distance. If Appleby beats him I'll have no excuses, unless he throws a splint or the club house falls on him during the race. I recognize that the Englishmen is the best man in the world at 15 miles, but I think at 20 we will be there, and there strong."

The Negotiations

The history of the negotiations of the race promoters is worth repeating.

Appleby was decided upon.

Shrubb, as his opponent, they could not get, for Shrubb is tied up to Tom Longboat for a 15 mile race right after the big Marathon Saturday, and until Alfie gets that he'll have Indian nightmares, and has not time for any one else.

Hans Holmer tumbled into the money market, and the Bluenose was offered the job.

Holmer Refuses

"I'm not the man," said Holmer, "I'm not in shape yet. I'll run 10 miles in a 20 mile relay," and Hans proceeded to estimate himself worth Rosedale grounds and the ball club as an attraction.

Then came John D. Marsh, the Manitoba veteran, who defeated Shrubb at Winnipeg a year ago. John D. has been around Michigan cleaning up "ganders," and John D.'s 'A No. 1 hard' muscles just ached for a chance at Longboat, Shrubb, Appleby, et al.

Fact is, John D. was so anxious for a crack at the top notchers that, he would have contracted to run from Detroit to Toronto the week of the race, and then meet anybody, anywhere, at any distance.

John D.'s chances against Appleby did not look too good, so Simpson was chosen as the best man.

Tom Eck jumped at such a chance for his Ojibway to retrieve himself, so he signed up in a hurry.

Meanwhile John Svanberg, the Swede, who ran second to Sherring at Athens in 1906, and eighth in the London Marathon, besides cleaning up at sundry times half-a-dozen English middle distance champions, heard about the race and wanted either man's place, and Cabot and Orphee, the Frenchmen, who won the six days' go as you please in New York, wanted to run Simpson and Red Hawk a 50 mile relay race.

Then Appleby bucked. He didn't like the redman's game at 20 miles and proposed running a three man relay of mediocre runners.

No Relays

"Nothing doing—Simpson at 20 miles or nothing," was the promoter's ultimatum, and Appleby surrendered.

This is Appleby's first appearance as a professional. He has as many friends here as Alfie Shrubb—and that is a few—and expects to camp right here and talk run to the peerless Alfred and the victorious Longboat, and he isn't much particular when, where, or how or at what distance he runs either man so long as he gets the coin, and a chance at them.

Appleby's world's record of 1.20.04 2-5 for 15 miles is what his friends point to when you talk Shrubb, Simpson or Longboat to them.

Well, we'll see how near Appleby can come to that time in this Simpson race, and Simpson has got to be right there on end or it is back to the muskrats and wild rice for his'n.

The race will be run at Rosedale grounds on Good Friday right after the initial bow of Kelley's new ball players to the Toronto public in a game, Regulars v. Yannigans. If Rosedale's clay track is not in condition the runners will run on the turf.

Simpson goes to Brantford for a 15 mile race against Red Hawk and W. J. Cumming on Thursday night. A 20 mile relay, Simpson against Abbie Wood and Hans Holmer, scheduled for Montreal on April 3, has been called off in view of the importance of the Appleby contest the next day. Tom Eck wouldn't even consider running in Montreal on April 5.

"I'll take no chances," he said.

WAS IN BED FOR THREE MONTHS.

PEOPLE SAID SHE HAD CONSUMPTION.

Read how Mrs. T. G. Buck, Bracebridge, Ont., was cured (and also her little boy) by the use of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.

She writes: "I thought I would write and let you know the benefit I have received through the use of your Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. A few years ago I was so badly troubled with my lungs people said I had Consumption and that I would not live through the Fall. I had two doctors attending me and they were very much alarmed about me. I was in bed three months and when I got up I could not walk, so had to go on my hands and knees for three weeks, and my limbs seemed of no use to me. I gave up all hopes of ever getting better when I happened to see in B.B.B. Almanac that Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup was good for weak lungs. I thought I would try a bottle and by the time I had used it I was a lot better, so got more and it made a complete cure. My little boy was also troubled with weak lungs and it cured him. I keep it in the house all the time and would not be without it for anything."

Price 25 cents at all dealers. Beware of imitations of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. Ask for it and insist on getting the original. Put up in a yellow wrapper and three pine trees the trade mark.

THE LINDSAY MIDGETS LEAVING SEVERAL TO GO TO THE WEST

The Midgets will never win another championship for Lindsay—at least the Midgets which won the championship this last year won't.

If the team win another championship it will be for some wild and woolly western town in the suburbs of Canada towards the Pacific Ocean. The majority of the seven players intend joining the human tide flowing westerly during the coming summer and will all take up the white man's burden in that country

The best of players, like the best of friends, must part some time, and the Midgets who have been practically intact for the past four years will probably be, by this time next year miles apart.

Their's has been a splendid hockey career with a glorious finish, and may they succeed as well in the battle of life.

Kenneth Randall left to-day for Moosejaw. The little centre learned the game in Lindsay and will prove a credit to the town on whatever hockey team he lands.

Leon Koyl goes to Saskatoon in May, and when the northerly breezes have displaced the Chinook winds in Saskatchewan and the ice forms again the big Lindsay point won't be far away from the game.

Billy Stoddard asserts he will pocket a ticket for a western city inside of a few moons and some team will benefit by the aid of the fast forward.

The magnet of the Canadian occident has affected Sullivan in a similar manner and Clifford says there's no other place for him in a short time.

And thus they all will go.—Lindsay Warder.

LINDSAY MAY HAVE TEAM IN LEAGUE

A gentleman in town, who does not want his name divulged, has received word from Peterborough, asking what the prospects are for a local team entering the Midland League, in case that organization was reformed this year again.

The writer stated that a Peterborough team would enter if the league was placed on a strictly amateur basis and with a residence rule. The name of the Peterborough team is to be kept "dark" as yet. A lot is dependent on Lindsay whether the league is kept alive or not.

Lindsay wants a Midland League team this year and wants to see that organization flourish. You bet we can put a good amateur team in and things may pan out nicely yet.

Just wait and see! — Lindsay Warder.

CRACK BOWLER LEAVES CITY

Mr. George Sutherland, of the Iroquois, Returns to St. Thomas To-day.

One of the brightest as well as the newest stars of the bowling firmament departs from Peterborough this afternoon, in the person of Mr. Geo. Sutherland, of the Iroquois, who is returning to his home in St. Thomas, where he has secured a position on the Journal. Since his coming to Peterborough some weeks ago, he has made a host of friends for himself, especially among the bowling fraternity, and his departure from the city will be received with regret. While here he has proved to be one of the cleverest bowlers that ever rolled a ball on the P. B. C. drives, and he will be greatly missed by the Iroquois. Yesterday, to commemorate his departure he hung up a 258 score, which is the second highest single tally ever compiled in Peterborough. In addition to being a good bowler he has shown himself an all-round good fellow and will be missed.

NO BOWLING ALLEY FOR SCUGOGVILLE

There will be no bowling alley in the store formerly occupied by Lang & Maher. The promoters who had made preliminary arrangements to start an alley found out yesterday that their plans for placing alleys in that store wer impracticable owing to the insufficient length of the premises. They had decided to take out a license, but now will abandon the project.—Lindsay Warder.

A Harrier Club

A meeting of a number of young men interested in running and other outdoor sports is being held to-night at No. 27 Lafayette avenue to form a Harrier Club. This will be a Cross Country Harrier Club, and the aim is to hold runs twice a week and paper chases on Saturday afternoon. Quite a number of local distance men of some repute are behind the movement and are determined to make it a success. All those interested in the sport are invited to attend the meeting. The membership fee will be discussed and whatever is decided upon it will be very low. Those behind the project are satisfied that there is a large number of young men who could be brought out into the running game if they were gone after and in this manner it is hoped that satisfactory results will be achieved.

Lacrosse

A meeting of the lacrosse enthusiasts will be held this evening at the Crown Hotel to consider the chances of getting a large number interested in the game this season. The boys are requested to be around at eight o'clock and any and everyone interested are requested to be present.

A strong effort will be made to keep the good old game alive this summer and to do so the players should turn out in large numbers.

POOL

The winners in the Belmont Club's tournament games last night were Messrs. H. Huffman, E. Tovey, W. Rose and B. Miller.

HOCKEY

The banquet to be held by the Church Hockey League in honour of the champion St. Andrew's and All Saints' teams which was to have been held to-morrow night has been postponed on account of the fact that the majority of the clergymen of the city will be absent at the Laymen's Missionary Movement convention in Toronto.

RUNNING.

Lou. Marsh in referring to Simpson's race with Appleby in Toronto on Good Friday, says that the Indian must clean up or it is back to the wild rice and the muskrats for his, and Lou. has come pretty close to hitting the proverbial nail on the head. If Fred loses to the runner from overseas it is hardly to be expected that Tom Eck will be willing to carry him around any longer as it costs money to look after a Marathon runner. However, there is no reason why Simpson should not clean up. He beat Appleby in the English Marathon and the Indian is supposed to be minutes faster than he was at that time. On the other hand, however, Appleby claims that he was suffering from sore feet at the time of the big Olympic event and he will be undoubtedly in better shape than he was then. It must be remembered, however, that Appleby is the world's record holder at fifteen miles and that he has twice beaten the agile Alfie Shrubb, so that the Peterborough Indian has some running on his hands. Simpson is running a twelve mile race in Brantford to-night against Red Hawk (Henry Jackson) and W. F. Cummings, of the Irish Canadians. Red Hawk breezed home a minute before Tom Longboat in a training run of eight miles the other day.

TO-DAY IN THE STOCK MARKET.

Furnished by J. N. Barber.—

New York, April 1.—The bulls were on the aggressive again this morning and opened the market strong with some stocks showing a gain of a point or more. C.P.R., Union and South Pacific, the Hill issues and the Gould stocks were the early features, with especial strength in Denver and Wabash preferred. Considerable long stock was met on the higher level, however, and the advance in the general market was checked. The best kind of buying is going on in Wabash preferred, and it is tipped for 60 on this move.

Good News for Those Who Are Interested In Dairying.

Readers of Farm and Dairy were pleased at the announcement early in the year, that they were to receive eight special magazine numbers of that bright, interesting and instructive publication, in addition to the regular weekly issues, all for the yearly subscription price of $1.

The special Poultry Number and the Garden and Orchard number have already made their appearance. They were a credit to their editors and to the great cause they advocate. The best is yet to come. The special Dairy Number, to be issued on April 7, will far outclass any former numbers.

A feature of this number will be its special dairy illustrations which will teach some truths in dairying. Many of the articles have been especially prepared by well known dairy authorities, such widely known men as Geo. Rice, Henry Glendinning, Dr. H. S. Reid, V. S., W. F. Stephen, Chas. F. Whitley, J. H. Grisdale, T. G. Raynor, A. A. Ayer, and others, will contribute articles.

The first of a series of articles on Alfalfa, by Mr. Henry Glendinning, will appear in this issue. Mr. Geo. Rice will demonstrate that "It Pays to Feed Well." An interesting article by Gordon Mann will tell of his experience in feeding fat into milk. Seed corn selection and the treatment of grains for smuts are handled in this issue by men who know. All through this issue will be replete with things that every farmer wants to and should know.

Farm and Dairy, including its special numbers, starting with the Dairy number about to be issued, can be had through the office of this publication for only $1 a year. Start your subscription for this great dairy paper with the special Dairy Number.

IMPROVEMENTS IN PICTURE SHOWS

Examiner Special.

New York, April 1.—The framing of new laws in regard to picture shows which has been going on for some time will be put in force May 1st. Among them is one in which the turning off of lights will be entirely done away with, a patent back ground is now to be used, which enables the patrons to see pictures thrown upon it much better. This will ensure safety and do away with discomforts of a darkened hall to moving picture theatre goers.

Another Contribution To Power Discussion

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir,—On reading the aftermath remarks on Power By-law by some of our councillors, and also some press remarks, they sound very much like the "how it happened consolations" of a political contest.

In the firstplace, the electors who turned down the by-law were not an unintelligent, uninformed, confused, misguided, etc., company, as some comments would infer. They were the same people that carried the Water Works By-law and quite alive to the best interests of Peterborough, and their upper chambers are just as well furnished as those who voted the other way.

Secondly, it was not power development that was voted down, but a hasty, superficial, inadequate commencement of it. If the power committee "sit up" and take notice of this they will be in a position to serve the community intelligently.

Ald. Gillespie interprets the mandate when he says he is prepared to go on with any adequate power scheme. This is exactly what we want. This vote means "get busy" and check up your professional paper estimates by the concrete facts of practical experience, and give us an estimate and plan to vote on as near actual fact as science and experience can furnish.

Third. It was not the power companies that defeated the by-lay nor the telegram with "wares to sell." It was the plain, straightforward statements of a citizen interested solely in the best interests of the town. A man who had exceptional opportunities to know the facts and twenty-five years' experience in practical work on this line. Mr. D. S. Harvey has rendered the town a special service for which we shall yet be thankful.

I have often conversed with him on this subject and these were his views long before any $15,000 By-law was thought of. His "inspiration" does not come directly, or indirectly, from power company sources, except as their disappointing experiences are a warning to us.

The Quebec bridge is a warning of the danger of relying solely on technical engineering. Practical men knew and stated that that structure would collapse, and now an expert Board of Government Engineers confirm their observations and statements regarding the weak points of the structure.

I spent four years in an establishment of world-wide reputation, and in all cases after their staff of engineers had submitted their plans a staff of practical men were called in to check, criticize and modify. After this it was again returned to the engineers for correction or modification. That firm has never had to recall any of its products.

In this power question we must have the invaluable assistance of practical experience. This power question may consist of a series of units, including the water works power (if any), but the Council would do well to appoint a commission of two or three, including an able, technical engineer, and competent practical engineer, to report on the whole question.

The city is now at the mercy of the light and power companies and rates may go anywhere in the near future, if there is a considerable further demand for light and power, and the Council has a problem on hand that requires immediate action.

Yours truly,
A. B. CUNNINGHAM.

East City Resident Found Tramps Sleeping In His Stable

Mr. Charles Adams, 103 Maria St., was very greatly surprised the other night on going out to his stable, to find a couple of tramps, cuddled up in the hay, at rest for the night. The police station was telephoned to and a couple of the force went over, but in the meantime the "weary Willies" had made their escape.

It is not known whether they had been staying there for some nights or not but several residents of Ashburnham have lately had calls from tramps in the search of something to eat.

Rural High School To Be Established In Ontario

Examiner Special (3:30 p.m.)

Toronto, April 1.—The Continuation schools will be separate of Ontario's system hereafter. The Minister of Education has introduced a bill providing for establishment of rural high schools in which matriculation work, and it deemed advisable, agriculture will be taught. They are to have separate trustee boards, at least two teachers, and are not to be established in present high school districts.

Alderman Hicks Indicates Meaning Of Power By-law Vote

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—The result of the vote on the by-laws on Tuesday last indicates clearly that the citizens of Peterborough are satisfied that the Water Commissioners have gone thoroughly into the matter of a new dam and accordingly voted the amount asked for that purpose.

The result of the vote on the City Council's By-law for $15,000 for a power house is a decided indication that the citizens are in favour of a municipal power plant, but that sufficient information had not been given them in the matter.

There is no question that the city must and will do its own lightning at the expiration of the present contract, five and a half years hence, and the defeat of the hasty proposition submitted on Tuesday last will result in a properly motioned power by-law being submitted to the ratepayers at a reasonably early date.

The Water Commissioners are, I understand, making provision in the new dam for a future power house—and it is only reasonable to suppose that the two power houses combined would lessen the cost of maintenance and constriction very materially.

The citizens have asked by their vote on Tuesday for further particulars and information—in the meantime the power cannot get away—it is the property of the city.

Yours truly,
R. HICKS.

THE STEAMER RAINBOW IS BEING ENLARGED

The steamer Rainbow, owned by Messrs. Burnet and Simpson, of Birdsall, will present a rather different appearance when she is put in commission this season. The steamer has been lengthened some twelve feet which gives that amount more deck room at the bow and consequently more accommodation on the most pleasant part of the steamer on summer days. A new marine engine of the latest pattern with 50 per cent more power than the old one has been installed, and a heavier propellor to match it. With the improvements on the power the Rainbow should show a clean pair of heels to any craft on the river as well as give more accommodation to her patrons.

The annual excursion of the Farmers' Institutes of East and West Peterboro and East Durham will take place in the third week in June to the Central Experimental Farm at Ottawa per C.P.R.

HAVE TREAD MILL FOR THE "JAILED"

Thought in Fort William That This Would Lessen Amount of Crime.

Police officials of Fort William favour the tread mill idea.

The thought was promulgated recently by a grand jury at Toronto. The jury decided to recommend that tread mills or other forms of labour be installed in all district jails.

There are about 70 prisoners in the Port Arthur jail, some of whom regard a term in jail as an invitation to an easy life," said Sergeant Watkins to-day. "They regard a jail sentence lightly because they know they will be comfortably housed and fed and will not have to work.

"A rock pile to provide material for the paving of a driveway connecting the two cities would not be a bad idea, but if it is not deemed advisable the treadmill would dissipate the idea that a jail sentence is a thing of joy."

Chief Dodds and Magistrate Palling were of the same opinion.

RE WEST PETERBOROUGH DOMINION ELECTION

A Counter Petition Filed at Osgoode Hall, Toronto, on Thursday.

On Thursday, at Osgoode Hall, Hon. J. R. Stratton had entered a counter or cross petition in connection with the West Peterborough Dominion election, against his opponent, in the October election, Mr. John Hampden Burnham. The counter petition alleges bribery, treating, personation, undue influence, etc. The petitioner asks that respondent be declared and found guilty of the corrupt and illegal acts charged, and adjudged disqualified and incapable of being elected to a sitting in the House of Commons, or of voting at an election of a member of that House, and of holding any office in the nomination of the Crown, or of the Governor-General in Canada.

The cross petition recites that on November 21, 1908, a petition against the election of petitioner was presented by respondent, and served substitutionally upon petitioner, and that by an order made on December 26, 1908, the time for presenting a cross-petition by petitioner was extended until April 2, 1909. The respondent in counter petition was served to-day.

NEW LAUNCHES FOR THE RIVER

Mr. H. B. Rye Has Been Busy With Some Fast Ones That are Nearly Finished

Among the new boats that will make their debut on the Otonabee this spring is The Witch. It has been built during the past winter by Mr. H. B. Rye, and is a neat little craft. It is 22 ft. in length and has a five horse power Wilson engine. Mr. L. Potvin has a roomy launch nearing completion built in the same shop. It is 26 feet by 5 feet and will have a 12 horse power Gray engine. The speed boat built for Mr. Hugesson is 30 feet by 4 feet and with a 50 horse power engine it should be able to step along at a lively rate. It is stated that after it is run on local waters for a time it will be entered in the races at St Anne's.

The Rob Roy and Tootsie will be put in the water within a few weeks providing the fine weather remains as it is at present.

ALTERATIONS TO BE MADE TO THE LOCAL POST OFFICE WILL FACILITATE THE DUTIES

Six Hundred and Fifty Boxes to be Removed — Partition Will be Built From Stamp Vendor to Wicket.

MORE SPACE REQUIRED

Alterations are soon to be made at the Post Office which will give more accommodation for the employes to carry out their duties. Six hundred and fifty boxes are to be taken out at the west side of the office and it is the intention to run a partition from the wicket to stamp vender, giving considerably more space for the work of assorting mail inside.

Those who had boxes rented were notified to return the keys by the 1st of April, in order that the necessary changes could be commenced right away. At present the space for working is somewhat limited. Each mail carrier has his own rack for letters and since the appointment of an extra postman, additional room is required.

KENORA MAN KILLED IN A DRUNKEN ROW

Examiner Special.

Winnipeg, Man., April 2.—A Kenora (Ont.) despatch says that as the result of a drunken quarrel John Bell was killed there at 1 o'clock this morning by being struck over the head with a heavy stable lantern in the hands of a companion, Alex. Miller. A pice of the lantern glass severed Bell's jugular vein. The affair took place at the shanty of Ed. Buckley. Buckley notified the authorities, and as a result Chief of Police Dryden has gone to the scene.

Another Donation Of Books To The Collegiate Institute

The establishment of a good library at the Collegiate Institute is now practically assured and with the donations of books coming in as they have been of late, it will not be long before the shelves will begin to take on a substantial appearance. Dr. Morrison is the latest to remember the young people at the Collegiate, and has given them nine volumes of Dumas' works, and eight volumes of the poets including Tennyson, Shelley, Burns and others. These are all well bound and will make a fine addition to the growing list that is forming the nucleus of an extensive library for the school. The Board of Education, it will be remembered, decided to accept any donations of this kind from citizens who wanted to assist in bringing the Collegiate up to the standard in this respect. Those who have any books to offer should communicate with Mr. John Crane, of the Dominion Bank, and thereby assist in a cause the worth of which is realised by everyone.

TWO HEADED CALF FROM THE TOWNSHIP OF MANVERS

Mr. W. J. E. Gilliott, of Millbrook, is in the city to-day with one of the most remarkable freaks of nature ever seen here and those who have been fortunate to see it are still talking about the phenomenon. It is nothing less than a two-headed calf with six legs, and two sets of internal organs, and has been pronounced one of the most wonderful curiosities in its line that has been called to the attention of veterinary doctors. The formation of the heads is the most remarkable feature of the freak. They grow into each other so that the two ears at the point of juncture of the heads are joined, but yet are both perfectly formed. The heads are distinct and complete with all the organs perfect and have grown at right angles to each other. The animal was born with six legs, two in front and four behind and had a hump on its back like a camel. It lived for several weeks after its birth, and is as big as a six month's old calf.

Mr. Gilliott secured the monstrosity from a farmer named John McCroery, who lives at Franklin Post Office, in the Township of Manvers, and intends to have it mounted and placed on exhibition, having already had several good offers for it. It would certainly be a sensational feature for fall fairs.

Fire In Refrigerator Car This Morning Did $100 Damage

Spontaneous combustion was the cause of a fire in a refrigerator car at the C.P.R. station this morning about a quarter past eight. The car contained hams and bacon and was being sent out by the George Matthews Co. The blaze was first noticed by an employee of the C.P.R., who sent in the alarm.

The brigade quickly responded, and it was only a space of a very short time before the fire was out.

Damage to the extent of $100 was done.

Stanley Hartley And Willie Jordan Are Placed In Homes

Mr. Wm. Henry of the Children's Shelter, has now ten children in that institution, four of the former fourteen having left yesterday. Stanley Hartley was taken to Belleville yesterday, where he has been placed in a suitable home. Willie Jordan was received at the House of Providence, but may, in the near future, also be placed in the country. Two other children from the city, who have been kept at the shelter, owing to the illness of their mother, have gone back to their home. The accommodation of the shelter has been well taxed during the winter, but its full capacity was not reached.

Normal School Closed To-day For The Easter Vacation

The Normal School closed this afternoon and the students are returning to their homes to spend their Easter vacation. The school will re-open on Tuesday, the twentieth. The attendance, after the holidays, will not be as large as before, a number of the students having been trying their examinations during the past two weeks and completed their courses. These belong to Grade A, and are those who had taught before entering the Normal.

SPEAKS WELL OF QUAKER OATS CO.

Canadian Grocer Refers to Manner in Which Press Association Was Received.

The trip of the Canadian Press Association to Peterborough last Saturday afforded the members of the fourth estate an excellent opportunity to visit the extensive plant of the Quaker Oats Co. in this city. Through the kindness of W. H. Denham, the general manager, the members were shown through every department of the establishment and their journey was a most profitable one."

The puffed rice department was interesting, especially to those who were fortunate in seeing the large guns discharge. The manufacture of the pasteboard and wooden boxes was also a revelation, but probably the greatest interest was taken in the filling with Quaker Oats the packages and the self-action of the machinery in closing and sealing them. One of the principal features of the plant is the cleanliness observed.

When each company of visitors concluded the journey through the establishment, they were entertained to a light luncheon by the young ladies of the office who served wheat berries and puffed rice with sugar and cream. Cigars for the gentlemen and a souvenir card for everybody made all leave in the best of spirits.—Canadian Grocer.

CHARITY FINANCES AT A LOW LEVEL

The finances of the charity department of the city are now as low as those of some of the people who have been receiving assistance from that source. Mr. Miller stated this morning that the allowance had run out and was now being overdrawn," and still the people were in few cases still asking for help. Many have been turned away and are very deserving cases, but there is no other alternative. Mr. Miller will likely appear before the council at the next meeting in regard to this matter, and it is altogether likely that the council will make some further provision.

BEAUTIFY THE CITY

In to-morrow's issue of the Examiner will appear the fifth of the series of articles by Mr. A. B. Cutting, editor of the Canadian Horticulturist, on "The Methods and Practice of Landscape Gardening." This article suggests a few of the ornamental shrubs suitable for landscape effect, and how to prune them, hints as to the trimming of hedges and suggestions on the culture of roses. These practical and reliable articles are again commended to the practical attention of our readers. By their general application Peterborough will become revolutionized and the most beautiful city in fact, as it is potentially, in the Dominion.

If he that makes two blades of grass grow where only one grew before is a benefactor to the race, he that does the same with a flower adds to the universal total of floral beauty.

UNSYSTEMATIC WASTE

Peterborough has, among other attractive features, rus-in-urbe conditions. In the midst of our bustling commerce, our urban elegance, our palatial business and private homes, we have the added claim of rural conditions, such as obtain in the swamp roads of a northern township. A day or two ago upon one of our chief business streets in one of the very longest occupied sections of the city, we had a strong team of horses stuck in the mud—on Hunter street, and the vehicle could not be extracted from the slough without outside assistance. It may be urged in exculpation of the city authorities that the mud hole resulted from on improperly filled sewer or other trench; but that, instead of being an excuse, only adds to the fault, if so mild a world can rightly be applied to criminal carelessness and disregard of obtaining value for the money of the ratepayers.

Not long ago the city fathers passed a valorous resolution to the effect that no person should be allowed to open the streets of the city without permission. This was the wise thing to do; but the more proper thing to do would be to enforce its spirit.

The adoption of the resolution was doubtless intended to prevent the distruction of our streets by the opening of trenches and the improper and slovenly filling of them which leads to depressions and deep mud holes. But it would seem that there has not been any attempt to enforce the resolution.

The mud hole that almost engulfed a vehicle and team of horses on Hunter street is one example; but there are scores of others. At the east end of Scott street, a trench was placed across the street parallel to the crossing last autumn. It was so sloppily filled that this spring the trench sunk in two places, one collapse making a yawning hole in the middle of the highway, a capital trap for breaking a horse's leg.

True the holes have been filled up, but here is where the waste of public money comes in. The city had to employ teams and men to make the repairs rendered necessary for the accommodation of some person or company that derived benefit from the opening of the trench, and the city was put to double expense for their accommodation.

And this is not the end; this same trench will sink in other places for it is a lesson of experience that a dishonestly filled trench will sink more or less for years calling, if it is laid in the street, for annual repairs.

This may seem a small matter; so it is if it were confined to one single trench in a single street, but it is made necessary in every part of the city. On Charlotte street west, the gutter has been damned and this spring the water is held back to overflow the highway. The dam is caused by the mounds left from the careless filling of trenches to carry water, or gas, or sewer pipes to a private residence.

Last summer Charlotte street was rebuilt from the boundary to Park. No sooner had the fine roadway been nicely finished, than it was ripped up for gas or other pipes. The trench was slightly to one side of the crown of the street. In filling a ridge marking the line of trench was left projecting several inches above the level of the drive.

To-day the street to where the trench begins was beautifully dry and clean. Nearly the whole length of the dam formed by the trench is mud and water. The ridge formed by the improper trench filling prevented the water from flowing naturally to the north gutter. It had to flow across the roadway to the south gutter. The result is that while a vehicle is spinning gayly along the smooth dry part of the street, it has to slow down to pass through the shallow morass of mud created by the city failing to enforce the spirit of its resolution.

Not only should no person or company be allowed to open a street without permission but they should be compelled to leave the street in the exact condition in which they found it. This may cost more, but those who get the benefit should pay for it, not the ratepayers at large, who get no benefit by the injury of having street traffic spoiled and then of paying for its repair, for private or company benefit.

If any sort of system were applied to the management of the streets of the city, the filling of trenches would be done under city inspection and in case of the city having to make subsequent repairs, the person or company getting the benefit should be made to pay for them.

Another result of systematic lack of oversight is the fact that the culvert at the junction of Charlotte and St. Thomas streets is blocked with ice and all the water from the west is dammed at this blocked culvert and is flowing over the roadway guttering and destroying it. Culverts are put in to carry away water, but if they are kept blocked in spring when they are most needed, the money spent on them is wasted.

The costly lack of system in connection with our streets has been in operation ever since the town was a town. Is it not time our aldermen got together and devised some system, whose faithful application would prevent absolute waste of money on street work and give the ratepayers some value for the money expended?

The best business in the world would collapse if there was a complete lack of system.

EXTENSION, THE WORD

(Cobalt Citizen.)

An official of the Temiskaming & Northern Ontario Railway, who naturally did not care to be quoted, stated recently, in conversation with a representative of this paper, that there are just two alternatives before the Government Railway. The official had the whole road in mind from North Bay to Cochrane, and he was considering the future of the institution as a business proposition. The alternations were these: First, sell out; second, spend a further $10,000,000 on the building of branch lines, or feeders.

The railroad man then went on to state that the former alternative was out of the question as the electors of the Province would never permit so humiliating a surrender. Such retrogiession was an impossibility on the part of any Government; progression was a Hobson's choice.

Those who know the T. & N. O. from North Bay to Cobalt only will wonder at his statement. There is nothing further needed to make this section pay. But from the C. P. R. and G. T. R. Junction to the silver camps is considerably less than half the line. The Cobalt traffic cannot be expected to make profits for the whole railroad. The official had figured it out. He knew whereof he spoke. To make the T. & N. O. a permanently paying concern it must build feeders.

There is at present an active demand for the extension of the Charlton branch of the T. & N. O. to Elk Lake and Gow Ganda, and some who have special knowledge of the country contend that the present insignificant spur should be continued right through to Sudbury.

It is the common impression in old Ontario that this Province should have always at hand easily accessible farms upon which to homestead desirable immigrants from the old country or unemployed men in our own land. The future of the Province demands that her resources be developed and used.

Here are three facts all co-related.

The necessity facing the business management of the T. & N. O. Railroad for feeders.

The active demand in this country for a particular branch line and a favourable opportunity for building.

A lively sentiment throughout the Province for the colonization of our northern territory.

All three facts spell the one word extension.

It may be granted that a railway opens up a country for ten miles on either side of the line. On this basis of calculation for every mile of feeders which the T. & N. O. might build, twenty square miles of territory, or 128,000 acres of land, or 1,280 farms would be opened up for settlement. Ontario is asking for new lands upon which to place immigrants. The Clay Belt is 16,000,000 acres in extent. To continue to pay the T. & N. O. must continue to progress.

Why not adopt a progressive policy of public ownership which would make the present Government Road a permanent success, and at the same time would offer as they were required, free grant farms to upwards of 160,000 settlers?

CANADIAN HOME MISSIONS

The first day of the great Laymen's Missionary Congress of the Laymen's Missionary Movement in Toronto, properly gave prominence to the needs of Canada in the mission field. Mr. N. W. Rowell, K.C., gave an address which touched the highwater mark and stirred the congress to enthusiasm. His address dealing with an aspect of the Missionary movement of supreme domestic interest, is so interwoven with the future of this country—of the greater Canada yet to be—that the portion of Mr. Rowell's great address relating to this Canada is reproduced and commended to the careful reading and thought of the public. Of "Canada's Opportunity at Home." Mr. Rowell said:

Canada's Opportunity

Carlyle has said, "Of a man or of a nation we enquire, first of all, What religion had they?" Answering this question is giving us the soul of the history of the man or nation. If we would rightly interpret the history of the nations of ancient or modern times we must seek to understand their religion. Religion has been the most potent factor in individual and national life. Dr Lyman Abbott in a recent publication expresses this thought when he states that nature worship has given to the world Africa, agnosticism, represented in Conficianism, has given to the world China, Pantheism has given to the world India, Christianity has given the world Europe and America.

Canada's supreme opportunity at home is not in the development of her resources, or in the regulation of her trade, or in the improvement of her political relations, or even in the establishment of a navy, or in all these combined—her supreme opportunity at home is in making the religion of Christ a real and vital thing to all her people, and her supreme opportunity abroad is helping to make this religion known to the non-Christian nations of the world.

Canada with a present population of not more than 7,000,000 is larger than the United States, including all its possessions, with their combined population of over 100,000,000. Canada has almost as large an area as the Continent of Europe with its 400,000,000. It has 33 per cent. of the total area of the British Empire with its population of over 400,000,000. From Sydney on the Atlantic to Vancouver on the Pacific is 2,500 miles, and from the international boundary north to Herschel Island—the most northerly mission station of any of our Canadian churches—is 1,400 miles.

You say area is relatively unimportant; Canada lies so near the north pole that but a small proportion of the total area is reasonably habitable by man. This view for many years largely prevailed in Europe, in a measure in the United States, and even to some extent in our own country; exploration and investigation are rapidly dispelling this erroneous conception.

Canada's Climate

What is our situation and what the habitable area? It is an interesting fact that probably 25 per cent. of the total area of the United States proper lies north of the City of Toronto. Edinburgh is 800 miles north of Toronto, St. Petersburg is 1,100 miles north of Toronto. The warm currents of the Atlantic find their counterpart in the warm currents of the Pacific, and the climate on the west coast of America is largely simlar to that on the west coast of Europe. Dawson City, the most northerly city in Canada, is 1,400 miles north of Toronto. Dawson City is as far north of Toronto as Mexico City is soutn. Dawson City is as far north of the international boundary as Los Angeles is south. It is undoubtedly true that very large areas in the northern part of Canada, so far as we know at present, are not reasonably habitable, yet Canada probably has an area almost as large as the United States which is reasonably habitable so far as climate is concerned. Even within this restricted area, as large as the United States, there are, may be, large areas the value of which we have not as yet ascertained, but after making all due allowances, there still remains an area at least half as large as the Continent of Europe, which, so far as we know at present, should be the home of men. Certain it is that the extent of territory open for settlement, and the richness and variety of the resources, ensure that in the very near future these territories must be the home of many millions of people.

Into the new territories and the large centres of population in the east the immigrants are coming by the thousands. In the four years preceding 1907 more government land was taken up, more homestead entries made in the provinces west of the great lakes than in the whole 28 years preceding. It seems as if no distant future the balance of population in Canada may be west of the great lakes, and that the controlling factors in our social, political and religious life, may be the social, political and religious forces and ideals which dominate that western land. No man can afford to be indifferent to the conditions prevailing there.

American and Canadian Immigration Compared

We have wondered at the volume of immigration to the United States and have felt, perhaps, not without cause, that they have not been able entirely to assimilate, Americanize and evangelize the immense number of immigrants they have received. There are sections of the United States where the Sabbath day is not represented, where Christian institutions are not held in esteem, and where the general laws of the land are not observed as they are in the older and better settled portions of either their country or ours.

Their churches have not been able to bring all these incoming multitudes under the power and influence of the gospel in such a way as to transform their lives and bring them into harmony with the laws, the institutions and the Christian ideals which they, as we, covet and hold dear. The gospel of Christ has not cleared the way and laid the foundation. But great as has been their immigration, it has never in any decade during the past hundred years, exceeded an average of one per cent. per annum, of their population, and in no year has it exceeded more than about 1½ per cent.

In Canada, during the five years from 1901 to 1906, our average annual immigration exceeded 2½ per cent, of our poulation, and during the year 1907 it was between four and five per cent. In proportion of our population, we received in the year 1907 about three times as many immigrants as the United States received in any year in its history. The United States had a population of over 20,000,000 before the people of that country were called upon to receive and bring into touch with their American and Christian ideals as many immigrants as we were called upon to receive and endeavour to assimilate in the year 1907.

Let us not forget that the immigrants are not coming to us like pilgrims to New England, for "freedom to worship God," but solely to improve their material condition, and naturally their dominant thought and great objective is their own material advancement. We are supplying them with lands, homes and all kinds of opportunities for material wellbeing but we must ever remind ourselves of:

The Supreme Question,

"Man cannot live by bread alone."

The peril of these new communities is that in the effort to gain the world they lose their souls. What are we doing to supply their deeper needs—Those unseen things that abide and are eternal? The supreme question in Canada to-day is: "What will be the religious life of these new communities?" The churches must act now. Was there ever given to the churches of any land a greater opportunity and a graver responsibility?

All our churches are seeking to meet the needs of these settlers, but so far none of them have been able to satisfactorily overtake what they deem to be their share of this work—that is either to supply a sufficient number of properly qualified men, or to provide adequate means for their support. In the new and sparsely settled districts, there is unfortunately an amount of overlapping and duplicating of work by the differnt denominations, which should be avoided, and by a display of Christian co-operation and practical business common sense could be avoided witn great advantage to the communities served, and to the churches concerned, by releasing men and money for needed work elsewhere. But, after making all due allowances for this overlapping, more qualified men and larger financial resources are urgently needed.

Our country is just in the process of caking. Her future depends largely on the work of this generation. By the time another generation comes upon the scene, the foundation will have been laid and the general character of the superstructure determined. Now is the hour of our supreme opportunity. In this new country the Christion faith has found a deep and abiding place in the minds and hearts of the masses of the people. We are happily free from many of the social, industrial and political problems which are so characteristic of the countries of Europe, conditions inherited from the past and which baffle the skill of the wisest statesman and social reformers; we are so far happily free, or largely so, from many of the industrial and social problems which our American friends find so difficult to deal with. This freedom enlarges our opportunities and greatly increases our responsibilities.

What of the Future?

What has the future in store for us? The material development of the past ten years forms no adequate basis from which to judge of the development of the future. The progress may not be uniform or uninterrupted. There may, and very probably will be, an ebb in the tide of immigration, but only to be followed by a greater flow. Who can number the millions who, before the close of the century, will occupy this Canada of ours? Who can foretell the tides of commerce which will sweep across our land when Canada in the vigour of her youth stretches out her hands towards Europe and Asia?

Who can foretell Canada's place in the world's politics when in the fulness of her strength she stands by her mother in the councils of the empire, and through the empire makes her influence felt in the world? Whether that future will be worthy or unworthy depends, not on our material resources, nor our material development, but on the life and the character of our citizens. This life and character will be the outcome of their religious beliefs. If true to our privileges and opportunities, we should be able on this half of the North American continent to develop the best type of Christian civilization this world has known. This is Canada's opportunity at home.

Sir James Announces His Plans For the Aid to Railways of the Province For the Coming Year—Manitoulin to Have Winter Connection — Stipulations Are Made In Soo Extension.

Toronto, April 2.—Before the Legislature adjourned last night, Sir James Whitney introduced several bills, which embodied the Government railway legislation this session.

The bill to aid the Canadian Northern Ontario for a line approximately 500 miles in length from Bellwood to Port Arthur, of which an announcement had previously been made, contains the provisions under which the grant of 4,000 acres per mile will be made.

The land will be granted to the company, if the company accepts the conditions, in alternate blocks in the clay belt to be designated by the Minister of Lands and Mines. The work of construction must be commenced within one year from the date of the passing of the act, and is to be completed by the 31st December, 1913, unless an extension is granted by the Government.

The Premier explained that it might be necessary to vary the terms of this section, in order that there may be no possible misconstruction of the meaning of the act. The bill as finally passed must protect the interests of the province, but it is just as important that the interests of the railway company are considered.

The lands are to be granted in fee simple to the railway company. The mines are claimed for every section of ten miles constructed, minerals are reserved to the crown, as well as all pine timber. With reference to jack pine, an exception is made where it is found on lands unsuited for agricultural purposes.

In order to provide railway connection all the year round for the inhabitants of Manitoulin Island, an extension is granted to the Manitoulin & North Shore Railway. Thirteen miles of road are already completed. The extension is granted to the 31st December, 1911. The company must spend $15,000 per month for six months of 1909, and $25,000 per month during the whole of 1910. The thirty miles of road necessary to complete this portion of the line must be completed before the 31st December, 1910. The grant which has been renewed provides for a cash subsidy of $5,000 per mile, which can be claimed for any section of ten miles constructed.

An extension is also given to the Algoma Central and Hudson Bay Railway, which runs from Sault Ste. Marie to Michipicoten Harbor on Lake Superior. Seventy miles of this line have already been constructed, in addition to the Michipicoten branch to Helen Mine, and 100 miles are graded and ready for the steel.

To earn the extension the Lake Superior Corporation must spend $1,500,000 on improvements and betterments to the plants of the subsidiary companies at Sault Ste. Marie. The companies have already in prospect the installation of extensive improvements at the steel plant, which will make it one of the most complete on the continent. This expenditure must be made before Dec. 31, 1910. Construction on the railway is to commence before May 1, 1910, and $25,000 per month is to be expended until the line is completed to Michipicoten and a junction formed with the C.P.R.

About 1,500,000 acres of land contiguous to the railway are to be immediately thrown open to prospectors, excepting iron, coal, iron pryrites and nickel, which are reserved to the Lake Superior Corporation.

The original grant to this company gave 7,400 acres per mile to be alotted in alternate sections.

The Central Ontario Railway has constructed 25 out of 40 miles north from Picton. To complete the 15 miles the subsidy of $3,000 per mile is renewed.

A short line of railway from Bruce Mines, the charter for which is expired, is to be restored. Twenty miles are projected. A grant of 1,000 acres per mile is given for the construction of six miles only.

The Ontario & Western Railway is projected from Wauk Station in Thunder Bay District, a point on the Grand Trunk Pacific. After seven miles of road are constructed the line strikes a lake, on which begins 40 miles of unobstructed navigation. One thousand acres per mile are to be given for the seven miles of line.

In the same locality, but westerly, a railway is projected from the Town of Keewatin to Kenora, a distance of 20 miles, for which 1,000 acres per mile are to be given.

Was Troubled With Weak Back For Years.

Could Not Perform Household Duties. Doctors Attended Without Avail.

Mrs. Arch. Schnare, Black Point, N.B., writes: "For years I was troubled with weak back. Oftentimes I have lain in bed for days, being scarcely able to turn myself, and I have also been a great sufferer while trying to perform my household duties. I had doctors attending me without avail and tried liniments and plasters, but nothing seemed to do me any good. I was about to give up in despair when my husband induced me to try Doan's Kidney Pills, and after using two boxes I am now well and able to do my work. I am positive Doan's Kidney Pills are all that you claim for them, and I would advise all kidney sufferers to give them a fair trial."

Doan's Kidney Pills are a purely vegetable medicine, realizing quick, permanent relief, without any after ill effects. A medicine that will absolutely cure Backache and all forms of Kidney and Bladder Disease.

A medicine that strengthens the kidneys so that they are enabled to extract the poisonous uric acid from the blood and prevent the chief cause of Rheumatism.

Price 50 cents per box, or 3 for $1.25, at all dealers or The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

In ordering specify "Doan's."

Hamilton, April 2.—The public library board decided to accept Andrew Carnegie's offer of $75,000 for new library, if the City Council consents. A sub-committee was appointed to advertise the present building for sale and to select a new site. Southam, Limited, has offered $25,000 for the building with the intention of using it as an office for The Spectator. It will be put up for public bid.

Manslaughter Charged.

Stratford, April 2.—A charge of manslaughter was laid by the crown yesterday against Aloysius Guerin, in connection with the death of the late Alexander Sutherland, who was found dead in the morning of Feb. 28 at the back door of Guerin's house.

He will come up for a preliminary hearing to-day.

Buffalo Plumbers Strike.

Buffalo, April 2.—Two hundred and fifty plumbers struck here yesterday. They demand an increase in wages from $3.50 to $4 a day and the adoption of a number of shop rules.

Children No Obstacle.

Albany, N.Y., April 2.—Landlords may no longer refuse to rent apartments because the tenants applying have children without being subjected to a fine for committing a misdemeanor, if a bill introduced yesterday by Assemblyman Goldberg becomes a law. The bill also prohibits a provision in a lease that such lease shall terminate on the birth of a child, in such house or apartment. The measure applies only to first-class cities.

Family Overcome by Gas.

London, April 2.—At 6 o'clock last evening when neighbors broke into the house of James McLean on Chesley avenue it was to find McLean, his wife and three children, in an unconscious state from gas. For eighteen hours they had been that way. All will probably recover except a ten-year-old girl, who is in a serious condition.

Can't "Assist Emigration."

Ottawa, April 2.—The Senate private bills committee yesterday morning reported the bill to incorporate the Salvation Army in Canada, with the clause to "assist emigration to Canada" altered to read that the Army might assist persons "in Canada" who were desirous of owning their own lands and homes.

Insurance Hearing Is Ended.

Ottawa, April 2.—The banking and commerce committee of the Commons completed the hearing of evidence regarding the insurance bill yesterday morning. The proposed measure will now be considered by the sub-committee.

John R. Reid of Ottawa, president of the Life Underwriters' Association of Canada, presented the case for the agents before the committee. He supported the attitude of the life managers in opposing the abolition of estimates and deferred dividend policies. He objected to the publication of all salaries over $4,000. He thought that was carrying publicity too far.

Big Oil Deal.

Chatham, April 2.—The biggest oil deal which has yet been put through in the Tilbury oil field has been completed, and an English company recently formed will take over the property of the Roth, Argue and Sterns and other properties in the Tilbury East Canada Oilfields Co., and Sir James Shaw, one of the directors, is now on his way to Canada.

The new company is capitalised at $1,000,000 and the deal means an expenditure of $250,000. Two hundred thousand will be spent at once in operating the leases thus secured.

French Treaty Adopted.

Paris, April 2.—The Senate yesterday by a vote of 317 to 6, adopted the French-Canadian commercial treaty. Senators Delahaye, LeBreton and others made a last effort to further postpone action on the treaty, pending the revision of the French tariff. They directed their attacks especially against the clauses relating to cattle and agricultural machinery, asserting that the machinery clause would open a side door to the United States.

Brakeman May Die.

St. Catharines, April 2.—Geo. Aldridge, a G.T.R. brakeman, is probably dying at the hospital here.

The other trainmen on the freight on which Aldridge was employed, which was coming this way from Toronto, found Aldridge lying bruised and unconscious among the coal in the tender with the skull fractured. It is thought he was struck by a bridge.

Conmee Wins Again.

Ottawa, April 2.—In the railway committee yesterday morning another protest from the Province of Ontario was registered and disregarded. The bill is to incorporate the Superior & Western Ontario Railway Co., and James Conmee backed it.

Jury Disagree.

LEGAL COMMITTEE DECIDES TO GRANT CLAIM FOR $90

Mr. Johnston Greer's Claim for Damages for Injuries Received in an Accident Was Allowed.

HELD MEETING LAST NIGHT

The Legal Committee of the City Council met last night for the purpose of hearing several claims for damages against the city.

Mr. Johnston Greer's claim for $90 damages for injuries received through falling on the sidewalk on Water st., north, being the most important.

There were present: Ald. Turner, (chairman), Mayor Rush, Ald. Duffus and Metheral, City Solicitor Hall.

Mr. Wm. Higgins appeared before the committee to support Mr. Greer's claim and stated that the sidewalk in question was dangerous, and he thought the city was liable. There was a wire laid along the edge of the walk to keep the boards down, and this was also dangerous as it was broken in many places, the ends sticking up so as to trip pedestrians.

Mr. Greer addressed the committee on his own behalf, claiming that the walk at that point was in bad condition on account of ice and water accumulating upon it. Speaking of his accident he stated that he slipped and fell backwards striking his wrist upon a plank that was out of place.

Mr. Allison supported the other two speakers in the claim that the sidewalk was dangerous, and furthermore informed the committee that the north end of the city was badly neglected.

Mr. Greer's claim was for $90. He had been unable to work for a month and his doctor's bill had amounted to $35.

The committee in considering the matter after the interested parties had been heard, decided that in view of the evidence, thay had no other course but to allow the claim and accordingly on motion of Ald. Duffus and Metheral it was decided to recommend the payment of $90 to Mr. Greer.

Another claim for damages was from Mr. W. G. Metheral, caused by the blocking up of Aylmer street last year for a month and a half. Both the city engineer and the city solicitor were of the opinion that Mr. Metheral was not entitled to any damages, as the entrance to his shop was 150 feet north of the barricade and was not interfered with in any way.

The chairman stated that in the face of the two reports he could not see that the committee could reasonably recommend anything different. There may have been a little inconvenience, but not sufficient to cause any damage.

After a long discussion and dickering with the matter, Mayor Bush moved that no action be taken. This was seconded by Ald. Duffus, and it carried.

VETERAN ODDFELLOWS WERE PRESENTED WITH JEWELS

Past Grands' Night With Peterboro Lodge No. 111 Last Night—Enjoyable Evening Was Spent.

VERY LARGE ATTENDANCE.

It was Past Grands' Night last evening with Peterborough Lodge, No. 111, I.O.O.F., and, as usual, a very enjoyable time was spent. The Initiatory Degree was put on by a team of Past Grands and three members were admitted into the order. The attendance was very large, fully one hundred members of the Lodge being present, and the evening was one of exceptional interest.

During the evening Bro. D. H. Moore, P.G., presented veterans' jewels to several members of the Lodge: Bros. Harry Long, B. McWhinnie, Harry Evans, R. J. Kidd, Frank Perry, J. D. Craig, S. Clegg and Frank Tully.

At the conclusion of the lodge work a very enjoyable banquet was held in the dining hall, where Bro. Thomas Hooper served a delightful repast in his usual efficient and satisfactory manner.

The following toast list was run off:

Chairman—Bro. Dr. R. F. Morrow.

God Save the King.

The Grand Lodge of Ontario — Bro. A. A. Fowler, D.D.G.M.

Charter Members—Bro. Wm. Hinchcliffe, P.G.

Visiting Brethren—Bros. Keyes and Collier.

Absent Members.—Bro. W. J. Green

Bro. D. Moore, P.G., favoured the gathering with a recitation which was much appreciated.

A quartette composed of Bros. Hill, Hall, Prest and Thornton gave a nice selection, an encore being demanded.

Bro. McLaren was also pleasing in his choice from his repertoire.

Mann Lumber and Cheese Box Company's Spring Operations

A Brisk Business Developing—Encouraging Prospects for Building Supplies, Cheese Boxes, Etc.

With the return of spring an increased hum of business is heard around the Mann Lumber and Cheese Box Company's premises on Dublin street. The cheese box factory has started in making up stock, and has been running briskly the past few weeks. By next week it is expected to be working up to its full capacity. This season the stock of elm for cheese-boxes and bearings is larger than ever before, and Mr. Mann states that at least 50,000 boxes will be under order this season. The cheese box trade is not confined to this district. Already large shipments are under order for the D. Derbyshire Co., of Brockville, through their local agent, Mr. Geo. A. Gillespie, of White & Gillespie, dealers in dairy and grocery supplies.

The Mann Lumber Company has also finished an unusually successful season in custom sawing for the farmers and others. While the sleighing lasted, their portable saw mill was kept very busy cutting up so that the cut was far ahead of any previous season.

In the planing mill the prospects for a large business in builders' and contractors' material and house furnishing supplies is improving every day. Skilled workmen are now engaged in making up stocks of doors, sashes, blinds, mouldings and other finishing stuff, in preparation for the opening of the building season. Stocks of lumber, shingles, laths and building material is piling up in the yard to meet the demands of the trade.

Shipments of material for dwellings and cottages out of the city has already been made, and orders for buildings to be erected in the city are now being estimated for from the plans and specifications.

Mr. Ernest Mann, the President of the company, is devoting his own personal attention to the business. The excellent facilities which the planing mill and factory possesses will enable the company to serve the public expeditiously and with satisfaction.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

There appeared recently in your paper a despatch from Vancouver, regarding the suicide of Mr. J. J. Harrison, while in a state of despondency, which he claimed was the result of Christian Science treatment by Mr. C. A. Varey. Harrison told the police that Mr. Varey had tried to get him to sign over all his property to the church, and he further said: "Varey brought me up to a stage of mental treatment where it would seem that I had to renounce all my connection with any society or party, either political or religious, also cancel all insurance policies, wills and other unnecessary encumbrances, etc."

In a letter just received from Mr. Varey, he denies entirely the ellegations against him. He says: "There is absolutely no truth in the assertion that I influenced the man to give up his money for any purpose whatever. The attorney-general has been asked by us to make a thorough investigation."

That no credence was placed by the police in the story told them by Harrison is shown in the fact that although he told them he would commit suicide if the depression continued, they did nothing to prevent him doing so. What Mr. Harrison claims Mr. Varey asked him to do is entirely contrary to the teaching and practice of Christian Science. An explanation for the attempt to discredit Christian Science, and the publicity given this incident may be found in the fact that recently, through the activity of Mr. Varey and other Christian Scientists in British Columbia, a medical bill, tending to restrict Christian Science practice, was so amended as to leave Christian Scientists free to practice their religious beliefs.

Yours respectfully,

C. R. MUNRO.

"True Irish Hearts" Will Be Reproduced On Tuesday, April 13

It was announced to-day that the dramatic section of St. Peter's T.A.S. will reproduce their dainty Irish comedy drama "True Irish Hearts" on Tuesday evening, April 13th. There were many who missed the first presentation and from the glowing accounts even by those who were there they were eager to see it. The committee and principals have been pressed to repeat the performance and the opportunity of seeing it is now being offered.

The success of "True Irish Hearts" should guarantee a crowded house on the reappearance of the clever amateurs who won well merited praise on their splendid production of the 17th of March.

GASOLINE CANOE IS GOING WELL

Miniature Engine Pushes It Along With Small Propeller at 6 Miles an Hour

Messrs. Bennett and Greenwood, who have been experimenting with their gasoline canoe, had it running in fine shape last evening. A number of launch owners rode in it and were pleased with the way it behaved. Its speed averaged about six miles per hour, although it is claimed that this rate can be exceeded. The small propeller will be replaced with a larger one, which, it is stated, will bring about the desired result.

Launch owners are already talking of getting their boats out and Rye's landing will undoubtedly present a busy scene on Good Friday.

CHIMNEY BLAZE ON DUBLIN STREET TO-DAY

The Fire Brigade was called to put out a chimney fire at the residence of Mr. George Brousseau, 206 Dublin st., this morning about half-past seven. There was only a little girl in the house at the time and she was much alarmed. The blaze was extinguished with little difficulty.

JUDGMENT IN NORWOOD CASE

Was Heard by Judge Harding of Lindsay at Last Assizes Here.

This action recently heard in the County Court, Peterborough, before Judge Harding, of Lindsay, and a jury (Judge Weller would not hear it because of family connections—is of some interest here where the parties to it are well known: Mr. F. W. Wilkins, Land Surveyor, sued Mrs. Geo. Grover for services rendered and to enforce certain promises made to him by defendant.

Judgment was given plaintiff for $39.65 for the services claimed, but (Judge took the case from the jury all evidence was in) held that the promises (not in writing) and which were not denied were not enforcable, the judge holding that a principle of law known as "Nudum Pactum" should apply. Plaintiff therefore failed as regards the promises.—Norwood Register.

PILES CURED IN 6 TO 14 DAYS

HAD RIGHT THUMB BADLY CRUSHED

Mr. Harry Manley Met With Painful Accident the Other Day—Was Moving Safe.

Mr. Harry Manley, employed in Mr. A. Comstock's furniture shop met with a very painful accident the other day. He was lifting a heavy safe when it slipped and fell with great force on his right thumb mangling it so badly that a portion of it was severed. A physican was called and dressed the injury.

NEW ORGANIST AT ST. LUKE'S CHURCH

Mr. Martin B. Kilpack, of Ottawa, has assumed the position as organist and choirmaster of St. Luke's church. Mr. Kilpack is the son of a Church of England clergyman, and a graduate of the Guildhall School of Music, London, England. He comes highly recommended as a talented musician. The former organist, Miss English, resigned her position last Sunday, requesting it take place April 1.

MAPLE SYRUP FOR TO-MORROW

A Supply Expected From the Farmers at Saturday's Market.

Although the maple syrup season is now well started, there has not been very much of the dainty brought into the city. In fact so far as can be learned there has not been any. Enquiry among the merchants states that the farmers will likely bring in a small supply to-morrow. Everything is pointing towards a good run of sap and the syrup should be plentiful this year. As long as the price is all right the citizens will not mind buying it up, but they may be expected to spring any surprise.

Women Are Husband Hunters And Will Always Be Rivals

So Says One of Her Sex—The Difference Between Men and Women in Their Relations to Those of Their Own Kind.

WOMEN MUST MARRY.

Schopenhauer knew what he was talking about when he said that every woman regards every other woman as an enemy. But he didn't know at all what he was talking about when he said nature was to blame for this antagonism. Indeed, Mr. Schopenhauer, nature hadn't any hand in the matter. This is how it came about.

When a man meets another he neither criticizes his actions closely nor takes occasion to find fault with the trim of his beard. He invites him in to have a drink, and the two proceed to find out what they have in common, and their friendship is thereby established. Unless, mind you, one man has a job which the other man wants. Then they are rivals and fists and brickbats are the amenities exchanged.

When two women meet each sees in the other a possible rival. The object of every woman is to find a husband. As husbands are few and desirable husbands fewer still, there is always rivalry. This getting a husband determines not only woman's economic position but her social position as well. These two factors are the foundation of the bitterness between women. So that when two of them meet there is no spontaneous heartiness between them such as men know. Each one criticizes the fashion of the other's hat and dress. Every possible sarcasm and ridicule is developed mentally to use when occasion offers. Each one takes note of every possible point of difference between the two, and these differences are what woman's mind records instead of, as with men, remembering the points in common.

But can woman be blamed? Certainly not! So long as woman must marry to escape the bad conditions of modern labour, so long that rivalry will continue. So long as woman must marry to gain the favour of complete social recognition that rivalry cannot die. While society persists in dubbing and considering woman only as a female, though admitting man is a human being, while society will have it that a woman's sex life is the public's affair upon which her social position is determined, so long will women strive, by pushing each other down or out of the way to raise themselves to the longed-for pinnacle where the wife of a rich man sits.

Time was in the world's history when neither her job nor her social position was affected by woman's mating. In patriarchal days woman held a position of dignity and prominence. When poverty was no longer held in common but by individuals, man's greed made him gradually enslave woman to work for him and pile up his wealth. That his offspring alone should inherit that wealth man decided that a woman should bear no children to any but one father. Complete social ostracism followed any infraction of the strictly domestic rule. Thus the marriage institution as we know it to-day was brought into existence. As a mature woman who has no association with man is not physically perfect, such woman could not compete with others in work. So it came about gradually that to work to advantage woman must marry and work in the house.—Elizabeth Gurley Flynn in the Sunday World.

ASSISTANT CLERK FOR THE MARKET

The next situation in the market affair is the obtaining of an assistant to help with the work on Saturday mornings. The farmers come and go in about an hour's time and it is considered impossible for one man in the regular weekly crowd to push his way through to collect all the tolls in that length of time, besides having the scales and the open market to attend to. Alderman Bradburn, of the Property Committee is looking for a good man for this work.

BIGGEST DIVIDEND EVER DISTRIBUTED IN THE CAPITAL

Examiner Special.

Ottawa, April 1.—What is probably the biggest dividend ever distributed in the Capital at the one time to-day found its way to a number of stockholders of the Right of Way Mining Company. Cheques aggregating $75,000 were mailed yesterday to the Ottawa stockholders who get 85 per cent of this amount and were naturally feeling in good humor when they received it to-day. They benefitted people in Ottawa, Toronto, Montreal, Detroit and New York mainly, and the great bulk of the stock is held here. The $75,000 represents the usual quarterly dividend of six per cent. for the quarter ending 31st of March, and the bonus of nine per cent. Since it was started two years and a half ago this Company has paid about 43 per cent. and all the original stockholders have received far more back than they put into the venture. There have been four dividends of seven per cent. and this fifth one of six per cent. besides the bonus of nine per cent.

It is said on good authority that the next quarterly one will also carry with it a substantial bonus—probably a nine per cent. one.

Amongst those who received large cheques to-day were the following: George Goodwin, E. Seybold, T. A. Beament, George Burn, C. J. Booth, A. W. Fraser, James Gibson, Dr. J. F. Kidd, E. Larmonth, E. R. McNeill, C. A. Parker, Mrs. L. B. Seybold, J. G. Turriff, M.P., all of Ottawa; A. Adamson, of Winnipeg; A. Mackey, H. J. Mackey, and W. H. Williams, of Pembroke, and Ernest Pitt, of Montreal.

ADDRESS ON JAPANESE ARMY IN MANCHURIA

For nearly forty years the Young Men's Christian Association has carried on its work and exerted its influence among the Militia Men of Canada. This work was started at Niagara-on-the-Lake, at the annual training camp of the Volunteers of Ontario.

From a small beginning this work has grown to tremendous proportions and almost every country now regards the Young Men's Christian Association as a necessity where troops are assembled.

In time of peace this work might seem pleasant and easy, but in time of war there might seem no place for the Association amongst soldiers engaged in fighting.

During the Spanish-American war and the South African war, representatives of the Association were found with the soldiers and during the Russo-Japanese war, the Association was represented on the firing line by its secretaries. So much was the work of the Association among the Japanese soldiers appreciated that the Emperor and Empress of Japan at the close of the war gave to the Association $5,000 in gold for the extension of its work.

Mr. C. V. Hibbard was one of the secretaries of the Young Men's Christian Association, who were with the Japanese army during the war, and next Sunday he is to address a meeting in the Y. M. C. A. Gymnasium at 4:15 p.m. His subject will be "With the Japanese Army in Manchuria." He also speaks in St. Paul's Church Sunday evening.

MR. ARTHUR BELL'S HOUSE WAS TOTALLY DESTROYED BY FIRE

The home of Mr. Arthur Bell who, lives in Douro township, about a mile from Nassau, was totally destroyed by a fire which broke out yesterday afternoon while Mr. Bell was in Peterborough on business. Mrs. Bell and two children were at home at the time but do not know how the blaze originated. Mrs. Bell was ironing and on going out into the yard to get some clothes from the line discovered that the roof of the building was on fire. The flames spread quickly and there was no time to secure any of the furniture or even the clothes belonging to the family.

The neighbours saw the flames and hurried to the scene but were unable to render much assistance, the building which was constructed of logs burning to the ground. Mr. Bell had been notified by telephone of the fire and hurried home, having to remain up all night to watch the fire.

There was little insurance on the building and Mr. Bell will be a heavy loser.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

HUMAN HEARTS.

"Human Hearts" will come to our city next Monday, April 5th.

The play is ingeniously constructed, and the lovers of plain, lucid dramatic fiction cannot fail to detect in it, qualities which they are sure to admire. There is enough dramatic material in "Human Hearts" for half a dozen dramas.

Each of its leading characters combine enough definite traits to equip a whole community of people; yet its intricate, ramifying interests are pieced and dovetailed together with extraordinary technical skill. They are all plausible and they work out logically in the end.

The scenes are laid in the hills of Arkansas, and the story hinges around the lives of Tom Logan and his wife, Jeannette, a woman, who, reared in the city, finds life in a small country village irksome. She longs to get away, and, after a stormy scene with her husband, in which she taunts him with his inability to supply the luxuries to which she considers herself entitled, she prepares to leave him. At this juncture, an old lover of Jeannette's appears on the scene. In her anger at Tom, she agrees to elope with Frederick Armsdale, who promises her all luxuries, ease and indolence that she craves? Tom's father overhears the two plotting to go away, and upbraids Jeannette. A quarrel follows, during which the old man is killed. The guilty pair escape and Tom comes back and ses his father's body lying on the ground. He is discovered kneeling by his father's body, holding in his hand a bloody knife. When asked who has committed the crime, he is about to answer when Jeannette and her paramour appear and denounce Tom as the murderer. Tom is sentenced to death, but on account of his previous good character, his sentence is commuted to life imprisonment. Tom is next discovered in prison in convict's stripes, bearing his burden meekly, and hoping that friends will discover new evidence that will clear his name of the foul accusation of murder. There is a tramp, Jem Mason, who witnessed the murder of which Tom is accused, but on account of his past record, he is afraid to appear at the trial as a witness for Tom. Mason is befriended in many ways by Tom's people, and he finally provides the clue that ultimately clears Tom of the stigma of murder. Tom's mother and Ruth Larkins make a personal appeal to the Governor of the State, and the new evidence presented is so overwhelmingly in favour of Tom's innocence that the Governor grants him a full pardon. Armsdale is apprehended and tried for the murder and sentenced to death. Jeannette, worn out by a life of dissipation, dies in misery. Tom returns to his old home and marries Ruth Larkins, whose efforts to help him clear his name, have proven to him that he has won the love of a good, pure woman. The play closes with preparations for another wedding under way in honest Tom Logan's again happy home.

Plan now open.

A QUARTER OF A CENTURY OF SATISFACTORY SERVICE

To-day, 25 years ago, Mr. William Cowie, the capable foreman of the Binding Department, entered upon his duties, with the Examiner. Since that time he has fulfilled them with the steadiness of the city clock, an unsurpassed expert in his line, and a reliable and valued employee. This afternoon in commemoration of the completion of his quarter century, the staff of the Examiner, as a testimony of esteem and a reminder of long standing cordial personal relations, presented Mr. Cowie with a beautiful briar piper, for among his many virtues Mr. Cowie courts a temperate alliance with My Lady Nicotine. As a citizen Mr. Cowie is held in high esteem and he will be the subject of warm congratulations and cordial good wishes.

MADE ATTACK ON BRODEUR

Doherty of Montreal Criticizes Marine Inquiry.

IT WAS NOT FOLLOWED UP

In Violent Onslaught He Declares That Government Was Remiss In Not Prosecuting — Mr. Brodeur Shows That Many Reforms Have Been Instituted In the Marine and Fisheries Dept.

Ottawa, April 2.—What was intended to be a raking attack in the Commons yesterday upon the Government on the ground of failure to act upon the report of the Cassels Commision proved ineffective. The ammunition which the Opposition had diligently accumulated since the report was issued seemed to miss fire. The duty of opening the attack was allotted to ex-Judge Doherty, member for St. Anne's, Montreal, who in a speech over an hour in length labored hard to prove that the Government had been remiss in their duty in not following up the revelations of the Cassels inquiry by ordering an investigation into all the spending departments.

Taking up some of the reforms already carried out, Mr. Brodeur referred to the organization of a purchasing branch under the supervision of a capable and careful officer, thus insuring economy in the matter of the purchase of all Departmental supplies. For the fiscal year just ended he could point to a surplus in the Department of $883,000 out of a total appropriation of $7,055,600. For every item of $5,000 the purchasing agent was instructed to call for public tenders. Every branch of the Department was now on a footing that successfully challenged the closest scrutiny, and that would commend itself to the country. In respect to the demand for the investigation of other Departments, similar to that made in the Marine Department, Mr. Brodeur argued that no irregularities had been shown to exist in the other Departments. There had been in the report of the Civil Service Commission some justification for a demand for further investigation, but no charges had been made concerning other Departments.

He recalled that the commission which investigated the Marine Department had expressed regret that it did not have the time to look more fully into other Departments. The recent order-in-council dealing with certain officials of the Marine Department was remarkable for what it ignored and what it declined to deal with.

If ever a Government was put clearly in default it was by the Courtney report, yet the Marine Department, he said, only had the courage to go ahead to "prevent the deterioration of whatever character it has left." He would have thought that Sir Frederick Borden would feel ashamed to hold back, "when the marine are going to the front." Was there a desire to learn the truth when the Cassels' commission was appointed? The scope of this enquiry was limited and the recent action of the Government was no broader.

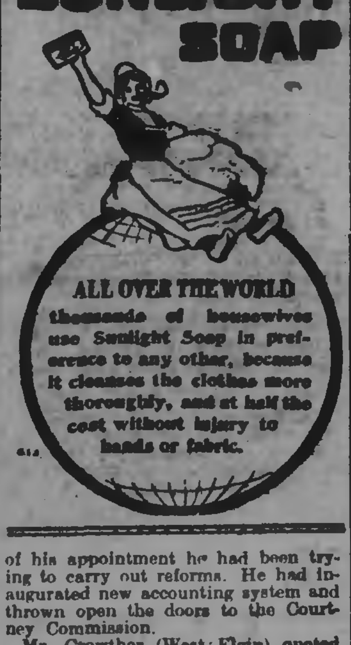
He had no doubt of the personal integrity of the Minister of Marine, but if a system of corruption could grow for years without his knowledge, did the Government say that such a thing could not go on in the other Departments, where there would be the same human nature subjected to the same temptations? The same contractors who had been guilty of bribery and corruption had been dealing with officials of other Departments. The Government was still buying from individuals found to have been guilty of bribery.

Everyone named by the commission was liable under the criminal code, yet no action had been taken.

Judge Doherty concluded by moving:

"That in order to lift the cloud of suspicion that rests upon the administration of the various Departments, to satisfy the demands of the country for honest and business-like methods, and to purge the public service of inefficiency, reckless waste and corrupt practices, it is advisable and necessary in the public interest that a thorough and untrammelled investigation be made by a competent business commission into the workings of the great spending departments of Government."

SUNLIGHT SOAP



ALL OVER THE WORLD thousands of housewives use Sunlight Soap in preference to any other, because it cleanses the clothes more thoroughly, and at half the cost without injury to hands or fabric.

The Minister of Marine, replying, said that from within a few months of his appointment he had been trying to carry out reforms. He had inaugurated new accounting system and thrown open the doors to the Courtney Commission.

Mr. Crowther (West Elgin) quoted from the evidence to prove the knowledge of the Deputy Minister of wrongdoing in the Department, yet his punishment was superannuation at $3,000 a year.

The evidence disclosed that it was the duty of the Auditor-General to get satisfactory explanations of expenditures or report to the Treasury Board. Mr. Fraser had said for three or four years he did not get satisfactory explanations. Did he report to the Treasury Board or not? He was not allowed to tell that.

"When we have had so much grand larceny at the head, who would be surprised to see petty larceny at the bottom," said Mr. Crowther.

After Sharpe (North Ontario) and Meighen (Portage la Prairie) had supported the resolution, the debate adjourned at midnight to resume to-day.

To Be Dyspeptic Is To Be Miserable.

Dyspepsia is the prevailing malady of civilized life. It is largely due to gross errors in diet, over-eating, too free indulgence in stimulants and over-taxing the stomach with indigestible food, eating too rapidly without chewing the food sufficiently, indulging in hot biscuits, pastry, pickles, confectionery, etc.

Constipation, headache, heartburn, sour stomach, distress after eating, belching of wind, faintness, and fullness and distention of the stomach are a few of the many distressing symptoms of the poor, weary dyspeptic. Burdock Blood Bitters regulates the stomach, stimulates the secretion of the saliva and gastric juice to facilitate digestion, removes acidity, purifies the blood, and tones up the system to full health and vigor, and thereby cures dyspepsia and all its tributary diseases.

Mr. Amos Sawler, Gold River, N.S., writes:—"I was greatly troubled with dyspepsia, and after trying several doctors to no effect, I commenced taking Burdock Blood Bitters and I think it is the best medicine there is for that complaint."

NEW BILLS MISSING.

Express Package Which Was Lost Contained New Issue.

Ottawa, April 2.—The parcel of bills reported lost or stolen while in transit from Montreal to Toronto is in reality a series of new bills which were sent via Dominion Express Co. by the British American Bank Note Co. of Ottawa to the head office of the Traders Bank of Toronto.

They were sent March 26 and have not yet arrived. The probability is that they were stolen.

The parcel consisted of the first batch of a new issue of bills by the Traders' Bank. They were in sheets as printed and were not signed. The denomination was five dollars and there was $20,000 worth.

They will not be easily negotiated as they are entirely different from the present bill, having a shipping scene vignette on the face and on the back a picture of the Traders' Bank of Toronto. None of this peculiar style have yet been issued by the bank.

The local agent of the express company professes no knowledge of the parcel. The bank does not stand to lost anything, as the goods were never delivered.

Preston Demanded Investigation.

Winnipeg, April 2.—W. A. Preston, M.P.P., of Fort Francis, whose company is alleged to have been mixed up in a deal to defraud the Ontario Government out of a couple of thousand dollars in timber dues, was in the city yesterday and gives a denial to the story which was sent out from his town. Mr. Preston said:

"The story is untruthful and maliciously misleading. Mr. Johnston, the discharged bookkeeper, did not, as stated in the article, prefer the charges referred to. He demanded $500 from the company, claiming that he had falsified returns, and thereby saved the company a large amount of money. On receipt of this document I placed the matter in the hands of Hon. Frank Cochrane, Minister of Lands, Forest and Mines for Ontario, and demanded a full investigation."

Firemen Rescue Two.

Montreal, April 2.- Rescues were effected by firemen shortly before midnight at a fire which broke out at the sash and door factory of Chagnon & Co. on Burnett street. The firemen found that the watchman had been sleeping in an office on the third floor. He tried to get downstairs and lost his way, and eventually had to be rescued down a fire escape by two firemen.

Later when the fire was nearly out the firemen who were working in the building heard groans in the basement, and found the furnace man of the building unconscious. He was evidently under the influence of liquor and was taken to a police station to be held as a witness for the fire commissioners.

HONOR TO EARLY MARTYRS

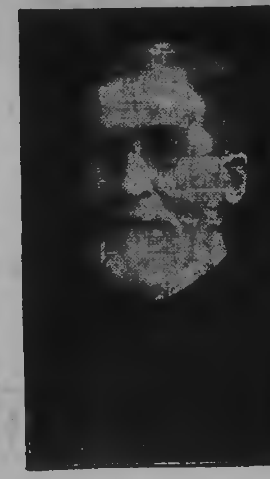
Mention of the Jesuit Missionaries Evokes Storm of Spontaneous Enthusiasm at Night Session of Big Convention—Presbyterian Moderator Leads Devotional Exercises — Speaks to Ladies.

Toronto, April 2.—"The place of the Church in the making of a nation," was the inspiring topic at the second great night meeting in Massey Hall of the Canadian National Missionary Congress.

A magnificent audience of fully four thousand ministers and lay-commissioners turned a sea of faces toward the platform.

The outstanding inter-denominational character of the congress was emphasized by the prominence given to moderator of the Presbyterian General Assembly, Rev. Dr. Du Val, as leader of the devotional exercises, in succession to Bishop Sweeny of the Anglican Church, and Rev. Dr. Carman of the Methodist General Conference.

A striking incident of the evening was the outburst of spontaneous applause for the eloquent tribute to the heroism of the Jesuit Fathers paid to those early Canadian missionaries by Canon Tucker; while cheers greeted a later testimony by the same speaker to the great Presbyterian Home Missionary, the late Rev. D. Robertson.



BISHOP THOBURN OF INDIA.

Rev. Dr. Gordon of Winnipeg spoke of the foreign population of the west, and Rev. Dr. Sutherland of the duty of Canadians to the Asiatic population. Rev. J. A. Macdonald aroused enthusiasm in his call for a higher ideal in the everyday life.

At the afternoon meeting Bishop Thoburn, Robert Speer and Dr. Zwemer were the speakers, their addresses referring to the missionary progress in Asia.

A meeting for ladies in Convocation Hall, addressed by Sir Andrew Fraser, attracted such a crowd, that an overflow meeting had to be held in the Physics Building. Another meeting for women will be held in Convocation Hall to-night.

A public meeting in connection with the congress was held last night in the metropolitan Church. S. J. Moore presided. Addresses were given on "The place of the church in the making of the nation," by Prof. W. F. Osborne, Winnipeg; Hon. B. F. Wilber, Halifax, and Rev. W. T. Etack land, Winnipeg. The church was about two-thirds filled. Another meeting will be held this evening.

At the Massey Hall meeting, the chairman, N. W. Rowell, K.C., announced that Hon. S. H. Blake was unable to be present, and his place would be taken by Rev. Canon L. Norman Tucker, representing the missionary society of the Church of England in Canada. Hon. Mr. Blake sent a short message: "Let us do our duty to our red brethren, and at this time enlarge our operations in his behalf."

SPRING SKIN TROUBLES
Zam-Buk
"RUB IT IN"

Mothers who have used Zam-Buk know how it cures Spring Skin Troubles in Children or Adults. Mothers who have not yet tried it should note that Zam-Buk was unknown ten years ago, yet such is its merit that to-day it has become the standard salve in the homes of four continents! Zam-Buk is purely herbal; contains no poisonous colouring matter; is used by leading medical men; used in the British Army and Navy; used by all best fitted to know the needs of the skin. Test it yourself!

RESTORED HIS THREE CHILDREN.

Mr. J. C. Bates, of Burks Falls, says:—"Parents should know how powerful Zam-Buk is as a healer of skin diseases and eruptions. My three children were all broken out on face, hands, and feet. Their condition was pitiable, and although I tried various ointments and salves, they did not seem to do any good. I heard of a few instances in which Zam-Buk had done great good when other things had failed, so gave it a trial. Within a very short time it cleared the sores from my little ones, although those sores had defied everything I had hitherto tried."

CLEARED FACE AND HANDS OF RASH.

Miss S. G. Hamilton, of Alliston (Ont.), says:—"For a long time I suffered from spots, which broke finally into open sores. My face and hands became covered with these sores, and they were so painful, as well as unsightly, that I hardly knew which way to turn for relief. Whenever I put water near them they smarted and burned just for all the world as if I had been scalded. Zam-Buk was recommended to me, and the first few applications did so much good that I continued with its use. I am glad to say that a few weeks' treatment resulted in a perfect cure."

Zam-Buk cures pimples, skin eruptions, cuts, burns, bruises, piles, festering sores, ulcers, scalds, blood-poisoning, eczema, varicose ulcers, ringworm, bad leg, diseased ankles. Rubbed well into the parts affected, it cures neuralgia, rheumatism, and sciatica. All Druggists and Stores sell at 50c. box, three for $1.25, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. Refuse the cheap and harmful imitations sometimes represented to be "just as good."

FOOTBALL TEAMS IN LINE FOR MIDLAND LEAGUE RACE

HAVELOCK AND Y.M.C.A. ORGANIZE

The Y. M. C. A. intends to go into football with a vengeance this year. At a largely attended meeting last night in the Y. M. C. A., in which remarkable enthusiasm was displayed, a club was organized and a team will be placed in the Midland League. A big coterie of players is available and there is no reason why the Association should not be represented by a fast team.

The colours of the club will be blue and white and sweaters being blue with white trimmings, and a white triangle with "P" in the centre.

The following officers were elected:
President—S. W. Collings.
Vice-President—D. B. McRae.
Secretary-Treasurer—S. Canniff.
Manager—J. E. Sullivan.
Executive Committee—J. Archibald and R. Evans.

Delegates to the Midland League annual meeting on Saturday afternoon—Messrs. Collings and Canniff.

The club will hold another meeting on Wednesday night next, when a full attendance of players is expected.

Havelock Enthusiastic

Havelock, April 1.—At an enthusiastic meeting held here tonight the Havelock Football Club was reorganized for the season and prospects are bright for a winning team. The attendance of players and supporters was large and the enthusiasm shown promises well for the success of the club. It was decided to enter a team in the annual meeting in Peterborough on Saturday.

The following officers were elected:
Hon. President—P. J. Murphy.
President—A. Ormiston.
1st Vice-President—Jos. Knox.
2nd Vice-President—S. S. Joyce.
Secretary—W. Bryans.
Treasurer—W. Higgins.
Manager—Kenneth McKay.
Captain—Harry Andrews.

An executive committee was also appointed. There is plenty of material available for a splendid team this year and the Havelock team has designs on the Midland League trophy.

The Iroquois have been doing things in the League race at the P.B.C. alleys. INTEREST IS AWAKENING IN FORMING OF LACROSSE TEAMS

As a result of the meeting of a number of lacrosse enthusiasts at the Crown Hotel last night it is likely that Peterboro will have two teams in the C. L. A. this year. This matter will be decided upon at a meeting to be held on Tuesday evening next when the prospects will be more fully considered and in all probability a delegate will be selected to represent Peterboro at the annual meeting of the C.L.A. in Toronto on April 9th.

Lacrosse should boom this year, and from those who are in close touch with the situation there are a number of good men who will get into the game. They are not home men, but men who have come to work here and are eager to get into the game if there is anything doing. The intention is to have a junior and intermediate team, and it is felt that these will make good if the players will get out early and get into the game.

Some of the older lacrosse artists are desirous of forming a strong intermediate team for the reason that they feel sure that the city will support a good team if a strong district is formed. Lacrosse has not boomed for some time, owing to the fact that there has not been a team that could arouse the enthusiasm of the lovers of the game. There seems to be a return to the former favour and many are hoping that a good team will be seen representing Peterborough.

The following are asked to attend the meeting on Tuesday evening next:

Galley McCoy, Jack Seymour, Len Dobson, Jimmie McKim, Con Halpin, "Steve" Holland, Ray Best, W. Judd, W. Parnell, Chas. Barber, H. Rae, W. Donavan, H. Donavan, A. Doris, Ernie Saunders, Jim McNicholl, "Dad" Tucker, "Murt" Whaley, Tom Kelly, N. Dusty, Ben Dusty, G. Mein, W. Moher, R. Glover, Harry and Joe Gillman, Fred Derocher, W. Galley, Jack McCabe, Ed. Dillon, F. Dobbin, Fred McGrath, Jim Clarke, —— Flanagan, Con. Maran, George Lynch, Vic Hamilton, Geo. Robertson and H. J. Staunton.

Any others whose names may have been unknowingly omitted from this list and who want to get into the game are asked to attend with the others.

Will Put a Team in Midland League—Have Formed an Athletic Association.

Bethany, April 2.—A public meeting was convened by Dr. J. J. Hamilton recently and held in the Town Hall, to consider the advisability of forming an Athletic Association. Though the elements were raging without, there was a goodly number present. Mr. L. B. Sisson was elected chairman.

It was resolved to form the association and the following officers were duly elected:
Hon. Pres.—J. J. Preston, M.P.P.
President—H. Ryley.
1st Vice-Pres.—Rev. C. A. Adams.
2nd Vice-Pres.—Rev. Poston.
Secretary—Dr. J. J. Hamilton.
Treasurer.—M. Roberts.
Field Com.—Dr. J. J. Hamilton and Messrs. H. Follis, W. Hannah, C. Morton, Walter Price.

A cordial vote of thanks was extended to the chairman and the singing of the National Anthem brought the meeting to a close.

In conjunction with the Athletic Association a meting was held in the town hall to decide as to what should be done as regards the football club. After a little discussion it was decided to ally themselves this year with the Midland League. The officers chosen to direct all affairs were:—Asst.-Sec., T. Hadden; Captain, W. Price; Team Committee, Messrs. T. Jackson, C. Morton, R. Cairns. Delegate to attend meeting of league, W. Price.

As Mr. Price is a good speaker in matters on football it is to be hoped he will do his utmost to get as few dates away from home as possible, but we may rest assured that he will do his best anyhow.

THE CITY HOCKEY LEAGUE BANQUET

Will be held on Monday Night at the Oriental Hotel.

The annual banquet of the City Hockey League will be held on Monday night at 8:30 o'clock and will be marked by the presentation of the Stratton and Clarke—Graham Cups, to the senior and junior winners respectively. There promises to be a large attendance and an evening of solid enjoyment is promised. A number of tickets are available for the use of the public and may be secured from President C. G. Graham at the Oriental Hotel, or from Secretary F. D. Craig, at the Examiner Office. The tickets sell at $1.

FOOTBALL.

The Y.M.C.A. Football Team which was organized last night, is not confined to Y.M.C.A. members but is open to any Association players in the city. The management will welcome any players who desire to turn out with the blue and white this season. The Y.M.C.A. has secured the use of Riverside Park for practice purposes, and will turn out there as soon as possible.

THE TRIGGER.

A return match which will be played with Keene, will be held here in the near future, the date to be announced later. A meeting of the Peterborough Gun Club will be held on Tuesday evening next in R. J. Soden's store, George street. All members and prospective members are requested to attend.

TO-DAY IN THE STOCK MARKET.

Furnished by J. N. Barber.—

New York, April 2.—Some hesitancy was shown in the early dealing in stocks to-day, the market being influenced by lower London prices and quite heavy profit taking sales. A few specialties were brought into the limelight and rushed upward, however, the most conspicuous was Interboro pfd., menton of which we have repeatedly made here. It jumped nearly 4 points and then reacted one. Mexican Central and Ice were active and higher, but the best buying was in the Hills issues, with Northern Pacific in the lead. As the general market receded it grew dull and stocks were readily absorbed as they were offered. The trend is strongly upward, but the bull tactics seem to be to put up one issue at a time, withholding the others.

Baring says: On any little reaction buy the active stocks with confidence. Am still a big bull on Interboro pfd. The worst is known on it, and we will have a big rise. Remember we are in a big bull market.

Town Topics: The general market begins to look a little toppy, and while the leaders may be advanced some further this a.m., we would take profits on bulges, as a sharp reaction does not seem far away. B.R.T., Wabash, Ills., Loco. and C.P.R. are worth buying on soft spots.

Grain News

Chicago, April 2.—Unresponsive Liverpool cables to the advance here yesterday caused an easier opening in wheat, but May held quite firm, although July lost 3-4. Trade was very dull and the market the narrowest for some time. Corn and oats exhibited firmness in spite of wheat.

Logan & Bryan say: Buy wheat on all reactions if possible. There is nothing in sight in corn at present to suggest much reaction.

Bartlett-Patten say: We believe in buying wheat on all setbacks. If the demand for corn continues it will advance still further. Oats will work higher

Liverpool close: Wheat unchanged to 1-4d. lower; corn unchanged to 1-8d. higher.

LOOK PROSPEROUS—COMMAND SUCCESS.

You cannot look prosperous in an ill-fitting, unbecoming suit.

"To him that hath shall be given" is a true principle in business as in religion.

People like to deal, to associate with prosperous-looking men.

Many a failure results from bad first impression. Clothes are a first impression.

People see your clothes before they know who you are or what you know.

Only aggressive ability counts for more than clothes. But good clothes greatly aid ability.

Knowledge and cleverness are very good. But at the same time, get into good clothes, becoming clothes, prosperous looking clothes, Fashion-Craft clothes.

Many years ago Mr. Joseph Gibson, a sergeant in the British Army, died, leaving a will which the family were unable to find any trace of. The document left the estate to John Gibson and his heirs. Many of those interested in the distribution live in Peterborough.

HELD "APRIL FOOL" ENTERTAINMENT

Unique Event at St. Andrew's Church Last Evening Under Auspices of Ladies' Mission Band.

The Young Ladies' Mission Band of St. Andrew's Church held a very enjoyable entertainment last evening in the Guild Hall. It was attended by a large number of persons who, judging from the hearty applause that greeted each number, thoroughly enjoyed the programme. The pastor, Rev. J. G. Potter, occupied the chair. The evening took the form of an "April Fool" social, the special feature being brought out in the serving of the refreshments. Cream puffs were passed around and instead of there being cream in them there was only a slip of paper on which was written "April Fool."

The programme was as follows:

Piano Duet—Misses L. Shearer and M. Potter.

Vocal Solo—Miss Rea Potter.

Vocal Duet—Misses Georgiana and Prudy Long.

Piano Duet—Misses Phyllis Dawson and Helen Henry.

Solo—Miss Bella King.

Solo—Mr. J. Mercier.

Piano Solo—Miss Edith Kerr.

Solo—Mr. John King.

Piano Duet—Misses Dawson and E. Tully.

Dialogue—"Mr. Brown the only man in town."—Mr. E. Dormer took the part of Mr. Brown, and Misses E. Mathieson, C. Montgomery, G. Mowat, Jean Kennedy, C. Mowat, also took part. Mr. Staunton was the director.

Solo—Mr. Jas. Brown.

Piano Solo—Miss Myrtle Kennedy.

Solo—Mr. Gordon Wright.

Refreshments were served, and during this time Miss Jean Girvin rendered several instrumental selections.

Rev. Mr. Potter expressed his thanks upon behalf of the Mission Band to all those who had taken part in the programme.

This Misses Long gave another duet and the gothering closed with the doxology.

THE NUGENT DRUG CO. PRESCRIPTION DRUGGISTS

CHATS ABOUT FAMOUS BOOKS AND THEIR AUTHORS

By F. M. D.

Amid the rampant licentiousness of the Court of Charles II, the figure of John Evelyn stands out as an embodiment of culture and refinement and an example of a piety unquenchable in a cesspool of most vicious surroundings. The Court of the Merry Monarch was perhaps the wickedest in the whole range of English history. Its pernicious influence has extended even to our own time, as is seen but happily in ever-lessening degree, in the realism of what is termed our "problem" drama.

Whilst, however, the Court was so honeycombed with license, there was a great body of English people who were entirely free from its contamination. The Puritan element, strongly tinctured with Presbyterianism, was almost exempt from its baneful influence as were also large sections of other denominations. The country gentry also, were as presentable in their morals and deportment, as are those of the present time, and of this class Evelyn stands forth as the archetype. He was perhaps not a man of great genius. Possibly there were many thousands of his contemporaries, whose names have long since been lost in oblivion, who were possessed of greater parts than himself, but, partly by virtue of his birth and fortune, and partly also by his being persona grata with the Royal family he loomed largely in the public eye. His life abounded in usefulness. He was instrumental in promulgating the planting of oaks all over England; he was one of the founders of the Royal Society; he was the first to inaugurate a better system in landscape gardening and finally, his Diary has laid the English-speaking race under a lasting obligation. As a work of entrancing interest, it is not to be compared for one moment with that of his contemporary and friend, Samuel Pepys, but it is, nevertheless of great value as setting forth in truthful detail, many very important matters connected with the period in which he lived.

Evelyn's Early Career

Descended from an ancient and honourable family, John Evelyn was born at Wotton in Surrey, on Oct. 31, 1620. At the age of four he was taught to read by one Frier, in the church porch at Wotton. He next learned Latin at the house of his grandfather at Lewes. It had been the intention of Evelyn's father to place his son at Eton but he was deterred from doing so by tales of the severe discipline prevailing in that institution, so Evelyn jogged along with what country schooling he could get and ended up by finishing his education at Balliol College, Oxford. In 1640 he entered the Middle Temple but soon relinquished what he calls the "impolished study" of the law and leaving England entered upon an extended continental tour.

Evelyn was a man strongly attached to the crown, and his loyalty to the Stuarts never faltered in the hour of their deepest humiliation. He was, however, blessed with the happy faculty of keeping a close watch on his acts and utterances, and thus avoided getting into trouble with the Parliamentary party. He showed his sense also in keeping out of England during the factious party strife which was well nigh rending the country asunder. He has been criticised in some quarters for having been absent from the side of his sovereign during those trying times, but the fact that Charles always held Evelyn in high favour shows that there is no ground whatever for such captious criticism.

Extracts from His Diary

Evelyn was absent on his travels for four years (1643-7), and the care with which he has recounted the different objects he saw on his journeys shows him to have been of an observant and questioning nature. That travelling was not as safe in those days as at the present time is seen from the following extract relating to a journey from Paris to Orleans:

12 April, 1644.

"The next day we had an excellent road; but had liked to come short home; for no sooner were we entered two or three leagues into the forest of Orleans, (which extends itself many miles), but the company behind us were set on by rogues, who shooting from the hedges and frequent covert, slew four upon the spot."

Travelling had other inconveniences. Having discharged his valet, Garro, a Spaniard, for misconduct, the man demanded 100 crowns for his return journey. Evelyn refused and Garro haled him before a Justice of the Peace. The man was non-suited but made life unpleasant for Evelyn by threatening to "pistol him." On Oct. 7th, 1644, he went to Marseilles and his account of the slaves at the galleys is extremely graphic.

Visit to the Galleys

"We then went to visit the galleys being about 25 in number; the Capitaine of the Galley Royal gave us most courteous entertainment in his cabin, the slaves in the interim playing both loud and soft music very rarely. Then he showed us how he commanded their motions with a nod, and his whistle making them row out. The spectacle was to me new and strange to see so many hundreds of miserably naked persons, their heads being shaven close, and having only high red bonnets, a pair of coarse canvas drawers, their whole backs and legs naked, doubly chained about their middle and legs, in couples, and made fast to their seats and all commanded in a trice by an imperious and cruel seaman. One Turk among the rest he much favoured, who waited on him in his cabin, but with no other dress than the rest, and a chain locked about his leg, but not coupled. This galley was richly carved and gilded and most of the rest were very beautiful. After bestowing something on the slaves, the Capitaine sent a band of them to give us music at dinner where we lodged. I was amazed to contemplate how these miserable caitiffs lie in their galley crowded together; yet there was hardly one but had some occupation, by which, as leisure and calms permitted, they got some little money, insomuch as some of them have after many years of cruel servitude been able to purchase their liberty. The rising forward and falling back at their oar, is a miserable spectacle, and the noise of their chains, with the roaring of the beaten waters, has something of strange and fearful in it to one unaccustomed to it. They are ruled and chastised by strokes on their backs and soles of their feet, on the least disorder, and without the least humanity. Yet are they cheerful and full of knavery."

There were evidently tellers of tall stories in Evelyn's time as well as at the present—witness the following:

16th Oct. 1644. * * * * We were conducted to our inn kept by one Zacharias, an Englishman. I shall never forget a story of our host Zachary, who on the relation of our peril (the ship in which Evelyn had been sailing had just narrowly escaped foundering off the Cape of Savona), told us another of his own, being shipwrecked as he affirmed solemnly, in the middle of a great sea somewhere in the West Indies, that he swam no less than twenty-two leagues to another island, with a tinder-box wrapped up in his hair, which was not so much as wet all the way; that picking up the carpenter's tools with other provisions in a chest, he and the carpenter who accompanied him (good swimmers, it seems both), floated the chest before them; and arriving at last in a place full of wood, they built another vessel, and so escaped! After this story, we no more talked of our danger; Zachary put us quite down."

Evelyn gives a graphic account also of his visit to Mt. Vesuvius, which unfortunately is too lengthy for this article. He seems to have had a liking for attending executions for he mentions two occasions on which he was present at such a spectacle.

In Switzerland he met Diodati, the translator of the Bible. Whilst in that country he contracted smallpox and this is how he was treated for it.

"In the morning I was very ill, but sending for a doctor, he persuaded me to be bled. He was a very learned old man, and, as he said, he had been physician to Gustavus, the Great King of Sweden. * * * * He afterward acknowledged that he should not have bled me, had he suspected the smallpox, which broke out a day after. He afterward purged me and applied leeches, and God knows what this would have produced; if the spots had not appeared; for he was thinking of bleeding me again. They now kept me warm in bed for sixteen days, tended by a vigilant Swiss matron, whose monstrous throat, when I sometimes awakened out of unquiet slumbers would affright me. (Many Swiss people are afflicted with goitre, due to drinking snow water). By God's mercy, after five weeks' keeping my chamber, I went abroad. Monsieur Le Chat, my physician to excuse his letting me bleed, told me it was so burnt and vicious, as it would have proved the plague or spotted fever, had he proceeded by any other method."

Evelyn gives a very detailed account of his sight-seeing in Rome, and those who had the pleasure of attending Professor Young's lecture on the Sistine Chapel in the Y. W. C. A. building last night will find under date Nov. 19, 1644, a very interesting account of the obelisk mentioned by him which stands in the great square in front of St. Peter's Cathedral.

The Methods And Practice Of Landscape Gardening

A Few of the Best Ornamental Shrubs for Landscape Effect and How to Prune Them---When and How to Trim Hedges---Pointers on Roses.

(Written for The Examiner by A. B. Cutting, editor of "The Canadian Horticulturist."

NO. V.

In my last article some of the most desirable trees for planting on lawns, streets, and in parks, were mentioned. This time we shall discuss the leading varieties of ornamental shrubs and their care There is an almost unlimited list of these at the disposal of the landscape gardener. In this short article only a few of them can be mentioned. More complete lists with descriptions may be found in various issues of "The Canadian Horticulturist." The March issue of that magazine contains three articles on this subject.

One of the earliest shrubs to blossom in Spring is the golden bell (Forsythia suspensa). This is an excellent shrub for the margin of groups or of the border, because it finally grows over and meets the greenswards. Forsythia suspensa Fortunei, a variety of the foregoing, is more vigorous and furnishes a more conspicuous effect on the lawn. The flowers are yellow and grow in close-set masses. Another early shrub is the flowering almond, which may be had in two colours of bloom, white and pink. They grow about three or four feet in height.

There are a number of spiraeas that make beautiful shrubs. The best early one is Spiraea chamaedrifolia. One that blooms about a week later is Spiraea Van Houttei. This attains four or five feet in height, has pure white flowers, borne profusely in small, compact clusters on pendulous branches. It is graceful and beautiful, and one of the best shrubs that grows. Other useful species of spiraea are S. Thumbergii, S. arguta and S. salicifolia.

A shrub that blooms about one week later than S. Van Houttei is the mock orange or syringa (Philadelphus Coronarius). It grows six to ten feet high, and produces white flowers with a strong, sweet odour. This shrub may be had in several varieties that are more showy than the original species.

There are some excellent shrubs among the bush honeysuckles. Albert Regel's honeysuckle (Lonicera Alberti) is one of the best. It blooms late in May and has pink flowers. Its spreading habit makes it particularly desirable for planting on banks. The large-flowered Tartarian honeysuckle (Lonicera Tartarica grandiflora), with bright, pink flowers, and Lonicera Morrowsii, with dark purple berries, also are desirable. These shrubs grow from five to ten feet in height.

The Japanese quince (Cydonia Japonica) is one of the most showy shrubs that we have. Its glossy green foliage and its scarlet flowers make it a general favourite. In the autumn it is also attractive when its golden-coloured, highly-perfumed quinces are ripe.

The Siberian pea-tree (Caragana arborescens) bloom in May. They are hardy. The former may grow 15 feet high and the latter, four feet.

A unique shrub is the smoke tree or purple fringe (Rhus cotinus). It is attractive as a novelty.

An old favourite and one that holds its bloom until late in the season is Weigelia rosea The blossoms are rosy-pink in colour and the bush is dwarf, but neat in habit.

The golden currant (Ribes aureum) deserves a place on every lawn. It is an old-timer, but always acceptable. When in flower and later in fruit it is very ornamental. The flowers are yellow and sweet-scented. The shrub blooms late in May and grows about eight feet high.

The lilacs, deutzias and altheas make good subjects for special places, but they are rather stiff and formal in habit. Some lilacs are less open to objection than others. The French and Persian lilacs are interesting and most desirable. When in full bloom they are beautiful, but during the remainder of the year some of them are rather hard-looking subjects.

The most satisfactory and pleasing shrub of all is Hydrangea paniculata grandiflora It starts to bloom late in July and lasts until frost. The blossoms are white at first and gradually change to a rosy pink. This shrub grows six to ten feet high and is most effective when planted in masses. If left well pruned back every Spring, in front of the verandah is a good place for them.

It would be an endless task to attempt to mention and describe all the shrubs that may be employed in landscape planting. The snowballs, purple barberry, dogwoods, hawthorns, black alder, burning bush, Japanese Rose, way-faring tree, bush cranberry and many others are useful. Some of them are as beautiful as some that are described in the preceding paragraps.

Pruning Shrubs.

As a rule shrubs require very little pruning. Should they appear overgrown thin them out. If they are one-sided or growing otherwise unshapely, correct this by heading-back where required. Remove dead branches. Do not indulge in the foolish practice of shearing into round forms or into other unnatural shapes. Trees and shrubs trimmed out of shape are offensive to good taste. This is permissible only with hedges.

When shrubs really require pruning the customary time to do it is in Spring. Whether they should be pruned before or after blossoming depends upon their habit of growth. Shrubs that produce their blossoms on wood of the preceding season's growth, such as the golden bell, lilacs, early flowering honeysuckles, weigelia, viburnum, flowering almond, flowering currant, and many others, should not be pruned until after the blossoms fall. Should this work be done earlier, the flowering wood would be removed. Some of the woody climbers must be treated similarly, that is, after flowering. Among those are the wistaria and honeysuckle. These shrubs and climbers may be pruned back slightly while dormant, if desired, providing that all the one-year-old wood is not cut off.

Shrubs that produce their flowers on wood of the current season's growth, may be pruned while dormant in early Spring. In this class is the hydrangea. Cut back to about six inches of the old wood. Among the climbers, the clematis requires the same kind of treatment.

Clipping Hedges.

Hedges are trimmed usually in April or May, just before growth starts. Pruning of spruce and cedar hedges should commence the second year after the plants are set, but not closely until they reach the desired height. If the plants are allowed to grow for a year or two without trimming, they lose their lower leaves, and become open and straggly. Prune them each year, but never back of the growing twigs. These trees have no dormant buds, as have deciduous trees; hence, if they are cut back to where the leaves disappear, no new growth will be thrown out. If it is proposed to prune to a peak in the centre of the hedge it would not be well to produce that form the first time of shearing. Plan to reach it in the course of three or more years, pruning each year more in accord with it.

One of the best kept hedges that the writer has ever seen is pruned in August and not in Spring. It is trimmed regularly each year after the growth ceases. This is done on the

The figure of their commander now appeared. He rode to the foot of the causeway, then dismounted and gave his horse to the sergeant who attended him. His men followed and drew up in the road, blocking the approach to the castle. Big Mistitch began to ascend the causeway, a broad smile on his face. It was a great moment for Captain Hercules—the day of revenge for which he had waited in forced patience and discreet unobtrusiveness. It was a critical day also in view of the instructions he had. To do him justice, he was not afraid.

Sophy saw and knew. This must have been the news that Zerkovitch carried, that he had galloped on to tell the prince at Volseni. Some event—some unknown and untoward turn of fortune—had loosed Mistitch on them! That was all she had time to realize before Mistitch saluted her and spoke.

"I have the honor of addressing the Baroness Dobrava?"

"You know me well, I think, Captain Mistitch, and I know you."

"Our journey together will be all the pleasanter for that."

"Your business with me, please?"

"I have it in command from his majesty to escort you to Slavna—to the palace and into his presence. The king himself will then acquaint you with his wishes."

"You're a strange messenger to send."

"That's a point to put to my superior officer, Colonel Stafnitz, who sent me, baroness."

Sophy pointed at his men. "You ride strongly supported!"

"Again the colonel's orders, baroness. I confess the precautions seemed to me excessive. I had no doubt you would willingly obey his majesty's commands. Here, by the way, is the written order." He produced the order the king had signed before his death.

Sophy had been thinking. Neither her courage nor her cunning forsook her. She waved the document away "I can take your word, captain? You're making no mistake today? I really am Baroness Dobrava—not somebody else with whom you have a feud?" She laughed at him gayly and went on "Well, I'm ready. I'm dressed for a ride, and I'll ride with you immediately. In two minutes we'll be off." She saw a groom in the road staring at the troopers and called to him to bring her a horse.

This prompt obedience by no means suited Mistitch's book. It forced him either to show his hand or to ride off with Sophy, leaving the prince to his devices, and, in a little while, to his revenge.

"I mustn't hurry you. You have some preparations"—

"None," said Sophy. Her horse was led out into the road.

"You'll at least desire to acquaint his royal highness"—

"Not at all necessary. Baron von Hollbrandt can do that later on."

Mistitch looked puzzled. Sophy smiled. Her intuition had been right. The attack on her was a feint, her arrest a blind. The prince was the real object of the move. She stepped down toward Mistitch.

"I see my horse is ready. We can start at once, captain," she said.

"I'm instructed to express to the prince regret that it should be necessary"—

"The regret will be conveyed to him. Come, captain!"

But Mistitch barred her way.

"His royal highness is in the castle?" he asked. His voice grew angry now. He feared the great stroke had failed. He saw that Sophy played with him. How would he and his escort look riding back to Slavna with nothing to show for their journey save the capture of one unresisting woman—a woman whom they dared not harm while the prince remained free and might become all powerful?

"If he had been you'd have known it by now, I think," smiled Sophy. "No, the prince isn't at the castle."

"I'll see that for myself!" Mistitch cried, taking a step forward.

With a low laugh Sophy drew aside, passed him and ran down the causeway. In an instant she darted between the ranks of Mistitch's men and reached her horse. The groom mounted her. She looked up to Mistitch and called to him gayly:

"Now for Slavna, captain! And hurry or you'll be left behind!"

Her wit was too quick for him. Max von Hollbrandt burst out laughing. Peter Vassip grinned.

"What are you waiting for, captain?" asked Max. "Your prisoner's only too anxious to go with you, you see!"

"I'll search the castle first!" he cried in a rage, which made him forget his part.

Peter Vassip sprang forward and barred the way. Mistitch raised his mighty arm, but Sophy's voice rang out gayly:

"Nonsense, Peter! There's nothing to conceal. Let the captain pass."

Her words stopped Mistitch. He feared a trap. Max saw it and mocked him. "Don't be afraid, captain. Take fifty men in with you. The garrison consists of a lady in bed, an old man and five female servants."

Sophy heard and laughed. Even the troopers began to laugh now. Mistitch stood on the top of the causeway, irresolute, baffled, furious.

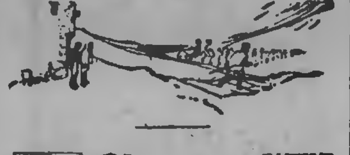
But behind his stupidity lay the cunning astuteness of Stafnitz, the ingenious bit of deviltry. Mistitch's name availed where his brain could not. For the moment the prince made little of the crown which had become his. When he heard Zerkovitch's news his overpowering thought was that the woman he loved might be exposed to the power and the insults of Mistitch. Sophy was playing a skillful game for him, but he did not know it.

"I hear something," said Peter Vassip again, whispering to Max von Hollbrandt.

Yes, there was the galloping of horses on the Volseni road!

Colonel Stafnitz had not miscalculated.

Now Mistitch heard the sound. His heavy face brightened. He ran down the causeway loudly ordering his men to mount. He was no longer at a loss. He had his cue now—the cue Stafnitz had given him.



Chapter Twenty-seven

The king had died yesterday, yet none had told his heir! Mistitch had set out for Dobrava with fifty men to wait for the king, who was dead. The dead king would never go to Dobrava, and no messenger came to the new king at Praslok!

Zerkovitch's news was enough to raise the anger of a king, and Sergius blazed with it. But more potent still was his wrathful fear as he thought of Sophy at Praslok in the power of Captain Hercules.

He had his guard of twenty mounted men with him. With these he at once set forth, bidding Lukovitch collect all the men he could and follow him as speedily as possible. If Mistitch had really gone to Dobrava, then he would find him there and have the truth out of him, but if, as the prince hardly doubted, he was making for Praslok there was time to intercept him, time to carry off Sophy and the other inmates of the castle, send them back to safety within the walls of Volseni and himself ride on to meet Mistitch with his mind at ease.

Relying on Zerkovitch's information, he assumed that the troopers had not started from Slavna till 7 in the morning. They had started at 6. He reckoned also on Zerkovitch's statement that they were but fifty strong. They were a hundred. Yet, had he known the truth, he could not have used more haste, and he would not have waited for another man. He stayed to tell no man in Volseni the news about his father except Lukovitch. But as his twenty rode out of the gate behind him he turned his head to Zerkovitch, who trotted beside him, for Zerkovitch neither could nor would rest till the game was played, and said, "Tell them that the king is dead and that I reign." Zerkovitch whispered the news to the man next him, and it ran along the line. A low, stern cheer, hardly more than a murmured assurance of loyalty and service, came from the lips of the men in sheepskins.

Mistitch saw them coming and turned to his troop. He had time for a little speech, and Stafnitz had taught him what to say: "Men, you are servants of the king and of the king only. Not even the Prince of Slavna can command you against the king's orders. The king's orders are that we take Baroness Dobrava to Slavna, no matter who resists. If need be, these orders stand even against the prince."

Stafnitz's soldiers—the men he petted, the men who had felt the prince's stern hand—were only too glad to hear it. To strike for the king and yet against the hated prince—it was a luxury, a happy and unlooked for harmonizing of their duty and their pleasure. Their answering cheer was loud and fierce.

It struck harsh on the ears of the advancing prince. His face grew hard and strained as he heard the shouts and saw the soiled body of men across the path, barring access to his own castle. And within a yard or two of their ranks by the side of the road sat the figure which he knew so well and so well loved.

Now Mistitch played his card, that move in the game which Sophy's cool submission to his demand had for the moment thwarted, but to which the prince's headlong anger and fear now gave an opening, the opening which Stafnitz had from the first foreseen. It would need little to make the fiery prince forget prudence when he was face to face with Mistitch. It was not a safe game for Mistitch personally—both Stafnitz and he knew that—but Captain Hercules was confident. He would not be caught twice by the Volseni trick of sword! The satisfaction of his revenge and the unstinted rewards that his colonel offered made it worth his while to accept the risk and rendered it grateful to his heart.

Sophy sat smiling. She would fain have averted the encounter and had shaped her maneuvers to that end. It was not to be so, it seemed. Now, she did not doubt monseigneur's success, but she wished that Zerkovitch had not reached Volseni so quickly; that the prince had stayed behind his walls till his plans were ready, and that she was going a prisoner to Slavna to see the king, trusting to her face, her tongue, her courage and the star of her own fortune. Never had her buoyant self confidence run higher.

On the top of the causeway Max von Hollbrandt looked to his revolver, Peter Vassip loosened his knife in its leather sheath. A window above the gate opened, and Marie Zerkovitch's frightened face looked out. The women servants jostled old Vassip in the doorway. The grooms stood outside the stables. No one moved. Only the prince's little troop came on. When they were fifty yards away Mistitch cried to his men, "Draw swords!" and himself pricked his horse with his spur and rode up to where Sophy was.

Mistitch drew his horse up parallel to Sophy's, head to tail, on her right side, between her and the approaching force. With the instinct of hatred she shrank away from him. It had all been foreseen and rehearsed in Stafnitz's mind. Mistitch cried loudly, "In the king's name, Baroness Dobrava!" He leaned from the saddle and caught her right wrist in his huge hand. He had the justification that at his first attempt to touch her Sophy's hand had flown to her little revolver and held it now. Mistitch crushed her wrist. The revolver fell to the ground. Sophy gave one cry of pain. Mistitch dropped her wrist and reached his arm about her waist. He was pulling her from her horse, while again he cried out: "In the king's name! On guard!"

It was a high jump from the top of the causeway, but two men took it side by side—Max von Hollbrandt, revolver in hand, Peter Vassip, with knife unsheathed.

As they leaped, another shout rang out, "Long live King Sergius!"

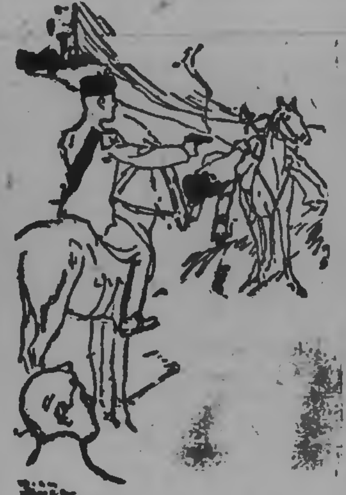
The prince rode his fastest, but faster still rode Zerkovitch. He outpaced the prince and rode right in among Mistitch's men, crying loudly again and again unceasingly: "The king is dead! The king is dead! The king is dead!"

Then came the prince. He rode full at Mistitch. His men followed him and dashed, with a shock, against the troopers of Mistitch's escort. As they rode they cried, "Long live King Sergius!" They had unhorsed a dozen men and wounded four or five before they realized that they met with no resistance. Mistitch's men were paralyzed. The king was dead. They were to fight against the king! The magic of the name worked. They dropped the points of their swords. The Volsenians, hesitating to strike men who did not defend themselves, puzzled and in doubt, turned to their bailiff—their king—for his orders.

As the prince came up Mistitch hurled Sophy from him. She fell from her horse, but fell on the soft, grassy roadside and sprang up unhurt save for a cruel pain in her crushed wrist. She turned her eyes whither all eyes were turned now. The general battle was stayed, but not the single combat. For a moment none moved save the two who were now to engage.

The fight of the Street of the Fountain fell to be fought again, for when Peter Vassip was darting forward, knife in hand, with a spring like a mountain goat's, his master's voice called, "Mine, Peter; mine!" It was the old cry when they shot wild boar in the woods about Dobrava, and it brought Peter Vassip to a stand. Max von Hollbrandt, too, lowered his pointed revolver. Who should stand between his quarry and the king, between Sophy's lover and the man who had so outraged her? Big Mistitch was the king's game and the king's only that day.

Mistitch's chance was gone, and he must have known it. Where was the sergeant who had undertaken to cover him? He had turned tail. Where was the enveloping rush of his men, which should have engulfed and paralysed the enemy? Paralysis was on his men themselves. They believed Zerkovitch and lacked appetite for the killing of a king. Where was his triumphant return to Slavna, his laurels, his rewards, his wonderful swaggerings at the Golden Lion? They were all gone. Even though he killed the king, there were two dozen men vowed to have his life. They must have it, but at what price? His savage valor set the figure high.



Mistitch fell with a mighty crash, shot through the head.

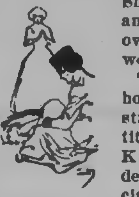
It was the old fight again, but not in the old manner. There was no delicate sword play, no fluctuating fortunes in the fray. It was all stern and short. The king had not drawn his sword; Mistitch did not seek to draw his. Two shots rang out sharply—that was all. The king reeled in his saddle, but maintained his seat. Big Mistitch threw his hands above his head, with a loud cry, and fell, with a mighty crash, on the road, shot through the head. Peter Vassip ran to the king and helped him to dismount, while Max von Hollbrandt held his horse. Sophy hurried to where they laid him by the roadside.

"Disarm these fellows!" cried Zerkovitch.

But Mistitch's escort were in no mood to wait for this operation, nor to stay and suffer the anger of the king. With their leader's fall the last of heart was out of them. Wrenching themselves free from such of the Volsenians as sought to arrest their flight, they turned their horses' heads and fled, one and all, for Slavna. The king's men attempted no pursuit. They clustered around the spot where he lay.

"I'm hit," he said to Sophy, "but not badly, I think."

From the castle door, down the causeway, came Marie Zerkovitch, weeping passionately, wringing her hands. The soldiers parted their close ranks to let her through. She came to the roadside where Sophy supported monseigneur's head upon her knees. Sophy looked up and saw her. Marie did not speak. She stood there, sobbing and wringing her hands over Sophy and the wounded king.



Sophy supported his head on her knee.

That afternoon, an hour after the first of the straggling rout of Mistitch's escort came in, King Alexis died suddenly! So ran the official notice, indorsed by Dr. Natcheff's high authority. The coterie were in up to their necks. They could not go back now. They must go through with it. Countess Ellenburg took to her knees. Stenovics and Stafnitz held long conversations. Every point of tactical importance in the city was occupied by troops. Slavna was silent, expectant, curious.

Markart woke at 5 o'clock, heavy of head, dry in the mouth, sick and ill. He found himself no longer in the king's suit, but in one of the apartments which Stafnitz had occupied. He was all alone. The door stood open. He understood that he was no more a prisoner. He knew that the king was dead.

But who else was dead, and who alive, and who king in Slavna?

He forced himself to rise and hurried through the corridors of the palace. They were deserted. There was nobody to hinder him, nobody of whom to ask a question. He saw a decanter of brandy standing near the door of one room and drank freely of it. Then he made his way into the garden. He saw men streaming over the bridge toward Slavna and hastened after them as quickly as he could. His head was still in a maze. He remembered nothing after drinking the glass of wine which Lepage the valet had given him, but he was possessed by a strong excitement, and he followed obstinately in the wake of the throng which set from the palace and the suburbs into Slavna.

Let Me Tell You Something

A woman who is sick and suffering, and won't at least try a medicine which has the record of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, is to blame for her own wretched condition.

There are literally hundreds of thousands of women in Canada and the United States who have been benefited by this famous old remedy, which was produced from roots and herbs over thirty years ago by a woman to relieve woman's suffering.

Read what these women say:

Belleriver, Que.—"Without Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I would not be alive. For five months I had painful irregular periods and inflammation of the uterus. I suffered like a martyr and thought often of death. I consulted two doctors who could do nothing for me. I went to a hospital, and the best doctors said I must submit to an operation, because I had a tumor. I went back home much discouraged. One of my cousins advised me to take your Compound, as it had cured her. I did so and soon commenced to feel better, and my appetite came back with the first bottle. Now I feel no pain and am cured. Your remedy is deserving of praise."—Mrs. Emma Chatel, Valleyfield, Belleriver, Quebec.

Erie, Pa.—"I suffered for five years from female troubles, and at last was almost helpless. I tried three doctors but they did me no good. My sister advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it has made me well and strong. I hope all suffering women will just give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial, for it is worth its weight in gold." —Mrs. J. P. Endlich, R. F. D. 7, Erie Pa.

Since we guarantee that all testimonials which we publish are genuine, is it not fair to suppose that if Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had the virtue to help these women it will help any other woman who is suffering from the same trouble.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health free of charge. Address Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.

RURAL TELEPHONES IN U. S.

From Farm and Dairy.

*Mr. Starkweather in a paper read before the Country Life Commission.

Good roads, Rural Free Delivery and the Rural Telephone as benefits to the farmer, can hardly in equity be compared as they are not in competition with each other. Good roads have always been a benefit. Rural Free Delivery in the United States from its start in 1897, has been a great help to the farmers and in 11 years according to the report of the auditor for the post office, has grown to a total of 40,000 carriers. But the Rural Telephone starting since that time is already outstripping both of these in the number of farmers it is reaching and the ways in which it is benefitting them.

The Rural Free Delivery carrier's route in the United States rarely exceeds 24 miles in length and serves on an average about 70 farms. A Rural Telephone will operate as far as 40 miles with as many as 30 or 40 telephones on the line. Of course in the well settled states the farmers have both, but in the vast sections of open country, it is obvious that it will be some time before Rural Free Delivery can reach as many farms as the Rural Telephone.

The low first cost of the Rural Telephone puts it within the reach of all. On lines less than 12 miles long the cost is $4.94 per mile not including poles—the latter to be cut and furnished by the farmer himself. On lines over 12 miles long the cost is but $6.87 per mile; same arrangements about the poles. In either case, the cost of his telephone set complete is $13.00. The above figures represent standard "ground" one wire construction and long distance telephones. It is a simple matter to build the line and no operator is required. The annual maintenance expense is not over $0.75—the renewal of the dry batteries in the farmer's telephone. In addition the farmer can run the line to a neighboring town and there connect with the town exchange and long service to the rest of the country.

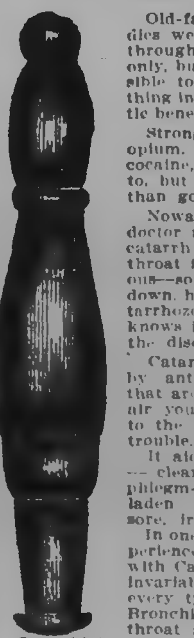
The Rural Telephone in sickness or emergency enables the farmer to summon immediate aid. It enables him to learn the latest market prices and so get more money for his products. It removes the isolation of country life; it improves the conditions surrounding the farmer's wife. During the day and evening it is used a great deal for social intercourse—everybody being able to "get in" on the line at the same time if they desire.

Down South it is the white woman's protection in the country districts. In many sections of the United States where Rural Telephone lines exist, it is customary to furnish weather bureau reports over them each morning. For instance at nine o'clock in the morning the telephone company in town will give three long rings over each rural line entering its exchange and those who desire may, on taking the receiver off the hook, hear the operator read the weather bureau report. The companies often also give out at the same time, the prevailing market quotations.

The Rural Telephone certainly is the farmer's greatest servant. In using it to do errands, it saves him time. In dry seasons, he may be promptly notified of the approach of prairie or forest fires, of not infrequent occurence if his farm adjoins a railroad, or in case of fire in his own home he can summon aid without leaving the farm himself. It is hard to say in what way it helps him the most on the various things mentioned above. Wherever he is, ask him if he would be willing to do without it and his answer is "No!"

In the vast sections of open country away from schools, churches and other conditions improving country life, the Rural Telephone is fast reaching out and removing one of the greatest disadvantages of living in the country; namely, that one must travel a considerable distance to reach a market or talk with a neighbor. It is estimated that there are about seven million farmers' families in the United States to-day, taking the word farmer in its broadest sense and including all families living in the open country. Of those it is estimated that in the few years since the Rural Telephone has been considered seriously, more than two million have adopted it and it is rapidly being extended.

The Rural Telephone born of necessity and of vital benefits to the farmer has as its further recommendation, its accessibility to the entire population of farmers, many of whom cannot be reached by Rural Free Delivery or good roads for generations to come.



BRONCHITIS,

Huskiness, Throat Catarrh

Delightful Cure Discovered That Cures Quickly.

Old-fashioned remedies were administered through the stomach only, but as it is impossible to swallow anything into the lungs, little benefit ever resulted.

Strong drugs, such as opium, chlorodyne and cocaine, were resorted to, but did more harm than good.

Nowadays, when a doctor meets a case of catarrh — finds the throat filled with mucous—sore all the way down, he prescribes Catarrhozone because he knows it goes direct to the disease.

Catarrhozone cures by antiseptic balsams that are carried by the air you breathe direct to the source of the trouble.

It aids expectoration — clears away the phlegm—carries health-laden vapors to the sore, irritated tissues.

In one minute you experience decided relief with Catarrhozone and invariably it does cure every type of Catarrh, Bronchitis, irritable throat and hoarseness.

Just think of it—a sure cure without noxious drugs—one that is guaranteed and delightfully pleasant as well. Catarrhozone only, complete for two months' use, $1.00; small (trial) size 50c, at all dealers.

CATARRHOZONE A SURE CURE.

CLOVER AND GRASS SEEDS.

From Farm and Dairy.

J. Eaton Howitt, M.S.A., Botanical Department, O. A. C.

Attention must again be given to the securing of supplies of clover and grass seed for the spring seeding. Upon the purchase of a good quality of such seeds depend to a large extent the results to be obtained from the time, labour and expense of the season's operations. Naught but disappointment can be expected when poor seed is sown. Poor seed gives a poor catch of clover or grass, as the case may be, and generally a good catch of weeds. It takes just as much trouble to prepare the land for low grade seed as for good, and not only are the returns from such seed disappointing, but there is great danger of seeding down the farm with bad weeds which are very difficult to deal with. Good seed being such an important factor to success the writer wishes to call attention to the most important qualities to be looked for in buying clover and grass seed.

HIGH GRADE SEED.

The qualities which indicate high grade clover or grass seed are: First, purity as regards weed seeds; secondly, high germinative capacity, which to a certain degree is indicated by the color, brightness and plumpness of the seeds; thirdly, freedom from inert matter, such as grit, dirt and broken straw.

The importance of purity as regards weed seeds cannot be too much emphasised. At the present time, in spite of the fact that the Seed Control Act of 1905 has done much to improve the quality of clover and grass seed in respect to purity, there is still far too much impure seed sold. The buyers are chiefly to blame for this as they do not insist vigorously enough that they will not accept impure seed and are often satisfied with seed of poor quality at a low price. This results not only in the spread of many of our troublesome weeds but also in the introduction of foreign weeds, the seeds of which are to be found in imported seed.

EXAMINE SEEDS.

No seed should be bought until the purchaser is satisfied that the sample offered is free from the seeds of bad weeds. This can only be ascertained by spreading a sufficient quantity of the seed out upon a clean white paper and looking it over carefully with a tripod magnifier or hand lens. If, when this is done, weed seeds are observed that the buyer is not familiar with, a sample of the seed should be sent to the Seed Department, Ottawa, or to the Botanical Department of the Ontario Agricultural College, in order to make sure that seed containing dangerous impurities is not purchased. It is important that all who have to buy farm seeds should make themselves acquainted with the bad weed seeds most likely to be found in the various kinds of clover and grass seeds, and especially with those weed seeds covered by the Seed Control Act of 1905. This can be done by attending the short courses in seed judging held annually at the Ontario Agricultural College or the courses of similar nature held in various parts of the Province by the district representatives of the Department of Agriculture. In order to aid farmers and seedsmen to make themselves familiar with the commoner weed seeds, the Botanical Department of the O. A.C. will furnish at cost price (25 cents) cases containing the seeds covered by the Seed Control Act of 1905 and ten other weeds frequently found in clover and grass seed.

GERMINATION TESTS.

A good sample of seeds should not only be free from weed seeds but should also have a high germinative capacity. This cannot be told with accuracy unless a germination test is made, but plump bright seeds with their characteristic colour well developed usually indicate high germinative capacity. Good seed should therefore be free from green or shrunken and discolored seeds. Tests made at the College indicate that less than 40 per cent. of such seeds will germinate. All who desire to do so can have tests of their clover seed made at the Botanical Department, O.A.C., free of all charge, or they can quite easily make such a test for themselves at home. All that is required being two dinner plates and a piece of canton flannel or some other similar cloth about twice the size of the plates. The sample to be tested should be thoroughly mixed and 100 or 200 seeds counted out just as they come, making no selection. These seeds should be placed on one layer of the cloth after it has been thoroughly moistened and laid in one of the dinner plates. Another layer of moistened cloth should be laid over them and covered with a second dinner plate. The test should be made in a temperature of about 70 degrees F., and the cloths kept sufficiently moist. On the second and each succeeding day the sprouted seeds should be picked out and counted. In from four to ten days all the good seeds will have germinated, indicating the percentage of seeds that would grow when the seed was sown, provided all conditions were suitable.

INERT MATTER.

The amount of little stones, grit, dirt, broken straw, or other inert matter in clover and grass seed is a point which is often overlooked by the purchaser. Seed containing considerable quantities of such material is too frequently bought and thus a high price per pound is paid for dirt. Some samples of red clover seed tested by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, contained over twenty-five per cent. of such inert matter. Those buying seed should see that they get seed and not dirt.

EASTER GIVING.

From Farm and Dairy.

By Fannie Medbury Pendleton.

The custom of giving gifts at Easter is increasing from year to year. There is, of course, the Easter card, the booklet, and the ever present postal; but, while these may answer for the majority of one friends, there are a chosen few whom the giver wishes to remember with some dainty trifle more suggestive of her own personality. For such needs, the following hints are offered, each and every one of which may be elaborated or modified to suit the taste of the giver.

First of all, there is the gift that suggests the religious significance of the Easter feast. For this, there is the dainty prayerbook, the testament, or the ribbon mark with silver ends, or the little picture of appropriate design.

For the giver, who caters to the sweet tooth of a friend, there is the pretty box of homemade candies. Cover a candy box with crepe paper, sew a bow of satin ribbon on the cover, and fasten it to a tiny, fluffy chicken or duckling. A small basket filled with candy and with a chicken perched upon the ribbon-wound handle is another pretty way of giving the delicate sweeties.

Make a rule of colored, gelatine jelly, pour into the blown shells of eggs, leave until hard, peel off the shells carefully after dipping in warm water. Present the jelly eggs upon a plate garnished with sprigs of parsley or the leaves of rose geranium.

Gingerbread, molded into the forms of rabbits, eggs, ducks or chickens will delight the little folks.

A woman in the country, wishing to remember her city friend at Easter, sent her a basket of fresh eggs. They were packed in moss, and upon each was written an appropriate quotation. A bow of ribbon upon the handle of the basket made the gift more attractive.

For the giver who embroiders, there is the doily or centerpiece in design of Easter lilies. The idea may be carried out in the innumerable, dainty things that are decorated at the point of the needle. The lily, unlike the holly of Christmas, is appropriate for use all the year round; and it lends itself admirably to the serviceable, white embroidery done in the mercerized cotton that launder so much more satisfactorily than white or colored silks.

A common egg shell, in a covering of crocheted silk, or cotton and hung by a ribbon, makes a pretty match holder.

A needlebook, pin ball, glasses wiper, or pen wiper may be inserted in a cover embroidered to represent to full view of an Easter lily.

For the superstitious friend, a rabbit's foot, mounted in silver, and to be obtained in a jeweler's shop, is appropriate.

Postals of Easter flowers, chickens, rabbits and eggs may be utilised in making blotters, address and receipt books and match scratchers. Paste one upon the cover of the gift box of writing paper.

After all, in the Spring, when we are hungry for the great out-of-doors to burst into leaf once more, there is no more welcome gift than a pretty plant. This is especially true of the shut-ins, who watch each bud and leaf unfold, and think grateful, loving thoughts of the gentle giver.

A HAMILTON MIRACLE

Gin Pills Save a Hamilton Man's Life

Remarkable Story of How Gin Pills Restored to Health and Strength a Man Dying of Bladder Trouble When Everything Else Had Failed

WRITE FOR TRIAL BOX

For more than a year, Mr. John Herman, 513 James St. Hamilton, was a puzzle to the best physicians in that city. The poor man suffered agonies. Doctors said it was bladder trouble. "Inflammation of the Bladder" they called it. Unfortunately for Mr. Herman, all the doctoring for bladder trouble did him no good.

The doctors helped him a little when he was tossing about the bed in dreadful agony. They succeeded in easing the pain and getting him up and about, but as soon as he went to work, there was another cruel attack of pain, worse than before.

Only two and a half boxes of GIN PILLS—at a cost of 50 cents per box—did for Mr. Herman what all the doctors in the big city of Hamilton could not do—they cured him.

The National Drug & Chemical Company (who prepare GIN PILLS) have known about this cure of Mr. Herman for three years. But they wanted to be sure that Mr. Herman's cure was permanent before placing the facts before the public.

Some days ago, a representative of the company called at Mr. Herman's house, 513 James Street, North. He was informed by Mrs. Herman that her husband (who is a brass polisher at the Hamilton Brass Works Company), was at work and had not lost a day on account of his former trouble since GIN PILLS cured him, three years ago.

Messrs. The National Drug and Chemical Co., Toronto.

Gentlemen—

I cannot express myself strongly enough when I speak of what Gin Pills have done for me. When I remember how I suffered not so long ago from Kidney and Bladder Trouble, and how now I am healthy and well and strong and able to do a full day's work, I feel I should speak and tell other sufferers of my experience and of the wonderful merits of Gin Pills.

Something over four years ago, I was taken down with what the doctors called inflammation of the bladder, intense pains in the back and loins, great pain and difficulty in urinating, and the agony at times confined me to bed for three or four days at a time. Poultices were laid across my back and front, and by laying in a certain position I could get relief and then get up and go to work, although frequently I would have to leave my work before nine o'clock and return home to bed.

The pain was greatest in the region of the bladder, and during the attacks, which occurred more and more frequently, amounted to unbearable agony, and I became so weak that I could not walk across the floor.

JOHN HERMAN

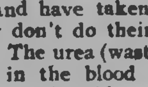
For over a year I continued to get worse, and the doctors could do nothing to relieve or cure me. My case seemed hopeless, but my wife noticed in the paper one day what Gin Pills had done for others, and sent for a box to try and see if they could help me.

From the very first, I noticed and felt that Gin Pills were doing me good. The pain was relieved at once and the attacks began to come at longer intervals, and hope that perhaps I might be cured, returned to me once more.

I continued taking the pills for about six weeks, and then to my surprise and delight, the stone I sent you some time ago, came away from me and my pain stopped. I continued to take the pills for a short time longer, and rapidly regained health and strength. It is now three years since Gin Pills cured me. I have had no return of the trouble and I have not lost a day's work on account of it since.

You cannot understand how grateful we are for Gin Pills. There is not the slightest doubt that they saved my life, and we recommend them to anyone who complains of pains in the back or bladder.

Yours gratefully,
JOHN HERMAN,
513 James St. North, Hamilton.



Reproduction of stone that came from Mr. Herman. Exact size.

It was the kidneys that caused all the trouble in Mr. Herman's case. The kidneys are responsible for ninety-nine per cent of all Bladder Troubles. The kidneys are always responsible for Uric Acid Poisoning and Stone in the Bladder, which Mr. Herman had. You see, the kidneys are the filters of the body.

What is called Urea, is really the dead cells and other waste matter constantly formed in all parts of the body. The blood carries this waste to the kidneys. It is the duty of the kidneys to filter out the waste.

Sometimes the kidneys are weakened by hard work, are strained, and have taken cold. Then they don't do their work properly. The urea (waste matter) stays in the blood and is changed into uric acid.

This acid is a violent poison. It irritates and inflames the bladder—it forms Stone in the Bladder (Uric Acid Calculi)—and causes Rheumatism, or uric acid poisoning, of the joints and limbs.

The only way to cure these troubles is to cure the kidneys. And thus far, the only remedy that is absolutely certain to relieve — that is guaranteed to CURE—is GIN PILLS. Yes, we Guarantee GIN PILLS. Why not? Take this case of Mr. Herman! Take ten thousand other cases where GIN PILLS have been properly used. You will hear the same results—"GIN PILLS helped me" — "GIN PILLS cured when doctors failed—"I owe my life to GIN PILLS."

A TRUE STORY

(Copyright, 1906, by the New York Herald Co. All Rights Reserved.)

THERE were welcoming smiles about the camp fire of the homeseekers when two young strangers rode within the circle of friendly light out of the dense forest and requested hospitality for the night.

The little caravan of prairie schooners was the property of the three brothers McLeod, who, with their families, had been heading westward this many a day with scant enough of lively company along the road. The advent of the horsemen, their cheerful greetings, their open delight in the warmth and company, promised a pleasant evening after a particularly wearisome stage of the journey through Southern Kentucky.

Nor did the newcomers prove a disappointment, but with quip, jest and song kept their hosts in happy mood after the simple fare of the wagon train had been shared. One of them was Alfred Hamilton, only son of a wealthy resident of a small village of the blue grass not ten miles distant. His companion was John Saunders, a Missourian, whose face was now set toward his home after a fortnight's visit under the Hamilton roof.

The two had been classmates at William and Mary College and had since contrived to spend some part of each year together. Saunders had terminated his stay that morning, and Hamilton had insisted upon bearing him company over the first stretch of the journey. They told of having lost their way in the woods, through which Hamilton had sought a shorter route. The fire of the emigrants had led them not only to food and shelter, but to the faint forest track from which they had strayed.

So well did they repay the hearty reception accorded to them that it was far past the time for tired wanderers on the westward trail to seek their rest when the hum of voices finally hushed and with saddles for pillows they sought sleep within the glow. The camp was astir at early dawn.

Saunders expressed some anxiety concerning the state of the ford at Rushing River, which lay between him and Scottsville, where he hoped to spend the next night. The youngest of the McLeod brothers, who had aided the travellers with many little attentions, placed his knowledge of the country, through which he previously had passed, at their service. He advised against attempting the usual ford to which the wagon road led owing to tales of high water, but suggested that the horseman should strike off at a certain path leading to a shallower ford, which would bring him as quickly to his destination. Saunders thanked his informant and after bidding their wayside hosts farewell the two young men set out.

Two days later Alfred Hamilton returned to his home in the blue grass settlement. He said he had taken leave of Saunders about two miles from Rushing River, where the path to the smaller ford branched. He resumed his duties as overseer of his father's ranch and estate.

Several weeks had passed since the departure of Saunders when Hamilton had occasion to ride one of the many fine thoroughbreds in the stable to the blacksmith's, at some little distance from the Hamilton mansion. The smith was a wordy man, and his shop did double service as the local centre for horseshoeing and the clearing house for gossip. There was ever a group about the forge engaged in the discussion of matters large and small that had come to the ears of one or other. On this day a silent member of the gathering was Guy Maws, a young physician of the neighborhood, who had forgotten his usual impatience at the smith's loquacity through interest in the matter of his discourse; for a strange rumor had come from Scottsville.

The Case of Dr. Maws.

Maws was distinctly above the average of the country practitioner of the section. He was a graduate of medical schools in Philadelphia and Leipsic, and with superfluous diplomas and certificates packed in his trunk had struck for the West in the belief that he should find the field less restricted and offering larger opportunities to his rather bold and original theories.

He had done fairly well, more from the fact that he was the only physician within many miles than because the people among whom he lived were awake to the many excellent qualities of his mind and the thoroughness of his training. Beyond this he was a sorely disappointed man, ambitious, conscious of his power, chafing under the humdrum of general practice. At the moment that Hamilton entered the shop the expressive face of Dr. Maws was lighted with momentary interest.

The smith, noting that his little audience had been increased by the arrival of such an important person as the son of Colonel Hamilton, began his tale anew. It seemed that a pedler, coming that morning from Scottsville, had told of the finding of a body on the bank of the river near that town. Murder had been done, the smith declared, and although the victim apparently had been a man of consequence there was none to identify him.

Details were lacking in the narrative, but the smith was willing to manufacture these in any quantity, and started upon his congenial task. It was an exclamation from Hamilton that interrupted him.

"Why, now, that's rather remarkable. My friend Saunders went home by way to the small ford. I hope it isn't his body."

Dramatic Possibility.

The words swept nervously from the speaker and the smith paused at the suggestion. It was a dramatic possibility and the group took it up readily. A babble of comment arose from the group, in which all its members joined with a single exception. Hamilton's remark rang curiously in the ears of one of his hearers. To the keen, observant mind of Guy Maws there was a trace of significance in the speech that entirely escaped the more ordinary men. He watched Hamilton, expecting some explanation of his snap assumption of uneasiness concerning the mere fact that a body had been discovered. But Hamilton, rather too eagerly, it seemed to the physician, was aiding the discussion of the lurking dangers of the river section. Maws awaited his opportunity and slipped in a question in an offhand manner.

"Why should you fear it to be Saunders?" he asked. "Your friend must have been safely in Missouri before this."

"Merely an impulse," answered Hamilton, with just a hint of hesitation. "He took an untravelled way. We haven't had any word from him, you know, and well, you must all remember the Robley gang that had a place somewhere on Rushing River. I went part of the way with him and when we parted I warned him not to take the unfrequented ford. If it is Saunders I was the last to see him alive, I suppose. It was taking a big risk to go that way, and I told him so. But he would do it. There used to be holdups there not so long ago."

"But the Robley gang has been broken up and scattered these [illegible] years," said Maws.

Hamilton was plainly restless under the insistence of the physician. He enlarged volubly upon recent rumors that certain of the band who had escaped had been seen in the vicinity. From that he led the talk upon former exploits of the famous outlaws. The conversation took a reminiscent turn, and Hamilton by degrees abandoned his flow of speech and became silent and distraught.

Detected a False Note.

Maws paced slowly to his home in a thoughtful mood. He had detected a false note in Hamilton that troubled him more than he cared to admit. To his sensitive brain it seemed as if the young man had been too anxious, as if he did "protest too much." And how did it happen that the purse of one who was something of a spendthrift and known to be hard put to it for money should be so well lined? But he tore himself abruptly from this line of reflection on recalling the standing of the subject he had almost unconsciously placed on the mental operating table.

Confirmation of the first report obtained from the pedler reached the community a few days later with the news that persons in Scottsville had identified the body. It had been proved beyond peradventure to be that of John Saunders, slain with a bullet and robbed of all articles of value. There were no clews to the assassin or assassins.

On assuring himself that this outline of the matter was authentic Dr. Maws put his roadster into harness and set out that moment for Scottsville. It was his impulse to know and see more of the matter, and in obeying he was yielding to a fascination that deeds of violence had always exerted over his imagination. It was, moreover, his first opportunity to connect himself with such a case since his arrival in Kentucky.

Starts on the Trail.

Dr. Maws was the more interested in the murder of Saunders by reason of a sudden but warm friendship that had sprung up between them during the latter's recent visit. The Missourian possessed a stronger and more mature mind than his friend Hamilton, and the physician had found in this genial, sober, well balanced nature a measure of congeniality and sympathy that he had not discovered elsewhere since his university days. He had it well in view that he might aid in bringing to punishment the wretch concerned in the taking off of so excellent a gentleman.

He was accepted as a competent examiner on presenting himself at the court house, and was admitted with two others of his profession, who had made a preliminary report. He found that Saunders had died from a wound in the back of the head, under the left ear, where a section of the skull had been torn away by the bullet, fired either from a rifle or a heavily charged pistol.

There were no other marks to indicate attack preliminary to or following the fatal shot. The clothing was not torn or soiled, indicating, so far as the lapse of time made its condition of value, that there had been no struggle. The man had been dead more than two weeks, the physicians agreed.

Dr. Maws obtained from those who had discovered the body a careful account of the circumstances. It had lain in some undergrowth to the side of the trail and at the head of an abrupt descent to the ford. The ground was soft and there were no stones within twenty feet. The body was huddled in a heap as if, the men thought, Saunders had been "dumped" from a saddle or a wagon. There were no wheel marks on the trail. Indeed, few wagons passed that way. They could detect no hoof marks, but this was of small importance owing to recent rains.

The only other point of importance was the fact that a neck cloth of plain silk was picked up near the body. To this was fastened a small pin of oval shape bearing conventional geometric figures.

The young physician took careful notes and measurements of what he learned and saw. His businesslike methods impressed the prosecutor, although his fellow practitioners were disposed to frown upon his stepping beyond the purely surgical aspects of the case. Returning from Scottsville he made his way over the smaller ford and spent the rest of the afternoon in going over the scene of the murder.

He had at first a theory that the horse ridden by Saunders would afford the most promising clew, but the difficulty of identifying the animal caused him to abandon that course for the time. With his keen instincts of the observer alert he moved slowly over the ground, trying to reconstruct the tragedy here enacted. Saunders probably had been shot from ambush, he thought, and he crawled amid the underbrush and young growth at the sides of the trail, hoping to find the very spot where the murderer had concealed himself.

Analyzing Suggestions.

Meanwhile in one corner of his mind he was sorting and analyzing suggestions arising from the facts already known. There was the ornamental pin. Such things were used frequently as badges of organizations. The emblems were not Masonic, although somewhat similar. There were students' clubs at colleges and universities that adopted a uniform pin for their members. He knew several such clubs. How many men in that section had been to college? There were three or four in Scottsville, but on imagining each in the rôle of assassin he rejected them in the absence of corroborative details. There was also young Hamilton.

Here he stuck, nor could he entirely argue away a measure of added weight he now derived to the unpleasant impression the young man's behavior had excited in him. He made no jump conclusions, however, for he was aware fully that since Saunders himself had been to college the pin was, in all likelihood his own. To set against this he had the fact that the scarf and pin had been found at least thirty feet from the body, which might or might not be of significance. These observations he stored away for later examination.

Failing to find anything that pointed to a murderer concealed in ambush, he discussed with himself the nature of the wound. The effect of the charge pointed not only to its strength in tearing away the bone, but the obvious inference was that the shot had been fired at very close range.

Studying the Mode of Attack.

It was also evident that it would have been very difficult for the assassin to have reached Saunders' side unobserved. The muzzle of the weapon must have been held but a few feet from the head of the rider, who was all unconscious of his danger. It was fairly clear that the attack had been a complete surprise. On the other hand, if the murderer had been riding at Saunders' side as a companion, what more easy than for him to rein in a step and discharge a firearm pointblank without warning?

It was far into the afternoon before anything of a tangible nature rewarded his earnest search, but his reward was a discovery of the greatest value. At a spot fully fifty feet from that where the body was found he came upon a single barrelled pistol with the hammer down and a thin coating of burnt powder within the mouth, indicating that it had been discharged recently. He exulted in the thought that he held the very weapon with which the murder had been committed.

Of the pistol itself he could make little. It was no ordinary arm, evidently of English manufacture and of a decidedly antiquated design. The butt was shod with a heel of thin gold plate bearing no marks. Not feeling justified in retaining evidence of such potential importance, he returned to Scottsville for the night and delivered the pistol to the authorities, with an account of his finding of it.

Laying Down a Theory.

The superficial facts preceding the death of John Saunders were quickly gathered. Hamilton was questioned by the prosecutor and told of accompanying his friend on the first stage of his journey, their stop with the emigrants and their start again the next morning. He repeated the statement that he had parted with Saunders after a ride of about half an hour and had turned back toward home.

Here the inquiry rested for some days, and the commonly accepted belief was that the traveller had been waylaid by a member of the Robley band of desperadoes, a few of whom were still at large. While the efforts of the officials did not slacken it was generally felt that the matter would remain clouded until justice should chance to lay a hand on one of these notorious criminals.

Meanwhile Dr. Maws was carrying on a quiet investigation of his own without taking the prosecutor or others into his confidence. With his usual methodical habit in affairs of interest he set such bits of information as he had or gleaned from time to time into a diagram, neglecting none of the circumstances surrounding the visit of Saunders.

Colonel Hamilton, the father of Alfred, was an irascible and headstrong governor to his household, consisting of his son and a daughter, Marion, who had recently become a marked favorite over her brother in the domestic drama. Alfred had formed an attachment the year of his graduation from college for the daughter of a hunter and trapper, who lived in an upland valley some miles away. This Elisa Granger, in spite of the disadvantages of birth and condition, possessed a degree of [illegible] and refinement to which her natural [illegible] easily led her. There had been a stormy scene when the Colonel had discovered Alfred's intention of marrying the mountain girl, and upon the young man's declaration that he desired to manage such matters to his own liking his father had said some harsh things.

Pressed for Money.

An incidental result of the coolness between the Hamiltons had been that Alfred found it difficult to obtain such sums of money as he needed for his own uses. The son, born to the expectation of wealth and raised thereto until the quarrel, had contracted a number of debts that did him no particular discredit but were of the kind that pressed importunately upon him. It was known that several of his creditors had been bold enough to apply at the Hamilton house within the year, had been [illegible] by Colonel Hamilton and had served to fan the aged man's resentment toward Alfred.

Considerable remark had been occasioned since the departure of Saunders by the sudden turn in the fortunes of young Hamilton. After returning from his escort of the parting guest he had communicated immediately with those holding claims against him and had cleared himself entirely of debt. Since then he had been free in money matters, as many could testify, and had even gone so far as to advance a few loans to acquaintances from his own pocket.

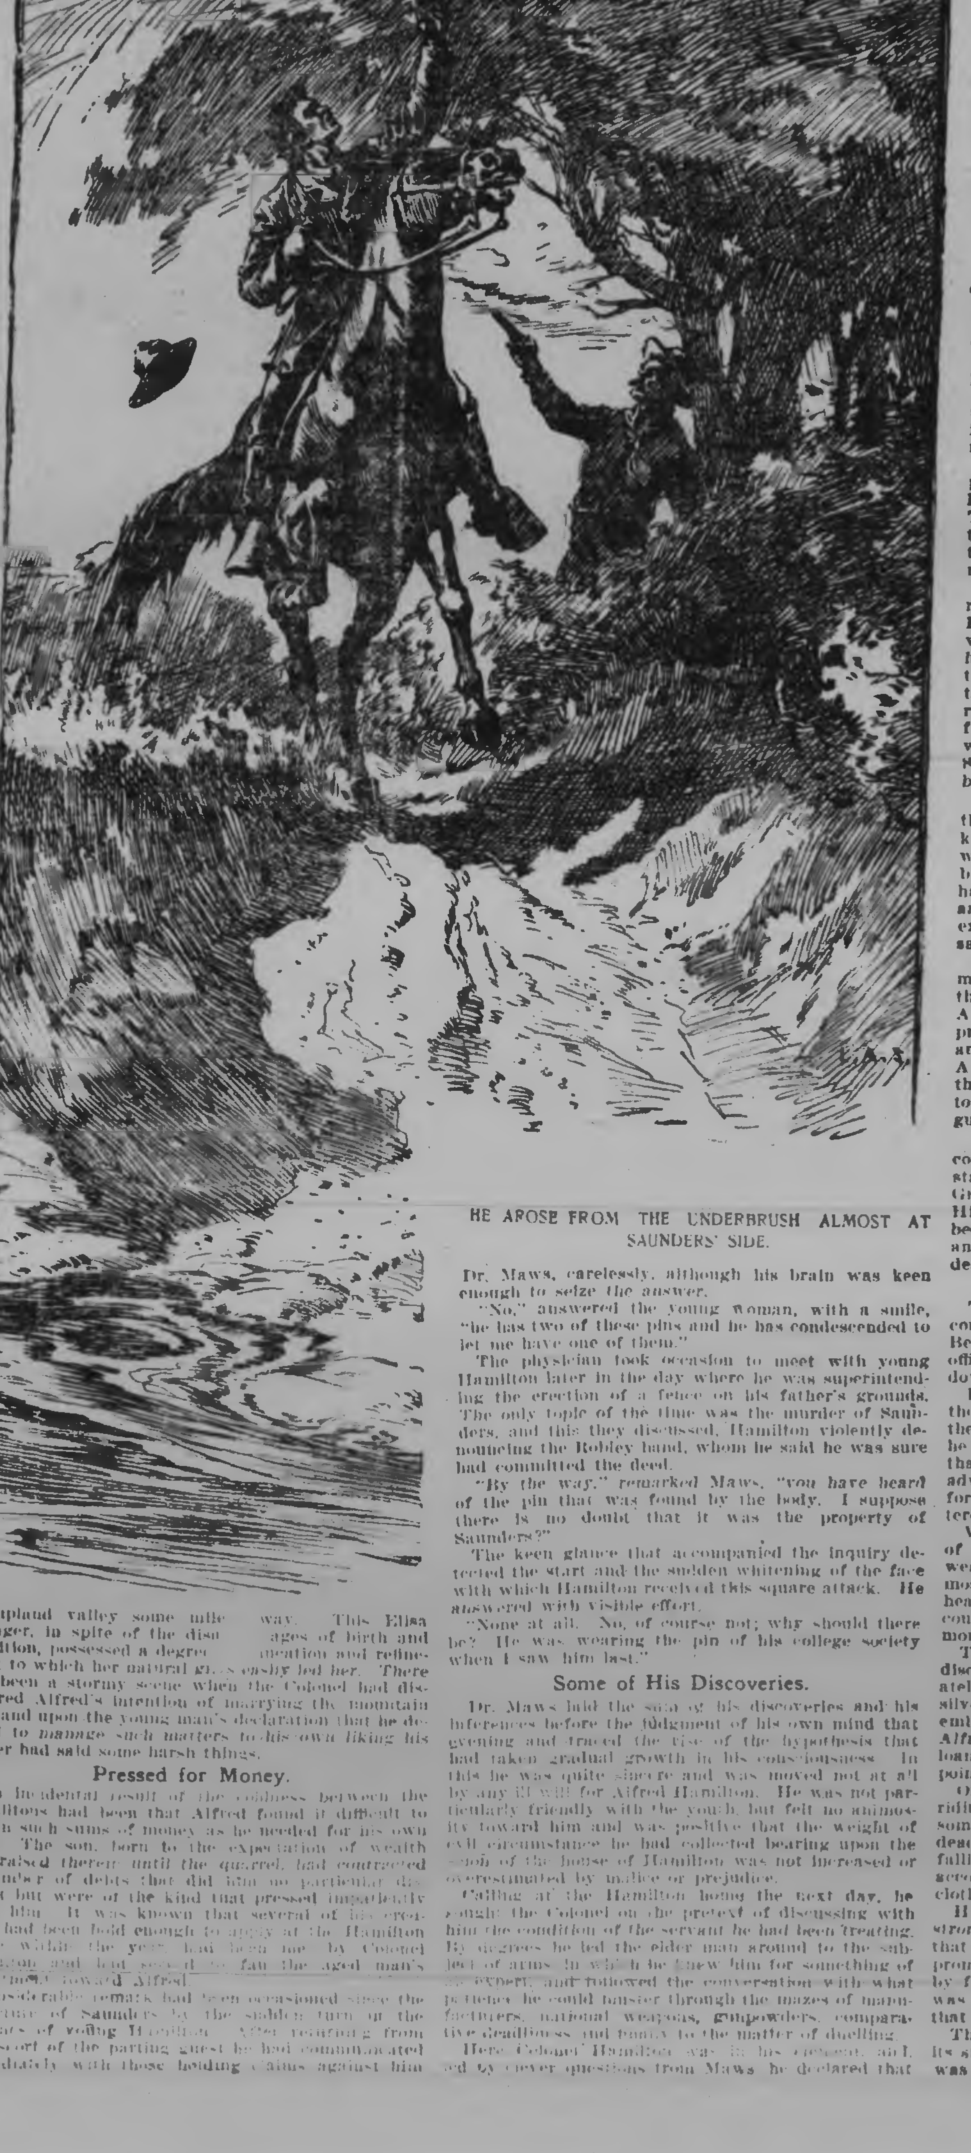
Development had suspended in both the official and the private investigations of the murder when Dr. Maws had occasion one day to visit the Hamilton home to prescribe for one of the servants. On his way out he passed Miss Hamilton at the terrace. He stood aside with a formal bow when his eye caught the glitter of a pin which she wore in the bosom of her dress. In the flash he saw that its design was similar to the one that had been found in the neck cloth near the body of Saunders. Hastily amending his intention of departure, he spoke to the young woman and held her in conversation while he furtively examined the pin. It was an easy matter to identify the geometric marks as exactly the duplicates of those on the article now held as a clew by the authorities. After studying it for some minutes he made a casual remark of curiosity concerning the little brooch. She took it off and handed it to him, saying that it was the badge of a little club or society to which her brother had belonged at college.

In Rival Society.

"Did Mr. Saunders also belong to this society?" asked Dr. Maws, coming out plump with his question. Miss Hamilton replied that Saunders had belonged to another and rival organization at William and Mary, the pin of which was quite different in shape and marking.

"And does your brother part with this valuable mark of his intellectual superiority so readily?" asked Dr. Maws, carelessly, although his brain was keen enough to seize the answer.

"No," answered the young woman, with a smile, "he has two of these pins and he has condescended to let me have one of them."



HE AROSE FROM THE UNDERBRUSH ALMOST AT SAUNDERS' SIDE.

The physician took occasion to meet with young Hamilton later in the day where he was superintending the erection of a fence on his father's grounds. The only topic of the time was the murder of Saunders, and this they discussed, Hamilton violently denouncing the Robley band, whom he said he was sure had committed the deed.

"By the way," remarked Maws, "you have heard of the pin that was found by the body. I suppose there is no doubt that it was the property of Saunders?"

The keen glance that accompanied the inquiry detected the start and the sudden whitening of the face with which Hamilton received this square attack. He answered with visible effort.

"None at all. No, of course not; why should there be? He was wearing the pin of his college society when I saw him last."

Some of His Discoveries.

Dr. Maws laid the sum of his discoveries and his inferences before the judgment of his own mind that evening and traced the rise of the hypothesis that had taken gradual growth in his consciousness. In this he was quite sincere and was moved not at all by any ill will for Alfred Hamilton. He was not particularly friendly with the youth, but felt no animosity toward him and was positive that the weight of evil circumstance he had collected bearing upon the scion of the house of Hamilton was not increased or overestimated by malice or prejudice.

Calling at the Hamilton home the next day, he sought the Colonel on the pretext of discussing with him the condition of the servant he had been treating. By degrees he led the elder man around to the subject of arms, in which he knew him for something of an expert, and followed the conversation with what patience he could muster through the mazes of manufacturers, national weapons, gunpowders, comparative deadliness and finally to the matter of duelling.

Here Colonel Hamilton was in his element, and led by clever questions from Maws he declared that he had several sets of pistols of proved accuracy and excellence. Once started on the topic he pursued it to the point for which Maws had been working and took the physician to the library, where he showed him six mahogany cases containing ivory handled and silver mounted duelling sets, all complete.

Still Maws was not to be thrown from the scent. He expressed great interest in the collection and asked if there were any other pistols in the house.

"Oh, yes," replied the Colonel indifferently, "I gave an old set to my son, good arms, but nothing to compare with what I have shown you here. I think they are on the cabinet."

While his host passed into the front room the physician stepped to the cabinet, on which lay a plain black box. He lifted the cover and glanced inside. In its place lay a gold butted pistol, the exact duplicate of the one he had found by the ford, and an empty impression in the plush showed where the other should have been.

This was enough for Maws. He lost no time in setting out for Scottsville with his notes in his pocket. There he sought out the prosecutor and laid before him a consistent, matter of fact description of the circumstances that had come to his attention. He disclaimed any desire for notoriety or for undue prominence beyond what would come to any citizen who had carried through an unpleasant task that he regarded as a duty.

Amazed by Disclosures.

He insisted that before any action was taken the officials must go over the ground he had covered independently of his conclusions, which he preferred to keep to himself.

The prosecutor was astonished at the amount of important evidence that had been overlooked by his officials and collected by the amateur detective, and, complimenting him highly, promised to give the points outlined by Maws his closest attention. The next day two deputy sheriffs went to the Hamilton mansion and placed Alfred Hamilton under arrest on a warrant charging him with the murder of John Saunders.

The youthful prisoner allowed his demeanor to count strongly against him from the outset. Since the discovery of the body it had been noticed that his manner was depressed and preoccupied, a fact that had been laid to natural grief over the death of his closest friend. When confronted with the series of circumstances arrayed against him at a preliminary hearing he became convinced, apparently that his case was hopeless and gave himself entirely over to gloomy and sullen reserve.

Elisa Granger was a frequent visitor at the jail and did all in her power to arouse him from his lethargy and to nerve him to a fight for life, asserting her full faith in his innocence. But the young man, with little of iron in his nature, could not be shaken from his despondent attitude. The danger of his situation was increased by the hostility of his father, who withheld sympathy or support.

At the trial the case gathered by Maws was presented effectively, with a steady crescendo of accusatory facts. The story told by the prisoner of having lost his way while escorting Saunders on his homeward journey was pointed out as highly improbable. Hamilton said that this was due to a short cut he did not know, but his long residence in the section threw discredit upon the statement. The very incident of the night camp was regarded as a fiction, and since the McLeods had passed on without leaving any trace it could not be supported. The testimony establishing that the penniless Alfred had returned with his pockets full of money made a strong impression on the jury, which was not weakened by Hamilton's unverified story that Saunders had lent it to him. The very admission by the accused that it was Saunders' money he had brought back was regarded as a grave blunder.

The pistol and the society pin, of which the State produced the duplicates in proof that they were Hamilton's property, were large counts against him. The prosecution took the position that he had tossed the weapon aside after the murder and had dropped the neck cloth and pin while robbing the body. But more remained behind.

Maws, accompanied by an officer who had the right, had searched Alfred's room in the mansion. Here they found the suit of clothes that had been worn by the young man on the ill fated ride with his friend. Miss Hamilton, called as a witness by the prosecution, was forced to admit that she had taken the suit for repairs the day after her brother's return owing to the state of the garments. She had found them torn and covered with mud and, what was fully emphasized in court, with blood stains. She gave this information reluctantly, but could not be shaken from the statement.

A final circumstance was advanced that achieved the confusion of the defence. A silver mounted penknife was found by Maws in Alfred's room, and this was not only proved to have been Saunders' property, but a servant swore to having seen it in Saunders' hand just before he rode away. Hamilton reluctantly and suddenly admitted that the society pin was his, explaining that he and Saunders had exchanged keepsakes, the pin being given for the knife.

Maws proved a fair and intelligent witness on the medical points, the identifying of the society pin and the pistol and the finding of the clothing and the knife. After this there was some general testimony on the prisoner's actions, his tendency to occasional violence and his suspicious exclamation at the blacksmith's. A plea of general good character formed the basis for the speech of the prisoner's counsel, and the case went to the jury. They returned an immediate verdict of guilty.

Alfred Hamilton was not a strong man, and the conviction broke down what little resistance and stamina he had retained through his ordeal. Elisa Granger remained his faithful supporter to the end. His health declined rapidly and his mental condition became affected. When the day of execution arrived and they came to lead him from his cell he was found dead.

* * * * * * *

Twelve years later a man was arrested, tried and convicted for housebreaking, with murder, in Illinois. Before the sentence was carried out he sent for the officials and a clergyman and caused them to take down his dying statement.

He was the youngest of the McLeod brothers. On the night when the two young strangers rested at their camp Saunders had incautiously disclosed that he carried a considerable sum of money. Hearing that they were to part before reaching the river, he advised the traveller to cross by an unfrequented ford, made his way there through the woods and intercepted Saunders.

While Hamilton was asleep McLeod had taken one of his pistols from his saddle holster, and with this weapon in his hand he arose from the underbrush almost at Saunders' side, shot him in the back of the head and robbed his body of such valuables as he could find. He was disappointed in the amount of money he obtained, which was only a few dollars.

The truth of the story told by Hamilton was thus disclosed. At parting with his friend they affectionately exchanged keepsakes, Saunders giving him the silver mounted penknife, while he pinned his society emblem on Saunders' neckcloth. Saunders knew of Alfred's money troubles and induced him to accept a loan of five hundred dollars just as they reached the point where the path branched.

On his way home the horse that Hamilton was riding was frightened by a deer, badly wounded by some hunter, that staggered from the woods and fell dead almost under his hoofs. The rider was thrown, falling to the ground in the tracks of the deer, this accounting for the soiled and stained condition of his clothing.

His subsequent actions, which had counted so strongly against him, his agitation, his denial to Maws that the pin found by Saunders was his own, were the promptings of a rather weak character, overwhelmed by fear of being implicated in a crime of which he was wholly innocent, but in which he saw the part that might easily be assigned to him.

The only actor in the tragedy that was left upon its stage when Hamilton's innocence was established was Elisa Granger.

NEW STRENGTH IN THE SPRING

Nature Needs Aid in Making New, Health-Giving Blood.

In the spring the system needs tuning up. In the spring to be healthy and strong you must have new blood, just as the trees must have new sap. Nature demands it and without this new blood you will feel weak and languid. You may have twinges of rheumatism or the sharp stabbing pains of neuralgia. Often there are disfiguring pimples or eruptions on the skin. In other cases there is merely a feeling of tiredness, and a variable appetite. Any of these are signs that the blood is out of order—that the indoor life of winter has told upon you. What is needed to put you right is a tonic and in all the world there is no tonic can equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These Pills actually make new, rich, red blood—your greatest need in spring. This new blood drives out disease, clears the skin and makes weak, easily tired men and women and children bright, active and strong. Mrs. J. C. Moses, Bronton N. S., says:—"Last spring my daughter was completely run down, she was very pale, had no appetite, and became very nervous, and we were alarmed about her. We decided to give her Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and soon after she began taking them there was a decided improvement. She gained in weight and vigour, her colour returned, and her whole system seemed to have been built anew. I can warmly recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to all who need a medicine."

Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Jr. II. Class.—1st, Sadie Seymour; 2nd, Dorcy Kimble.

More snow has fallen in this locality during the past week than any other week during the winter and in consequence the sleighing is very good yet.

Mr. Fred Purdy and family, who spent the winter at Nogey's Creek, have returned to their farm to be in readiness for the Spring work.

The farmers of this line have been getting their wood sawed during the past week. The work is being done with a circular saw, run by an engine. Of course this requires not very large timber, but that suits most people around here now. A few who have large timber had the old time draw saw run by horse power.

HANDLING CREAM IN THE VAT

From Farm and Dairy.

Cream is placed in the cream vat for three purposes—for storage, for ripening and for cooling to proper churning temperature. The time that the cream will remain for storage may vary a great deal. But for making the best butter the time should be as short as possible, consistent with proper ripening. Upon the change which the cream undergoes in ripening will depend to a large extent, the flavor and aroma of the butter. Therefore, the cream, when in the vat, should be watched very closely as the ripening process is controlled mainly by the temperature at which the cream is held. The cooling of cream to a churning temperature is also very important, as the butter may be injured by improper cooling. All grades of cream cannot be handled in the same manner to advantage. The maker will have to modify his method according to the kind of cream he has.

In handling sweet, clean, fresh hand separator cream, or cream separated at the creamery, though there is very little of the latter to be handled in Canada these days, from 25 to 30 per cent. of good starter prepared from a commercial culture should be added and mixed thoroughly with the cream. Hold this at a temperature of 70 F. for about four hours or long enough to produce an acidity of .45 p.c. Then, if the cream is cooled to the churning temperature and churned at once the best results will be obtained. The fat content in cream has, however, something to do with the degree of acidity the cream is to be ripened to. For instance, a 35 per cent. cream showing an acidity of .4 will contain more acid than a 20 per cent. cream showing an acidity of .4 per cent. owing to the smaller amount of serum in the richer cream.

But a great deal of the cream received at creameries is not of this sweet, fresh, clean kind, and will have to be handled differently. A good thing to do with sour and overripe cream is to cool to a low churning temperature and churn it immediately. The butterfat should be got out of this overripe serum as quickly as possible.

In handling pasteurized cream it is a good plan to add a liberal amount of starter as soon as it is pasteurized. Then cool to 48 degrees or 49 degrees F. Hold at this temperature for two hours and churn at once. Immediate churning lessens the charce of the spores, which are not killed by pasteurization of developing undesirable bacterial life in the cream.

In all cases care should be taken to have the cream cooled to an even temperature all through and have the starter thoroughly incorporated. This is very easily accomplished where cream ripeners are used. Where open vats are used more care must be exercised in ripening and cooling. Using ice in the open vat is not advisable as it is liable to injure the quality of the butter owing to impurities often found in the ice. It will pay every creamery to get a cream ripener as temperatures can be better controlled. It is estimated that a creamery can obtain a cent per lb. more for its butter if the butter maker has proper cooling facilities at his command during the hot weather. A creamery making 10,000 lbs. of butter per month will thus gain $100 and a first-class ripener of ample capacity can be got for about $400. In ripening cream keep close watch on the starter, the temperature and the acidity.

WANT DOG TAX LAW AMENDED

From Farm and Dairy.

A deputation of sheep breeders waited upon the Agricultural committee of Legislature last week and asked that the Act relating to the tax on dogs and the worrying of sheep by dogs be amended so as to make it more effective in lessening the ravages of sheep by wandering dogs. Those present were A. W. Smith, M.P., John Campbell, Lt.-Col. McEwen, Lt.-Col. McCrea, Geo. H. Telfer and R. H. Harding.

The amendments asked for are those recommended in Bulletin 161, entitled "The Sheep Industry of Ontario," and which had been fully discussed and agreed upon by the Dominion Sheep Breeders' Association. According to these the annual tax on dogs should be $1.00 for one dog, $2 for each dog more than one and $5 for a bitch. One of the principal changes asked for is that each municipality be compelled to place a tax on dogs and to pay not less than two-thirds of the value of sheep killed or worried by dogs. At present this is optional on the part of a township council which may on petition of 25 ratepayers enact a dog-tax by-law.

The Agricultural Committee came to no definite decision regarding the matter. As the session is drawing near a close, it is not likely that any change in the Act will be made this year.

STORMY DEBATE IN HOUSE OF COMMONS—FOSTER RAISES ROW

Ottawa, April 3.—Parliamentary decorum was thrown to the winds, and a sensational scene, which threatened at one stage to culminate in recourse to the services of the Sergeant-at-Arms, occurred in he House last night and marred a debate which had, on the whole, been conducted with admirable temper. As on more than one occasion when the House has flared up, it was Mr. Foster who put the match to the powder. All had gone smoothly in the debate on Mr. Doherty's resolution calling for a sweeping investigation of all the spending departments, and the members were beginning to flatter themselves on the moderation, when the member for North Toronto intervened. Mr. Foster was in his most sarcastic vein. He sneered at Mr. Maclean of Lunenburg, who had preceded him, flouted the Minister of Marine and Fisheries, gibed at the heads of other Departments, and wound up with a discreditable reflection upon the honor and integrity of the Prime Minister.

Mr. Foster started the fireworks in the afternoon, when, continuing the debate on Judge Doherty's resolution to investigate the spending departments of the Government a la the Marine enquiry, he said:

"What is the Government going to do with men who took the people's money? Didn't Justice Cassels tell the Government that the men who bribe are more culpable than the men who accept bribes?

"Judge Cassels reported that Holliday had $6,600 of the people's money? Will the Government prosecute him, or Drolet, who was found to have $5,000 or McAvity, who got his rake-off, in order to get that money back. The Government doesn't seem to be getting on much of a hustle about it. What are the greatest Minister of Justice that has been and the talented Solicitor-General doing?

"Is it because Sir Wilfrid had got his share of the money for party advantage? If not, why is he so modest, he who is the trustee of the people's rights?"

Sir Wilfrid had just begun at the evening session his reply. His first words were in the way of a compliment to Judge Doherty of Montreal, who, he said, had presented the issue in regard to the Marine investigation in his able and dignified style, but he could not say the same of Mr. Foster, who had "shown us the narrow side of his nature in all its marked deformity."

He had never heard the man who would suggest to him that he had profited by wrongdoing. (Loud cheers and counter cheers.) No man was so ready as Mr. Foster to make insinuations.

"Let me say," continued the Prime Minister, "that I never manipulated other people's money, and that I never manipulated trust funds."

This brought a tremendous outburst of applause from the Government benches, and Mr. Foster jumped to his feet.

"The rules of order demand that no man should say an offensive thing of another," he said. "My honorable friend commenced by putting a statement in my mouth which I never made. In anger he refused to allow me to correct him. He preferred to make an argument from a false statement rather than take the true statement."

"Did you share in the funds?" asked Col. Talbot.

"Let him get upon any platform in this country and make that statement and I will show him," shouted Mr. Foster, who remained standing amid cries of "Order" from every side, with Mr. Conmee and Dr. Clark making frantic efforts to be heard.

Foster stood firm, while more than half the House tried to hoot him down. Mr. Speaker two or three times endeavored to rule on the point of order, but the North Toronto man insisted that he should state the rule, which was to the effect that "no member shall be allowed to say any disagreeable thing to another."

"The right hon. gentleman," he went on, "insinuates that I manipulated trust funds. I throw back the insinuation in his teeth."

For a full minute his subsequent remarks could not be heard, but he stood shaking his fist across the floor of the House in the direction of the Prime Minister, while Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Mr. Speaker also tried to get a hearing.

Sir Wilfrid broke in before Mr. Speaker had the opportunity to give his ruling on the point raised by Mr. Foster. Mr. Foster had said that no one should be allowed to say anything disagreeable of another. Was Mr. Foster willing to be judged by that standard?

"Order," cried the Opposition, and Mr. Speaker calmed the excited House. He appealed to both sides. He did not think there was any point of order.

"The point is," declared Mr. Foster, "that the Prime Minister made the insinuation that I manipulated trust funds. I demand a retraction."

Sir Wilfrid sprang to his feet, but Mr. Foster held the floor and declined to make way. "I ask that he retract that statement. He is amenable to the rules, in common decency," he asserted.

Amid cries of "let the Prime Minister take his medicine," and "take it back," Sir Wilfrid rose, but the turmoil would not subside.

Mr. Borden then for the first time took part in the affair. His rising commanded instant silence.

"Perhaps I misunderstood the right hon. gentleman," began Mr. Borden. "I hope I did, but I certainly understood him to suggest in the plainest possible way that the member for North Toronto manipulated trust funds. I am bound to accept his statements as to what he intended to say. They meant either that or they meant nothing, and if he is prepared to say that he did not mean that, I am bound to accept his statement; but if he did, it would be in the interest of good order if the right hon. gentleman would retract."

Sir Wilfrid said he was an old member of the House and he was not aware that he had ever said an offensive word of anyone. He had tried to be fair, but he was human after all, and if any honorable member tells him to his face that because he did not take a certain action it was because he was afraid of the consequences, and that he shared in the proceeds, would he be expected not to retaliate?

Mr. Foster explained what he said was that Sir Wilfrid had shared in the proceeds for his party.

"I do not accept that explanation," said Sir Wilfrid. "What I said was, that I never manipulated any trust funds?"

Addressing Mr. Speaker, Mr. Foster said: "Is there any doubt in your mind that if that sentence had any revelance it was directed to me and meant to charge me with manipulating trust funds? I say he must either withdraw or admit that his words had reference to me."

Sir Wilfrid repeated that what he said was in retaliation for the remark of Mr. Foster's in the afternoon.

Speaker Marcil contended that the words in themselves might not be offensive. The offence might have been conveyed by inference, but that was a matter which every member would have to judge for himself. He would not declare one way or another.

Several efforts were made to resume the debate, but Mr. Foster was not satisfied.

"Take it back," he called several times to the leader of the House.

"I never sail under false pretences," declared Sir Wilfrid, while the Opposition was all attention for the expected retraction. But Sir Wilfrid merely added, "I have never made any accusation and I make none now that I cannot back up. I applied the words to the honorable member from North Toronto, and now, Mr. Speaker, that I have placed myself under your ruling, I shall proceed."

But this would not go. Calls were renewed from the Opposition benches for the full enforcement of the Speaker's decision.

More shouts, "sit down," from the Government side, and counter demonstrations of encouragement were heard as Mr. Foster arose and stood facing the Prime Minister.

"The right honorable gentleman," exclaimed Mr. Foster, "has said that the words were offensive and that they were addressed to me."

"The Prime Minister should give an example to the House," began Sir Wilfrid, deliberately. Then in quickened tones he declared that he never made insinuation. "When I have charges to make I'll make them," he added, thumping his desk. "As I do now. And I shall obey the rule of the chair. And I withdraw every word I said."

A cheer went up from the Opposition side that could be heard at the main entrance, and Mr. Foster smiled.

Sir Wilfrid regarded him thus for an instant and then went on "But the honorable member for North Toronto must not try to attack people in this House. He has his own reputation to keep up."

"And I am able to look after it," Mr. Foster returned.

When peace had been restored the debate was continued. Several members spoke concluding with Dr. Pugsley, after midnight.

Mother Gave Her Child Away.

Had Given up all Hope of Living. Heart Trouble was Cured by Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

Mrs. Andrew Savoy, Grattan's, N.B., writes:—"In the year 1905 I was taken sick and did not think I could live any length of time. My trouble was with my heart and people told me that nothing could be done for a case like mine. I consulted the very best doctors but they could do me no good. For seven weeks I could hardly cross the floor. I had no pain, but was so weak nobody in the world can believe how I felt. I had given up all hopes of living and had given my little girl to my sister-in-law.

"One day a friend came to see me, and calling me by name, said, 'Lizzie, if I were you I would try a dose of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills as they are good for heart trouble.' My husband got me a box, but for two days I was not feeling any better, but on the fourth day my husband said, 'I believe those pills are doing you good.' I was able to say, 'Yes, I feel a good deal better this morning.' He said, 'Well, I will get you another box right away.' I took two boxes and three doses out of the third one, and I was perfectly well and have not been sick since then.

"I will never be without them in my home for God knows if it had not been for Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, I would not have been alive now."

GIRL'S STORY WAS UNTRUE

Miss Corinne D'Amour Confesses to the Police.

TO COVER UP SHORTAGE

Montreal Cashier Who Said She Had Been Kidnapped and Robbed on Two Occasions Admits to Authorities That She Made Up the Yarns to Conceal Her Thefts —Will Not Prosecute.

Montreal, April 3.—Corinne D'Amour, the cashier who reported the other evening that she had been kidnapped and robbed, and also, in February last, that she had been knocked senseless and robbed, confessed yesterday afternoon to Detective Carpenter that the two stories were a falsehood invented by herself to cover up the crime of robbing her employers out of cash to the amount of about $150, more or less.

Miss D'Amour, who is very well connected, is of a very delicate and somewhat nervous temperament, held out all right before the questions of a dozen newspaper men, but when taken before the chief detective she wilted.

When once she reached this state of mind the poor girl appeared to be much relieved and went to work to relate her strange story with all the sang froid imaginable. She said she had had a mania for expensive candies and for theatre-going, and as she generally treated a girl friend the bills began to exceed her weekly income.

Her employer will not prosecute.

Husband Killed; Wife Dies.

Grand Valley, April 3.—Robt. King, a retired farmer of this place was instantly killed at his farm on Erin town line Thursday. His wife, when informed that he had met with an accident, was stricken with a paralytic stroke and died yesterday morning. The joint funeral takes place on Sunday.

King had apparently been felling a tree. The butt of the tree rested on the stump and when he began to cut one of the larger limbs turned over and hit him on the back of the neck.

Will Not Be Disturbed.

Montreal, April 3.—The statement was made yesterday on pretty good authority that the present securities of the Dominion Iron & Steel Co. would not be materially disturbed, in the financial reorganization which is about to take place, and that the first mortgage bonds will not be redeemed. Mr Plummer is now discussing the situation with the Toronto bankers and will return to Montreal before the meeting of the steel company next week.

Chinese on Board.

Vancouver, B.C., April 3.—With a cargo worth over a million and half dollars, the silk alone being valued at $818,500, the Empress of India, yesterday afternoon completed her ninetieth passage across the Pacific with 534 Chinese on board. The bulk are for Mexico, though many are going to Cuba to work on plantations. There were 102 Chinese, including ten women, for the United States.

Year-Old Girl Burned.

Toronto, April 3.—Mollie Selesmick, aged one year, of 21 Leonard avenue, was fatally burned yesterday. Her mother had gone out for a few minutes, when she heard screams. She rushed into the house and found the child in flames. Mollie had been left in charge of her brother, aged seven, and it is supposed that they were burning paper in the stove.

His Majesty's Health.

Biarritz, April 3.—There is no truth in a report published in Germany that King Edward suffered a stroke of apoplexy. His Majesty, who is in excellent health, left yesterday morning to Basque Fetes at Sare.

Previous to going to Sare, the King walked on the beach here.

Succeeds Preston.

Vernon B. C., April 3.—Gordon A. Harris has received word from Ottawa of his appointment to succeed W. T. R. Preston as trade commissioner to Japan.

He is a relative of the Masseys and manager of the Okanagan newspaper here.

Only a Common Cold,

BUT IT BECOMES A SERIOUS MATTER IF NEGLECTED.

Pneumonia, Bronchitis, Asthma, Catarrh or Consumption is the result. Get rid of it at once by taking Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.

Obstinate coughs yield to its grateful soothing action, and in the racking, persistent cough, often present in Consumptive cases, it gives prompt and sure relief. In Asthma and Bronchitis it is a successful remedy, rendering breathing easy and natural, enabling the sufferer to enjoy refreshing sleep and often affecting a permanent cure.

Mrs. Henry Smallpiece, Brudenell, Ont., writes:—"I was always subject to a cough and could get nothing to relieve me until I saw an advertisement of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup and thought I would try a bottle, and when I had taken a few doses I found I was getting relief, and when I had finished it I was cured. I procured a bottle for my baby, who had a cough, and a few doses cured him. I would advise anyone having a cough, to give Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup a trial and I am sure they will never be without it."

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup 25 cts. per bottle at all dealers. Put up in yellow wrapper, and three pine trees the trade mark. Refuse substitutes. There is only one Norway Pine Syrup and that one is "Dr. Wood's."

LAYMEN'S CONGRESS.

"Stewardship of Life" Is Subject at Yesterday's Session.

Toronto, April 3.—"The Stewardship of Life" centralized the thought at the congress meeting at the Massey Hall yesterday afternoon. Rev. J. G. Brown, D.D., led the devotional exercises. The "Glory Song" was sung by the association quartette.

The chairman, N. W. Rowell K.C., read a letter of regret from Dr. S. B. Capen, chairman of the national council of the Laymen's Missionary Movement of the United States, who was unable to be present through illness.

The chairman announced that Morley Williams, the eminent New York lawyer, who is vice-chairman in the national council, was present to speak in Dr. Capen's place. It was Morley Williams who issued the call for the historic prayer meeting in Fifth avenue Presbyterian Church, which gave the laymen's movement its impetus.

The vice-chairman of the national council, Morley Williams, is a splendid type of the intelligence and manhood of the city of New York. Of square built westaterian form, cultured diction, with persuasive, forceful, simple language, he enforced upon the congress the stewardship of life, with specific reference to the missionary movement.

J. N. Shenstone, speaking of the "Stewardship of business talents and possession," said: "In the last few months we have come to a new realization of the stewardship of life. This means more than material possessions. Man is greater than his money. Personality is eternally greater than possession. There is also a stewardship of time.

John B. Sleeman, jr., of Washington, and L. H. Severance of Cleveland, also spoke.

SALVATIONIST UNIVERSITY.

Immense College System Planned to Educate Workers.

New York, April 3.—Commander Evangeline Booth of the Salvation Army, announced from the army's headquarters here yesterday that a new undertaking to be known as a "world university of humanity" for the training of workers for the army's social service operations, would be launched on April 10 in honor of the 80th birthday of her father, General William Booth.

The work of raising $5,000,000 for the founding of the university will begin on that date, and the first branches will be opened in America in New York and Chicago.

The headquarters for the rest of the world will be in London, and it is intended to extend the institutions to all the fifty-four countries now occupied by the army, as rapidly as possible.

It is believed that the university will raise the efficiency of workers, and attract a superior class to the service.

The number of graduates from the first is estimated at 3,000 a year.

Woman Led Double Life.

Before going to Boston, Mitchell, who was a printer, worked in St. John, Montreal and Hamilton.

Big Dam Dynamited.

Lake Charles, April 3.—News of the dynamiting and complete destruction of the Mermentau Dam at Grand Cheniere, forty miles south of here, has reached Lake Charles. Cholera In St. Petersburg.

St. Petersburg, April 3.—Yesterday for the first time since the presence of cholera was officially admitted on Sept. 8, 1908, no new cases of the disease were reported. Since the outbreak of the epidemic there has been 10,283 cases and 4,002 deaths.

MANY BILLS HAVE BEEN HELD OVER

Separate School Measures Withdrawn Pending Decision.

READERS TO BE PATRIOTIC

Hon. Dr. Pyne Announces That Bits of War History of Canada and Britain Will Be Contained In Text Books — McGarry and Racine Will Await Judicial Decision on Bills Before Going On.

Toronto, April 3.—Good progress was made with the order paper by the Legislature yesterday. Mr. Garry (South Renfrew) spoke regarding his bill to amend the Separate School act. His requests contained in the bill were not made by a small minority, but in a spirit of justice and fair play. This bill provided that the minority should have a share of public utility and bonus taxes. Those in the minority had determined to support separate schools, and if equal justice was not meted out to them, they would have to go down into their own pockets. There had been a great deal of criticism, but the critics did not understand the bill. He intended next year to follow the matter further, and was confident that between now and then they could convert many of their opponents. "He had been asked every year for three or four years to bring in this bill," said Mr. Garry. They were quite willing to wait and see what the Government would do for separate schools, as he understood that several constitutional questions had to be considered, but asked that the bill receive consideration when these questions were settled. Meanwhile he would withdraw the bill.

Hon. Dr. Pyne thought the member for South Renfrew had done the correct thing in withdrawing the bill, as a stated case on the question would be submitted to the courts for decision.

A similar discussion took place on Dr. Racine's bill to make property liable for seperate school debentures, where the owners of such property is a petitioner for a separate school.

The Premier stated that under ordinary circumstances the Government would be prepared to go on with the bill. He did not think, however, that the bill would afford the relief the promoter desired, and some other method would have to be devised.

Hon. Dr. Pyne, Minister of Education, stated that it is the intention to make the new public school readers, for the production of which tenders are now being advertised, decidedly more of a British and patriotic character than any of the former readers. The elementary history will contain some of the stirring and valiant deeds of the Canadians in the Boer war, the Northwest Rebellion, and other parts of the world.

Airship Excites Munich.

Munich, April 3.—The Zeppelin airship appeared over Munich about half past one yesterday afternoon and made a successful landing on the parade ground outside the city. The count was greeted by the Prince Regent of Bavaria and several princes and princesses of the royal family.

The public school children were given a holiday and extra editions of the newspapers are being sold on the streets giving full account of the travels of the airship.

Atlantic Grain Trade.

London, April 3.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Mr. Lawson devotes a long article to the "prolonged strenuous fight for the Atlantic trade of the far west," which is going to take place between New York and Montreal, and says that hitherto Montreal scored as the natural first stage in such a contest, but he points out that New York never has been slow to defend its Atlantic trade, though it seems to find the present attack more difficult than usual.

Killed With Lantern.

Kenora, April 3.—During a drunken altercation on Thursday night, Alex. Miller hit a companion, John Bell, over the head with a lantern. The broken glass cut Bell's jugular vein and he bled to death in the dark. Miller was ejected from the shanty after the row and disappeared before the proprietor knew of the fatal results of the blow.

Cartridge Found.

Hamilton, April 3.—The police, while searching in the yard of a vacant house east of the Kinrade home, found a loaded 32 calibre cartridge, which is the kind used by the murderer of Ethel Kinrade. It is the intention of the authorities to call Miss Florence Kinrade to the stand again when the enquiry is resumed on April 22.

Hotelkeeper Fined $75.

Cooksville, April 3.—Nathaniel Brown of Cheltenham, Peel County, was yesterday fined $57 and costs for obstructing officers when they searched his hotel March 18 last. Provincial License Inspector Ayearst prosecuted.

Prepares For Trouble.

Ottawa, April 3.—Glen Campbell gave notice in the House yesterday that on the first opportunity he would discuss the question of the extension of the boundaries of Manitoba.

Pounded Over the Head.

Ottawa, April 3.—Amedee Sylvester, aged 20, of Hull, is in a serious condition from a pounding over the head, received in a drunken brawl Thursday night.

principle that the hedge will then remain uniform until the following year, while Spring-pruned hedges become irregular on account of the new growth. Cut back each time so as to leave the twigs about one inch longer than they had been before growth started.

Pointers on Roses.

Although roses may be classed as shrubs, they require special treatment and should be given a place by themselves. The best roses for outdoor culture in Canada are the hybrid perpetuals. Their powerful fragrance and immense flowers, gorgeously coloured, make them universal favourites. Their period of flowering is in June and July. Some varieties bloom later and a few of the earlier ones occasionally give a second crop in September or October. Except on the Pacific Coast and near Niagara Falls, these roses require some protection in winter.

Prune roses in April just as the buds are starting into growth. Cut out the dead and weak branches. Prune back the remaining branches to within a few inches of the old wood. Shoots from the base of the bush may be cut to about 15 inches from the ground. Should these shoots arise from a point on the plant that is below where the bush had been grafted or budded, they should be removed altogether. Climbing roses may be cut back as desired. As a rule it is best to cut them back to about five feet.

There are many excellent varieties of hybrid perpetual and climbing roses. Among the former might be mentioned Baron de Bonstettin, dark maroon; Gen. Jacqueminot, brilliant crimson; Francois Levet, cherry red; Mrs. John Laing, delicate pink, Magna Charta, bright pink; Paul Neyron, deep rose; Persian Yellow, deep bright yellow; Margaret Dickson, white. Among the climbers are crimson rambler; Queen of the Prairie, rose red; Dorothy Perkins, shell pink; Baltimore Belle, nearly white.

In the next article of the series something will be said about the care of shade trees on streets, about herbaceous and woody climbers and vines, about the arrangement of walks and drives and about fences.

Foster Predicts Bad Weather From The 10th Of April To 20th

Examiner Special.

Washington, D.C., April 3.—Last bulletin gave forecasts of disturbance to cross continent April 3 to 7, warm wave 2nd to 6th, cool wave 5th to 9th. Temperatures of this disturbance were expected to average about normal in the great central valleys, and colder than usual in the Atlantic and Pacific coast states. Force of disturbances was expected to be somewhat greater than usual.

Next disturbance will reach Pacific coast about 8th, cross Pacific slope by close of 9th, Great Central Valleys 10th to 12th, Eastern States 12th. Cool wave will cross Pacific Slope about 11th, Great Central Valleys 13th, Eastern States 15th.

This disturbance will bring a "flareback" or some other outrageous weather event. The vials of weather wrath will be emptied on suffering humanity April 10th to 20th. During that period temperatures will go to extremes with northern killing frosts, dangerous storms will occur, heavy downpours of rain; thunder storms with a probability of tornadoes. The worst of these bad weather features will take effect in the great Central Valleys, while the Atlantic States will get the easiest part of these unwelcome weather events. A tropical storm is expected off our Southeastern States during those eleven days.

Indications are that first half of April will average colder than usual in eastern and Pacific states and warmer than usual in the sections that lie contiguous to Meridians 90 to 95.

If I were living in an earthquake country I would give out farning of seismic disturbances during the five days of which April 18th will be the central day.

These great weatner disturbances are dangerous to a comparatively small part of the country, but as we cannot definitely locate dangerous storms I advise that all arrange their affairs so as to avoid the annoyances of weather bureau "flarebacks" from April 10th to 20th inclusive.

Friends of my weather work will be pleased to learn that the previously large circulation of my weather bulletins through the press has recently been increased 25 per cent. Indications are that I have nearly reached the point where these bulletins will be universally read and studied as a weather guide.

Dark Suns.

Astronomers believe that they have found evidences of dark or burned-out suns around which our cluster of stars and other clusters are revolving or that our cluster is moving toward the great central body and will be absolved by it. Frequently during twenty years past, I have stated my theory, that the coal sacks or dark spots in the milky way, are centres around which our cluster of stars are moving; that these dark centres have never been suns, but are the accumulations of refined matter after all its gross particles have been eliminated and its carbon burned out as it passes from the ether through the solar systems to its final rest. I hold there is no such thing as conservation of energy. All motion is produced by the movements of the ether toward the great dark X-ray centres of the Universe.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON QUESTIONS

Suggestive Lessons on the Sunday School Lesson by the Rev. Dr. Linscott for the International Newspaper Bible Study Club.

April 4th, 1909.

Peter and Cornelius. Acts x : 1-48.

Golden Text. — In every nation he that feareth Him, and worketh righteousness, is accepted of him. Acts x : 35.

Verses 1-8. — Was a devout Roman in those days as well pleasing to God as was a devout Jew?

Can you give any reason to-day why God is not as well pleased with a devout Roman Catholic, as he is with a devout Protestant, or vice-versa?

What reason is there for or against the idea, that revelations and divisions were given to devout men of all nations in those days, as well as the Jews?

Verses 9-16. — Is it wise and profitable to have certain set times for prayer, or is it better to be always in the spirit of prayer, and let our needs, or the Holy Spirit, direct as to special times for prayer?

Are people who are not seeking for revelations likely to have them?

The eating of the flesh of those animals, or most of them, which Peter saw in his vision, is forbidden in the old testament; how do you account for it, that the "word of God" and the spirit of God do not agree in this case?

Peter in the first instance stuck to his creed, and refused to obey the direct voice of God; was he right or wrong in so doing?

Must we, in thought, be bound in all things by the written words in the Bible, and refuse to obey any direction of the Holy Spirit to the contrary?

Verses 17-27.—Does God blame us if we test what we think to be revelations before we act up to them?

When God gives a revelation that is not unmistakably clear, may we depend that he will arrange circumstances or give another revelation to clear up the doubt, as in this case?

Was Cornelius reconciled to God, or an accepted child at this time?

Verses 24-29.—Are any of the Commandments of the Bible to be tested by the teaching of Jesus, and by the spirit of God, or must we unhesitatingly obey them all, just as they read, without any question. (This question must be answered in writing by members of the club.)

Verses 30-33. — If we prayed and fasted more, should we have more visions of God?

Is there any merit in good works? and how much, if any, credit does God give for them?

Does God in these days give by His Spirit, such detailed and matter-of-fact instructions as He gave to Peter and Cornelius?

Verses 34-43. — What is the ground of a man's acceptance with God, according to Peter's statement here?

According to the suggestion in verse 37, Cornelius had heard about Jesus, His teaching, His death and resurrection; is it at all unlikely that he was a believer in Jesus?

Verses 44-48. — What is the meaning of the Holy Spirit falling upon this company?

Excepting the gift of tongues, are all Christians privileged to receive the Holy Ghost as these persons did?

How may a Christian in the state Cornelius was, receive the Holy Ghost as he did?

LONGBOAT FAVOURITE

In Local Pools With Alfie Shrubb a Strong Second Choice—Short Money Players Taking The Stragglers For a Long Shot Chance To Win.

THEY LIKE THE INDIAN

According to all the dope in Peterborough Longboat is considered as having the best chance to win to-day's big race in New York. Despite the reports in the papers that Longboat is not in condition the local sporting enthusiasts still pin their hopes on the fleet-footed Onondaga. This is shown by a pool in a local hotel in which it is necessary to call the winner and the distance by which he will win. The fifty-one guesses that were in at noon were divided as follows:

Longboat, 22; Shrubb, 12; Dorando, 8; St. Yves, 4; Maloney, 2; Hayes, 2.

HOTEL MAN WAS FINED

Sold Liquor During Prohibited Hours — Fine of $100 and Costs Was Imposed in Police Court This Morning.

DEFENDANT TO APPEAL

A local hotelkeeper was fined one hundred dollars and costs, amounting to $104.90, at the police court this morning, for selling liquor during prohibited hours namely on Sunday last. The case was heard before Magistrate Dumble on Tuesday and His Worship reserved judgment until this morning. Mr. G. N. Gordon appeared for the defendant and intimated, on hearing the sentence, that he intended to appeal.

BROKE INTO FREIGHT CAR

Two Youths Pleaded Guilty to Stealing Oats From G. T. R. Car — Appeared in the Police Court This Morning.

WERE ALLOWED TO GO.

Two youths, one nine years of age and the other ten, pleaded guilty, in ocurt to-day, to stealing oats from a freight car on a G. T. R. siding. Mr. E. L. Goodwill was present on behalf of the Children's Aid Society. The boys had been in the habit of sweeping the grain out of the empty cars but on their last visit they were unable to get sufficient by sweeping and they broke a seal. One of them said that they had taken a bushel of oats.

His Worship gave them one of his sermonettes of good advice and it being their first offence allowed them to go.

TELEGRAPH ADDITION

Staff of Men Making Improvements To C. P. R. Telegraph Service—New Wires Are Being Added Between Montreal and Toronto Via Peterboro.

REPLACING OLD POLES.

The number of C. P. R. telegraph wires between Toronto and Montreal is being increased by a gang of men who commenced the work in Peterborough a few days ago, the intention being to work west towards Toronto. They have recently come from a Sudbury line, and will be located here for a time. When the men draw further away from the city they will have their headquarters at Cavanville and so on. The work will be carried on through the summer. They are also putting up new poles all along the road wherever they are needed.

The adding of the new wires necessitates the changing of the arms to increase the number of spools.

SYRUP HAS ARRIVED

Price Has Gone Up Another Notch Since Last Year—May Be a Scarcity Next Week—Maple Sugar Is in Good Demand.

GOOD SUPPLY TO-DAY.

"A Dollar and a Half a Gallon." Each year brings an advance in the price of maple syrup. It is climbing the ladder with the regularity of a successful young business man. A farmer with a fairly good bush should make a mint of money at this price, but from the statements of most of those who offered the golden ambrosia this morning they are not confident of a copious flow of sap. Some of them stated that there was not enough snow in the woods. Others are judging by the past week's experience which they report has not been very encouraging. With the proper sugar weather—frost at night and sun by day—next week will bring about desired results. Many women and men had brought pails and jars probably expecting a price at about $1.25 a gallon, but they carried home a more valuable article than that.

OXFORD WON BOAT RACE

The Dark Blues Surprised the Experts By Winning The Famous English Boat Race This Morning in Fast Time From Cambridge.

WERE WELL AHEAD.

Examiner Special (2:45 p.m.)

London, April 3.—Upsetting the predictions of the experts, the dark blue of Oxford finished three and one-half lengths ahead of the light blue Cambridge to-day, in the annual race on the Thames from Putney to Martlake, a distance of about 4½ miles. The race was one of the most exciting in the long history of these dual contests and was witnessed by tens of thousands. The time was 19 minutes, 5 seconds—one minute and three seconds above the record time for the course made by Cambridge in 1900.

CUT MANY ICE BLOCKS

Mr. W. Cullen of Bridgenorth Reports a Record Harvest in Cooling Material During The Winter — Conditions Were Ideal.

THE USERS OF THE ICE.

Mr. W. T. Cullen, of Bridgenorth, during the past season completed one of the most successful ice harvests in his business career. During the winter he cut no less than 7,325 blocks of cooling material from Chemong Lake. The ice is of excellent quality being from 8 to 20 inches thick, and Mr. Cullen states that the weather conditions during the winter were splendid for his purposes. Of the vast quantity of ice harvested, Jopling & Sons, butchers in Bridgenorth, will use 2,480 blocks, while the Central Cheese Factory will need 680 and Mr. Geo. Brown, proprietor of the Chemong Park Hotel, in the neighbourhood of 1,000 blocks. The remainder of the ice will be disposed of to farmers in the neighbourhood, and to the people who summer at Chemong Park.

IMPRESSIONS OF PETERBORO' CLERGYMEN WHO ATTENDED THE MISSIONARY CONGRESS

The magnitude and the great significance of the recent Laymen's Missionary Congress in Toronto cannot be appreciated by those who remained at home. "You had to be present to realize the full meaning of those vast meetings," said one of the laymen who returned last night. Words failed him in his endeavour to describe the congress and he finally reverted to a few superlatives and then decided that it was impossible to adequately express his opinions.

Rev. E. A. Pearson was among those who arrived home last night. "It was probably the greatest missionary meeting ever held," he told an Examiner reporter this morning. "Intense interest was manifest from the beginning to the end. In point of numbers the attendance was extremely large, many being unable to gain admission." The most impressive character of the congress was its representative character, and also the large number of young men who were present.

"Noticeable also was the insistence of every speaker upon the fact that the best defence of the Gospel of Jesus Christ is its use. The time is opportune not for criticism, but for aggressive evangelism."

Rev. Robt. Pogue

The thought uppermost in the mind of Rev. Mr. Pogue, of St. Paul's Church, on recalling the congress was the large number of prominent business men who have taken up with the work and who are regarding it as the greatest business they can touch. Rev. Mr. Pogue spoke of two men he knew who had given thousands of dollars to the work. They were prominent men of the United States, occupying no small sphere in the great world of business. Large numbers of these men are using money for their real business by extending the Gospel of Christ.

Immediate Results

Rev Mr. Pogue states that the results of the congress will be immediate. To-night resolutions will be drafted in Toronto expressing the spirit of the congress. The different denominations have been vastly inspired and are already individually taking broader steps which will be a part of the interdenominational movement. Besides a secretary will be employed in regard to the main movement and the whole effect will be a grand renewal of life and reunion of forces to spread the Word of God.

Prof. Young's Able Lecture On Michael Angelo's Great Art

The fair-sized gathering that assembled at the Gymnasium of the Young Women's Christian Association last night, were very amply repaid by hearing and seeing the literally illuminating, illustratated lecture of Professor Young, Registrar of, and lecturer in German at, Trinity University. The subject was "Michael Angelo and the Sistine Chapel," in the Vatican, Rome, so called from sistino, the Italian of the name of Pope Sextus. Detailed reference to the lecturer's treatment of his theme is impracticable; it is sufficient to say that he was thoroughly informed on his subject and the statuary and paintings of the greatest of the great Masters, were more illuminated by his intelligent and plain interpretative explanations, than by the splendid lantern reproduction presented. The lecture was entertaining and educative. It not only delighted the eye but enlightened the mind by the clever criticism accompanying. The audience was taught how to see great pictures, what to look for in art and how to find it, how to judge, estimate and appreciate statuary and pictures, and, in reference to Michael Angelo's work, to not only see all that is to be [illegible], to use an Hibernic[illegible] visible—the spiritual significance of them, the deep spiritual element that was their inspiring motive. It was said of Elphistone's "Cabul" that reading it was as good as riding through the vale of Cashmere on a camel. It may be well said of Professor Young's lecture that to those who heard it it was more instructive and gave a keener and deeper view of Michael Angelo's marvellous art than a month spent in Rome under an art cicerone less capable than the lecturer of the evening. The lecture was listened to with delighted, not to say rapt attention, as the hearty vote of thanks moved at the close by Mr. Yokome and Mr Matthews, demonstrated.

Preliminary to the address the audience was entertained by a piano solo cleverly performed by Miss King, and a well sung baritone solo by Mr. Herbert Rush.

The lantern slides were manipulated by Mr John Anderson, in so excellent a manner, as to win the special thanks of Professor Young.

The management of the Young Women's Christian Asosciation, are to be congratulated upon procuring so brilliant a close to their series of addresses.

Popular Young Man To Leave The City Shortly For Winnipeg

Mr. Charles Barber, teller of the local branch of the Bank of Montreal, received notice this morning of his transfer to the Bank of Montreal in Winnipeg, Man. The news of Mr. Barber's departure from Peterborough will be received with great r[illegible] he was one of the city's most po[illegible] young men.

He has been a resident here for over three years, during which time he has made many friends and has been prominently identified in athletic and social circles. He played with the Strathcona hockey team in 1908 and was a reliable defence man on the local lacrosse aggregation last summer. He was also a member of the City Bankers' bowling team and his removal from town will make a vacancy hard to fill on their line-up. [illegible] Barber will leave for Winnipeg [illegible] the course of a few days and his numerous acquaintances, while regretting his departure, join in wishing him every future success.

SUDDENLY EXPIRED WHILE RETURNING HOME FROM HIS WORK YESTERDAY EVENING

Unexpected Death of Mr. Adolphus Picard, 372 Queen St.—Passed Away a Few Minutes After Five O'clock.

HEART FAILURE THE CAUSE.

Death came suddenly to Adolphus Picard, 372 Queen street, last evening shortly after five o'clock while returning from his work at Mr. H. LeBrun's store, wher he was employed as a tailor. He had passed Water street when he, without a moment's notice, fell dead. His death was quite unexpected, the late Mr. Picard having been apparently in good health all day and for some time past but had been a sufferer from heart's disease. When he dropped yesterday it was thought that he had only become ill. Immediately assistance was given and Dr. Halliday was sent for but death was instantaneous. He stated that it was due to heart failure. Mr. Jos. Picard, brother of the deceased was present within a few minutes. Dr. Halliday communicated with Coroner Dr. Gray by telephone, who on learning the particulars decided that an inquest was unnecessary.

The late Mr. Picard was fifty years of age and was born in Lenorie, Que. He came to Peterborough over thirty years ago and had worked practically all that time in Mr. Le Brun's store. He was widely known and highly esteemed. He was a man of many sterling qualities and the news of his death will come as a great shock to a large number of friends.

A wife and three children are left to mourn his loss. They are Adolphus, Agnes, and Margaret. Three brothers and one sister also survive him. The brothers are Messrs Joseph, of this city, Gustave, of Chicago, Ill., and Telesphore, of Saginaw, Mich. The sister is Mr. Cordellie of Lenorie, Que.

The funeral will take place on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the family residence, 372 Queen street, to the Little Lake cemetery.

FOUR MILES OF PAVEMENT WILL BE BUILT BY THE BOARD OF WORKS IN 1909

AN OLD-TIME RESIDENT RECALLED

Many of the older residents of the city who remember Mr. John Craigie, prominently connected with the saw-milling business, both here and at Young's Point, where, for many years, he conducted a saw mill, will be interested in knowing that he is still living at the advanced age of 80 years, at Hamburg, British Columbia, where his son, Norman Craigie, J.P., is living in prosperity and enjoying a prominent position.

A Busy Session Was Held Last Night at Which the Programme for the Year Was Outlined And Decided Upon.

LIST IS A VERY LENGTHY ONE

A busy meeting of the Board of Works was held last night, at which the programme for the year's work was decided on.

Those present were Chairman Ald. Bradburn, Gillespie, Duncan, and Buller, City Engineer Hay, and Street Commissioner Evans.

Chairman Ald. Phelan stated that he thought it would be possible to make some arrangements with the Water Commissioners for the use of their steam blower for the purpose of thawing out drains, etc., that had become frozen up.

Ald. Duncan moved that the chairman interview the chairman of the Water Commissioners in reference to the matter. Ald Buller seconded it.

The Ontario Bridge Co. of Toronto, wrote the committee asking that they be given a chance to tender on any highway bridges the city may be goign to build. They make a specialty of highway bridges.

The city engineer notified the committee that it was time now for the proposed new cement walks to be advertised so that there will be no interference with the work when the season opens.

It was moved by Ald Buller and Ald. Gillespie that the city solicitor be requested to look into the request of the G. T. R. re the siding into the Wm. Hamilton M'f'g. Co., and if found correct it be granted.—Carried.

A petition was received from residents on Water street, asking for a crossing from the east side of Water street, near the corner of Hillier St.

The matter was left in the hands of the chairman and street commissioners. A crossing will also be put in from the opera House across Water street to the Peterborough Canoe Company's factory.

Wm. Taylor & Co. wrote asking

DEARTH OF FARM HELP

Forty-five to Fifty Farmers Who Have Asked For Assistants—Men Seem To Shun The Soil—The Wages Are Encouraging.

THE SITUATION TO-DAY

There is no dearth of farm work for men, in fact the real problem that is confronting the tillers of the soil is to procure helpers to assist them in their work. An Examiner reporter called at the local immigration office this afternoon and learned that there are about fifty names of farmers registered who want farm help. In the office there were nine or ten farmers looking for men eager to work but there was only one there. It was remarked that there are enough men on the streets if they really wanted to work. The wages are encouraging and it is stated that they will be even better when the farm work demands greater attention.

MODERN MILITARY QUARTERS FOR LOCAL MILITIA IN THE NEW CITY ARMOURIES

"The finest armouries in Canada" was the way one military man who has visited many Canadian cities, put it, after having gone through Peterborough's new military quarters. At any rate they will compare favourably with any and an Examiner reporter, who, in company with a well-known officer, went through the handsome new building along Murray street, was convinced that nothing had been left undone to make a most complete and up-to-date home for the soldiers of the 57th Regiment, the 3rd Prince of Wales Dragoons, and the 24th Field Battery. And it will only be a matter of a fortnight when they will be settled in their new quarters. The moving of the 57th Regiment, which will be attended with a good deal of ceremony, was to have taken place on Monday evening, but things are not ready for that yet. The Armouries are now in the hands of the painters, practically everything else having been completed.

The work of construction has been carried out in remarkably quick time, the excavation not having been started until the Spring of 1907. A year ago this month the corner stone was laid by Sir Frederick Borden, Minister of Militia, and now the building is ready for occupation. Mr. George A. Proctor, of Sarnia, was the contractor, and is to be complimented on having the Peterborough Armouries ready in such good time. A board of insepectors from Ottawa will visit here to inspect the building before it is given over to the Public Works department.

The Building.

When the tearing down of the old drill shed is effected, a splendid view of the armouries can be had from George street. The main entrance faces east and Central Park with two such fine buildings as the Collegiate Institute and the Armouries situated on it will be one of the city's most attractive centres. Both are handsome and stately structures. The lat-

LONGBOAT OUT OF RACE QUIT AT THE 20th MILE ST. YVES IS IN THE LEAD

(Special Wire to The Examiner from New York.)

New York, April 3.—The big Derby started sharp at 3.05 o'clock this afternoon, big Tim Sullivan pulling the gun, in the presence of a crowd estimated all the way from 35,000 to 50,000. The track is soft. It rained all day yesterday and part of last night and is still threatening to-day. The crowd started to gather early and piled into the grounds until they had practically exhausted all the seating accommodation which has been greatly increased this spring. The conditions are taken as favouring Longboat and Hayes, but the betting has centred on the Indian and Shrubb, the public sentiment having swung around to the Britisher in the last twenty-four hours. At the gun Dorando, the little Italian sprang into the lead and St. Yves, the French marvel, about whom little is known, but is feared by all the contestants swung in behind the Capri baker. Longboat was at his heels and Shrubb behind the Indian. It looks as if Alfie intended to change his tactics this race and hold back instead of setting the pace.

New York, April 3.—3:30.—Dorando is still leading with St. Yves second. Shrubb has however displaced Longboat, and is in third place while Hayes is dogging the Indian.

New York, April 3.—At the end of the second mile, St. Yves, the Frenchman has taken first place and is 150 yards out in front of Dorando and is running fresh and strong. Dorando also running easily is in second place, and Shrubb is coming along in third place, with his easy stride. Longboat is back in the ruck but is apparently holding back.

New York, April 3.—At the end of the fourth mile St. Yves is still leading holding his lead of 150 yards over Dorando, both running strong, while Shrubb and Longboat are practically tied for their place. Time 22.16.

ST. YVES AT SIXTH

New York.—At the sixth mile Dorando had cut St. Yves' lead down to 25 yards and the whole field is bunched only sixty yards separating the field. Dorando is second, Longboat third and Shrubb fourth. It is anybody's race and the excitement is intense. It looks as if the Frenchman would hardly last as the field have all crept upon him.

At the eighth mile—The standing was St. Yves, Dorando, Longboat, Shrubb, Hayes and Maloney. The time was 45.38:2-5.

In the beginning of the ninth mile St. Yves lapped Hayes and Maloney in his effort to get away from the Italian, who is still followed by Shrubb and Longboat.

In the second lap of the ninth mile Shrubb runs ahead of the Italian and sets sail after the leader.

SHRUBB LEADS.

In the fourth lap of the tenth mile Longboat moved up to within ten yards of the Frenchman, but Shrubb with a sudden and magnificent spring passed both men and took the lead amid wild cheers.

SHRUBB GAINS.

At 13 miles the time 1.14:15 Shrubb leading has lapped both Dorando and Longboat. St. Yves second, 100 yards behind. Dorando and Longboat together with Hayes and Maloney in same positions. Longboat's sprint of two laps took lot of steam out of him and he looks worried.

Shrubb is nursing Dorando along evidently two of them working together to kill off the Indian.

In the fourteenth mile Shrubb is a lap and one yard ahead of Longboat and Dorando. Time 1 hour, 28 minutes, 16 seconds. Maloney is five laps behind and Hayes six. St Yves still holds second. In the sixteenth mile Shrubb still holds his lead of a little over one lap. Time 1.39

In the second lap of the 17th mile Shrubb and St. Yves lap Longboat, and the Indian is conceded to be out of the race unless the other two collapse.

"WHERE IS THE CANADIAN?"

Longboat is gaining and getting back in the race again after losing 3 laps to Shrubb. This is evidently in answer to the crowd who have been calling out "Where is the Canadian?" The Indian is gaining.

At the eighteenth mile Shrubb is still leading, running strong and is 3 laps ahead of the Indian. Time 1.45.

LONGBOAT QUITS—ST. YVES LEADS.

In the fourth lap of the twentieth mile St. Yves forged ahead of Shrubb again, setting the pace. He soon increased his lead to a lap and 50 yards. Longboat quit again this time evidently for good. Shrubb shows signs of distress. Time for 20 miles 1.57.25 4-5.

Later editions of The Examiner will contain further accounts of the race.

School Closes on Thursday For Public School Pupils

The school boys and their fair "co-eds" are closing the second stretch of the scholastic year and will enter shortly on the home run with a garrison finish and a hard fight to reach the wire in the first rank. The Public Schools will close on Thursday next and the Separate Schools on Wednesday. They will have Easter week for recreation resuming their studies on Monday, April 19th.

PETERBOROUGH'S SHARE.

Customs returns are to be regarded as a pretty safe index of returning commercial activity. The collections in Peterborough for the month of March show an increase of $4,000 over the figures of March of last year. This places Peterborough in a very favourable position compared with the rest of Canada, showing that this city is picking up much faster than the country in general in which, however, there are gratifying signs of improvement. The increase in customs duty of March, 1909, over March, 1809, show a gain of $4,000, as compared with the gain throughout the Dominion of $391,189. There is promise of greater activity in building operations in this city—the year opens with a promise of a distinct impulse to building operations, and in all departments of industrial activity there is a quickening revival of normal conditions.

Canada has a wide diversity of climate. Southern Ontario is in the latitude of sunny Italy—at Rome and the northern part of Manitoba is on the same level as Liverpool.

BETTER TIMES.

The symptoms of the passing of the wave of depression and the return to normal conditions are becoming more pronounced every day. The increase in railway traffic, in bank clearings and customs revenue all point to improved commercial conditions. In the matter of bank clearings alone the figures for March show an increase of more than thirty millions over those of last year, and even a substantial improvement over March of the buoyant year of 1907. In industrial circles there is a show of considerable improvement, and in all departments of national activity the business barometer is rising. The depression did not hit Canada so hard as it did our neighbours; but it was hard enough, and would have been much more severe had it not been for the large employment and expenditure of money in connection with the construction of the national Transcontinental railway, and other public works.

Canada's revenue — consolidated fund— was eleven millions in 1869; in 1908 it was ninety-six millions. What will it be in forty years more?

THE CANADIAN GENERAL

To all interested and that means everybody, in Peterborough especially, the excellent statements presented at the annual general meeting of the Canadian General Electric, held at the head offices, Toronto, on March 29th ult., are very gratifying as they must be to the management and stockholders. In spite of the world-wide business depression affecting every branch of industrial operation, the directors wer enabled to present a satisfactory financial statement. The profits of last year's operation were somewhat in excess of those of the preceding year a result achieved on a decreased output indicating careful and conservative management, permitting a handsome addition to the credit side of profit and loss, and current liabilities were more than cut in half—the reduction being from $2,191,266.00 to $1,093,123.88. Without detailed analyses of the reports and statement, it may be generally said that they are of a satisfactory character and indicate a renewal of prosperity for one of the most important industrial enterprises in Canada. The interested reader is referred to the report appearing elsewhere in this issue for more exact information. It is satisfactory to know that the main interests of the Canadian General Electric Company in Peterborough, as represented by the local works, which are increasingly busy and expanding in capacity, show a decided improvement.

The extent of the government and other contracts of the Canadian General Electric Company are indicated by the fact that last year $121,207.00 in marked cheques were deposited in connection with these contracts.

EXPENDITURE AND REVENUE.

Looked at in the abstract the expenditures of the Dominion seem formidable. But it must be borne in mind that in spending money on railways and canals we are building for posterity, as well as ourselves. The burden, which seems large for the population of to-day, will be divided among a much larger number in a few years. The increase of population is rapid. Immigrants are pouring in to the Northwest, occupying land and adding to the prosperity of the country. The rush of American immigrants—ready-made, skilful farmers—into the Northwest is greater in volume this year than ever before. Already there have been thousands coming in, bringing in effects mounting into the millions. So our population and our wealth, as well as our wealth producing capacity are rapidly growing. A moderate estimate considers that by 1906 Canada will have a population of thirty millions, and an annual revenue of five hundred millions. That our expenditure will increase in proportion is not probable. We shall have before that time, provided ourselves with many costly national necessities. Considerably increased expenditure will be divided among a vastly increased population with increased capacity for contribution to national purposes. What we may consider a burden now will then be a bagatelle. To realise the future which Canada is qualified in resources and potentiality to achieve, we must lay firm foundations, deep and wide. Our statesmen, in keeping this in mind, will be backed by the progressive element of our population, and the Little Canadian will be swept aside in the on-rush of national progress.

In 40 years Canada's revenue has increased nine fold; in the same time Canada's expenditure has increased only 5½ fold.

TAXES AND WARSHIPS

Now that the war scare flury is past, we begin to see things in their truer proportions. Germany has given some of the Britishers a thrill but it is doubtful if she can implement the threat of indefinite multiplication of battleships, which the political jingoes of the Motherland affected to discover. Battleships cost money—a Dreadnought from ten to fifteen million. The bottom of Germany's purse for such purposes is not any too deeply covered. A revenue to keep pace with lavish military and naval expenditure is hard to come at. A writer in a Berlin publication points out that there are few new sources of revenue which can be unsealed without intolerably adding to the already almost intolerable burdens of the people. He says that there are millions in Germany who can afford no better meat than horseflesh and increased burdens upon people of this class will pretty well represent the proverbial "last straw." Germany is essentially a nation of manufacturers. With sixty million people Germany has only eighty-six and one-half million acres of land under cultivation. Will Germany, tied down to horseflesh diet, take kindly to new taxes on food products, to help build navies to crush Great Britain, the only country in the world that maintains an open market for the products of German mechanics, the bulk o fthe German population? To build warships Germany must have money. Governments can get money only by taxation. There is a limit to the ability of a people to pay taxes. Germany seems to be getting to the problem of getting blood out of a stone.

In Germany the land under cultivation is one and six-tenths acres per head; in Canada, a new country, the land under cultivation is five acres per head.

HUMAN LIFE HELD CHEAPLY.

Mr. William Banks, senior, editor of the Ancient Forester, recently, through the columns of the Toronto Globe, called attention to the great loss of life from accidents which is occurring among the workingmen of Canada, adding that Canada is becoming too much like the United States in its indifference to human life. An examination of the returns made to the department of labour these 18 months shows that there have been no less than 2,055 fatal accidents to the industrial workers of Canada, and 3,878 injuries, incapacitating those injured from following their employment for longer or shorter periods. During the period above named there were killed on the railways 514 workers, while 515 were injured. In agriculture, which is supposed to be the most peaceful and quiet pursuit, the killed were, during the same period, 341, and the injured 458. In mining, 223 lives of workers were lost, and the wounded were 311. In lumbering, 189 were killed, and 178 injured, while in navigation, the fatalities were 160 killed and 100 injured.

Mr. Banks, in his communication, states that the fraternal societies, which are large sufferers from this extreme death list, are contemplating holding a conference to consider remedial measures, and certainly there is no more important matter which could engage the attention of the entire community.—Brantford Expositor.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Is there anything that Sir James Whitney is incapable of pronouncing an ex-carthedra dictum upon? He silences and disposes of in a word the contentions and conclusions of medical science in the matter of tuberculosis.

We invite the attention of our readers to the contents of an article in another column, referring to Oshawa as a commercial centre, and also to the advertisement of the T. Eaton Co., who are in need of additional help at their factory in that town.

FOUR MILES OF CEMENT WALKS TO BE LAID BY BOARD OF WORKS

for a share of the city's business for cement brick for underground work. The communication was received.

The engineer presented a report from the deputation which attended the cement exhibition in the St. Lawrence Market, Toronto, in March.

The engineer reported that it would cost $29.50 to place the Page wire fence along the railing around the Brock street and King street bridges. The precaution was recommended as a protection from children falling into the creek. The bridge over the creek on George street also needs protection.

On motion the report was adopted and the work will be done.

The committee will not pay any damages to Mr. Thos. Hooper for alleged damage to his illuminated sign outside his north store.

On motion of Ald. Bradburn and Ald. Gillespie, the matter of opening Wescott street was left in the hands of the mayor and chairman to interview the interested parties to see what is the best price that can be secured.

The committee went over the long list of sidewalks that are to be built this year and the total length of walk will be four miles. The list includes one and eight-tenth miles that were provided for last year and in the year before that were not built. The balance is for walks not petitioned for but are badly needed and will be advertised this Spring. In addition to these there are many petitions already in which are properly signed and the walks will have to be built if possible. As it looks now the Board of Works will have a big season's work and a good gang of men will be kept busy all summer. The list includes a lot of walks in Ashburnham and these will be looked after early in the season.

A resolution was passed giving authority to have the tenders called for street watering. At the same time the committee asked authority from the Council to open the tenders and award the contracts.

The committe will purchase 2,000 feet of scantling and a couple of thousand feet of elm planking for sidewalks and crossings.

The Board of Works will put men on the market on Monday morning to give it the usual Spring cleaning.

The chairman of the committee was given authority to purchase supplies for the Board of Works department.

The Chairman will look over the watering carts and decide whether or not they need painting this year.

MODERN MILITARY QUARTERS FOR MILITIA

ter has a frontage of 169 feet, extending back along Murray street 250 feet. The building throughout is a model one, every known convenience and comfort for all arms of the militia having apparently been provided. One of the pleasing features is that the quarters of the three branches, the infantry, cavalry and artillery, are distinct, each having their own entrance and thus the work of one will in no way conflict with that of the others. The south side is allotted to the infantry, the north is given to the cavalry and the quarters of the artillery are at the rear. These, of course, all lead off from the parade hall. It is 176 by 80 feet in size. It has a cement floor and will make an exceedingly fine place for drilling.

Bowling and Shooting.

Adequate accommodation for bowling and shooting is given in the basement. The alleys and a gallery are separated by a wall. The young men of Peterborough who are attached to any section of the militia in Peterborough are indeed fortunate, as ample provision has been made at the Armouries for them to spend their evenings in a profitable and enjoyable manner. In the basement, too, is, of course, the furnace room. The building will be well heated, each room being fitted with steam-heating appliances. Splendid lavatories for the men are fitted up in the basement.

Period Pianos.

That the aesthetic sense of our people is undergoing rapid development, is shown by the demand for what are known as Period pianos. That is to say, if "My Lady" has the decorations of her drawing room done in the style of Louis XIV., XV., XVI., or in the days of the Empire, then she has a piano made to correspond. Or if she is a lover of the Antique, then she has a Chippendale or Sheraton piano to match the chairs, etc. "Dens," club rooms and bachelors' apartments, furnished with Mission furniture, likewise have Mission Pianos. The New Scale Williams Pianos are made in these Art Cases. The Williams Piano Company will submit designs and estimates free of charge to those who wish special Period Pianos not carried in stock. The reputation enjoyed by the famous New Scale Williams is a guarantee in itself that Period Pianos, made to order, will be eminently satisfactory. Many styles here. 6

FIG PILLS

For Kidney and Liver Trouble, Constipation and Rheumatism

Mr. Abe Freeman, 193 Dowling avenue, Toronto, Ont., says: I have been a great sufferer for a number of years with dyspepsia and constipation. I have taken dollars worth of medicine, but I never got relief. I had decided that there was nothing made that would cure me. One day a friend advised me to try Fig Pills. I bought a box, and before I had taken half of the box I felt better. I have taken four boxes and to-day I am a new man. Fig Pills have certainly done wonders for me. Fig Pills are a positive cure for all kidney, liver and stomach trouble, sour stomach, heartburn, bilious headache and dyspepsia. 25c box.

108 NOX A COLD IN ONE DAY

The greatest Lung Healing Medicine known. 25c. bottles.

Warne Drug Co., Special Agt's.

On the Ground Floor.

On entering the south-east door one comes to the Infantry Quartermaster's rooms, adjoining these which are two in number, is the Adjutant's room. Then along the south side are eight Company rooms. All are bright and commodious. On the north-east end of this floor are the cavalry quarters, including a mobilization store room, commanding officer's room, cavalry orderly room, cavalry armouries and harness room.

The south-west end of the building is for the artillery. Here, too, are commanding officer's room, artillery orderly room and store rooms. Then there is the main gun shed, 81 x 42 feet. To the north of this, is the waggon shed, 40 x 44 feet and also quarters for the stretcher bearer companies.

Officers' Mess Rooms.

The 57th officers' mess rooms are situated on the second floor in the south-east corner. They are bright and spacious, and leading from them is a billiard room. They are fitted up with lavatories. Galleries are at either ends of the parade hall and will afford splendid accommodation for the public who desire to watch the manoeuvres of the soldiers. The Sergeants will also have mess rooms at the east end of the building. A large lecture room for the garrison is situated immediately to the south of the Sergeants' quarters, and on the north-east corner of the second floor are the caretakers' rooms, fitted with all modern conveniences.

Recreation Room.

The recreation room will no doubt be greatly appreciated. Henceforth any companies desiring to hold smokers or concerts will not have to go out of the armouries to procure a suitable hall. One is provided for them. It is situated above the artillery quarters. It is fitted with a platform with dressing rooms leading from it. The band room is on the north-west end and is about 40 feet square. The bugle band also has a room adjoining.

Thus it is seen that everything has been provided for the comfort of officers and men who no doubt are anxious to get settled in their new "home." A revival in military matters is looked for, with such handsome armouries.

Sub-Contractors.

The Superintendent of the construction was Mr. G. T. Proctor, son of the late contractor. He has looked after the work in a most satisfactory manner. The sub-contractors have all been competent men and the best that could be obtained. They were:

Masonry and brickwork, Mr. Alfred Simpson.

Painting and decorating—Duncan and Doupe.

Plumbing and Lighting—F. R. J. MacPherson Co., Ltd.

Plastering—Saxby and Hill.

The Galt Art Metal Co. did the galvanized iron work and Bennett and Wright had the contract for the heating.

LEADING TEAMS CLASH IN THE BOWLING LEAGUE AT P.B.C. ALLEYS BELMONTS AND PACIFICS WIN

Several shifts were made in the standing of the league at the P.B.C. alleys as a result of the games played yesterday. In the first place the Pacifics hooked up with the Bankers, and by bumping the financiers, sent them down into third place. The Bankers were badly walloped in the first two games, but came back strong in the third and won out handily. McIlroy's 501 total was the best performance of the game while Connors had high single with 201. The games were interesting all the way. The win sent the Pacifics out in front and they will take some beating to pull them off the top rung.

The Examiner A had a chance to do the trick — that is, they had a chance until they clashed with the Belmonts last night. What happened then somewhat altered the complexion of affairs, for the trio, skippered by Billy Wareham, rolled like champions and gathered in the first two games by margins as wide as President Taft. The newspapermen rallied enough to take the last game, but the damage was done then and the scribes were in third place — 11 pins behind the Bankers. The game was one of the best played in the league race to date, especially the first two games. George Cairns was high with 558, while Wareham had the best single score, 216.

Following were the scores:—

SENIOR CITY BASEBALL LEAGUE HAS ALREADY THREE TEAMS

A Senior City Baseball League was organized at a meeting of a number of enthusiasts of the game at the Y. M.C.A. last night, and prospects are very bright for a fast series of games this summer. The league will be comprised of teams that formed the Intermediate City League last year, but will be strengthened considerably, having practically no restrictions upon the eligibility of the players who will line up with these teams. There are already three teams who have signified their intentions of entering the new league, and it is stated that there are at least two others which should make a tidy league.

The officers elected were as follows:—

Patrons and Patronesses: Mr. and Mrs. John Crane; Dr. and Mrs. Wightman; Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Howden; Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Graham; Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Merrell.

Hon. resident — Mr. H. R. H. Kenner.
President — Mr. N. E. McWilliams.
Vice-President — Mr. D. B. McRae.
Sec.-Treas. — Mr .T. H. Theobald.

The executive committee will be comprised of a representative from each of the teams in the league. Prospects for the future were discussed at some length, and the opinion expressed was that the league should make good. An adjournment was called until April 13, when a meeting will be held to receive other teams and draw up a constitution.

PROSPECTS FOR INTERMEDIATE BASEBALL ARE VERY BRIGHT

The condition of baseball, as far as City Leagues are concerned in Peterborough, is that it is time that some of the teams of the Intermediate League graduated, and with less restrictions put upon the eligibility of the players, faster ball ought to be seen among the younger players. The Intermediate League was formed two years ago at a time when there was nothing but Midland League. It has held a rather eventful course since its institution, but the general opinion is that the time is ripe for a Senior League. The majority of the teams playing last year are in favour of this move, and at a meeting last night formed a Senior League with three teams assured at the commencement, and several others practically certain.

This will leave a vacancy for younger teams in the Intermediate League, and the junior ball players are urged to begin thinking over the matter in order to have representatives at the annual meeting of the Intermediate League which will be announced in a short time. At the outset this league was intended to develop the younger players but owing to certain conditions it was found impossible to bar some who were certainly past the intermediate stage. Those who have been following the game feel that the Senior League is going to be a success, and the management of the Intermediate Series now want the juniors to fall in line and take a step up, going into that league.

Although baseball weather is not here for keeps, still the fever is beginning to spread, and it is not too early to begin talking things over.

BIG GAME BETWEEN THE GRITS AND TORIES TO-NIGHT

The big game of the season will be played to-night at the P.B.C. alleys, when the Grits and Tories clash in the second game for an oyster supper. In the last game the Grits won in a driving finish by 33 pins in the most sensational game of the season, but tonight's contest promises to furnish even more excitement. The followers of Whitney and Borden claim that they will put an awful crimp in the Liberal ranks to-night, while the Laurierites say that they are the first, last and only bet. There will be a big bunch of rooters for both teams to-night, and any boy with a weak heart is advised to give the P.B.C. alleys a wide berth as there will be excitement enough to cause half a dozen deaths. George Sutherland, who was supposed to have returned to St. Thomas on Thursday has suddenly turned up again. It is not known whether the Grits have had him hid somewhere, or whether he has been persuaded to come down for the game, but the fact remains that he is here ready to roll for the Grit cohorts to-night.

Manager McIlroy of the Tories can see nothing to the contest but the Tories, and claims that they might have beaten the Grits last time, had it not been for the fact that they were so far ahead at one time that they thought they did not need any more.

The big game starts at 8 sharp.

NATURAL HISTORY BY A STUDENT OF THE COLLEGIATE

Editor the Examiner.

Dear Sir,—It was reported in your columns a few days ago that a flock of wild canaries had been seen about town. This was probably a mistake. The birds were most likely evening grosbeaks. These birds are somewhat similar in some respects, but widely different in others.

Before continuing with this subject it might be well to consider what is called commonly the wild canary. There are several birds that are called by this name, but the most common are the American Goldfinch and the yellow warbler. These birds are both summer residents and it would be peculiar indeed to see a flock in this vicinity as early as was reported. They are both small birds the goldfinch being 5.10 inches from tip to tip, while the yellow warbler is 4.75 inches. The American Goldfinch has a black crown and the rest of the body yellow, the wings and tail are black and white. The warbler is much the same, its body is nearly all yellow. The underparts are lighter, streaked with reddish brown. The wings and tail are a dusky olive brown, edged with yellow. Now it is the grosbeak that has been mistaken for one of these birds. It is eight inches from tip to tip. The forehead, shoulders, and under parts are pure yellow, the lower back is a dull yellow, the sides of the head, throat, and breast are olive brown. The crown, tail, and wings are black, the latter having white secondary feathers. The bill of this bird is heavy, and blunt. This bird is a resident of that part of Canada north of Manitoba. It is seldom seen in this district. But it was our good fortune tohave some of them around this winter. For a while they were quite plentiful, but at about the time that it was rumoured that there was a flock of wild canaries around, the grosbeaks began to group and migrate. This bird is much like the wild canary, except in size, and habits. The group of canaries that were seen were in reality a group of evening grosbeaks.

This bird should not be confused with the pine grosbeaks, which is a common winter resident in this district. It is a much larger bird, and differs materially in appearance. Many pine grosbeaks were in the city in the early part of the winter.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for so much of your valuable space, I remain,

Yours respectfully,
HAROLD H. LEES,
P. C. I. student.

WHAT ENGLISH PAPERS SAY ABOUT THE COLONIES

An Edmonton (Canada) reader has been good enough to send us an advertisement which has been appearing in the leading journal of that city. Here it is:—

> Salesman Wanted.—Middle of March ergetic workman. Preference given tol (no English). Preferenaoinononoinn (no English). $70 to active and energetic workman. Preference given to one accustomed to sewing carpets.—Apply, etc.

Our correspondent tells us that "the style of advertisement is not uncommon," and he "cannot conceive anything more insulting to an Englishman." Well it is not pleasant, and reads oddly in "the leading journal" of a British colony. But it is not more odd than the exclusion of British artisans from Australia. If these greater colonies were really part and parcel of the Empire, such things would be impossible, but they are not. In everything but name they are independent Republics, with a preference, so far as unofficial Canada is concerned, for foreigners other than English.—John Bull.

DURHAM AND NORTHUMBERLAND COUNTIES IN LINE.

The method suggested by Farm and Dairy in its issue of March 18th, whereby the thousands of acres of waste timber land in older Ontario might be reforested at but slight expense, has been strongly endorsed by Mr. A. A. Powers, warden of the United Counties of Durham and Northumberland. Mr. Powers rightly points out that the time has come for action and that any educational campaign should go hand in hand with the practical demonstration that the working out of a forestry policy in connection with these areas would give.

The council of these united counties has already taken action along the line suggested by Farm and Dairy. We trust that the wardens and councils of the other counties interested in reforesting their waste areas will also arrange for similar meetings. Co-operation on the part of all who have a common interest in this great national question will greatly facilitate the attaining of the results desired.

CALLING A FORESTRY MEETING

From Farm and Dairy.

Warden A. A. Powers, Durham Co.

The article on page three of Farm and Dairy for March 18, on the question of the reforestration of the waste lands in old Ontario, meets with my hearty approval. At the January session of the united Counties Council of Northumberland and Durham, Prof. Zavitz delivered an address, illustrated by a chart showing the relative area of practically barren land in our counties, which was originally clad in the finest growth of pine and oak. His address disclosed all the open and many of the half-open facts regarding this important question.

In my opinion the time has come for us to drop, to some extent, "Forestry in the abstract" and turn our attention to the practical side of it. This, I presume, is what you had in mind when you suggested the calling of conventions in counties where large stretches of this quality of land exist. Of course an educational campaign is still necessary but it should go hand in hand with the practical part. The strongest pressure possible, therefore, should be brought to bear upon the government to begin at once at least a measurable demonstration which will have a greater convincing effect than a dozen of the ablest speeches.

Governmental function, as we understand it, is to do the will of the people and it is up to the people to let the government know what they desire. We have every reason to believe that the government are seized of the importance of the work but are loth to proceed until they hear in a certain tone from those who are or should be practically interested.

If our representatives in the Legislature could see the promising saplings of which the land in these districts is being denuded they would not be slow to send their aid to establish a forestry policy. We must admit that the tone of the discussions in the Ontario Legislature during the present session reveals an awakening and complete accord between the government and opposition members..

The exigencies of business cause many people to pursue this wasteful course and are not to be greatly censured. Many of them would gladly enter into an equitable arrangement to hand over their property and seek a more profitable field of labor. Nor is this all. On many of the lots abandoned by their owners, and in other cases held by loan companies, due to the foreclosure of mortgages this system of destruction among the young trees which have sprung up goes on apace. Quite recently at a railway station we were shown nearly 100 cord of wood, all of which was cut from trees from five to eight inches through at the base, and we were assured, were in a condition of thrift such as to net the owners a better return than could be made in any other way from the land.

A comprehensive system of forestry in the judgment of the writer will embrace not only reforestration of the short portions but will put a stop to the use of axe and saw upon timber of this size on land that are comparatively worthless for tillage purposes.

CALLING A MEETING.

We have a strong and competent agricultural committee, with a progressive chairman, in connection with our Counties Council and they have already taken action along the line suggested by Farm and Dairy by instructing our clerk to draft a form of resolution to be forwarded to the minor municipal councils, agricultural societies and farmers' institutes throughout the united counties favoring the idea of holding a monster convention in Cobourg during the June session. We are also, and I think reasonably, expecting the favorable attitude and assistance of the local press whose influence in moulding public opinion is supreme.

With everything so favorable it should not be difficult to work out a policy mutually satisfactory to the government and the counties interested. Valuable data have been secured by results in Germany and other European countries and while conditions are somewhat different here, the main features are almost identical.

We hope and expect that the wardens and members of the County Councils who have a common interest will co-operate with us in bringing this matter before the Legislature in as effectual a manner as possible.

AWAKENED TO FIND HIS WATCH AND CHAIN GONE AND HIS FRIEND MAKING A HURRIED RETREAT FROM THE ROOM

Thomas Martin Charged With Theft of Watch and Chain From Wellington Cannon in House on Edinburgh Street Saturday Night—Said to Have Drawn Knife on Cannon Who Tried to Hold Him.

GAVE POLICE A CHASE.

Arrested by P. C. Newhall in East City—Was Remanded in Court This Morning Until Thursday.

Escaping from a house on Edinburgh street on Saturday evening, Thomas Martin, who was wanted on a charge of stealing a watch and chain, gave the police a lively chase and was able to keep away from them for over an hour. He was finally arrested in East City on Mark street by P. C. Newhall, and when searched at the police station the watch and chain were found on him.

At the police court this morning he appeared before Magistrate Dumble, charged with stealing a watch and chain from Wellington Cannon. Mr. G. N. Gordon appeared for the accused and pleaded not guilty. Chief Roszel was not ready to proceed, and the prisoner was remanded until Thursday morning at 10 o'clock.

Awoke at Right Time.

It appears that Thomas Martin and Welington Cannon were stopping in the same house on Edinburgh street. Cannon retired early on Saturday evening, and while he slept it is alleged that his friend, Martin, robbed him of his watch and chain. But Martin did not make a successful exit. As he was disappearing out of the room, Cannon awakened. He quickly got up and found that his watch and chain were gone. He hurriedly followed Martin and caught him as he was leaving the house. But it is said that the prisoner brandished a knife in the face of Cannon and in that way he got free. The police were telephoned for and P. C.'s Newhall and Meagher were soon on the scene.

Martin successfully evaded the policemen for some time, hiding in various places in the vicinity of Edinburgh and Union streets. Although every possible means was taken to catch the accused he got away and managed to get over to East City without being detected. But P. C. Newhall was not to let him out of his hands and on hearing that Martin had escaped to the fifth ward, went over and arrested him on Mark street, near the Methodist church. The watch and chain were found on him.

CHILDREN SET FIRE TO LOUNGE

Timely Action of a Neighbour Prevented a Serious Conflagration on Park Street Last Evening.

Children playing with matches last evening in the home of Mr. J. H. Simmons, 173 Park street, set fire to a lounge and had it not been for the timely action of one of the neighbours a serious conflagration would have ensued. Mr. and Mrs. Simmons had gone to church and left the children at home. When the lounge took fire a neighbour ran in and carried it out. An alarm was sent in, but the assistance of the brigade was not needed. About two dollars damage was done.

REPAIRS BEING MADE AT PUBLIC LIBRARY

A new floor is being placed in the hall of the public library. The old one was in a bad state before repairs were started and a couple of persons went through it, but fortunately were not at all injured. The repairing was commenced on Saturday.

DESERTER FROM CANADIAN DRAGOONS TAKEN FROM BED AND ARRESTED BY P. C. NEWHALL

George Cooper Taken in Custody Early Sunday Morning — Ran Away From Headquarters in Toronto.

WILL BE TAKEN BACK.

George Cooper, a deserter from the Royal Canadian Dragoons, Toronto, was arrested by P. C. Newhall in his bed early Sunday morning. He had only been in the city a few days. He will be held here awaiting the arrival of an officer from Toronto.

Cooper went with the 24th Field Battery of Peterborough to Petawawa last summer, and it was him who put Sgt. [illegible] eye out with a bayonet. Apparently tired of a military career he ran away before his term of service had expired.

Given A Month In Jail And Will Be Blacklisted On His Release

Hector Baker was given one month in gaol at the police court this morning on a charge of stealing a kit of carpenter's tools from John Trew on Wednesday last. Mr. G. N. Gordon appeared for him. The prisoner had previously elected summary trial, and had pleaded not guilty. Baker will be blacklisted on his release from gaol.

Mr. Trew, in the witness box, said that he had lost the tools mentioned in the information. He stated that they were worth five dollars. He had left them on Mr. Shadett's doorstep on Murray street. He was away from them three quarters of an hour and when he returned they were gone. He called the police. With P. C. McGinty witness went to prisoner's house on Murray street. P. C. McGinty opened a chest and there found the tools. Baker and the tools were brought to the police station. Baker said that he had got the tools on George street.

Baker said that he had no recollection of taking the tools. He had been drinking hard that day. He was willing to be blacklisted, as any time he ever stole it was when he was drunk.

Some Of The Features Of The New Summer Hotel "Viamede"

Mr. W. M. Graham, proprietor of "Viamede," one of the popular summer resorts at Stony Lake was in the city to-day and showed the plan of his new building to an Examiner reporter. The [illegible] prominent in the design combine all htose features which appeal to summer visitors and one of the delights that will surely be appreciated are the many cool arbours that have been built to make captive every cool breeze which may be wafted from the lake. The dimensions are 180 ft. by 24 ft. There are ten verandahs and balconies. Over the centre of the building is a tower 60 feet above the ground with balconies built around it almost to the top. There are three parlours, and the dining room will be much larger than before. Mr. Graham expects to open his resort by June 15th.

The colour scheme is ivory with white and red trimmings. The roof will be painted a moss green.

DOWN WITH THE DUST

This is not a colloquial challenge to pay up but to trot out—the water-waggon. With local option sentiment so aggressively in evidence the water-waggon should be in good working order. Seriously speaking, "Health," writing in another column calls attention to a condition that demands prompt action. Not only from the sanitary but from the commercial point of view uncontrolled and vagrant dust, the pulverized form of the winter accumulation of filth, is a great nuisance. Many persons with sensitively organized respiratory tracts, suffer greatly from inhaling dust, especially in the poisonous form of street dust. Our merchants suffer no inconsiderable loss from deterioration of goods exposed for display, or from gale-driven dust through often opened doors; so that the merchant doing the largest business suffers the greatest loss. The city authorities should not unnecessarily delay the advent of the water cart, especially in the business streets of the city.

The first newspaper published in British North America was the Halifax Gazette, March 23rd, 1752.

PROTECT OUR STREETS

Ottawa has a grievance. It appears that the constructors of an electric wire line are mutilating street trees in a vandalistic manner and the citizens are high in wrath over the destruction of the tree beauty of the street affected. Here is room for activity of the civic authorities. No corporation body, alive to its duty will permit any person or any company to meddle with the street in any way without permission and then only under careful and strict supervision. Civilization demands trees as an essential element of our residential streets. They are necessary to both the comfort of the citizen and to the beauty of our cities. A citizen plants trees, cares for them, watches them grow, and forms an affection for them beyond the conception of those not so intimately associated with their growth. These trees give an added value to the property. They are a cash asset. And when they are mutilated or destroyed in the interests of a money-making scheme, there is abundant reason for indignation. It sl. d be enough for any company to have the use of the streets without adding insult to injury by destroying trees. If the law permits companies to commit such outrages, such law should be amended. Respect for the peoples' rights, for public comfort and public beauty should be assured.

The only way that will effectively remove the nuisance of unsightly poles on our streets with all the deformity and disadvantage they stand for, is to sub-earth all lines of wire. It must come to this. It will be infinitely better for the public and—with the increasing price of poles—cheaper for the companies concerned—underground conduits once properly laid would be practically everlasting and everlastingly out of the way.

The first telegraph line built in Canada, was in 1846—between Toronto and Niagara.

CANADAIAN BINDER TWINE.

If good reputation is a sort of riches, Canadian binder twine has a considerable added to its capital by an official repor of its good quality, giving it a name which will tend to increase the demand for it.

In response to a request from the department of trade and commerce, J. L. Haycock, Dominion inspector of binder twine, has submitted a report upon the binder twine industry in Canada. It is gratifying to learn that the Canadian product holds highest rank, that the exports of twine are gaining, and the imports declining, and finally, that the Canadian manufacturers adhere rigidly to standard. Mr. Haycock's report follows:

Owing to climatic conditions existing in the north-western provinces of Canada, where the farmer is dependent almost wholly on his farm crops—the safety of which owing to the danger from hail, frost and drought is a constant source of anxiety—it can be readily understood how important it is that when his crops ripen no delays should occur to interfere with his harvesting them as quickly as possible. In view of these conditions nothing but a first-class binder twine meets the demand in that country. Under less strenuous conditions a farmer may waste an hour or so bothering with defective twine, but in the North West he simply cannot afford to be delayed by unsatisfactory twine. If a ball of twine breaks in the binder or causes delay for any reason, he will not stop to tie it, he tosses it away and puts in another ball. If that, too, proves unsatisfactiry, he condemns the whole lot and tries to get better.

Under these circumstances it is not surprising that Canadian manufacturers of binder twine are producing as good twine as can be obtained anywhere in the world, and far superior to that made in almost any other country. In fact, the manufacture of binder twine which in most countries is only an art, has been reduced to a science in Canada.

Another feature of the binder twine situation is that owing to the impossibility of measuring twine without unwinding the balls and thus destroying it for the purpose of which it was intended, great frauds could be perpetrated on the farmer. In order to prevent such a possibility, there was passed in 1902 an act respecting the sale of binder twine in Canada, providing for correct marking as to length and heavy penalties for a violation of the act. The rigid enforcement of this act has revolutionized the whole twine situation in Canada. Prior to this act, only a small portion of the twine sold in Canada was correctly marked, and in very many cases serious loss was entailed on the consumer. Many cases were found where twine measured from ten to twenty per cent. less than it was marked; and in one case, twine 600 feet per pound actually measured only 376 feet, or a loss of 224 feet per pound.

With this condition remedied the demand for domestic twine has increased and an export demand created. A table of the exports of binder twine from Canada from 1902, the year in which the inspection act was passed, until the year 1908, shows this:

Year	Tons
1902	251
1903	1,383
1904	1,440
1905	1,841
1906	2,000
1907	3,109
1908	7,992

When it is considered that the average value would be about $200 per ton, this means that the exports of Canadian twine have increased from $50,200 in 1902 to $1,598,400 in 1908, or a gain in value of exports of $1,518,200.

An appended statement of imports of binder twine into Canada revealed the fact that during the years 1893 to 1906, the imports of twine increased very rapidly, while since that period the imports have not increased but rather show a tendency to decline. During the past season it is equally gratifying to learn that no binder twine was discovered below the standard of the act. With the home market increasing, as it is bound to do more and more, under the influence of western expansion of farm operations it seems plain that the outlook for the binder twine industry in Canada is improving.

In 1910 Canada had 1,787 millions of dollars invested in agriculture, four times as much as was invested in manufactories.

LICENSE LAW ENFORCEMENT

The Christian Guardian is an authority that can consistently be expected to voice public opinion and reflect fact in its discussion of liquor license administration. It has no partizan affiliations to hamper it—no party interest to serve. When it expresses dissatisfaction with the manner in which the license law is observed in this province it deserves to be heedfully heard. Speaking on this subject, it says:

> Will the Ontario Government find itself strong enough to free its hands so as to carry out the promise of the Premier to take the enforcement of the Liquor Law out of politics; or did Sir James speak without reckoning his host?
>
> Indications multiply that political influence is interfering with the administration of the law in a way that presages as much trouble for the present Provincial government as was experienced by the last one, under the same system. If certain politicians are permitted to have their way, and to give effect to the behests of the liquor trade by the removal of inspectors who cannot be charged with any crime except the proper performance of their duties, trouble will ensue. At present the heads of not less than three self-respecting officials will cease to try to enforce the law if they are hampered by the necessity of consulting the wishes of local politicians. As enforcement is the key of the situation at present, it is a question of vital importance whether the government shall carry out its policy or not.
> What can be expected in the way of efficient administration from inspectors who are practically the local political agents of the government—who owes their position not to qualifications,but are products of the political machine, and its compliant servants? The government cannot hope to secure effective enforcement so long as it uses the offices of the department as a reward for party services and resents independence of action on the part of officials who have the hardihood to dream of enforcing the law except in line with political suggestion and interest.

Sir James Whitney promised to remove the enforcement of the Liquor License laws from the influence of politics. Has he done it?

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Toronto News is an independent newspaper with its sympathies altogether "Tory." It is perhaps more vicious in its partizanship than any labeled partizan paper in Canada. It insists on the remarkable position that the Liberal Government at Ottawa adopted the patronage policy. They did not adopt it, they succeeded to it—It was a heritage of Conservative rule. The News does not credit the Government with having abolished the patronage system and with having placed the civil service upon a non-partizan basis. Where the organ shows its one-sided nature is in denouncing a government which is coping with an evil system that had become interwoven with our adminstration during the whole history of the country, while it has not one word of condemnation of a Conservative Government in Toronto which not only added the iniquity of the spoils system to partizan distribution of offices, but introduced the patronage system, without any attempt or expressed intention of effecting reform.

SHOWS LIKE CANADA DURING LENTEN SEASON

Business Falls Off in the United States But the Canadian Theatre Goers "Hang On."

"It may be interesting to know from a manager's lips why so many theatrical companies are anxious to crowd into Canada during Lent. We are all trying to do it. We flock where the pasture is best, and the Dominion is a well recognized oasis of the desert when Lenten days arrive.

"The reason is simple. "Lent" holds a radically different meaning to the Canadian than to our American people. It is observed across the line with a rigid sort of ceremony, one of the chief rules of which is to taboo the theatre. That is why so many United States companies close when Lent begins. But in Canada the custom is different. Only a section of the people observe the period of abstinence, and even among them there is more latitude allowed than with Americans. It is a fact beyond dispute that a good theatrical company will play to fifty per cent more business during Lent in Canada than anywhere else on the continent.

"We are always anxious to be in Canada on Good Friday. That is a day of theatre going here. In the Republic there is scarcely a corporal's guard in any theatre. Do you wonder, therefore, that this country looks good to managers in Lent?"

The above was written by Fred M. Mayer, Manager of Mlle. Mischief.

ANOTHER WOMAN CURED

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Gardiner, Maine.—"I have been a great sufferer from organic troubles and a severe female weakness. The doctor said I would have to go to the hospital for an operation, but I could not bear to think of it. I decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Sanative Wash—and was entirely cured after three months' use of them."—Mrs. S. A. WILLIAMS, R. F. D. No. 14, Box 39, Gardiner, Me.

No woman should submit to a surgical operation, which may mean death, until she has given Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made exclusively from roots and herbs, a fair trial.

This famous medicine for women has for thirty years proved to be the most valuable tonic and renewer of the female organism. Women residing in almost every city and town in the United States bear willing testimony to the wonderful virtue of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It cures female ills, and creates radiant, buoyant female health. If you are ill, for your own sake as well as those you love, give it a trial.

Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., invites all sick women to write her for advice. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

THE LEGEND OF THE MASSACRE OF THE MOHAWKS BY OJIBWAY TRIBE

GRAPHIC STORY OF THE BIG BATTLE

Bonnycastle Dale Tells the Story as Related by the Late Chief Paudash—The True Secret of the Serpent Mounds.

VERY INTERESTING HISTORY

Mr. Bonnycastle Dale, the well-known naturalist has the following intensely interesting article in the Toronto Saturday night, on Rice Lake and the serpent mounds:

I often think, as I sit in far-off lonely places—no matter whether it be in Ontario, Manitoba, or the Pacific-laved shores of British Columbia—of the safety of the subject in these isolated spots. Every fibre and strand that weaves the fabric of the Union Jack seems to call aloud, as it waves, of justice to all men. A short hundred years ago a man following my life would have seen some stranger scenes through his lens. Perhaps I should put it in the singular, for one scene with an active enemy at the other end would have nipped his career in the bud.

Back in those days the pastoral-looking Indians had some hair-raising times; not that I mean to pun. There is on the shores of Rice Lake a series of artificial mounds that amply illustrate the danger an inquisitive nature photoghapher would have undergone. To-day these are called the Serpent Mounds. I think our well-liked archaeologist, the genial Mr. Boyle, named them truly when he so called them. However, he was thinking of the races lost in the mists of time, called the Mound-buiders; and I am writing of these same mounds, under the same title. But according to my Indian informants, they were built at a much later date, and are the trenches in which the victorious Ojibways buried the slaughtered Mohawks. Let me tell it you as I heard it from the old Missisauga chief, Paudash, who now rests beneath the soil that covers his ancient enemies.

Hawk, the ever present fat boy Fritz, and your humble servant were seated before a camp fire at the foot of the Serpent Mounds. Our evening meal was done, the sun had set. In the gloom that hovered over the great wild rice beds, the silky rustling of the incoming flocks of wild ducks could be heard. A sultry, oppressive heat semed to lay its touch on all things of nature and bid them be silent. Out in the darkness we heard the regular "tump, tump, tump" of an Indian's paddle. Then the bow of his canoe slid through the shadows into the glare that wavered over the lake, and his deep voice saluted us: "Puzhugishkah"—it is dark. We urged him to come ashore, and he seated himself near us with the silent gravity of his race. Then to the accompaniment of the little owls that hooted i[illegible] trees over this ancient burial pla[illegible] while the feeding hosts of wild ducks gabbled and quacked in the dark rice beds, he told us this story of his people:

Chief Paudash's Story

"This Lake of the Wild Rice (Bukwuche Wabuhnoomin, he called it, in his more poetic Ojibway) was ours long before the white man came. We caught the Kenojah—the maskinonge—killed the Sheseeb—the wild duck—and trapped the swift Shaungwasha—the mink—when our father, Hiawatha, was chief of the red man." I think he said this to impress us with the centuries the tribes had held these waters, as I always understand the Indian when he speaks of Hiawatha, always with low reverence of the red man to speak of him as we speak of Christ. For their legends tell of Hiawatha at the time of the flood, and this legendary chief, this saviour of their people, is as real to them as the Man of Nazareth is to us. While the spluttering pine knots lighted up his great dark face he took up the tale:

"Our men fished and hunted in peace until the Mohawks came. All along the shores of the big lakes they drove the Huron before them as we drove the frightened deer, then they found small camps of our people and killed all these bands. One day a spy of Mohawks was seen by our men as they fisher this like and they sent runners to the chiefs of the tribe on the Silver Water (as he called Lake Superior). Our men came a month's journey. The wild rice was ripe when they paddled in the lakes above the portage—now Peterborough—but the camps were burned and the braves were dead. My father built a great camp on the Otonabee; built it of pine trees, a mighty council chamber. And then"—here his voice fell almost to a whisper—"they built another inside it."

There is no doubt that the Ojibways, to outwit their crafty foes—foes as used to the scalping knife and the war axe as the Ojibways were to the peaceful tools of their fishing and trapping life—built this double council chamber. The walls of living trees, some cut, some bent and twisted, held a space wide enough to conceal a single warrior between them in every foot of their wide circle.

Killed All That Came

"We killed all that came," he burst out in triumph, "we sent a messenger, told them to come to our camp and talk it over. We met them on the river bank, we left our knives and bows on the ground, then we all went in the big council tent. Our chief threw the peace-pipe on the ground and we killed all that came."

We could see the scene outlined in the warkness of the night that enshrouded us: The camp of the Mohawks clustered, a huddled mass of bark and skin tepees, on the brow of the hill beneath which we now sat. It was then unmarked by the sinister Serpent Mounds. Here the messenger of the Ojibways came; from here the birchbarks of more than half the braves of this warlike tribe set out on their last journey. Passing out through the familiar rice beds, they skirted the island we now call Rainy. Leaving their women and papooses on Spook Island, they went westward until they reached the mouth of the Otonabee. Up the nearest, the Eastern Branch no doubt, they sped, paddling swiftly and silently as was their wont. At length, as they opened out a bend of the river, a huge green council chamber came into view. It stood on the spot we now call Campbellton—the site of a deserted logging industry—but in those days, a century and a half or two centuries ago, it was a simple clearing in the woods.

Massacre of Mohawks

Half of the Ojibways stood on the top of the banks almost totally unarmed, of the other half I will tell you later. As the Mohawks disembarked and came slowly and watchfully up the hill, their hosts ostentatiously deposited their few remaining weapons on the pile at the door of this big tent-like structure. The visiting red men, murdering marauders though they had been, followed this simple wild-wood courtesy of their hosts and laid all their visible weapons on the ground. Once inside they formed in two opposing half circles, squatted on the grass. How the keen desire, the taste of the coming slaughter, must have surged through the bulging veins of the Ojibways! How the watchful Mohawks must have rolled their dark eyes, nervous, anticipating they knew not what, ready with a leap and a yell at the first sign of treachery! Then the Ojibway Chief, Megezee—the Eagle, they call him when they tell the weird story now—took the peace-pipe, while from the hidden recesses of the double walls of the great green tent eyes that burned with hate told where the other half of the Ojibways were concealed. The silence, as the great chief of this powerful northern tribe raised the red stone pipe to his lips, was rent—as a mighty shell shrieking and wailing rends the woden walls of an ancient vessel—by the war cry of the Ojibways. And as he dashed the emblem of peace to the ground, there leaped from out the cedar and pine walls of the council chamber a hacking, slashing, painted crowd of demons into the semi-light of the great tent. A few moments of hard-struggling, deep-breathing conflict, then the victorious Ojibways emerged into the light of day. Embers from many camp-fires, torches from frenzied hands, were flung against the huge pile, and speedily the council chamber became a funeral pyre. The Ojibways had "killed all that came."

Then—so the folklore of these people tells us—the blood-maddened braves leaped into their canoes and urged them madly down the river. The slaughtered enemy had left the squaws and papooses of their half of the tribe on the island we now call Spook—well-named it is—truly suitable to bear the Indian word for ghost. Within an hour from the time that the bows of the canoes of this devastating host grated on the western shores of Spook all the women and children of the band had joined their families in the Land of the Great Spirit, and when the still eastward-leaping canoes were lost to sight the only living thing on all that long sandy island was a cur-dog of the tribe that howled from the top of the bank.

Surprised the Camp

To the very spot [illegible] we sat, under the slope of th[illegible] right at the edge of the sandy [illegible]e, this swiftly advancing mass of canoes headed. Up the channels in the dark wild rice beds—channels we know so well—they came, as silently as the shadows gather over the rice. In front of them loomed this hill, but then it bore no Serpent Mounds on its top. Right over its crest, and in the clearing behind, clustered the camps of the Mohawks. No sentries watched over the dark lake—what had they to dread from those despised fishermen and trappers, the Missisaugas, as they called this band of the Ojibways? Peacefully they slept awaiting the return of the absent warriors with the treaty giving them the rights to fish and hunt on this Lake of the Wild Rice. As the slow surge ebbs and flows along the dark shores at midnight, with a strange rattling noise and a sound as of many voices low pitched, so this flotilla of avengers landed; the sands and the paddles and the sharper rattle of the weapons should have alarmed the sleeping warriors on the crest of the hill. But they tell us that the dark wave was half way to the summit ere the dogs gave tongue. Then the ready knives and keen axes gave the sleep-burdened braves scant chance. When the morning sun came up over the great wild ric beds the Mohawks were a thing of the past. And ere it had set on this ghastly scene its Westering beams lighted up a long trench, sinuous in formation, and four circular mounds; for the victors, building better than they knew, built the graves that covered the slaughtered Mohawks in the form of the emblems of totems of that tribe—the Blacksnake and the Turtle; built for endless years (as we now hope the Ontario oGvernment will carefully preserve this ancient earth wonder) a lasting memorial, an earth-formed satire on their enemies.

The Serpent Mound

The next day we carefully examined and pictured this Serpent Mound. The trench runs its sinuous length from southwest to northeast. The tail, brought to a fine point, lies to the southwest. The greatest width of the head of the Serpent is forty-five feet. The height above the surrounding land has been much reduced by constant excavation, and also by the gradual subsidence of the entire formation, yet it is fully ten feet above the top of the hill on which it lies. Four Turtle Mounds surround it, mounds fifty feet in circumference. The long, winding trench and the four circular mounds must have been filled with the slain, so crowded is the lower stratum of earth with bones.

Many Ornaments

Many strange ornaments and utensils have been taken from the mounds and from the adjacent field, as well as quantities of weapons—stone axes, knives, pestles for corn-grinding, sharpening stones. Fritz stood these up to photograph them, and they look like monuments. However, they are only twelve to eighteen inches long. Great numbers of rude carvings, copper beads, pottery and skeletons have been found hereabouts. But everywhere along the one hundred and twenty-nine feet of the serpent's body human relics are to be obtained. Great oak trees grow straight upwards out of the mounds, trees a hundred and a hundred and fifty years old. There is one strange carved animal that we photographed. This rude piece of limestone was found under the roots of an old pine stump fully two feet in diameter. It probably represents a beaver or a muskrat, the tip of the nose is broken off, but the nostrils have been pierced, the arched back is well carved, and two holes have been laboriously driven through it. One is broken and shows signs of wear, as if it had been borne from place to place on a pole. If there was a tribe in days long past that used one of these animals as its totem or sign manual the riddle is easily read.

Gowganda Will Be Isolated For Five Weeks When Roads Break Up

Great Shortage of Provisions Will be Experienced---Everybody Expected to Feel the Pinch of Food Supply---Teams are Pouring in With Machinery---Argument Presented for a Railway---Will Have to Await Opening of Navigation.

Examiner Special.

Elk Lake, April 5. — The long looked for and dreaded breaking up of the roads between Charlton, Elk Lake and Gowganda is happening, and it is very likely that some time next week the long period of four or five weeks' isolation will commence. The roads will have entirely vanished, the ice will be on the Montreal River for at least one month, and the Elk Lake and Gowganda will have to sit still and look wise. All will be hemmed in — one more unique feature in a unique country. Needless to say all sorts of questions are being asked by the tenderfoot regarding the condition and "how it feels" when the break-up comes. "Will I be able to get my mail?" asks the man of business. "Won't provisions be shy?" queries he of the appetite. "We will forget what a newspaper looks like," says the class who are eternally lonesome for the details of a world which they have abandoned. These and an infinite number of like questions are propounded from day to day by the anxious ones and, of course, there is some reason for their anxiety. While provisions of every description for both man and beast have been pouring into Elk Lake and Gowganda for the past month, still the people themselves have been keeping pace, and each of the seven days of the week sees its hoard of newcomers. Truly, supplies could not be brought in any quicker or in greater abundance, but their importation is equalized by the great influx of prospectors.

Great Shortage of Food

It is accordingly not surprising when the statement is made that there will not be enough provisions in Elk Lake to last for two weeks ahead when the break-up comes, and the supplies are given one week to last in Gowganda. This does not, of course, mean that there will be an actual starvation for the remainder of the siege, but at the end of the periods named there will be a great shortage, if not a complete obliteration of the chief articles of food, and the varieties will be much reduced. Then if anything in the line of meats does last for a week or ten days it will not be fit to eat in the end as there is no place where they will keep.

Plainest Rations

A party whom I talked with yesterday told me he would not be surprised if the people were put on rations of the very plainest of food. He mentioned blue moulded flour and bacon in a like state, and I confess it gave me the chills. From a general observation it does not look as if there would be cases of people starving to death, but it is a pretty sure thing that your correspondent will have some singular cases of reduction in provisions to report, where the boys have been up against it for fare.

Mail Arrangements.

As for the carfying of the mail in and out, it is understood that arrangements will be made for somebody to carry the letters and letters only, as was done last year. As soon as the snow melts sufficiently, many guides strike out to pick out the old summer's trail along the shores of the Montreal, and they will keep hitting the trail till navigation comes to their relief. As for the teams coming into Elk Lake everything is being done that can be done in the line of traffic, while the roads with the awful pitch holes at every three hundred yards hold out at all.

Two Hundred Teams Daily

For the past two weeks an average of two hundred teams daily have come into Elk Lake from Charlton, one hundred and fifty by way of Earlton and over four hundred into Gowganda by way of Sellwood. It is estimated that about forty per cent of these teams hauled in machinery and supplies for the mines alone. "It is something fierce, the machinery that is being hauled into Gowganda," said Mr. Harry Gamey, son of Mr. R. R. Gamey, the other day when speaking of the traffic into that district.

Good Argument for Railway

A prominent Elk Laker made a brief address the other evening at a banquet tendered to Jack Munroe on the occasion of his election to the office of Reeve for James township. Referring to the need of a railway, he gave some very interesting data regarding the cost of cartage into Elk Lake and Gowganda. The daily cost was between fifteen and twenty thousand dollars per day. This meant nearly half a million dollars a month, and a good million and a half for the season. It represented money paid out by individuals who intended to settle in the north country or have interests here. This money could go a long way towards helping with a railway, and if the people themselves have confidence to such an extent, surely the Government ought to wait no longer, but show that they too, have some confidence in the resources of the district.

A Snap Vote On Local Option Not Wanted By Prohibitionists Usual Rally Held Yesterday

"We do not want the people of Peterborough to think that we desire to carry local option on a snap vote," said Rev. J. G. Potter, at the Temperance meeting held in the Crystal, Sunday afternoon. "We want to educate them to see what a calamity it will be if they do not realize their duty and drive the liquor traffic out of Peterborough after next January."

"Men, even clergymen, advocate moral suasion. That is good, but it is no reason why we should, by licensing the liquor traffic, place temptation in the way of others. It is a shame that we, as a Christian people, are getting a share of the profits derived from the sale of liquor through the revenue that is paid for licenses. We should work unitedly to prevent the possibility of 23 men being set apart by ourselves to deal out troubles for others. Christ drove the devil out of people who were so afflicted and I cannot see why we must be partners in this dreadful traffic. We would label whiskey poison, and put skull and crossbones on every bottle of liquor.

We are told that if the liquor traffic is removed our taxes will be increased. We do not realize what the traffic costs us indirectly. A man in New York State, while drunk, murdered his wife, and before the State was able to convict him of the crime it was forced to expend over $100,000. Liquor, in this case, was the cause of two deaths and an immense expenditure of money. I have been informed that one bar in Peterborough takes in almost $10,000 a year. If we have not got a vote that we can use we can at least pray for victory for the temperance cause. Some people in Peterborough are being urged to vote for local option because it will create dives. We must educate our people by combatting these arguments and showing how necessary it is that as Christians we shall put down the traffic."

Causes Misery.

Rev. Mr. Riddiford said "That intemperance was the one thing in the world that leads to a thousand and one other evils. It filled the jails with criminals, the insane asylums with patients, and, according to the late Right Hon. Mr. Gladstone, it caused nine-tenths of the misery of the world. "I believe that in this city of Peterborough," said the speaker, "it will be found that the twenty-three places licensed to sell liquor create more misery than any other one cause. We must bring this matter of temperance down to a personal basis and ask ourselves if it is helping us, making us better, and assisting us to lead more useful lives. If it is not, we should do away with it for the sake of the people who are being ruined by it, including the orphans it is making. It will be a shame if the people of Peterborough when they have the power, do not drive out the traffic. They should advance in a solid column next January and vote for local option."

The Chairman, Mr. Wm. Madill, stated that at the Missionary Congress in Toronto last week, the missionaries had stated that agents of the liquor traffic were doing great harm in heathen countries by promoting the sale of liquor. The heathen could not understand how some white men could urge them to become Christians, while other white men were selling them liquor. Mr. Madill stated that he was in sympathy with the temperance campaign.

A couple of solos were rendered by Mr. H. C. Wright.

Next Sunday afternoon the meeting in the Crystal will be in charge of the members of the George street Choir.

TO-DAY IN THE STOCK MARKET.

Furnished by J. N. Barber.—

New York, April 5.—Stocks opened active and very strong, gains running from ¼ to a full point, the largest gains being shown in Union Pac., Reading, Erie, Smelting and Nor. Pac. Commission house orders to buy had accumulated in abundance over Sunday and their execution was largely responsible for the advance. After the first half hour the market was inclined to sell off and most of the gains were lost. Then Reading was bid up over two points in expectation of a favourable decision in the coal land case and this strengthened the general market again and carried it back to the high. A reaction which followed gave the market a choppy and feverish appearance and some selling from the bears. B. R. T. was in good demand throughout and the buying of Denver was the best seen yet.

Grain News

Chicago, April 5.—Wheat opened firm and unchanged from Saturday. The market was inactive and while May held very firm July and Sept. sold off half a cent and then fluctuated in an aimless way. Corn and oats were slightly higher. Provisions quiet.

Buda Pesth close: Wheat 1⅛c lower; Berlin 1⅛c higher; Antwerp 1¼c higher.

Liverpool close: Wheat unchanged to ¼d. higher; corn ⅛d. lower.

The Supreme Court did not hand down a decision in the coal lands case to-day and when this was announced in the afternoon the market became very strong and closed at the highest of the day.

ENGLISHMAN STANDS BY FARMER WHO HE SAYS TREATED HIM WELL

Dear Sir,—Some few weeks ago there appeared a letter from a man who complains of his bad treatment in the hands of the farmer. Now, sir, a man, if he is any sort of a man, would bear his troubles in silence, and not bother every one by putting that which can be proved as a lot of fairy tales. Why does he not speak the truth if he wants a section of the farmers to believe? Now, this man was hired by a farmer two miles from Bridgenorth and he has proved himself, from what I know, as to be absolutely no use on the farm and too slow to catch a snail. I worked for this farmer last summer for seven months and I can say he was one of the kindest and best farmers around that part, and I expect now that this same man will soon be fired, he will be writing to you and complaining. So I thought that I would just write and let the farmers know that every hired man is not to be classed with such men as wrote, complaining. I am very proud to say I am working some six miles from Peterborough on a farm for another one of the best of farmers.

I remain,
ANOTHER ENGLISHMAN.

OUR new Spring Suits are everything good Garments should be. We are unable to discover a weak point in our display. Customers tell us we are stronger in our Garment Department than ever before. Our Suits are the handiwork of Canada's best tailors. They are as pretty as can be and styles along the radical line of 1909. Only the best Fabrics in the latest weaves and colourings are used in their making, and with a large range of sizes, we are able to fit every figure perfectly.

Prices range from $15 to $45

Nothing commonplace about our garments. All the brightness and briskness of Spring is in them. Their every line is one of grace and the flow of the skirt or the modelling of the Jacket would do justice to the most "chic" of Parisian creations. See them---Ready-to-Wear Department, Second Floor.

EXAMINER'S MARATHON SPECIAL

The greatest possible interest was displayed by the people of Peterborough in Saturday's race, and from 3 p.m. on the Examiner office was besieged with people anxious to know how the battle was going. Arrangements had been made with both the C.P.R. and G.N.W. telegraph companies for a bulletin service, and as fast as the returns were received they were displayed in front of the office, while at the same time, special editions, containing an account of the race, were being issued. The telephones were never silent: "What is the latest from New York?" "Who is ahead in the race now?" "Where is Longboat?" were some of the questions that the Examiner staff were kept busy answering during the progress of the race.

The result was a genuine surprise to the sporting fraternity of Peterborough. When the first bulletins were received showing the Frenchman was ahead, the wise ones simply smiled and affirmed that he would never last. Their prophecies looked good when at the 10th mile Shrubb was announced as the leader. "It's all up with that Frenchman now" was the general opinion. Either Shrubb will keep it up and win out, or he'll quit and Longboat will come on and win." But Shrubb continued to hold on and St. Yves glued to him and finally it was Longboat who threw up the sponge. The Shrubb supporters were delighted when it was announced that the Indian had quit, but their joy was short lived, as the next bulletin showed that the Frenchman had taken the lead, and that Shrubb was showing signs of distress. Finally the word came that Shrubb had blown up at the end of the twenty-fourth mile and that St. Yves was a sure winner. The report was confirmed a few minutes afterwards, and it was definitely announced that the comparatively unknown Frenchman had captured the Blue Ribbon Marathon.

Very few had picked St. Yves, but as usual the "I-told-you-so" club was out in full force, and apparently everyone in the crowd had felt convinced that the Frenchman would win.

Splendid Concert By Staff Band Of Salvation Army

The Territorial Staff band's visit to Peterborough, gave it an opportunity of demonstrating that the Salvation Army has within its ranks a large number of good musicians. The visiting organization proved themselves artists even to the individual man and its work as a whole was delightful. The instruments blended with splendid effect and their balance was a noticeable feature in practically all their numbers. The band has no reeds being entirely of brass instruments, but the music did not suffer apparently for a sweetness of tone was a feature of the concert and in the piano passages there was no confusion but a clear, fine tone, strong but delicate if this paradoxical statement expresses the idea.

Mr. T. F. Matthews was chairman, filling his position in a most acceptable manner. Capt. E. Pugmire displayed almost a mastery of the euphonium and other members of the band were equally good with their instruments. The male quartette and choir are also deserving of special mention and in fact the visit of the band was a musical event of more than passing note. If they ever return to Peterborough they may be assured of a splendid reception. The male quartette was composed of Brigadier Morris, Staff Captain Attwell, Captains Mardall and Pugmire. Brigadier Morris is conductor of the band and is musicianly in every fibre.

EGGS ARE 60 CTS. IN GOWGANDA

Cost of Living is Something to be Reckoned With From a Money Viewpoint.

Gowganda, April 5.—Existing prices in this new country are such that any attempt at an elaborate Easter dinner would mean quite a slash in an ordinary week's wages. Eggs are selling here at sixty cents a dozen, and butter can be had at 45 cents a pound. Flour markets at $7.50 a cwt., beef at 15 cents a pound and bacon at twenty cents. Beans sell by the bushel at $5.00. Other staple articles in the food line are correspondingly dear with the consequence that board is high, and three "square" meals a day have a rather high financial equivalent.

EXAMINER'S MARATHON SPECIAL

The greatest possible interest was displayed by the people of Peterborough in Saturday's race, and from 3 p.m. on the Examiner office was besieged with people anxious to know how the battle was going. Arrangements had been made with both the C.P.R. and G.N.W. telegraph companies for a bulletin service, and as fast as the returns were received they were displayed in front of the office, while at the same time, special editions, containing an account of the race, were being issued. The telephones were never silent: "What is the latest from New York?" "Who is ahead in the race now?" "Where is Longboat?" were some of the questions that the Examiner staff were kept busy answering during the progress of the race.

The result was a genuine surprise to the sporting fraternity of Peterborough. When the first bulletins were received showing the Frenchman was ahead, the wise ones simply smiled and affirmed that he would never last. Their prophecies looked good when at the 10th mile Shrubb was announced as the leader. "It's all up with that Frenchman now" was the general opinion. Either Shrubb will keep it up and win out, or he'll quit and Longboat will come on and win." But Shrubb continued to hold on and St. Yves glued to him and finally it was Longboat who threw up the sponge. The Shrubb supporters were delighted when it was announced that the Indian had quit, but their joy was short lived, as the next bulletin showed that the Frenchman had taken the lead, and that Shrubb was showing signs of distress. Finally the word came that Shrubb had blown up at the end of the twenty-fourth mile and that St. Yves was a sure winner. The report was confirmed a few minutes afterwards, and it was definitely announced that the comparatively unknown Frenchman had captured the Blue Ribbon Marathon.

Very few had picked St. Yves, but as usual the "I-told-you-so" club was out in full force, and apparently everyone in the crowd had felt convinced that the Frenchman would win.

Splendid Concert By Staff Band Of Salvation Army

The Territorial Staff band's visit to Peterborough, gave it an opportunity of demonstrating that the Salvation Army has within its ranks a large number of good musicians. The visiting organization proved themselves artists even to the individual man and its work as a whole was delightful. The instruments blended with splendid effect and their balance was a noticeable feature in practically all their numbers. The band has no reeds being entirely of brass instruments, but the music did not suffer apparently for a sweetness of tone was a feature of the concert and in the piano passages there was no confusion but a clear, fine tone, strong but delicate if this paradoxical statement expresses the idea.

Mr. T. F. Matthews was chairman, filling his position in a most acceptable manner. Capt. E. Pugmire displayed almost a mastery of the euphonium and other members of the band were equally good with their instruments. The male quartette and choir are also deserving of special mention and in fact the visit of the band was a musical event of more than passing note. If they ever return to Peterborough they may be assured of a splendid reception. The male quartette was composed of Brigadier Morris, Staff Captain Attwell, Captains Mardall and Pugmire. Brigadier Morris is conductor of the band and is musicianly in every fibre.

Cost of Living is Something to be Reckoned With From a Money Viewpoint.

Gowganda, April 5.—Existing prices in this new country are such that any attempt at an elaborate Easter dinner would mean quite a slash in an ordinary week's wages. Beans sell by the bushel at $5.00. A DARING ROBBERY OF 36 DIAMONDS

Montreal Thief Gets Away With Jewels in Window.

A REVOLVER IN EACH HAND

Unknown Man Smashes Plateglass Window In Grothe's Store and Snatching a Tray of Rings Makes His Escape Through the Crowd Firing His Revolvers—No Attempt Made to Stop Him.

Montreal, April 5.—Montreal is becoming famous through her epidemic of robberies and hold-ups. On Saturday night a daring robbery was committed on St. Lawrence street, when a thief smashed a window in a jewelry shop, secured $3,000 worth of diamonds, and made good his escape after terrorizing the crowd on the street by flourishing a pair of revolvers. He than ran a short distance to Lagauchetiere street, and climbed into a waiting rig and escaped with his confreres.

About half-past 7 a man with a false black beard smashed the window of Grothe's jewelry store, seized a tray containing thirty-six diamond rings, and emptied them into his pocket. He then started shouting and shooting right and left with two big revolvers. The street was crowded at the time, and when the shooting started nearly everybody rushed for cover. Fortunately only one person was hit, a bullet lodging in the leg of John Bertrand, who was standing on the opposite side of the street, but several plateglass windows were broken by flying bullets.

The robber rushed down the street, firing and shouting, until he reached Lagauchetiere street, where a rig was waiting, and he drove away. There is no description of the robber beyond his black beard, which was false, the crowd falling into a blind panic when the shooting display commenced, and no policemen were around, so not the slightest effort was made to stop the bandit.

MOTHER'S SACRIFICE.

Woman In North Feeds Her Own Flesh to Starving Little Ones.

Detroit, April 5.—A horrible story, almost incredible in its barbarity and gruesomeness, is told by Hilton George, an employe of the Hudson Bay Co. in the Algoma district, who arrived at Traverse City, Mich., on Saturday to visit relatives.

George, who has been with the Hudson Bay Co. for four years and is in charge of an important post near Lake Nepigon, was notified that a family of Indians living in an out-of-the-way spot was in imminent danger of starvation. He immediately started out on snowshoes with a dog team, carrying supplies for the beleaguered ones. When he reached the Indian wigwam in the wilderness a terrible [illegible] greeted him.

The mother, knowing assistance was on the way, had doled out the provisions carefully, but the delay was too long and the children were crying for food.

Taking the keen hunting knife from its sheath, the devoted mother cut several strips of flesh from her own body and upon this she fed the little ones.

George immediately had the suffering mother and her family conveyed to the nearest post, where the woman is now making a brave fight for life. The children are well and strong.

General to Be Shot.

Mexico City, Mexico, April 5.—Gen. Gustav Maas, who has a record in the Mexican army as an Indian fighter, has been sentenced to death for killing Lieut. David Clivarez, whose sister he was accused of wronging. The prosecution brought out the fact that once before he kidnapped a girl.

The verdict was a remarkable one. Not only was the general sentenced to be shot to death, but he must also pay $60 a month to each of the two children of the man he murdered for the next twenty years, and must also pay the funeral expenses of his victim. The sums will come out of Gen. Maas' estate. Gen. Maas is wealthy and was prominent socially.

New Tubercular Hospital.

St. Catharines, April 5.—The local Board of Health has approved the purchase of the Collier homestead on the south side of the old Welland [illegible] site for a city tubercu[illegible]. Work will begin at [illegible]

To Suffer From Headaches Makes Life Miserable.

It takes a person that has had or is subject to headaches to describe the suffering which attends them.

The majority of cases are caused by constipation and dyspepsia. The dull throbbings, the intense pain, sometimes in one part, sometimes in another, and then over the whole head, varying in its severity by the cause which brings it on, purely indicates that there is something the matter with the stomach or bowels. To the fact that Burdock Blood Bitters reaches every part of the system is due its success in relieving and permanently curing headache. It has proven a specific for the malady in all its forms.

CONSTIPATION AND HEADACHES.

Mrs. Allison E. Brown, Summerfield, N.B., writes:—"I have been troubled with Constipation and Headaches for a long time. After trying different doctors to no effect, a friend asked me to try Burdock Blood Bitters. I find I am completely cured after taking three bottles I can safely recommend it to all."

GRAND SUCCESS

Wonderful Growth in Sales During 1908.

The year just passed will long be remembered for the financial and commercial depression. Business houses all over Canada were affected. Most of them show a loss over 1907. Some did about as much business last year as in the preceeding one. A few—a very few—show substantial gains. In spite of "hard times" and "financial depression" the sales of "Fruit-a-tives" doubled in 1908 over 1907.

The National Drug & Chemical Co. of Canada Limited bought "Fruit-a-tives" in 100 gross lots (14,000 boxes). Lyman Sons & Company of Montreal, and Lyman Brothers in Toronto, also ordered "Fruit-a-tives" by the hundred gross lots. These big wholesalers bought such big orders simply because the retail dealers ordered so many boxes of "Fruit-a-tives"—and the dealers had to keep "Fruit-a-tives" always in stock to supply the constantly growing demand of people in every section of Canada.

To-day, "Fruit-a-tives" are the most popular family medicine in the Dominion. In the big cities, in the smaller towns, on farms and ranches, "Fruit-a-tives" are the standby in curing all forms of Stomach, Liver, Bowel, Skin and Kidney Trouble, Rheumatism, Headaches and Neuralgia.

Are you a sufferer from any of the diseases? Don't hesitate a moment. Get a box of "Fruit-a-tives" — take them according to directions—and they will cure without fail. 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, or trial size, 25c. At dealers or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

Suggest Changes In Tariff Bill.

Washington, April 5.—Fearing that the demands which they have made for an opportunity to vote on some of the principal schedules in the Payne tariff bill might result in changes which they consider more disadvantageous than the provisions now in the bill, nearly 30 Republican members of the House met Saturday and agreed upon these changes: An amendment providing for a duty of 45 cents a ton of 2,000 pounds on coal and striking out the provision for reciprocity. For a duty of 25 cents a ton on iron ore. For a duty of $3 a ton on pig iron and scrap iron. For a duty of ten per cent. on hides. The amendment to the lumber schedule to be confined to the provision.

WILL GIVE MORE TO MISSION WORK

Four Thousand a Year Promised by Laymen Congress.

TWO DOLLARS PER HEAD

Canada's Share of the Heathen Is 40,000,000 For the Evangelization of Whom $4,500,000 Will Be Needed —Missionary Offerings In Canada Will Be Largely Increased— The Sessions Closes.

Toronto, April 5.—Splendid progress was made on Saturday night at the meeting in Massey Hall in connection with the mission congress towards raising $8,000 a year for three years required to carry out the Canadian portion of the undertaking. Nearly $4,000 of the amount required was pledged.

Slips were distributed among the audience at the close to be signed by those willing to be responsible for one or more $10 shares. The first slip sent in took ten shares or $100. This was to cover the expenses of the movement estimated at $8,000 a year for three years.

S. J. Moore, chairman of the congress executive committee, presented a report of the Canadian council, with a sketch of the Laymen's Missionary Movement up to date. The Canadian churches are expected to undertake the evangelization of 40,000,000 non-Christian people, and for this purpose $4,500,000 a year, or $5 a head per church member is required.

As a result of the national campaign of last autumn, in twenty-four important centres, missionary offering would be largely increased. Winnipeg would increase from $53,119 to $175,000; Vancouver from $27,000 to $75,000; Toronto from $142,000 to $500,000; Montreal from $100,000 to $250,000; Victoria from $4,400 to $18,000 in 1909, and $25,000 in 1910; Halifax from $17,500 to $40,000.

Hon. A. B. Morine presented the report of the special committee on a national missionary policy. The outstanding feature of the congress, he thought, was its interdenominational character. "We are in danger of going away," he said, "and finding that we have been only trying to be Christians, and forgetting anything else.

"We have found that the world is our field. That there is no dividing line between the foreign and home mission fields; no race or color line to separate us in this work."

He then presented the recommendations of the committee:

1. That the report be received, adopted and printed.
2. That the national committee be continued and extended.
3. That a permanent secretary be appointed and the expenses of the office guaranteed for a period of three years.
4. That the methods of finance adopted by the council, which have been found so successful, be continued.
5. That an interdenominational co-operative committee be organized in every city and community which has not yet done so.

S. J. Moore, seconded the motion and prophesied that the report would go down in history as a remarkable document.

Sunday evening Rev. Principal Sparling of Wesley College was the first speaker at the concluding meeting of the congress. The laymen's movement, he said, aimed to bless all men, everywhere, for all eternity.

"An unaggressive church, only cannot expect to be the religion of this aggressive age. A non-mission Christianity cannot be the Christianity of this progressive age. The gospel of Christ is the gospel of 'go'," he said.

J. Campbell White, introduced as the inspiration of the movement in Canada and the United States, was warmly applauded. Although he had been studying missions for 20 years, he was only on the fringe of knowledge. He urged daily prayer that the cause might be blessed. He hoped that hundreds of the families of the commissioners would have a share in sending forth the recruits.

He believed they should ask Sir Andrew Fraser, Mr. Rowell and Mr. McBee of The Churchman, New York, to go to Australia and plant the movement there, and in New Zealand. He thought Sir Andrew Fraser, if he gave up the remaining years of his life to the work, could link South Africa, Australia and New Zealand with Canada in the movement.

Sir Andrew Fraser said he felt very strongly the appeal made to him. Before he could answer he would have to know that the call was from Christ."

HOW ST. YVES CAPTURED THE BLUE RIBBON MARATHON EVENT HAD ALL THE SPEED OF HIS FIELD

New York, April 5.—Running with remarkable speed and showing wonderful courage, Henri St. Yves of France proved himself the greatest long-distance runner of the day by winning the Marathon Derby of $10,000 over the full distance of 26 miles 385 yards, at the Polo Grounds on Saturday, in the fast time of 2 hours 40 minutes 50 3-5 seconds.

At the finish the winner was hardly drawing a long breath, proving his remarkable lung capacity and excellent condition. While thirty thousand persons who surrounded the improvised track of six laps to the mile, a veritable wall of humanity, rose as one man to welcome a new idol, and to cheer with hearty good-will a brilliant performance, St. Yves sprinting like a quarter-miler, crossed the finish line four good laps, or two-thirds of a mile, in front of Dorando Pietri, of Olympic Marathon fame.

Two laps behind Dorando came Johnny Hayes, the winner of the Olympic Marathon, while Matt Maloney, who has recently joined the professional ranks, finished fourth, a lap behind Hayes.

Tom Longboat, the Indian, who was unbeaten in a Marathon race in this country up to Saturday, gave up the struggle after covering some eighteen miles, on account of trouble with his feet, while Alfred Shrubb, the great English runner, who has been practically invincible up to fifteen miles, gave up in a state of almost complete collapse early in the twenty-fifth mile. His handlers had no excuse to offer for his defeat, but that the distance was too far.

HENRI ST. YVES.

Of Longboat's finish The Sun says: "Longboat was all in. He could not stand without the assistance of friends and despite their requests for him to try again the Indian, with tears streaming down his cheeks, begged to be allowed to leave the field. His friends finally yielded and he limped slowly out of sight. His defeat was a crushing blow to the Canadians, who had come to regard him as invincible because of his victories indoors.

"Donando's legs seemed to be stiff and sore at this stage, yet he plodded along, taking a sip of champagne to keep up his spirits. Hayes and Maloney were also pegging away with absolutely no hope of winning.

"Longboat ran as if he was in any but his best condition. In fact a well-known Canadian sporting man said it was a crime to allow the Indian to start. He had nothing of his old sprinting power, looked thin and drawn and was on the verge of a collapse when the pace became hottest.

"Yet Longboat was induced by threats and promises to keep at it until his copper-colored skin took on an ashen hue and his legs actually bent under him. Hayes ran under instruction that kept him well behind the pacemakers from the beginning of the race. In fact he dropped back too rapidly and proceeded so methodically that his friends could not understand what he was trying to do. Toward the end of the gruelling struggle Hayes began to run at a faster pace and with so much strength that for a time it looked as if he might overhaul Dorando.

"But just when Dorando appeared to blow up he came back to life suddenly and by fast traveling he drew away and made Hayes' stern chase fruitless. Maloney's performance was a bitter disappointment. He had been touted as a world-beater and his remarkable time in the Rye Marathon was used as an argument that he would show his heels to the others. But Maloney, more heavily built than his competitors, was no doubt bothered by the soggy track and when he finished in fourth place a bunch of red-hot sports from Yonkers who had made a pool of $2,500 to bet on him turned away sadly."

St. Yves is not yet 21 years of age, but to-day he is regarded as the greatest long-distance runner in the world. He never has been beaten, winning a marathon at Edinburgh, Scotland, last December, in 2 hours, 44 minutes, 40 seconds, from a good field, and is said to have covered the distance from Windsor Castle to the Stadium at Shepherd's Bush in the remarkable time of 2 hours, 31 minutes, 23 seconds—20 minutes better than Hayes' time.

St. Yves was a waiter in a London restaurant a year ago without a dollar. Falling a victim to the Marathon fever, he took up running and quickly demonstrated that he possessed sterling qualities.

In appearance St. Yves is not a runner. He is short in stature, built like a wrestler, with powerful legs, broad shoulders, deep chest and muscular arms.

THE PETERBORO LAWN TENNIS ASSOCIATION WAS ORGANIZED ENTHUSIASTIC MEETING HELD

At a most enthusiastic and representative gathering of lovers of tennis in the Y. M. C. A. parlours on Saturday evening, the Peterborough Lawn Tennis Association was organized under most encouraging auspices. Every tennis club in the city was well represented and the members present seemed enthusiastic over the prospects for the season and the formation of an Association that would tend to develop interest and a spirit of healthy competition among the different clubs. It was unanimously decided to form an Association and the following officers were elected:

Hon. President—Mr. J. H. Larmonth.
President—Mr. W. H. Cluxton.
Vice-President—Mr. F. D. Kerr.
Secretary-Treasurer — Mr. H. B. Collier.

Committee—Messrs. R. J. Devey, St. John's Church club; Chas. Sisson, Nicholls Oval Tennis club; Dr. A. W. MacPherson, Y. M. C. A. Tennis club; Mr. J. Wallace Wood, West End Tennis club, and Mr. F. D. Kerr, Golf and Country club.

If other clubs come in they will be given representation on the committee. It was decided that no applications for membership will be received after May 15, when the schedule will be drawn up.

The Association should have a most successful season and will do much to arouse interest in the game during the summer.

GRITS ONCE MORE BEAT TORIES DESPERATE RALLY IN THE LAST GAME WON THE CONTEST

For the second time this season the back country vote saved the Grit bowling team. The second game of the season between the Liberals and Conservatives was played on Saturday night at the P. B. C. alleys, and once more the doughty five representing the Free Trade party won out in the last chapter, when the Tories looked to have the game on ice. It was just a repetition of the previous game between the two, only on this occasion the victory of the Grits was more pronounced. In the first contest played between the two teams the Tories ran up a lead of 100 pins in the first two games, but the Grits came along with a majority of 133 in the final game and won out by 33 pins. On Saturday night the Tories won the first game by 19 and the second by 32, giving them a margin of 51 with which to start the last game. The Grits were there, however, with a grand rally in the last act, and when the final count had been made it was found that the cohorts of the Liberals had the big end of the score by 128, giving them a lead of 77 on the night's play.

The game was highly exciting, but the rolling was not up to the usual standard, not a man reaching the 200 mark in a single game, while most of the bunch were below the 500 mark for the evening. Splits and blows were frequent and both sides seemed off colour. At that the game never lost interest and the fact that both sides had numerous supporters added to the excitement. Until the last game was started the Tories looked like winners. However, the Grits got working together in the last period and piled in strikes and spares with a regularity that meant victory, while the Tories blew up at the critical moment, and with the exception of Pollard did nothing in their last game. Cairns stuck in 195 for the Grits, the best single performance of the night.

After the game the Tories entertained the winners at a dainty little supper at Hooper's Palm Parlours, where the occasion resolved itself into an informal leave-taking of George Sutherland and Graham Ferguson, both of whom are leaving Peterborough, Mr. Sutherland going to St. Thomas and Mr. Ferguson to Toronto, where he has been moved by his bank. Both men are very popular with the bowling fraternity and will be greatly missed by the frequenters of the alleys.

Following were the scores on Saturday night:

Grits—
Sutherland	126	161	183—	470
Ferguson	161	138	166—	465
Glover	126	116	161—	403
Martin	162	156	185—	503
Cairns	179	134	195—	508
Total	745	705	890—	2340
Tories—
McIlroy	154	158	158—	470
Pollard	193	124	189—	506
Bruce	123	155	122—	400
Connors	147	133	167—	447
Wareham	156	167	126—	449
	773	737	762—	2272

Ernie Best Is Captain Of The Lacrosse Team In Springfield

Mr. Ernie M. Best, who is attending the Y.M.C.A. Training School at Springfield, Mass., has been appointed Capt. of the lacrosse team, which, under his management, has been organized for this season. Owing to his efforts the game is being revived and the Canadian boys will form the nucleus of the team. The Springfield Republican refers to him as follows:—

Lacrosse will probably be taken up as a spring sport at the training school. Four years ago the game was one of the regular games played by the students in the spring and fall, but it was dropped on the introduction of soccer. As there are several students at the school this year who have come from Canada, where the game is one of the national sports, a club has been formed of lacrosse enthusiasts, who readily enlisted other members of the school to invest in outfits which they had ordered specially from a Canadian firm that makes a specialty of manufacturing the oddly formed racquets or crosses, so that now there are thirty men who will engage in the game under the direction of Capt. Ernest Best. Best is a Canadian who has had experience in the game, and as there are many others who have played the game, a good team should be developed. The first practice has been called for this morning, when Capt. Best will get a line on his men and start systematic workouts.

HOCKEY

A hard fought game in the Saturday Night League at the Y. M. C. A. resulted in a victory for the Arabs over the Maple Leafs by the narrow margin of 30-27 points. All the players felt the strain and at the end were practically all in. This league is reviving the interest in basket ball and stirring up an interest akin to that of former days. A feature of the game was the very close checking throughout. Stuart Lang played a fine game throughout.

The annual banquet of the City Hockey League will be held this evening in the Oriental Hotel, and promises to be one of the most successful and enjoyable events in the history of the league. Elaborate preparations have been made for the entertainment of the guests and an evening of thorough enjoyment is expected. During the evening the Stratton Cup will be presented to the champion Lakefield team, and the Clarke-Graham Cup to the Chieftains, the junior champions.

RUNNING.

Tom Eck, Fred Simpson's manager, seems to have an unfortunate propensity for getting the Peterborough redskin in wrong. First he hooks Simpson up with Shrubb, the world's champion, at twelve miles, at his own distance, and of course the Indian got roundly trimmed. Now Eck has him signed to meet Appleby, the world's fifteen-mile champion, at 20 miles on Good Friday. If Simpson gets trimmed it will cause little surprise in Peterborough, because it is felt that he is going up against the best the world can produce at twenty miles and a loss for Simpson will put him down and out. It is unfortunate that the Indian could not have started in Saturday's Derby. He would have been sure to get a piece of the money and on the dope would likely have bagged second.

MR. F. D. KERR
Vice-President of the Peterborough Tennis Association.

The Dramatic Club of St. Peter's T.A.S. will present the Romantic Comedy Drama "True Irish Hearts" in the Opera House, on Tuesday Evening, April 13th. First class specialties during the progress of the play. Admission 25c, 35c and 50c. Plan opens Saturday at 10 a.m., at Grand Opera House. 3d-80

FIRST OF APRIL LETTERS RECEIVED

A Joke Affair at Canoe Co.'s Works—A Sample Letter.

Many of the employees of the Peterborough Canoe Co. received letters on the first of April which kept them guessing for a time until by a clever bit of detective work the mystery was cleared up and the wag's identity was discovered.

One of the men received the following, which is on a pattern similar to the others.

Woolwich Government Dock-Yard,
Chemong Lake, April 1st.

Dear Sir,—At the special sitting of the Canadian House of Parliament, which was held yesterday, it was decided that Canada's contribution to the Imperial Navy, should take the form of a gift of 6 Dough-Nuts, 1 armoured plated and canvas Duck hunting canoe, 1 Dingy, and 1 pair of oars.

This magnificent Naval Squadron will be required to be caulked by only the most experienced of Naval Architects and Craftsmen, and you have been slated as one of those most qualified to give the following your serious consideration:

First—Do you consider Putty a good material to fill the joints between the planks with? Does it adapt itself satisfactory to expansion and contraction?

Secondly—Is horse-hair better than Putty for hard stopping.

Thirdly—Is strips of factory cotton, tacked over joints and painted, considered in your locality, satisfactory in keeping out the water and the big fish, on heavy ships, say of 50,000 tons displacement?

Fourthly—How long would you require the strips of Putty to be in order that it may be handled expeditiously?

Kindly 'phone 23 in the first instance.

I have the honour to be,
Yours obediently,

THE ATTRACTION OF THE YEAR

Lulu Glaser in "Mlle. Mischief" at the Grand Opera House on Wednesday Night—Story of the Play.

Miss Lulu Glaser will be the attraction at the "Grand" next Wednesday evening, April 7th, in the new musical success "Mlle. Mischief" in which operetta she plays the title role.

"Mlle. Mischief" is a Viennese operetta, adapted by Sydney Rosenfeld from the original book by Kraatz & Von Sterk, with music by Carl M. Ziehrer, a composer whose music in the Austrian capital is quite as popular as that of his colleague, Franz Lehar, who wrote "The Merry Widow."

Miss Glaser in this play but recently closed a successful season of twenty weeks in New York. The story of the play tells of a prank of a young Austrian girl, who makes a daring wager that she will enter and remain twenty-four hours within an Austrian garrison. How she succeeds, and the many complications she encounters makes the fun of the story, which is said to provide continuous laughter during its three acts.

The entire original New York cast continue to support Miss Glaser in this production. Among its principal members are Alexander Clarke, William Rosell, Roy Atwell, W. P. Carleton, Frank Farrington, Robert Broderick, Gertrude Darrell, Josie Intropodi, Ada Henry, Eehel Intropodi, supplemented by a chorus of good looking young women.

An Exceptional Offer Made By Otonabee Farmer To Helper

Mr. G. Howson has received a request to secure a farm hand, married, to work for a prominent Otonabee farmer. The accompanying letter should be sufficient guarantee that the offer is an exceptional one, and as the boys say, is "like getting money from home":

G. H. Houson, Esq.

Dear Sir,—I would like to get a farm hand; marired; who could milk, and do general farm work. I would be wililng to give him one-half of a house—5 rooms—piece of ground for garden, wood in the woods and team to draw it, and $240.00 for a year; he to board himself. Could give him the use of stove, table, and three chairs. If you could send me such a man I will be obliged to you. The man you found for me last Saturday seems to do very well.

Mr. W. A. Bailey Has Been Writing To Prime Minister Of Ontario

Peterborough, April 4.

The following has been received from Mr. W. A. Bailey:

Sir,—I wrote to the Prime Minister of Ontario drawing attention to a letter in the Toronto News of the 20th ult., on Immigration, in which it was asserted, amongst other complaints, that the Salvation Army was bringing paupers into the country. Knowing that Premier Whitney had recently championed that organization it would seem to rest with him to meet this slander. He, however, replied that the letter in the "News" complained about the Dominion Government's policy, and I ought to communicate with the Hon. Sydney Fisher, Minister of Agriculture, Ottawa: His reply is:

Mr. W. A. Bailey, Peterborough.

Dear Sir,—I beg to acknowledge receipt of your letter of March 28th, with enclosure from the Secretary of the office of The Prime Minister, Ontario and note what you state in regard to Immigration.

The Immigration Branch of the Dominion Government is under the control of the Minister of Interior, to whom I hae transferred you letter.

I was under the impression that the Secretary of the Prime Minister's office of Ontario knew that the Immigration Branch was under the control of the Department of the Interior.

Yours very truly,
Sydney Fisher.

Address On Scott's Grand Poem, "The Lord Of The Isles," As Given By Rev. Father McColl Recently

Delightful and Entertaining Story of the Career of Robert Bruce —Heard by Ladies of St. Peter's T. A. S.

A GOOD PROGRAMME.

An exceptionally interesting and instructive evening was provided for the members of the Ladies' Literary Society, when Rev. Father McColl delivered a very eloquent address on Sir Walter Scott's poem, "The Lord of the Isles." The lecturer said he chose his subject because of several reasons—because this poem was not so widely read as the other poems of Sir Walter Scott; because in many sections it surpasses his other poems; because it celebrates the career of one of Scotland's greatest heroes, Robert Bruce, and because the scenes enacted in this poem took place in that part of Scotland from which Father McColl's ancestors came.

The scene of the poem lies, at first in the Castle of Artornish, on the coast of Aryleshire; and, afterwards, in the Islands of Skye and Arran, and upon the coast of Ayrshire. Finally, it is laid near Stirling. The story opens in the spring of the year 1307, when Bruce, who had been driven out of Scotland by the English, and the Barons who adhered to that foreign interest, returned from the Island of Raebrin, on the coast of Ireland, again to assert his claims to the Scottish crown. Father McColl dwelt at some length upon the history of Scotland previous to the time at which the poem was written, and also upon Scott's style in describing subsequent events. He claimed that the author aside from Shakespeare, had few superiors in the English literary world, so far as character reading and description was concerned. Scott not only excels at description of external things but also at description of dispositions, feelings and moods of men.

The first Canto opens at the Castle of the Lord of the Isles, where a group of distinguished Scotchmen had gathered to be present at the nuptials of the Lord of the Castle to Edith of Lorne. Among the guests were the head of the McDougall Clan, John of Lorne, and DeArgentine, the representative of England, both men enemies of Bruce but for different reasons. To understand the feelings existing between the McDougalls and Bruce it will be necessary to explain that at some time previous to the spring of 1307, Bruce quarrelled with the Lord of Comyn in the Church at Dumfries and in the heat of anger struck him with his dagger. Rushing out of the church he met two of his allies, Kirkpatrick and Lindsay to whom he said he feared he had killed Comyn, and one of them replied that he would make sure that Comyn was despatched and the story runs that when the body of Comyn was found it had three swords through it. Bruce was censured severely for this act, not only by the people but by the church for desecrating the sanctuary; but especially was he condemned by the Lord of Lorne whose sister was the wife of Comyn. This was the chief cause of enmity between Bruce and the McDougalls. John of Lorne tried to make his cause stronger by marrying his sister, Edith to Ronald, the Lord of the Isles, and at the time of the poem, a marriage contract had been signed between them, although Ronald was in love with Isabella Bruce, Robert's sister. In the midst of the wedding festivities, but before the ceremony had taken place, three strangers in disguise, who had suffered shipwreck, sought refuge at the Castle, and according to the laws of Scottish hospitality, were taken in and given prominent places at the banquet. The Lord of Lorne, for some reason, became suspicious of the identities of the three strangers, who were none other than Robert Bruce, "Carrick's outlawed chief," calm, collected and slow to quarrel, his brother, Edward, a hot and impetuous man, and his sister, Isabella, a woman of excellent character and remarkable beauty. Lorne tried several stratagems to make the strangers disclose their identity and finally called upon his minstrel to sing a song entitled, "The Brooch of Lorne." The Brooch of Lorne had a history—The Lord of Lorne, having attacked Bruce personally, after his defeat at Methven, would have been worsted had it not been for two who came to the assistance of their lord. Bruce rid himself of them by two blows of his battle axe; but he was otherwise so pressed that he abandoned his mantle and brooch. The latter was long in the possession of the McDougalls but their version of its capture did not correspond with that of Bruce and left the impression that they had the best of the fight. The song commemorating this encounter rang along this strain and very naturally raised the ire of Edward Bruce and his retort left no doubt as to who the three strangers were. A heated discussion followed — DeArgentine claiming Bruce his prisoner in the name of England's King; Ronald, Lord of the Isles, protecting the Bruce in the interests of hospitality and the Lord of Lorne opposing this strongly. Each had his allies and Scott's description of the scene is splendid. A crisis was almost reached when the Abbot arrives who was to perform the marriage ceremony and the influence of the clergy in the interests of peace and Christianity is strongly brought out. The subsequent events are fully portrayed by Scott, but space will not allow a discussion of them. The wanderings of Bruce among the Hebrides, his success in raising an army and his final victory at the Battle of Bannockburn, are all dealt with fully and also the fate of Isabella Bruce and Edith of Lorne.

Father McColl introduced some delightful readings of sections of the poem, and thoroughly aroused the interest of his audience in the poem.

During the evening a splendid musical programme was run off:

ANOTHER WONDER OF SCIENCE

Biology Has Proved that Dandruff is Caused by a Germ.

Science is doing wonders these days in medicine as well as in mechanics. Since Adam lived, the human race has been troubled with Dandruff, for which no hair preparation has heretofore proved a successful cure until Newbro's Herpicide was put on the market. It is a scientific preparation that kills the germs that makes dandruff or scurf by digging into the scalp to get at the root of the hair, where it saps the vitality; causing itching scalp, falling hair, and finally baldness. Without dandruff hair must grow luxuriantly. It is the only destroyer of dandruff. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

Sold by McDermid and Jury, druggists; also Payne's Drug Store. One dollar bottles guaranteed.

LETTER FROM THE OLD COUNTRY

Mr. Howson Receives Missive Dealing With Home Conditions.

Mr. G. H. Howson has received a letter from Mr. Alfred Tindall, of Newmarket, England, dealing with immigration conditions at present. The epistle is as follows:

Mr. G. H. Howson.

Dear Sir, I am sorry that I have not yet been able to send you any more young men, but they are very slow in this part of the country in making up their mind, and also they seem to very much doubt their chance out there. Things are going from bad to worse in this country, and we are faced with a very heavy deficit in our national revenue. It is enough to make anyone sell up and come out. I am sending to you on April 9th, per Empress of Britain, a woman of 4 years with her nine-year-old boy, a widow, who for some past six years has been housekeeper in England. She has friends in Peterborough and seeks a good housekeeper's place in Ontario, near her friends if possible. I believe she is a very respectable and trustworthy person, so if you can see your way to secure her a comfortable home I shall be much obliged. We have just got a change of weather here and are now enjoying warm, Spring weather, after forty nights of frost and forty days of intermittent snow, etc. We shortly shall have a blaze of flowers. We have plenty of snowdrops and have had Christmas roses under a light covering of straw all the winter. Flat racing commences in England on Monday, so our trainers are all very busy to-day. I trust this will find you well. I am glad to report a clean bill of health at home.

Yours faithfully,
ALFRED TINDALL.

PRESENTATION TO SUPERINTENDENT

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Scott Remembered on Eve of Their Departure for Saskatoon by Gilmour Sunday School

Yesterday afternoon at the close of Sunday School at the Gilmour Memorial Church, the retiring Superintendent, Mr. F. W. Scott and Mrs. Scott, were presented with an address and a purse of twenty-five dollars. The address, which is as follows, was read by Miss A. M. Darling, and the presentation was made by Mr. W. Scott.

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Scott.
Smith Township.

Dear Friends:—We, the members and adherents of Gilmour Memorial Church feel that we cannot allow this opportunity to pass without acknowledging our high estimation of your noble characters, and recognising in a fitting way the value of your services to our church. As superintendent of the Sunday School you, Mr. Scott, have been most devoted and untiring in your efforts to make it a success. In the prayer meeting and young people's society your faithfulness and helpfulness have been a blessing to both pastor and people.

In reference to your estimable wife we cannot mention a branch of church work which will not sorely miss her presence and assistance; her many talents were cheerfully given to the service of the Master.

We feel that in your departure from us, we lose two of our most efficient helpers.

We ask you to accept this purse as a slight token of the love and esteem in which we hold you. As you may take up your home in the distant West, our earnest prayer will be that your consecrated gifts and powers may find full scope, and bring you blessing and honour of God and mankind.

(Signed) J. R. BENNER, Pastor.
G. W. MANN, Deacon.
A. M. CAMPBELL,

Smith,
April 4, 1909.

Mr. Scott made a suitable reply, expressing his thanks and appreciation of the kindness of the pastor and teachers. Mr. and Mrs. Scott leave in a few days for Saskatoon, where they will in future reside.

HE COMPLAINS ABOUT THE DUST

Citizen Wants to Know Where the Water Wagons Are?

To the Editor of The Examiner.

"Sprinkle, sprinkle, water cart,
How I wonder where thou art;
Never can I find thee nigh
When the dust is deep and dry."

From an economic viewpoint can our Mayor and Council not understand from the experience of the past that it is cheaper to get the cart out in proper time than to have the annual epidemic of sore throats caused by the early Spring dust. Not only does it cause the expenditure of hundreds, if not thousands, of dollars annually for doctor's bills in the treatment of these cases, but entails severe suffering and loss of time and not infrequently lays the foundation for consumption for which millions are being spent to combat.

"An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure."

Yours, etc.,
5th April, 1909. HEALTH.

NEITHER WINS THIS BET ON MARATHON

Sporting Editor, Examiner—

To decide a wager please give list of positions over tape line in Marathon at London, Eng. "A" claims Simpson was fifth position, "B" that he was eighth.

In the Olympic Marathon run in London, Eng., last July, the first seven men across the tape were as follows: First, Dorando Pietri, Italy; second, J. J. Hayes, United States; third, Hefferman, South Africa; fourth, Forshaw, United States; fifth, Roy Welton, United States; sixth, Billy Wood, Canada; seventh, Fred Simpson, Canada. Dorando, although the first to cross the line, was disqualified because he had been assisted so that the standing was: Hayes, first; Hefferman, second; Forshaw, third; Welton, fourth; Wood, fifth, and Simpson, sixth, so that neither A nor B is right in claiming that Simpson was fifth or eighth.

Baby Cupid.

By LITTELL M'CLUNG.

Copyrighted, 1908, by Associated Literary Press.

Mrs. Kenton repulsed his seriousness with a flirtatious laugh.

"Let's see! Why, you've known me only a month," the pretty widow objected. "You've never even seen the rest of the family!"

"You mean Henry?" he said.

"Of course I mean Henry!" she exclaimed. "Who else could I mean? The very idea of your starting to propose to me, Mr. Barton, without ever having seen Henry. The man who loves me must love him too. He must think that Henry is the handsomest, finest little fellow in the world.

"Oh, you don't realize what such a baby as Henry means to a young mother. He is her joy, her hope, her life, Mr. Barton. The man she loves must share her feelings about her child. You understand, don't you?"

The man nodded.

"But how am I to share your love for the child—how am I ever to meet him—if you don't give me the chance?" he demanded. "I call in the evening, and the nurse is just putting him to bed. I stop by in the afternoon, and you and Henry have gone out for a ride.

"Something always happens to keep Henry out of my sight. I've about come to believe that he is a myth, a prattling phantom that willfully eludes me."

"How can you, Mr. Barton, use the word 'prattling' when speaking of Henry?" she demanded, trying to keep a serious face. "The little dear doesn't prattle—he talks!"

"Indeed?" he exclaimed. "I hardly thought he was old enough to"—

"Certainly he's old enough," she interrupted. "He can say 'mamma' just beautifully, and at present I'm concentrating my energies on getting him to say 'dear mamma' and 'nursie' and other necessary words."

The light of inspiration flashed over James Barton's face.

"Why don't you teach him my name?" he asked eagerly. "It's very easy—just Jim, you know. Then when Henry and I do get acquainted we'll start on terms of friendship without any preliminaries!"

"Oh, what an idea!" she cooed. "Why, of course Henry shall be taught to say—Jim."

Barton noticed with a thrill the blush that tinged her cheek even as her tongue hesitated at the name.

"Well, when shall I see him?" he asked. "Let me make an engagement with you and Henry."

"Let me see—this is the 20th, isn't it?" she mused. "Well, on the 1st of next month, in the afternoon, the —the Young Mothers' club meets at my house. You can come around then and have tea with us. Henry will be wearing hi sbest frock in your honor."

"Fine and dandy!" declared Barton as he lifted his hat in farewell. "I'll be on hand, Mrs. Kenton, you may be sure."

On the eventful afternoon Barton came, as he had said, a smile of confidence lighting his face—a smile that, alas, faded as quickly as the blush of a debutante.

Mrs. Kenton greeted him with a warm hand clasp, and the next moment he found himself in a drawing room filled with young women. He was the only man in sight, and his knees trembled as the rapid fire introductions began.

But he faced, like a hero, the chorus of "Oh!" "Delighted!" and "How charming!" and came through with face unflushed.

Tea was served and the meeting gave promise of passing off pleasantly enough. But the blow fell when the president, a middle aged woman with a twinkle of humor in her eye, arose for the first formal announcement.

"Ladies," she said mildly, "several of us, as is our custom, have brought our children with us—the proper thing for young mothers to do. These children, as you are aware, are upstairs in care of two of our most loyal mothers.

"Each of us has listened with patience, be it said, to praises of another's prodigy. But now we are prepared to learn the truth. There is a gentleman in our midst. He shall see the children and make formal report to us as to which is the prettiest!"

Barton's heart went right down into his patent leathers as he turned upon Mrs. Kenton with a look of unforgiving reproach.

"Really, I didn't do it!" she whispered. "It's one of the surprises the club always springs on the hostess—'pon my soul it is!"

There was no doubting the sincerity of her tone, and Barton, summoning to his aid every fiber of his courage, rose to protest. The quick eyed president divined his intention, and she gave him no chance to utter a word.

"The young gentleman may wish to protest that he is not a good judge of children," she declared, "but we cannot listen to him. We all feel sure that he is a man of judgment and courage and that he will do what we ask of him."

A dozen smiles were suppressed as a dozen heads nodded approval. Barton's eye flashed, for the humor of the situation had not appealed to him.

"I shall not protest, ladies," he said with quiet determination. "On the contrary, I shall be very glad to pick out the prettiest baby for you. And, furthermore, I am prepared to face the consequences, whatever they may be!"

The president smiled and appointed a committee to escort Barton to the nursery. Soon he was the center of six contented infants, who were toddling and crawling about over the floor in care of two guardian mothers.

The impromptu nurses were sworn to secrecy, and Barton was given a long blue ribbon to tie on the arm of the baby he thought the prettiest. Then he was left alone with the infants.

He realized full well that, while it all might be a huge joke with the mothers, for him it was about the most serious moment of his life.

"If I miss giving this ribbon to Beth Kenton's baby the chances are she'll never speak to me again," he muttered. "I know hers is the prettiest, but how under the sun am I to know which is hers? Babies all look pretty much alike to me!"

With the slip of ribbon clutched between his trembling fingers he began to scan intently, hopefully, one by one, the faces of the babies. He found no distinguishing marks on the first three, but at the fourth he hesitated, and his breath came faster.

Surely those large, inquiring blue eyes were the eyes of Mrs. Kenton, and of a certainty that delicate, finely chiseled little nose was very like the nose of Mrs. Kenton.

"Here's where I win hands down!" he breathed, stifling his conscience. "I don't care a rap whether this chap is really the best looking or not—he gets the prize."

He reached out his arms toward the child, when a voice behind stopped him.

"Jim-Jum-Jum-Jim—ma-ma!"

It was certainly his name as plain as accents could get it. He turned to behold a lively tot pawing the air with his chubby hands.

"Jim-Jum-ma-ma!" the baby cried, delighted at being noticed.

With one swoop Barton grabbed the child, for the first glance told him beyond doubt that this was Mrs. Kenton's baby. With the youngster in his arms he rushed down the stairs and broke in upon the startled young mothers.

"Ladies," he exclaimed triumphantly, "I pick this child as the prettiest of all!"

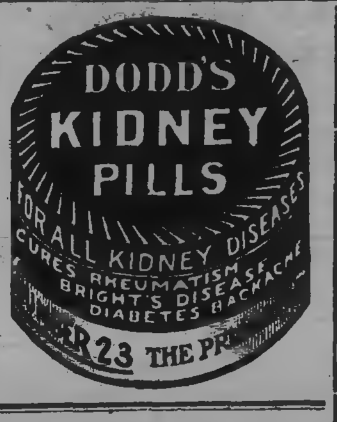
"Oh, you dear, dear man!" whispered the hostess, taking the baby into her arms and kissing him energetically.

But Barton did not answer until all the other mothers had gone. Then he said the thing most natural.

"Don't you think your boy might be taught to say 'papa?'" he asked with more sincerity than humor in his voice.

"Perhaps so," replied Mrs. Kenton, smiling happily. "Come, Henry," she coaxed, "say 'papa' for mamma, won't you?"

But Henry only cooed "Jum-Jim-mam-ma-Jim!"



MANY DON'T KNOW HEART AFFECTED.

More People than Aware of It Have Heart Disease.

"If examinations were made of everyone, people would be surprised at the number of persons walking about suffering from heart disease."

This startling statement was made by a doctor at a recent inquest. "I should not like to say that heart disease is as common as this would imply," said the expert, "but I am sure that the number of persons going about with weak hearts must be very large."

"Hundreds of people go about their daily work on the verge of death, and yet do not know it. It is only when the shock comes that kills them that the unsuspected weakness of the heart is made apparent."

"But undoubtedly heart weakness, not disease, is more prevalent nowadays. I should think that the stress of living, the wear and rush of modern business life, have a lot to do with heart trouble."

There is no doubt but that this is correct, and we would strongly advise any one suffering in any way from heart trouble to try a course of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

FLUTTERING OF THE HEART.

Mrs. G. M. White, Williamstown, N.B., writes: "I was troubled with weak spells and fluttering of the heart. I was so bad I could scarcely lie down in bed. I procured a box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and they helped me so much I got another box and it has made a final cure. I cannot speak too highly of them. I think they are worth their weight in gold."

Et Cetera.

He is a poor little neglected boy whose mamma is so busy with mothers' meetings and club conventions and such important matters that she really hasn't time to attend to her children. This little boy was entertaining a casual caller while his mother was upstairs putting the finishing touches to her toilet. Said the little boy, whose own toilet was sadly in need of attention:

"What does e. t. c. mean?"

"E. t. c.?" asked the caller.

"Yes," said the little boy. "It's a sort of a word. It's in a book I was reading."

"Oh!" said the caller. "Etc. is an abbreviation. It is Latin. It stands for et cetera."

The little boy looked puzzled. "I'm not in Latin yet," he said.

"Et cetera," explained the caller, "means—well, it means 'and so on.'"

The little boy was thoughtful for a moment, and then he said:

"I wish my mamma could find time to et cetera the buttons on my pants."

And, taking in his disheveled appearance, the visitor murmured, "Amen."—New York Times.

SOMEWHAT OF A POLITICIAN.

Young Liberal Had the Last Laugh on Hon. Wm. Templeman.

They are telling a good story at Ottawa apropos of the return to the House of Commons of Hon. William Templeman, Minister of Inland Revenue and of Mines, who having been defeated in Victoria, B.C., on Oct. 26 last, was compelled to take refuge in Comox-Atlin. It seems that some time last summer, just before the close of the long session, a gentleman, who was then a private citizen, but is now a member of the House, blew into Ottawa one morning on "departmental business," that description of errands to the capital which covers a multitude of excuses. Among other departments he visited was that of the Inland Revenue, and in course of time he was admitted to the august presence of the Minister, who, having heard the request, whatever it may have been, turned to his visitor and said:

"Are you anything of a politician, sir?"

The stranger modestly replied that he thought he was, but as he did not give an inkling of the fact that he was the prospective candidate of the Liberal party, the Minister said: "Well, sir, I think that before I can give assent to this proposition of yours you had better have it endorsed by the executive of your county."

And the stranger departed in a high state of dudgeon. But he had his revenge a few months later, when on election night he sat down in his home town and penned a despatch to Mr. Templeman something like:

"I may not be much of a politician, but I defeated my man. What about you?"

The name of the sender of this magnificent piece of repartee is kept secret at his own request, but he was one of the band of Liberals who defeated a Tory stalwart in Western Ontario.

Oriental Rugs.

The principal types of oriental rugs are Caucasian, Turkish, Persian, Turkoman and Indian. Sir George Birdwood is of the opinion that, whatever their type of ornamentation may be, a deep and complicate symbolism, originating in Babylonia and possibly India, pervades every denomination of oriental carpets. Thus the carpet itself prefigures space and eternity and the general pattern or filling, as it is technically termed, the fleeting finite universe of animated beauty. Every color used has its significance, and the design, whether mythological or natural, bestial or floral, has its hidden meaning. The very irregularities, either in drawing or coloring, to be observed in almost every oriental carpet and invariably in Turkoman carpets are seldom accidental, the usual deliberate intention being to avert the evil eye and insure good luck.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

A Seasonable Remedy.

A poor woman, understanding that Oliver Goldsmith was a physician and hearing of his great humanity, solicited him by letter to send her something for her husband, who had lost his appetite and was reduced to a most melancholy state. The good natured poet waited on her instantly and after some discourse with his patient found him sinking with sickness and poverty. The doctor told the honest pair that they would hear from him in an hour, when he would send them some pills which he believed would prove efficacious.

He immediately went home and put 10 guineas into a chip box with the following label: "These must be used as necessities require. Be patient and of good heart." He sent his servant with this prescription to the comfortless mourners, who found it contained a remedy superior to anything Galen or his disciples could ever administer.

Flying Navies.

In my judgment, the real significance of the recent more or less successful ventures in aerial navigation, so far as national defence is concerned, has apparently been overlooked—unless by those whose official duty it may appear to be to maintain discreet reticence on the subject. These tests suggest, if they have not yet fully demonstrated, that the flying ship has reduced, or promises soon to reduce, the floating ship to its least expression. What a submarine torpedo did for the Maine in Havana harbor a torpedo dropped from a balloon or flying machine would do for any vessel afloat.—J. C. Bayles in Cassier's.

A CHANGING INDUSTRY

CATTLE-RAISING IN WEST HAS ALTERED.

Days of Vast Herds on Boundless Grazing Lands Are Ending—Mixed Farmers Will Soon Be In Possession of the Land and Stock Raisers Will Have Replaced the Old-Fashioned Ranchers on a Big Scale.

For the last decade cattle ranching in the grazing lands of the West has been undergoing a transformation. Properly speaking, actual ranching—except perhaps in a few out-of-the-way places—must soon cease to exist in the Canadian West. Some thirty-five years ago the first big bunch of cattle was driven from Montana into the Northwest Territories, to range on the prairies, where the buffalo were still in great herds. In the early eighties many thousands of cattle were trailed in from the western States, the companies by whom these herds had been purchased leasing immense tracts of land for merely nominal rentals—usually one cent per acre. Small settlers—especially those disposed to try farming—were vigorously discouraged; not only that, but were promptly driven off certain lands and their log houses pulled down.

The cattle companies' monopolies lasted for a time, and then gradually smaller men drifted in and settled. But even these intruders were a mere drop in the bucket, and up till about twelve years ago the vast open spaces of the famous "Southern Range" of Alberta were unfenced and unsettled.

Each little ranching community was more or less a nucleus of settlement, but a short distance from one of these towns and the traveler emerged from the fenced road allowance, with its civilized conformity to straight lines, out on to the trails, which wandered away zig-zag and irregular over the range — the ocean of wild prairie, where every one's stock wandered in common. Here and there, on accessible river bottoms or by springs, but far separated, were ranches, with perhaps considerable pasture fenced in. But the great stretches of the plains remained as of yore, and the horseman might ride many a mile, encountering nothing but bunches of grazing cattle and bands of half-wild horses. Then came the building of the Crow's Nest Pass Railway, and the tide of immigration began to slowly trickle in. Slowly it came at first, with few farmers as yet.

Most of those who came were men who had been fired with tales of ranching in Southern Alberta. They had a little capital, which they heard could be profitably invested in a bunch of stock, which they could graze rent-free on the prairie lands. The work—principally haying for a short time during the summer, and riding for the rest of the time—sounded attractive. It was much easier and more interesting than farming, and the free life appealed to them. But it was not to last. Soon the most favored localities — those near the Rockies—began to get congested; fences stretched out more and more; every year the pasturage was reduced, and much bad feeling was evinced in the division of the remaining grass. Old trails stopped dead at barbed wire barriers, and the pioneer, seeing his means of livelihood going, cursed the glowing accounts that had brought in so many settlers.

Cattle ranching nowadays has pretty well come down to stock-farming, and those who contemplate going into the business of raising cattle had better figure upon buying land. One may still obtain locations adjacent to large stretches of range, by going far back, but the man who relies on the permanency of this free grazing is liable to be unpleasantly disillusioned. New branch railroads — building and projected—are continually drawing settlers into places hitherto inaccessible to the farmer. And in spite of all opposition the farmer is bound to follow wherever the rancher pioneers it. Therefore, the stockman of the future must own his land and consequently run a comparatively small herd.

Many, bearing in mind the large herds of former days, when the country was practically all range, will insist that the proposition of buying land and feeding one's stock cannot be profitable. As a matter of fact it is more remunerative than the primitive way. Barring certain exceptions of good years and the more favored districts, the money invested in large ranching concerns did not pay high interest. Ranching methods which applied very successfully south in the States, some hundreds of miles below the boundary, were not suited to Canada. The climate of the Northwest, even in the Chinook-tempered region, is necessarily colder than that of Montana and Wyoming. The early cattlemen tried to ignore this. Some winters were favorable and the herds pulled through in good shape. But there was always a terrible uncertainty about the weather.

The centre of cattle ranging to-day has shifted pretty well to the Medicine Hat district. But, though the grass is good, the big open plains of eastern Alberta (with the exception of localities such as the Cypress Hills), lack the shelter that the foothill country affords. And, as in the case of the Macleod and High River districts, the agriculturalist is coming in continually, it is only a question of time everywhere until the rider gives place to the ploughman, and the stack of wild bunch-grass is superseded by the modern silo.

With the passing of the range, the number of cattle has not fallen off as one might imagine. It is annually increasing. Last year the number of cattle exported from the western provinces was getting on for 100,000. Of these a very large proportion—the pick—go to England, while the next best come to eastern Canada. The unfortunate citizens of prairie towns get the culls. They are regaled on ancient cow and venerable bull beef; for which, by the way, the local butchers do not forget to charge top prices. For western Canada, up-to-date in all things, has its own little imitation of the Yankee beef trust.

"Bronchitis"
Is generally the result of a cold caused by exposure to wet and inclement weather, and is a very dangerous inflammatory affection of the bronchial tubes.
The Symptoms are tightness across the chest, sharp pains and a difficulty in breathing, and a secretion of thick phlegm, at first white, but later of a greenish or yellowish color.
Neglected Bronchitis is one of the most general causes of Consumption.
Cure it at once by the use of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.
Mrs. D. D. Miller, Allandale, Ont., writes: "My husband got a bottle of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup for my little girl who had Bronchitis. She wheezed so badly you could hear her from one room to the other, but it was not long until we could see the effect your medicine had on her. That was last winter when we lived in Toronto.
"She had a bad cold this winter, but instead of getting another bottle of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, I tried a home made receipt which I got from a neighbor but found that her cold lasted about twice as long. My husband highly praises 'Dr. Wood's,' and says he will see that a bottle of it is always kept in the house."
It is put up in a yellow wrapper, three pine trees the trade mark, the price 25 cts.

Russia's Naval Reform.

St. Petersburg papers, following the recent retirement of thirteen Russian admirals, express the hope that this will be only the beginning of a clean sweep of all those naval officials who more than General Kuropatkin and the army officials are regarded as responsible for the terrible defeats in the Japanese war. The Novoe Vremya hears that, in addition to the thirteen admirals already cashiered from the Russian navy, eight more will shortly be dismissed from the service. In all, says that paper, 117 higher officers in the naval service will be dismissed.

Trying the Candidate.

On one occasion a young Irish novice, who had almost completed his preparation in Ireland, came to Canada desirous of entering the priesthood and was sent to Dean Harris, then stationed at Newmarket, for final tutoring ere he received orders. It chanced that an old friend of the Dean's, a Toronto lawyer who, though well up on all questions of theology and doctrine, was notoriously a scoffer, visited Newmarket on legal business. Meeting him the Dean said, "You're the very man I want," and invited him to supper, instructing him that afterward he was to start an argument, taking the strongest agnostic ground. Instructions were followed, and the Dean sat back leaving the business of apologetics to the novice.

The young Irishman did very well. A week or so later the Dean was in to see the lawyer and thanked him, saying he was satisfied with the pupil's defence of the Faith.

"But," he added, "the young fellow was terribly shocked that I should harbor under my roof such a blasphemer."

"Well, what did you tell him?" asked the lawyer.

"Oh, I just told him that you were a little touched in the head," said the Dean.

Another Ibsen Story.

A week or so ago readers of this department learned something of the peculiarities of Ibsen. This is an absolutely true tale also. A few years ago a young Dane of good family came to Canada to make his career, and stayed for a while in Toronto. A newspaper man who knew him and was much interested in the great dramatist asked him whether he had ever seen Ibsen, who, it will be remembered, lived for some years in Copenhagen.

"Oh, yes," he said, "when I was a boy he frequently visited my father's home at Aalborg."

"What was he like?" asked the Ibsenite.

"Well, what I chiefly remember about him," said the Dane, "is that he liked to tell very prosy stories after dinner, and used to get very angry if we didn't laugh at them."

HIS EYES OR HIS JOB.

How Lord Strathcona Was Sent Back to Labrador by Autocrat.

In a country where a great corporation has become the fetich that the Hudson Bay Co. has to Canada, it is perhaps only natural that stories connected with its discipline of employes should be only half told, if told at all. There is one of these half-told stories connected with Lord Strathcona's boy days on the Labrador, which is special favorite with all his biographers. It is a rule most strictly enforced that no company man may leave his post without having received written consent from headquarters. In this isolated Labrador station communication with Montreal was a matter of six months' hard travel each way.

The time came when Donald Smith suffered from snow blindness. Lack of proper treatment aggravated the trouble, until it became so painful that he determined to go to Montreal to consult an oculist, trusting to the serious necessity to palliate his offence against company discipline. Long before he reached Montreal, Sir George Simpson, the governor, had heard of his coming, and went out to meet him.

"Well, young man, why are you not at your post?" the governor asked.

"My—my eyes, sir," was the faltering reply. "They got so very bad I've come to see the doctor."

"And who gave you permission to leave your post?" the governor thundered.

"No one," was the reply.

"Then, sir," said the autocrat of the fur trade, "if it is a question between your eyes and your service in the company, you'll take my advice and return this instant to your post!"

Not an instant did Smith hesitate. Suffering though he was, unsupplied with food, and his dogs exhausted by the thousand-mile trip overland, he turned square about in his tracks, and, without so much as setting foot within the confines of Montreal, started back on the dreary journey to his Labrador post.

Long before the journey was half over, his last dog died. Worse still, his provisions were exhausted, and his incipient blindness had grown worse, until his sight was gone entirely. And thus, blind, starving, forced to live on bark and such game as his Indian companion could find, he finished the last 500 miles on foot, his lacerated feet leaving their print in blood on the snow at every step.

Advises Hindu Labor.

A Hindu, by name Saint Nihal Singh, writes in this strain to Canada-West Magazine:

Canada not only needs servants, but its growing industries and manifold railroad activities demand men of brains and brawn. The manner in which the Dominion is expanding industrially and the way railroad operations are being carried on in the country, have never before been equalled. Canada has produced captains of industry capable of launching and supervising these gigantic enterprises. The Dominion, however, lacks the rank and file laborers, who, under the impetus of the initiative of Canadian promoters, would develop the rich resources of the land.

Certain types of Hindus make splendid factory and railroad hands. These men could not but be desirable in Canada. Thousands of miles of railroad tracks have been laid in India during the last twenty years. East Indian laborers, experienced in railroad making, are bound to be of benefit to the Dominion. Similarly, many parts of Hindostan have been settled recently by the opening up of irrigation works, devised and executed by the Government; also vast tracts of land, formerly occupied by timber, have been rendered habitable. The East Indian wage-earner acquainted with this phase of work, would undoubtedly prove an invaluable acquisition to Canada.

THE BAFFLED CHAMPION.

I could be champeen of our town—
I've licked about a dozen.
I started in on Alfred Brown
An' Alfred's city cousin.
I've licked 'em all exceptin' one.
There's nothin' that I'd ruther
Be doin' than to get it done—
But Pudge is Rosy's brother.

Pudge Jones is twice as big as me,
But, just the same, I'd whip him.
I'd lead my left, then bend my knee
An' whirl my foot an' trip him.
But when Pudge double dares me to
I always haf to mosey.
I sometimes wish I'd never knew
That he was kin to Rosy.

Aw, no! She ain't my girl at all!
I see her at the parties.
Them other fellers has their girls,
The crazy bunch o' smarties!
You bet I've licked 'em every one!
My left swing is a twister.
An' long ago I'd made Pudge run—
But Rosy is his sister.

Aw, pshaw! Doggone it now! I'm not—
I ain't at all her feller!
The last boy told me that he got
A whack right on the smeller.
I've whipped lots bigger boys 'n me.
Some run an' told my mother.
An' I can whip Pudge Jones, but he—
Well, he is Rosy's brother.

—Wilbur D. Nesbit in Harper's Magazine.

A Prince's I O U.

An I O U for 200,000 marks was put up at public auction a few days ago at Wiesbaden and fetched the handsome sum of 700 marks. The signatory to the interesting document is a well known German prince, and there was an idea, which proved to be ill founded, that his relatives would honor the signature in order to avoid publicity.

Canadians Not Colonists.

A well-known Canadian journalist and author has been calling attention to the fact, already referred to more than once or twice, that Canada is not now and never was a colony. The British North America Act says: "The Provinces of Canada, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick shall form and be one Dominion under the name of Canada; and . . . those three Provinces shall form and be one Dominion under that name accordingly." It would seem that when the Dominion was formed these settlements ceased to be colonies, and became the Dominion of Canada, therefore, there is no necessity for the constant reference to Canada as a colony, which is misleading, and somewhat irritating to Canadians. Canada is a nation in the making—a nation within a nation.—Standard of Empire.

WIRELESS MESSAGES.

Washington to Have the Greatest Tower Ever Erected.

The navy department at Washington has devised a system by means of which it will be possible to transmit messages by wireless telegraphy half-way across the globe without relaying.

It is its intention to build at Washington the greatest tower ever erected for the transmission of messages by wireless. This is to be 400 feet high and capable of sending messages by day or night, in summer weather and in the worst of storms, for a distance of 8,000 miles.

Those who bid on the tower are free to make it out of paper or steel, as they choose, but of whatever material is used it must be guaranteed to flash messages those 8,000 miles at all times without interruption over a test period of a full year. There have been many experiments along this line, and its success demonstrated. The Germans have built a long distance wireless tower at Nauen, just outside of Berlin. Another is being built at Milan. The celebrated Eiffel tower in Paris is being put to this use.

The navy department is very particular about its equipment, and, while there are three towers on the Atlantic coast which are able at times to send messages 2,000 miles to Colon, still they are not satisfactory in all kinds of weather. It is a peculiar fact that bright sunlight interferes with the transmission of messages, as may a storm, and these are conditions that must be completely overcome in the new wireless tower.

It is planned as soon as the first great wireless tower at Washington has shown itself able to handle long distance messages to abandon all the small stations along the Atlantic coast, and the tower at Washington will be duplicated at Colon, Hawaii, the Philippine Islands and wherever similar erections may be found necessary.

While wireless messages do not travel well over land at present—and scientists are very much in the dark as to why they don't—it is known that the radius may be increased by higher towers, more powerful electrical machines and perfect, rapid spark breakers. Results are the object of the navy department, and it is willing to ask the "whys" and "wherefores" afterward.

An effort was recently made to utilize the Washington monument for long distance wireless messages, but President Roosevelt did not approve of the plan, and the high tower which is to be built at the Washington navy yard is the outcome.

It will not be long, therefore, before the department will be able to communicate with any of the ships of either the Atlantic or Pacific fleet and hold speech with them just as though they were only a few miles apart instead of thousands.—Harper's.

Maud Muller Scoops the Snow.

Maud Muller on a winter's day went out to scoop the snow away. She cleaned the steps and sidewalk too. Her fingers and her nose were blue.

The judge came walking down the street. On Maudie he had long been sweet. He doffed his hat and made a bow. His feet slipped out; he came down—swow!

Maud used all diplomatic craft, but spite of all of that she laughed. She simply doubled up and shrieked until away the old judge creaked.

You see, the judge's wig came loose and left him looking like the deuce; also his false teeth were jarred out and scattered here and there about.

Maud Muller daily shovels snow and sometimes murmurs soft and low: "Just think! He tried my hand to win, but for that slip it might have been."—Chicago Post.

New Artificial Stone.

According to the Denver Post, a marble-like material, declared to be a great advance over other artificial stone, is now made from the waste slag of blast furnaces mixed with a little lime. The slag is crushed and powdered, one-seventh part of quicklime is added, and the mass, made into a paste with water, is pressed into molds of metal. The blocks so formed on drying have the consistency of chalk. They are placed in iron cylinders from which the air is pumped out and then replaced with carbonic acid, and after a few days in this gas the hydrate of lime becomes carbonated, binding the mass into a rock of great hardness. The finished stone takes a high polish.

Neglected Colds Lead to Consumption
Unless a complete cure is effected the inflammation passes rapidly to the throat's bronchial tubes and then to the lungs.
You can't make new lungs any more than you can make new fingers or a new nose—hence consumption is practically incurable.
But Catarrh can be cured, except in its final and always fatal stage.
Catarrh sufferers, meaning those with colds, sore throat, bronchial trouble, etc., can all be cured right at home by inhaling "Catarrhozone."
In using Catarrhozone you don't take medicine into the stomach—you just breathe a healing piney vapor direct to the lungs and air passages.
Catarrhozone Guaranteed to Cure
The purest balsams and the greatest antiseptics are thus sent to every spot where catarrhal trouble exists—germs are killed, foul secretions are destroyed, nature is given a chance and cure comes quickly.
Colds and throat troubles can't last if the pure healing vapor of Catarrhozone is breathed—sneezing and coughing cease at once, because irritation is removed.
Use Catarrhozone to prevent—use it to cure your winter ills—it's pleasant, safe, and guaranteed in every case, 25c., 50c., and $1.00 sizes. Sold by all dealers. By mail from the Catarrhozone Company, Kingston, Ont.

More bread and Better bread
—And the Reason for it
A STRONG FLOUR can only be made from strong wheat. Manitoba hard wheat is acknowledged the strongest in the world—and that is the kind used for Purity Flour.
But that's not all. Every grain of this wheat contains both high-grade and low-grade properties. In separating the high-grade parts from the low-grade the Western Canada Flour Mills put the hard wheat through a process so exacting that not a single low-grade part has the remotest chance of getting in with the high-grade.
Of course this special process is more expensive to operate but it means a lot to Purity flour users—that's why we use it.
It means that Purity Flour is made entirely of the highest-grade flour parts of the strongest wheat in the world.
It means a high-class, strong flour and therefore yields "more bread and better bread."
Purity may cost a little more than some flours, but results prove it the cheapest and most economical after all.

I HEREBY CERTIFY that I have drawn by my own hand ten samples of the St. Lawrence Sugar Refining Co's Extra STANDARD GRANULATED SUGAR, indiscriminately taken from four lots of about 150 barrels each and six lots of about 450 bags each. I have analyzed same and find them uniformly to contain 99-99/100 to 100 per cent of pure cane sugar, with no impurities whatever.

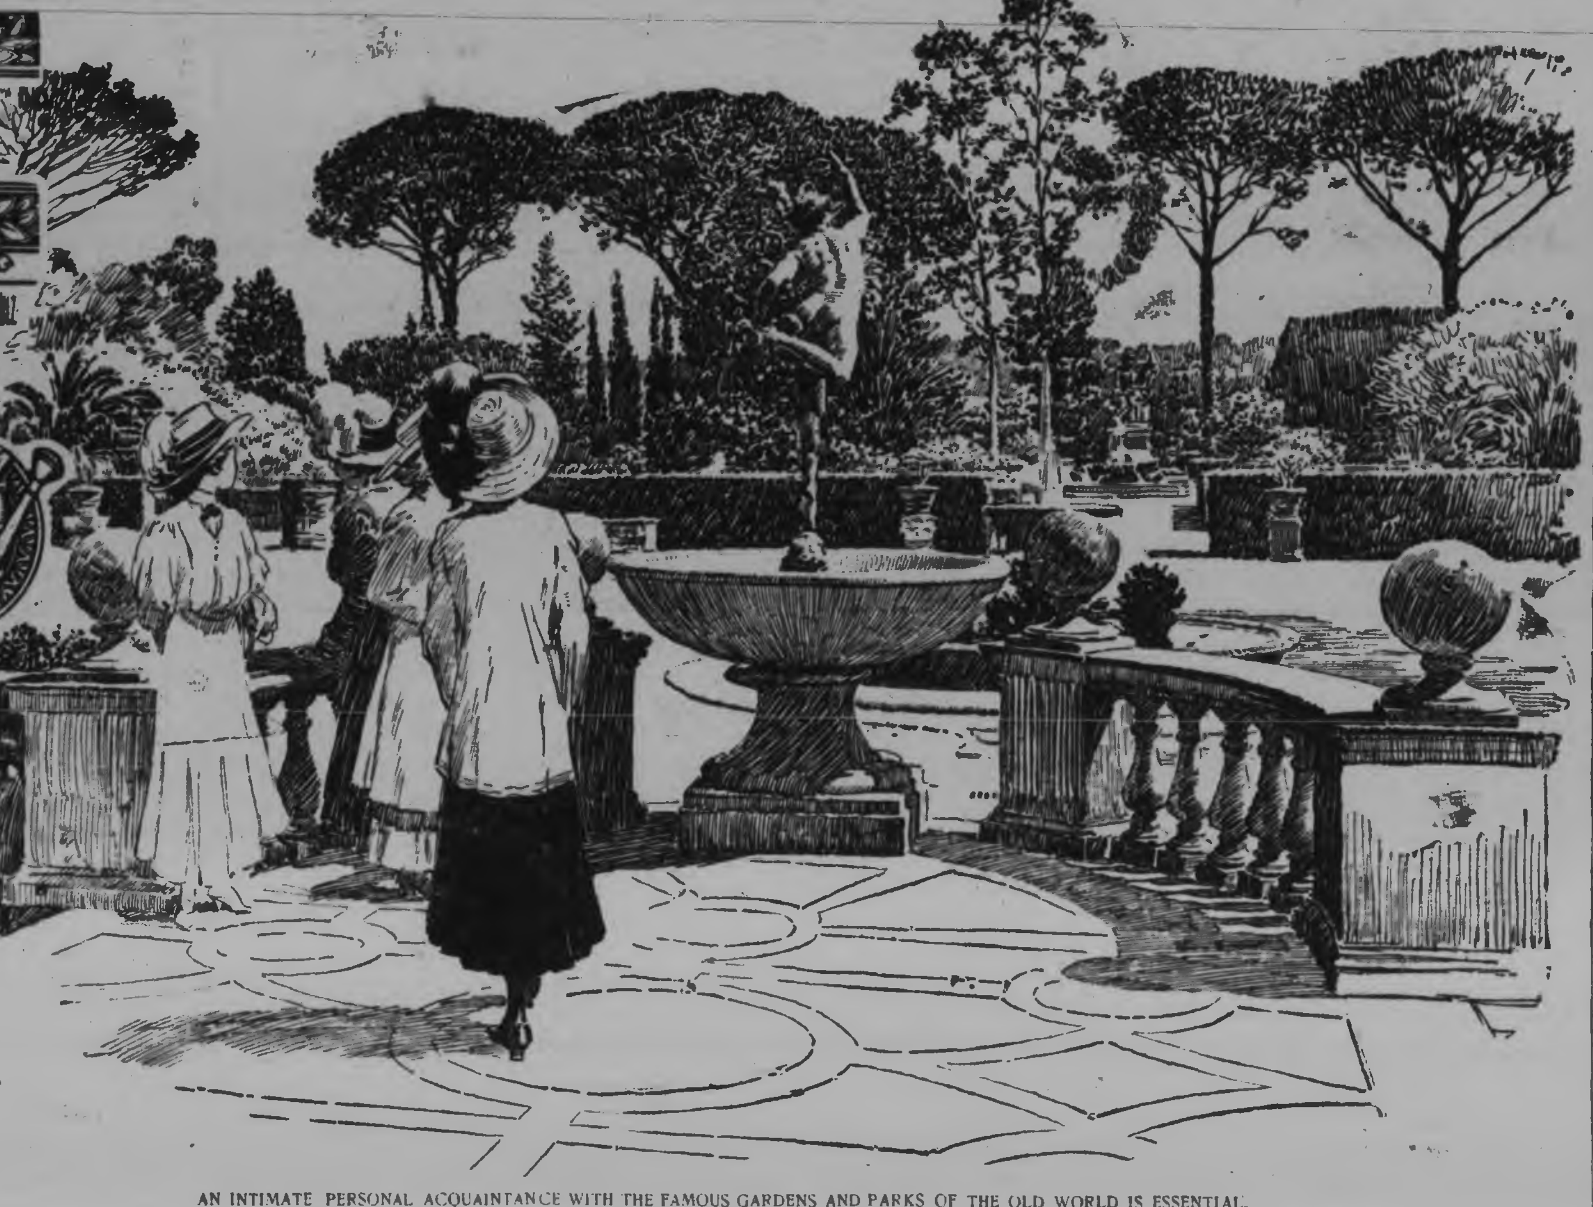
LANDSCAPE GARDENING

A FASHIONABLE OCCUPATION FOR THE YOUNG GIRL



AN INTIMATE PERSONAL ACQUAINTANCE WITH THE FAMOUS GARDENS AND PARKS OF THE OLD WORLD IS ESSENTIAL.

TO enjoy country life to the full a girl should have her own garden, but to thoroughly enjoy and obtain the best results from that garden she must have a knowledge of the science of landscape gardening. The mere digging and planting in the soil is a delightful pastime once she has become interested and eager to see the tiny seeds grow up and develop into wondrous, tender or gorgeous colored flowers, but this pleasure is as nothing compared to the fascination in being able to make a carefully drawn plan of a garden or park blossom into a living thing of trees, shrubs and flowers, and it is this pleasure which comes many, many times each year to the professional landscape gardener.

Few girls may care to devote the necessary length of time to study to become expert landscape gardeners, but every girl who spends her summers on a large or small country place could not but be glad to know the rudiments of this science and have sufficient grasp of the subject to be able to plan and lay o[illegible] plot of land of her own, even though the larger gardens on the estate may not be entrusted to her care.

Yet even to be able to plan out a small flower garden requires a certain amount of knowledge. It must be known, for example, just what flowers will grow in what kind of soil or climate, or what may be added to the soil to improve its quality so that a new kind of seed may be planted with a certain amount of surety that it will spring up into life. Here, needless to state, a botanical familiarity with all sorts and kinds of flowers must be acquired, that it may be known what to select for the different beds and what colored flowers to allow to grow side by side and as backgrounds for each other.

A NATURALLY good, artistic sense is essential also in the landscape gardener, for taste in colors can never be cultivated; it must be born in the soul of the artist. And, next, one must be able to draw with fair exactness to be able to make out a plan before the flowers are planted, setting out clearly just where each bulb or collection of seeds is to go.

Many schoolgirls are now devoting several afternoons a week to courses in the preliminaries of landscape gardening, while others who have left school and are not to "come out" for another year are working hard all day and every day at this most interesting branch of study.

When it is taken into consideration that the professional landscape gardener must go through a two years' course at a horticultural college or school, where he must become thoroughly grounded in all such subjects as botany, geology, physics, chemistry, geometry and geometrical drawing, it can then be understood how a short course of study such as a schoolgirl can afford the time for will give her scarcely more than a mere outline of the subject and an intense desire to find out more for herself during the summer months through study and experiment.

It is maintained by many that landscape gardening is the coming profession for women, and already there are numberless applicants in this field. Surely there is no profession so peculiarly suited to the natural capabilities of a girl of refinement with a good education back of her, and mere man will soon have to take a secondary place in this art once woman, with her natural sense of the artistic, intuitive knowledge of colors and instinctive idea of space, commences to really compete with him in this line.

THERE is scarcely a branch of school training which once acquired will not be of value in the study of landscape gardening. A study of languages is almost essential, that the botanical names of the trees and flowers may be easily learned; all the sciences need to be studied; knowledge of architecture and sculpture is required, that the park or garden may be in correct proportion with and position in reference to the house, while a true sense of color combinations and contrasts can only be had through a familiarity with the best in the world of paintings.

The more complete and thorough all around school education a girl has been given, therefore, the better fitted will she be to take up this profession and the easier will the course of study be for her.

Travel, too, is a requisite of the would be professional landscape gardener. Only through intimate, personal acquaintance with the famous gardens and parks of the Old World—England, France and Italy—their points of similarity and their differences, can it become possible to sift out features from them all which can be made to fit in suitably with the surroundings and the climatic conditions of this country.

Here again the average American girl is peculiarly well situated to take up this profession, for a six months' or a year's sojourn in Europe before she is to come out is to-day considered very nearly as important a part of her education as is her entire school course of ten years.

WHY not make up your minds now to make a study of the gardens of the Old World, you girls who are to spend the coming summer in Europe? If this is a second trip such an intention will add immensely to the delight of sightseeing and, whereas the last trip was taken up with tremendously interesting but exhausting visits to the galleries and cathedrals, let the greater part of the time this year be spent among the gardens and the beautiful parks of the wonderful old estates of England, of the chateaux of France and the palaces and villas of Italy.

If this is done there will not be the feeling when autumn comes that although the summer has been one of greatest interest and pleasure in the knowledge which has been acquired there is a conviction, nevertheless, that a summer spent away from the country, with its woods and trees and flowers, is not a summer at all, and a half defined sense of disappointment and longing for the outdoor life that is now an impossibility for many months to come.

That our English cousins get more out of life in their country places, where they stay for perhaps nine months out of the year, than does the American girl, whose every hour of the whole winter, and of the greater part of the autumn and spring as well, is taken up with courses of study of one kind and another, will not be granted for a moment. It must be acknowledged, however, that in their enjoyment of outdoor life and knowledge of how to obtain that enjoyment there is much to be said in favor of the life of English girls.

ONE of the chief delights of living in the country is the familiarity that may be acquired with the garden, and it is interesting to note that landscape gardening is fast becoming a favorite profession in England among girls who, brought up amid surroundings of wealth and luxury, are for some reason forced to seek a means of livelihood, and that already they are competing on equal footing with the men in that line.

In this country, where old estates are few, and a desire for parks, gardens and terraced lawns is of comparatively recent origin, there is tremendous scope for the landscape gardener.

For a girl who must of necessity seek some means of livelihood, and who is at heart a lover of nature and outdoor life, certainly no profession could be more congenial nor could she find any work so little fraught with the various disagreeable and unpleasant incidents of the average business career.

So the girl, on the other hand, who desires simply an interest in life, while she can feel fairly certain of being always cared for luxuriously, would nevertheless be glad of the knowledge that should an emergency arise she was possessed of some capability upon which she could fall back; for such a girl a knowledge of the science of landscape gardening would be quite ideal.

If she is to have her own country place, or may be allowed by her parents to practice her art on the grounds of their country home, she might well undertake the two years' course at some good school of landscape gardening and horticulture.

From a brief special course of study at any reliable school, supplemented by a tour of the gardens abroad, any girl can acquire sufficient knowledge of the subject to derive infinite pleasure for herself, and a brief course of study giving the bare rudiments of the science can always be supplemented with a more thorough course should the desire arise to become expert in the fascinating art of gardening

Easily Made Sachet.

A MOST charming and enduring sachet can be made from the foliage of the lemon verbena. Every one knows how delicious its fragrance is, but few are aware that its delicate perfume may be caught and kept indefinitely. Take a few sprays from the plant and, removing the leaves from the stems, spread the former out on paper and place in the sun to dry.

Choose a morning when the sun is warm, for the heat while drying the leaves increases their perfume; but if you have the inclination to get at the matter and the day is cloudy you can achieve the drying process by resorting to the register or the radiator. But the dear little old lady who discovered this sachet and is generously passing it on scorns artificial heat and believes that nothing so preserves the delicacy and delicious aroma of the verbena as the sun.

PRACTICAL TALKS BY THE APRIL GRANDMOTHER

"EARLY to bed and early to rise makes a young girl healthy and pretty," misquoted the April Grandmother, as she pointed to the clock, whose hands indicated ten o'clock at night. "A young girl should get several hours of sleep before midnight. That is her beauty harvesting time, and if ordinarily healthy she should wake up next morning feeling good humored and eager to get out of doors or to engage in some active occupation. Every human being of any age requires at least eight hours of sleep out of every twenty-four, but young people need more than that allowance and when deprived of it they soon begin to lose vitality. This is particularly true of girls, who have more nervous excitability than have boys.

"The condition of the sleeping room is of immense importance to the health. At least one window should be sufficiently wide open to permit of a free circulation of air, and this rule should be observed even if the night happens to be exceptionally cold, for lack of ventilation is a most insidious enemy of sleep, and the victim of insomnia who lies staring into the darkness is likely to become depressed, imagining all sorts of troubles which sometimes are not wholly dismissed when daylight appears.

"Moreover, unless the room is kept sweet and cool the sleeper will be conscious of a suffocating feeling, which will not only cause her to emit snores by breathing through her mouth rather than through her nose, but on waking up tired instead of refreshed she will discover dark circles beneath her eyes and in her face those fine lines that blaze the trail for early wrinkles.

"It is a mistake to have too luxurious a mattress, but a bed should be so long and wide that when lying flat with outstretched arms and legs the body may attain that absolute relaxation which is most restful. The coverlet should be sufficiently warm, but not burdensome, and the head should be almost on a level with the feet. High pillows not only obstruct free breathing, but they are said to prove injurious to the spine.

"Lamps should be banished from the sleeping room, not only on account of the odor of the oil but because the eyes should have a prolonged period of absolute rest from all light and because most kinds of artificial illumination consume the oxygen. Even if the occupant is a semi-invalid, it will be wiser to keep a candle and matches on the bed stand than to be dependent upon a lamp, however dim or well shaded.

"Girls who go in enthusiastically for athletics sometimes find themselves unable to sleep at night. They are wakeful either from nervous excitement or from a headache. If the muscles are aching from too many hours of riding, bowling or skating, before going to bed it is a good plan to take a bath in warm water perfumed with aromatic leaves. If too strenuous exercise has induced a headache it may be relieved by bathing the face with perfume dashed water.

"The young girl who goes about a great deal may occasionally take a nap during the day, but it is not a practice to be generally commended, as it is likely to be immediately followed by a heavy, stupid feeling which may last for hours, and she will probably be wakeful at night, the natural time for sleep."

DECORATIONS FOR DRESSING TABLE.

CHARMING looking dressing table decorations may be made from the short lengths of lace allovers, flouncings, bandings and edgings and from the odd medallions and motifs which are always to be picked up by the girl who has learned to scan bargain counters with a discerning eye. For bureau covers there may be found allovers of fine net with small floral or conventional patterns which need only be finished with lingerie beading run through with baby ribbon matching a silk or lawn lining. Syrian, French and Austrian imitations of Irish mesh and the Venise allovers in raised button effect, bordered with any narrow banding of heavy pattern, make striking looking as well as substantial, launderable dresser scarfs. For occasional use there are the tinsel embroidered and scalloped edge finished allovers of lace net, which, although not launderable, do not tarnish readily and are wondrously effective when mounted upon gold [illegible] silver tissue.

Net flouncing showing gradu[illegible] alternating narrow and wide bands of imitation Venise or Irish make pretty covers for broad topped dressing tables. The ends should be bordered with delicately tinted taffeta or satin ribbon and the side edges trimmed off and roll hemmed against the nearest lace stripe. A similar effect may be obtained by attaching a series of narrow and wide galloon bands to a strip of plain net, and if the lace applications extend only to the edge of the bureau the overhanging plain net ends may be shirred and finished with loops of ribbon.

Toilet mats of various sizes and shapes are made of allover and bordered with narrow galloon or beading or a single large medallion may be appliqued to a diamond of plain net edged with beading.

Pompadour motifs set upon the corners of a square of silk or Swiss make an exceedingly handsome pin cushion cover, but if only three matching motifs can be obtained the foundation material may be triangle shaped and the result will be equally satisfactory.

Latest in Handbags.

HANDBAGS steadily increase in size. The newest shape has a two inch wide oblong bottom of stiff leather, to which are attached sides that narrow gradually to within three inches of the top, whence they again flare abruptly, the narrowest portion, or neck, being defined with a silver gilt chain set on to form scallops and from one end of which is suspended a birthday or lucky charm. The handsomest bags in this novel shape are developed in dark green, brown or Pompeiian red suede, lined with dressed kid. They are equipped with hinged gilt metal frames, from which swing mirror fitted vanity cases, while the interiors are fitted with coin purses swinging from gilt chains and pockets for powder boxes and manicure conveniences.

Another large size bag is of dark lined English morocco mounted on a gilt frame and provided with two strap handles, and a third bag has an extension bottom that lets down or rolls up and strap handles to hold it together at the mouth when being carried. Also strap handled are the flat, large and almost square pigskin bags, with well rounded corners, and those of patent leather or sealskin, on twelve inch frames, that are provided with brass trimmings and extra locks at each end.

Chain bags are larger than ever. In the newest models the mesh is so woven as to present check, stripe and other effects, at times produced by combining different kinds of metal and again by the manner in which the links of the mesh are connected.

For the Tea Table.

IN lieu of silver a great many college girls are using cut glass cream and sugar sets in connection with a silver lined brass teapot on the five o'clock tea table. Other girls favor the services of French china, which include a teapot, cream pitcher and sugar bowl decorated in dainty floral patterns and picked out with gold or the three-piece affairs of dwarf proportions in palest gray Japanese ware showing views of Fujiyama, the sacred mountain of Japan. This latter set stands upon a quaint native tray of plaited reeds, and such trays are rather similar in pattern to the Japanese tea baskets, which are lined with wadding and hold a fragile teapot from which the cheering beverage may be poured through an opening in the reed work. This outfit also includes two cups of the regulation Japanese size and shape.

Learn Japanese Flower Lore.

GIRLS who visit country houses must familiarize themselves with Japanese flower lore or else they will not understand the significance of some things, for smart hostesses are adopting all sorts of fascinating customs from those flower loving people, one of which is that when a hostess desires her guest to prolong her visit she places in her room, conspicuous in one of the vases, a branch of flowers, the end of which is bent delicately down as far as it will go without breaking off and securely tied, that the hospitable message may not miscarry.

Useful Suggestions for the Girl Who Sews

SUCH enormous quantities of pins would not be mysteriously lost every year by every young girl were those toilet accessories kept in the special receptacles provided for them, any of which is sufficiently ornamental to be accorded a place on the dressing table. For ordinary sized black and white pins there are black and white satin cushions of spherical shape equipped with stout ribbon strings by which they may be suspended from hooks at either side of the mirror.

Star shaped harlequin cushions have points in two colors so that they readily accommodate a collection of pins in every shade likely to be needed for the toilet, and these also have ribbon hangers.

A novel and practical safety pin holder, three inches in height, is in the form of a monkey with arms and legs so placed that the various sizes of pins can be separately hung from them. The animal is suspended from a hook by means of a tasselled cord attached to a small red fez.

For wire hairpins there are oblong boxes of celluloid which closely resemble ivory and have covers ornamented with monograms done in black or a color.

Basket boxes which will hold a dozen bone hairpins are of oblong shape and in every imaginable shade. The upper edge is finished with an inch wide satin shirring and the hinged lid, which closes with a hasp, is similarly bound, while its top is florally hand painted.

A silver finished all metal coffer shaped box is sufficiently large to accommodate the extremely long and large headed hatpins now generally used. The footed lower portion has a beaded base and a semi-chased upper edge, while the attractively decorated lid, bearing a monogram frame, is equipped with a lock.

HAND painted belts are among the latest accessories for girl's tub frocks. They are made of black or white moire ribbon, of various widths, and decorated with apple blossoms, pansies, violets, roses or forget-me-nots. The ends of the ribbon are neatly hemmed over a whalebone brace and fastened about the waist with a metal belt pin decorated to match the ribbon, or with several small flower pins. Plain moire beltings, which come in amethyst, cerulean, pastel, mauve, old rose, strawberry, claret, wine, Pompeiian, brown, suede, maize, champagne and cream, are fastened with gold or silver buckles or pins, and, like the hand painted ribbons, are said to be launderable.

Girls who like to embroider are decorating lengths of heavy linen with all manner of dainty designs with white or colored wash silk floss or with soutache. The linen should first be shrunken, pressed, stamped with the chosen design, embroidered or braided and then washed for a second time. After that the edges must be finished with tailor stitched hems and the ends equipped with a pair of mother of pearl buckles, which need not be removed when the belt is sent to the laundry.

For the girls who prefer metal belts to those made of fabric there are chain combinations in a great variety of odd designs. Some of those in sterling silver are set at intervals with carved ivory medallions, others carry clever imitations of jewels or rare stones and a few show cameos or curiously wrought metal ornaments. Among the Oriental belts is a model composed of bars of dull gold joined with heavy silver chains, and another shows a series of green silver chains linked at intervals with hand carved mother of pearl Japanese poker chips.

AMONG the contrivances which methodical girls consider necessary to their comfort and convenience is the yard long laundry bag of art ticking, cretonne or linen bordered all around with thick cable cording, matching the drawstrings at the top. As such bags are not practical if heavily trimmed, they usually carry only a large monogram embroidered on one or both sides. Rather more dainty, if not so durable, are the white handkerchief muslin laundry bags embroidered in pale blue, pink or green and lined with lawn of a matching hue.

Shoe bags made of cretonne, crash or linen are embroidered across the top with a floral pattern in a shade harmonizing with the color scheme of the bedroom, and on each of the six pockets of the receptacle is worked the owner's monogram or the initial of her surname. These bags are equipped with steel eyelets through which may be strung tape or ribbon hangers.

Work bags are made by covering with ribbon both sides of a square of pasteboard and to two opposite sides of the square attaching small silk bags shirred at the bottom and again at the top and finished with a drawstring. Straight sides of silk covered cardboard are attached to the other two sides of the square stiff bottom, and on the inner sides of these are placed shirred pockets. When the cardboard and bag sides are joined they form a box-shaped centre with a bag top.

Blouse bags have an oblong cretonne, denim or linen covered cardboard bottom about twenty by ten inches in diameter, onto which a half yard deep bag is felled. It is gathered at the top with two drawing strings, which are also used to suspend the article from a hook, if necessary, for, like the big oval bag of cretonne designed to protect hats and the one of envelope shape for the accommodation of soap and small toilet accessories, the blouse bag is intended for use when travelling at night.

THE fabric money bags now so popular in Paris are made from strips of substantial sash ribbon or from piece satin, velvet or taffeta, eighteen inches long by nine inches wide, and lined with heavy silk of a matching shade. The ends of the strips are shaped into deep points and strengthened with suede stayed seams, or they are composed of three pieces, joined in a triangular or mitre shape and decorated with a design done with embroidery floss or with jet, gold, steel, pearl or silver beads. Some of the purses show elaborate floral, classic and trellis patterns, while others have only an initial or a monogram, but all of them are finished at the ends with deep fringe matching the texture of the embroidery.

Each of these ornamental end pockets takes up a third of the length of the money bag and their contents is secured by means of two locking rings of hand hammered oxidized silver. Sometimes only one end is used as a purse while the other is French kid lined and fitted with a powder bag or a miniature manicure set.

The latest novelty in chain handled vanity purses comes in oxidized German silver, gilt or gun metal and is composed of two pieces two and a half by three and a half inches in diameter, joined at the back with substantial hinges. The outer side is decorated with chasing and a monogram and the interior has a two compartment fabric change section, tiny mirror, a puff and powder receptacle and a pencil equipped celluloid memorandum slate.

An Important Case.

Ottawa, April 6.—The board of railway commissioners will hear on Wednesday next one of the most important cases which they have been called upon to adjudicate since the board was formed.

The freight rates on lumber under the tariffs which came into operation May 1, 1908, have been protested by the Canadian Lumbermen's Association on the ground of the increase in rates. The Canadian Manufacturers' Association, represented by J. G. Walsh, and the Montreal Board of Trade, represented by W. S. Tilston, are parties to the complaint.

Pirate Plot Is Foiled.

Baku, Russia, April 6.—A band of Georgian revolutionists failed by the narrowest margin to successfully carry out a carefully-arranged plan to seize $600,000 on board a steamer trading on the Caspian, and make their escape therewith into the Caucasus. The steamer Czarovitch was about to sail when the police appeared and searched all the passengers. Among them they discovered and arrested the Georgian band, consisting of 20 armed men under the leadership of Lieut. Mashikaridzo, an officer of the reserve.

An Actor's Death.

Chicago, April 6.—Earl Stirling, who was a member of the company that played at Ford's Theatre the night Abraham Lincoln was assassinated, died yesterday. A few months ago he was playing in the Chicago Theatre, while his wife was dying in a hospital. There was no one to take his place and he was forced to play while his wife was dying. After the performance, when he learned that his wife had died, he collapsed. He never recovered from the shock.

Air Line Into Vancouver.

Vancouver, B.C., April 6.—General Manager Chamberlain of the Grand Trunk Pacific announced before leaving for the north that an air line would be built to Vancouver involving the abandonment of the proposed north and south branch lines now roughly surveyed, from the vicinity of Fort George on the main line. It will reach here from the northeast. The northern junction will be at the point of the main line near Yellowhead Pass.

Dies Making Speech.

Lincoln, Neb., April 6.—W. A. Pointer, former governor of Nebraska, while making a speech in the office of Governor Sahhelnberger at the hearing of the Daylight Saloon Bill, was stricken by apoplexy and died within a few minutes.

Large delegations were here to argue against the bill, which provides for limiting the sale of liquor to between 7 a.m. and 8 p.m.

Advantage of the Treaty.

London, April 6.—The Glasgow Herald, referring to the Franco-Canadian treaty, says the question of interest to Britain is that a mutual agreement has been reached which is of advantage to both France and Canada. Another tariff war would not only have been hurtful to the Dominion, but also disadvantageous to the mother country.

Child's Strange Death.

Southey, Sask., April 6.—Supposed to have got up from her bed and walked in her sleep, Clara Kreinke, nearly two years old, was found dead on the C.P.R. tracks here at midnight, having been hit by the engine. The mother put the child to bed at nine, and thought her sleeping soundly till told of the tragedy.

Cure Neuralgic Agony

No affliction is so painful, so hard to bear as Neuralgia. It may strike any organ—one nerve, or, perhaps, a whole set of nerves may be affected. Physicians who have had large experience with this malady say local applications are best.

A well-tried treatment consists of rubbing the affected parts thoroughly with Nerviline. The rubbing should be continued until the skin shows a warm healthy glow. This invariably relieves the pain.

Nerviline Instantly Cures

Protection against relapse is best secured by wearing a Nerviline Porous Plaster over the weak spot. No greater healer than a Nerviline Plaster is known—it draws out congestion, absorbs deleterious secretions through relaxed pores, acts as a sure preventive against muscular aches, rheumatism, sciatica, stiffness, lumbago, and neuralgia.

Remember this: Nerviline treatment has for nearly fifty years been curing chronic cases—it will cure you, too—give it the chance. 25c bottles of Nerviline and Nerviline Porous Plasters 25c each. Sold all dealers.

Premier Whitney Jogs Up the Legislature Again.

MAY NOT END BY EASTER

Premier Introduces an Amendment to the Public Service Act—Bills Regarding Traction Engineers and Age Limits For School Inspectors Are Withdrawn—Seawall For Niagara River Bank.

Toronto, April 6.—Premier Whitney, in moving the adjournment of the House last evening, said that the railway bills would be taken up first thing this afternoon, and afterwards his hon. friend's (Mr. MacKay's bill respecting the three-fifths clause.

He prefaced this by a few sarcastic remarks. It was manifest the House was in no hurry to close to judge by the attendance of the past week. The business of the House might be brought to a close on Wednesday, or it might be Thursday. Or if the House wished they might go over to next week, devoted as the Government was, to the task of acting as the members desired.

Sir James Whitney introduced an amendment to the Public Service Act. The act at present, he explained, would not permit of temporary clerks being employed for a longer period than three months. The proposed amendment will give the Lieutenant-Governor-in-council power to extend the period of employment of extra clerks from time to time as may be deemed advisable.

Major J. J. Craig (East Wellington) grew a little restive under official authority when the Minister of Public Works suggested the withdrawal of a bill to limit the weight of traction engines on highways to 10 tons. Hon. Dr. Reaume thought this legislation too drastic. The present act, in which the limit of weight was 20 tons, was sufficient, as ordinary traction engines did not weigh more than eight or ten tons.

"If 10 tons is not sufficient weight the bill can be amended in committee, and its withdrawal, I think, should not be called for," said Craig.

"We do not think this is in the public interest," said the Premier.

On the Public School Act, the clause placing a limit upon the age of inspectors was withdrawn, and the question of retirement will be left in the hands of the Minister.

The Attorney-General explained the provisions of an act to give the Niagara Falls Park Commissioners power to issue $200,000 additional debentures, the money to be spent principally on a driveway from Queen Victoria Park to Fort Erie. A sea wall will have to be built to protect the bank of the river, and several bridges will be constructed.

Hon. Mr. Hanna substituted three clauses in a bill to amend the Ontario Companies Act respecting co-operative societies. These clauses made the Ontario statute conform with the Dominion Act, and provide for one vote to each member of a co-operative society, and no commission on sale of stock. The Provincial Secretary is to be given power to examine the books of the society at any time, to order a return on any subject, to call a general meeting or appoint an inspector.

The House considered the license law amendments in committee.

To a question by Mr. Proudfoot, the Attorney-General replied that the Government had been aware that the cash mutual fire insurance companies in the province were exceeding their authority and were considering measures to remedy the evil.

The Attorney-General replied to a question of N. F. Nickle (Kingston) that it was aware of discrimination against the Province of Ontario by the Canada Shipping Act, whereby Ontario vessels were called upon to pay pilotage dues which other vessels trading between eastern ports are exempt from. The Government, he stated, were considering the proper steps to be taken.

First readings:

To borrow $3,500,000 on the credit of consolidate revenues for construction of hydro-electric transmission lines—Hon. Mr. Matheson.

To amend Public Libraries Act to allow public library to have one room in university for art objects, etc.—Sir James Whitney.

Respecting security for guarantee companies—Hon. Mr. Foy.

To Reduce Licenses.

Toronto, April 6.—The new executive of the Ontario Alliance for the suppression of the liquor traffic has commenced a year's campaign with a view to license reduction or local option votes in Brantford, Peterboro, Collingwood, Cobourg, Port Hope, Picton, Brampton, Burlington, Meaford, Oshawa, and Embro. A number of townships will also be contested.

New York to Chicago by Trolley.

Chicago, April 6.—Direct connection between Chicago and New York by trolley became a reality Sunday night when a two-car train pulled into Pullman over the tracks of the Kensington and Eastern Railroad, completed in less than 15 minutes before. The line spans the last gap in the system of inter-urban railroads.

Lynched Negro In Florida.

Pensacola, Fla., April 6.—Dave Alexander, a negro, was lynched here early yesterday for the murder of Policeman Canton, whom the negro stabbed early Sunday morning while resisting arrest. While the police station was comparatively deserted 25 men, at the point of revolvers, took him from his cell.

Revenue From Stamps.

Ottawa, April 6.—In March last the sale of stamps produced the sum of $838,210.20, against $744,062.60 in March, 1908, and $460,077.20 in March, 1903. For the fiscal year closed on March 31 the sales of postage stamps brought in a revenue of $9,215,862.57, as against $8,665,370.05 in the previous year.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, April 5.—At the Montreal Stock Yards, West End Market, the receipts of live stock for the week ending April 3 were 2174 cattle, 149 sheep and lambs, 2171 hogs and 2093 calves. The offerings this morning for the local trade amounted to 1300 cattle, 50 sheep and lambs, 1275 hogs and 200 calves. To-day's supply was only 200 head larger than a week ago, due to the fact that American exporters have commenced to operate thruout Ontario, and farmers have been demanding much higher prices than drovers could afford to pay for this market. Those who had extra choice loads for the Easter trade stated that they would not realize the cost of them in the country at values ruling here to-day. The display as to quantity and quality was all that could be desired from a butchers' standpoint, but trade was not as active as it should have been at this particular season of the year; however, a fairly good clearance was made. In addition to the local demand about five carloads of cattle were bought for Quebec and Ottawa account, and there was also some demand from exporters who paid as high as 6c per lb. for very choice steers. Holders of fancy well-bred steers and heifers were asking as high as 7c per lb., but the top price realized for such stock was 6½c, and a number of sales were made at 6c to 6¼c. Good cattle sold at 5½c to 5¾c; fair, at 5c to 5¼c, and lower grades at from 3½c to 4½c per lb. The market for yearling lambs was stronger on account of the limited offerings and prices advanced ¼c to ½c per lb. since this day week. The demand was good and sales were made at 6½c to 7c per lb. Old sheep were scarce and firm, at 5c to 5½c per lb. Spring lambs were in demand, but the supply was small and buyers found it difficult to fill their wants at prices ranging from $3 to $7 each as to size. There were some very choice easter calves on the market. Masterman Packing Company bought five at $38. A number of other small calves were sold at prices ranging from $2 to $4 each. There was no change in the condition of the market for hogs, prices being firm under a good demand and sales of selected lots were made at $7.90 to $8, and straight lots at $7.75 to $7.85 per lb., weighed off cars.

MARRIAGES IN ENGLAND.

Number of Bachelors and Spinsters Increasing.

The population of England and Wales, enumerated at the end of March, 1901, consisted of 32,527,843 persons. From that date until the middle of 1907 the number of births exceeded the number of deaths by 2,520,944. The Registrar-General, in his annual report, points out that had neither emigration nor immigration occurred this surplus would have raised the population in the middle of the year to 35,048,787. In the absense of precise information with reference to migration, the populations in the annual reports are provisionally estimated on the assumption that the rate of increase which had prevailed in the last intercensal period has since been maintained. Estimated in this way, the population of England and Wales in the middle of the year 1907 amounted to 34,495,600 persons, of whom 16,879,509 were males and 18,066,091 were females.

The marriages in England and Wales during 1907 numbered 267,421, corresponding to a rate of 15.8 persons married per 1,000 of the population at all ages. The rates in the preceding three years (1904-1906) had been 15.2, 15.3 and 15.6 per 1,000 living. The proportion of bachelors in 1,000 males aged 15 years and upward rose from 384 in 1871 to 411 in 1901, and among 1,000 females aged 15 years and upward the proportion of spinsters increased from 361 to 395. On the other hand, the proportion of widowed persons in the population steadily decreased throughout the period. The proportion of bachelors showed an increase in each age-group up to 55 years, while the increase in the proportion of spinsters affected every age-group. The marriage rate in 1907, when compared with the rate of 1876-1880, shows a fall of 10.4 per cent., which may be said to represent approximately the proportional fall in the marriage rate in the period under review.

Hat Clue to Intrigue.

An ancestor of the Rev. the Hon. Charles Cumming-Bruce, who has been married to Miss Grace Trotter, daughter of Canon Trotter, of Barnet, England, was Lord Chancellor in the reign of George the Third and there are not a few stories about him. He was the first Lord Thurlow. It is said that when one day a deputation of Dissenters waited on him to secure his support for a measure in which they were interested, he replied: "I support everything that's established. Get your d——d religion going and I'll support it." Yet with this rude habit of speech he combined a singularly majestic appearance. His features were regular and well-cut, and on state occasions he made an imposing figure. Fox once said of him, "No man was ever so wise as Thurlow looks." When he started intriguing with the Prince of Wales and the Whigs against Pitt his machinations were discovered by a curious accident. His hat was found in the prince's closet, and the trouble finally ended in Pitt compelling the King to choose between him and Thurlow, a course which led to the retirement of the chancellor. From that day he was heard very little of in debate, and retired to a cottage at Dulwich. He declined to occupy a mansion which had been built for him, on the ground that he had quarrelled with the architect.

Undigested Food

When any portion of food remains in the stomach and refuses to digest, it causes the torments of indigestion. This undigested food rapidly ferments, irritating the sensitive coating of the stomach, while other parts of the body, particularly the head, suffer in consequence.

So long as this undigested food remains in the stomach, the discomfort continues. A few doses of stop all fermentation, sweeten the contents of the stomach and give natural assistance that relieves the stomach of its burden. The use of Beecham's Pills gradually strengthens the stomach nerves and soon restores them to a normal, healthy condition.

Beecham's Pills positively cure all stomach troubles, while their beneficial effects on the liver and kidneys greatly improve the general health.

Beecham's Pills have been used and recommended by the general public for over fifty years.

It Was Private Bills Day In The Legislature Yesterday

Ottawa, April 6.—There is a story going around to-day that the proceedings of the Liberal caucus last Friday night were far from harmonious and

Ottawa, April 6.—Private members had yesterday entirely to themselves in the Commons, the greater part of the session being spent in committee on private bills. Considerable discussion took place on the Manitoba & Northwestern Railway Co.'s bill, and traces were revealed of some impatience on the part of several western members at the dilatoriness of the railway companies in the west to implement the conditions of their charters.

Yesterday owing to the absence of Mr. Borden, Mr. Foster led the Opposition. He desired to know whether the Government intended to take Mondays immediately after the Easter adjournment. Sir Wilfrid's reply was merely that he would move a resolution to that effect "to-morrow." Then Mr. Foster suggested that motions for correspondence, etc., might be taken up before private bills were proceeded with. But to this proposal Sir Wilfrid displayed the marble heart. The convenience of the House only was to be considered, he answered in effect. Mr. Foster's bland appeal broke like a summer ripple upon the Prime Minister's stony stare. Evidently there is to be an armed neutrality between them for the balance of the session.

J. D. Taylor (New Westminster) called attention to a report that sixty Russian Moujiks from Siberia had landed in Vancouver to work on the Grand Trunk Pacific as contract laborers, and that other certain employes at Prince Rupert had secured judgment against a sub-contractor for $2,500, and $2,000 for overdue wages and $2,000 for breach of contract. However, before the laborers could realize upon this verdict in their favor, the chief contractors, the Messrs. Foley, obtained a hasty judgment in a county court against the sub-contractor for some $16,000, due to them from the sub-contractor on account of a contract loss in Manitoba. Thus Mr. Taylor pointed out the men were unable to seize the sub-contractor's plant in satisfaction of their claim. He observed that in the terms of the Grand Trunk Pacific contract the Government was bound to see that all claims for wages were duly paid before bonds of the company should be guaranteed.

On the bill of the Manitoba and Northwestern Railway Co., Dr. A. Nelly (Humboldt) strongly opposed the extension of the charter and moved to strike out the section of the bill authorizing the line from Yorkton to Prince Albert.

The amendment was defeated and the bill reported.

Next was taken up Mr. Conmee's bill to incorporate the Superior & Western Ontario Railway Co. The bill contains a clause regarding the acquisition of water powers for electrical purposes, and Mr. Conmee contended that no power was given to expropriate.

Claude Macdonnel complained that the bill gave the company the privileges of a power company, without making them subject to provincial control, while Dr. Sproule and Mr. Lancaster pointed out that the Railway Act would give this power to expropriate since the charter gives the company power to acquire water powers for the purposes of the undertaking.

Mr. Pugsley's view was that the power of expropriation was limited to the right of way.

Dr. Sproule declared that the sign manual of the bill was what made him suspicious. In every bill which the member for Port Arthur introduced there was something that aroused suspicion.

Mr. Blain asked for the opinion of the Minister of Railways. He would not be a party to passing any bill which interfered with the powers of the province to control water powers.

Mr. Graham answered that the water power clause was in a great majority of the recent railway bills. The company would have to buy its water powers, but could not expropriate them. The bill was then passed.

FIVE YEARS FOR HOLLAND.

Swindler Pleads Guilty to Two Out of Eleven Charges.

Toronto, April 6.—After pleading not guilty to eleven charges of false pretences and forgery, and going on the witness stand and contradicting the evidence of crown witnesses, Chris Holland suddenly gave up the fight, decided to plead guilty to "any two" charges, and was at once sentenced by Magistrate Denison to five years in the penitentiary.

The first charge on which evidence was taken was that of posing as David Newhall of Philadelphia, uttering a forged check for $10,000 on the main office of the Bank of Toronto. Duncan Coulson, general manager; W. R. Wadsworth, local manager, and W. M. Begg and J. W. Simpson of the staff, testified in support of the charge, while W. C. Chamberlain of Buffalo, and David Newhall, who is a millionaire, swore that the credentials displayed by Holland had been forged. Supt. Welsh of the Canadian Detective Bureau was not allowed to quote Holland's statements after his arrest. O. B. Stanton gave hand-writing expert evidence.

Holland and his wife swore he was in Cleveland on Feb. 11, when the evidence showed he was in Toronto, but other witnesses broke the alibi and he wilted.

Holland may be taken to St. Thomas to stand trial on other charges of forgery of express orders preferred against him there, and upon which he was extradited from Philadelphia.

Went Back to First Wife.

Smith's Falls, April 6.—Francis Arcand, a farm laborer, aged 58, living a few miles from here, has been arrested on the charge of bigamy.

Arcand, it is alleged, was married 35 years ago in Prescott to a woman whom he deserted about 14 years ago, when he went to the Nipissing district and soon afterwards, it is alleged, was united at North Bay in marriage to another woman, with whom he lived at Sturgeon Falls until a couple of years ago. A few months ago he returned to Smith's Falls and has since been living with his first wife. Wife No. 2 began making enquiries and this led to his arrest. Arcand has four children by his first wife.

Gen. Tom Thumb and his midget wife made several tours of the world and were received by royalty and the peerage in all the courts of Europe.

There is probably not a city of the United States or Canada where the Countess Magri is not known. It is expected that by reason of her advanced age this Parisian tour will be her last public appearance.

"Alberta Red" Scarce.

Vancouver, B.C., April 6.—Reserves of Alberta Red wheat are so low in the Northwest, that Wm. Kennedy, a grain broker, now here, is unable to secure sufficient to fill a Liverpool order of a quarter of a million bushels. He had intended shipping from here around the Horn.

NAVY OF AERIAL DREADNOUGHTS

Admiral Scott Advocates a Two-Power Standard.

GERMANY BUILDING FAST

In Enthusiastic Session British Commoners Urges Government to Take Up Question of Aerial Defence Against Kaiser's Realm—Second Meeting Held at Mansion House—Gun for Balloons.

London, April 6.—Great Britain seems to be waking up to the fact that the other nations of the world are leaving her behind in the race for command of the air.

While the members of the House of Commons were yesterday afternoon drawing the attention of the Government to the fact that Germany has built, or is building, a dozen dirigible airships, and urging the Government to take up with energy the construction of a British air fleet, there was being held at the same time a meeting in the Mansion House, under the chairmanship of the Lord Mayor of London, in support of the same object. Among those present were Admiral Lord Charles Beresford, Prince Louis of Battenberg, Lord Curzon, Sir Hiram Maxim and Admiral Sir Percy Scott, all of whom heartily supported energetic action.

Admiral Scott advocated a "two power" standard in airships, as well as Dreadnoughts, and he mentioned incidentally that the navy has designed a new gun, which at a distance of 6,000 feet, could be exceedingly destructive to airships.

Bodies Found In Wood.

Montreal, April 6.—An inquiry is being held at Roberval, Lake St. John district, this week to ascertain the cause of the death of two men named Bernard and Lemieux, whose bodies were found in the woods some time back. Yesterday afternoon Adolphe Grassette left Montreal on the C. N. train for Roberval, accompanied by Detective Lapointe of the Provincial Detective Bureau. Grasette was the companion of the other two, and he was the last one to see them alive. The three went on a hunting expedition into the woods and it is thought that at the inquiry some light will be thrown on their movements. Grassette volunteered to go to Roberval, if his expenses were paid, and the Attorney-General immediately acceded to the proposal.

Kingston Pastor Resigns.

Kingston, April 6.—Rev. Charles Villiers, pastor of the First Congregational Church, caused a sensation at Sunday's service, when he announced, without any previous notice his intention of retiring from the pastorate at the close of his third year.

In explanation he pointed out that Congregationalism in the city is in a position of humiliation, Bethel Church, the other Congregational, being without a pastor. His idea was that, by resigning, he would leave the way open for a union of the two congregations.

Daylight Incendiary.

Rochester, N.Y., April 6.—A fire, claimed to be of an incendiary nature, broke out at 1.10 p.m. yesterday in the flour mill of J. A. Hinds & Co., the second largest flour mill in this city. An employe of the city, James Morgan, states that just before the flames broke out he saw a man poke oily waste between the clapboards of the rear of the mill, ignite them and run away. The mill was totally destroyed. It had a capacity of about 500 barrels a day. Loss $85,000.

TWELVE PAGES PETERBOROUGH TUESDAY APRIL 6 1909 PAGES 7 to 12

CITIZENS OF PETERBOROUGH WILL BE GIVEN OPPORTUNITY TO VOTE ON THE LOCAL OPTION BY-LAW NEXT JANUARY

Deputation Waits on the Council Last Night Presenting Petition Signed by 1500 Electors---Asks Council to Prepare By-law Which Will be Submitted to Ratepayers at Next Municipal Elections.

WILL BE DONE IF PETITION IS FOUND CORRECT.

A deputation of about 75 citizens waited upon the council last night in behalf of local option. Among the number were many of the most prominent citizens and not a few women were also included. They occupied every available seat in the Council Chamber, and having arrived shortly before eight o'clock were beginning to feel impatient as the aldermen did not come upstairs until 8:30 owing to the business in committee. A petition had been previously presented signed by a large number of electors who thus sanctioned the local option work.

Rev. Mr. Potter acted as spokesman. Over 1,700 ratepayers he stated presented their applications that a local option by-law be presented at the election next January. The committee had gone over the list very carefully, comparing the signatures with the names in the voters' list, and had decreased the number of signatures to 1,560. They retired the difference between 1,700 and 1,560 in order to be quite sure that all the names appended were bonafide residents and on the voters' list.

There was a minute's silence after Rev. Mr. Potter had finished speaking. Mayor Rush finally suggested that the question be referred to the Committee of the Whole Council.

"We will be quite satisfied with any decision the council may reach," Mr. Potter replied.

Mayor Rush stated that the application would receive careful attention. His purpose of referring it to a committee meeting was because of the amount of business that had to be transacted.

Do It Now

Alderman Morgan asked why the vote on the application could not be taken at once. Alderman Hicks also was ready to vote. The mayor stated that it was for the council to decide.

Rev. J. R. Webb stated that the members of the committee desired to be present whenever the question was discussed.

It was finally moved by Aldermen Morgan and Morrow that if the petition were found correct that a by-law be prepared and submitted to the electors in January 1910. Carried.

The Petition

Whereas, it is provided by Sec. 141 of Liquor License Act being chapter 245, R.S.O., 1897, that the council of any municipality may pass by-laws prohibiting the sale by retail of spirituous or other manufactured liquors as particularly set forth in the said section provided that the by-law before the final passing thereof has been duly approved of by the electors of the municipality as provided thereby and.

Whereas the said Act provides that in case a petition in writing signed by at least 25 per cent. of the total number of persons appearing by the last voters' list of the municipality to be qualified to vote at municipal election is filed with the clerk of the municipality on or before the 1st day of November next preceding the day upon which such poll will be held praying for the submission of such by-law it shall be the duty of the council to submit the same to a vote of the electors as aforesaid.

To this petition the 1,500 names were signed.

NO BAND CONCERTS IN VICTORIA PARK THIS SUMMER.

Unless the Horticultural Society changes its plans, there will be no music in Victoria Park this year. The society has arranged to plow up the upper part of the park to put in pipes for water service and to sod or plant it in order to have it like the lower section. This will o course necessitate the closing up of the upper part and if the 57th is to continue its delightful weekly programmes during the summer some other park will have to be chosen. Peterborough people without the band concerts on Friday night would be a people bereft of one of their most delightful and interesting amusements. It is not known whether any inducement will be extended to the society not to proceed with their work until late in the fall. In the event of the "catastrophe" happening the most likely park that will be chosen is Central Park. However, there has been nothing definite settled yet.

PROMINENT GERMAN AGRICULTURIST VISITS PETERBOROUGH FARMERS LOOKING FOR "POINTERS"

Dr. H. Hucho, of the Imperial German Consulate, at Montreal, was in the city in connection with his extended visit to Canada to acquaint himself with the methods employed in all the branches of agriculture in this country. The German Government has sent him out for this purpose, and he sends home regular reports of the conditions found here, pointing out suggestions which may come to him by Canadian methods, as he sees them, in fact sifting out what he considers an improvement on German ways of doing the same thing. He has travelled practically the world over, and has spent years in Australia, which he considers behind Canada, as regards the modernness of methods and the progressiveness of the farmers. He is an attache to the German Consulate at Montreal and is an expert in agricultural matters. He has been in Canada three years. He was in Australia seven years and has visited all the leading colleges. He is a graduate of a college in Saxony, and holds his commission direct from the German Government. He intends to return to his native land this summer to keep in touch with home conditions.

This morning he was accompanied by Mr. Charles Nixon, editor of the Farm and Dairy, on a visit into Smith township. They visited the farms of Messrs. E. Sanderson, H. Milburn, Reeve R. N. Scott, W. G. Telford and others.

Mr. Hucho is mainly interested in dairying, but also deals with the other branches of agriculture and horticulture also. He speaks highly of the splendid conditions of the dairy methods in Holland.

MANY NEW RECRUITS IN REGIMENT

The first drill of the season of the 57th Regiment was held last evening, the men turning out 220 strong, officers and non-commissioned officers. Of this large number about seventy were new recruits. This year the best possible men are being obtained, the applicants to join the regiment having to pass a strict medical examination and also have to know how to handle a rifle. The new recruits are a splendid lot of young fellows and ought to make splendid soldiers.

Last evening was practically taken up with the distribution of clothes and with preparations for the season's drill. Some drilling was done and the Signalling Corps under Lieut. W. R. G. Higgins had a practice.

The members of the regiment are reminded that in order to qualify for efficiency pay it is necessary to attend every drill. Drills are held each Monday night.

Splendid Addresses Given In Interests Of Y.M.C.A. Foreign Work

The banquet held in the Y. M. C. A. banquet hall last night under the auspices of the Foreign Work Committee of that institution proved to be a very interesting event. A large number of business and professional men of the city were present and followed the two addresses very closely. The Foreign Work Committee has undertaken to raise $300 in support of a secretary in one of the heathen countries and last night's event was in the interests of this movement.

The chair was occupied by Ald. J. J. Turner, chairman of the committee, and after justice had been done to the splendid menu he introduced the speakers of the evening, Messrs. Coulter and Herbert, of New York.

Mr. Coulter gave one of the best Missionary addresses ever heard in this city. He is eloquent and impressive. He spoke of the advance commercially and socially that has ben made by those Asiatic nations, about the contributions from the Christian nations to the commercial interests of the heathen nations, and of the contributions of the civilized nations to the vice of the eastern nations. Mr. Coulter closed with a strong appeal to those present to do their part in sending the gospel from the Christian nations to the heathen nations.

Mr. Hibbert gave his talk on his experiences with the Japanese army in Manchuria.

Workman On The Dredge Charged With Shoving Man Into The River

An employee on the dredge working on the river near the cereal dam appeared before Magistrate Dumble, at the police court this morning charged with assaulting a fellow workman the other day. He pleaded not guilty. The evidence of the complainant and Mr. Wm. Quinn, who is in charge of the work was heard but it wasn't sufficient to make a conviction and his Worship dismissed the ase.

The informant said that he was working with Mr. Wm. Quinn on the dredge. The accused worked there also, and several times he tried to throw him in the water. Last week they were going across the river on a stone boat and the defendant deliberately put his shoulder to complainant's and knocked him into the river on his back.

Mr. Wm Quinn said that the alleged assault was merely an accident. The current was very strong and it upset the boat. He was sure the accused did not intentionally upset the boat, nor throw the complainant in the river.

Young Boys Were Seen On Street Apparently In Drunken Condition

Three or four young boys apparently the worse of liquor, were seen on Downie street the other day. This is somewhat of a startling statement to make, but Police Magistrate Dumble saw them, and as he remarked yesterday, they appeared to be drunk. They were acting in a very disorderly manner, their conduct being anything but becoming to youths of their age. Their language was very bad, and they were throwing stones at the door of a residence. In fact their whole conduct was extremely disorderly.

To Claim Damages From City For Son's Drowning In Creek

Among the list of claims for damages against the city is that of Mr. Victor J. Roberts whose infant son was drowned in the creek near Murray street some weeks ago. The following letter was read at the council meeting last night.

"I beg to notify you that my infant son, Maxwell Roberts, was drowned by falling into the town creek alongside Murray street on the 8th day of February last, the cause of the accident being the want of repair and protection of the street on the side next to the creek and that an action for damages will be brought against the city for their default in that behalf."

Former Resident Of This City Drowned In Trent River At Campbellford Last Night

John Mortimer, Formerly Employed by the Quaker Oats Company, Met His Death by the Upsetting of a Boat While Gathering Driftwood---Was Swept Over the Dam

HE HAD NO RELATIVES IN THIS COUNTRY.

Campbellford, April 6.—John Mortimer, a young Englishman, who has ben living here for a year, was drowned in the Trent River here last night. He with another man named Barnett, were in a boat gathering the drift wood, which is plentiful in the river at this season of the year. In some manner, it is supposed, in reaching for a piece of wood the boat was upset and both men were thrown into the rapidly flowing waters of the Trent, which, just now, is at its high level. They were rapidly carried down towards the dam, but a bystander noticing their peril, threw a rope to Barnett and succeeded in pulling him from the river. Mortimer, however, was swept down the stream and over the dam and was drowned. His body had not been recovered this morning.

The John Mortimer mentioned in the above despatch was a former resident of Peterborough, and was known by many people in this city. He came here from England several years ago and took up his residence in Peterborough. He was employed for some time at the Quaker Oats Company's factory and will be remembered by many employees of that establishment. He was unmarried and had no relatives in this country. Mr. Percy Naish went down to Campbellford this morning to make arrangements for the funeral.

Electricians Ask For By-law To Guarantee Efficient Work

The movement to guarantee the efficiency of the work done by electricians is gradually taking concrete form. Ald. Turner has been harping on the question for some time, but it has remained for the electricians themselves to take action. A petition signed by Messrs. Alexander and Miller, F. R. J. MacPherson Co., MacGregor and Reid, was read as follows, at the Council meeting.

That it is in the interests of the city that all electric wiring and fitting should be done in a safe and proper manner, so as to pass the inspection of the Board of Fire Underwriters, thus protecting the insurance interests of the ratepayers.

They asked that a by-law be passed providing that all persons doing such wiring and fitting for the purpose of providing the city with light or power, should be compelled to secure from the city a license to do such work, for which they shall pay an annual fee of $25.00, and that each contractor shall be compelled to attach to job or contract a label bearing his license number and name, and such contract shall be open to the inspection of the Board of Fire Underwriters and that any person doing such work or accepting contracts for the same, otherwise than provided by the By-law, or without a license, as stated, shall be liable to a fine, or in default thereof imprisonment.

Ald. Hicks stated that if this would guarantee that the work would pass the inspection of the Fire Underwriters some action would likely be carried out. The matter was referred to the Fire, Water and Light Committee.

Anniversary Services Will Be Held At Knox Church

The anniversary services in connection with Knox Presbyterian Church will be held Sunday and Monday next April 11th and 12th. The special preacher for the day will be Rev. J. A. Wilson, B.A., formerly assistant pastor of St. Paul's and now of Hamilton. There will be a special service in the Sunday School on Sunday afternoon, at which special music will be given by the choir, assisted by Mrs. Dickson Hall and Miss Bryce of Keene.

On Monday night there will be a special gathering, at which a choice programme will be given. Rev. Mr. Wilson will give an address on "A Nation's Best Asset."

Thirteen Year Old Boy Shot His Father To Save His Brothers

Examiner Special (2:45 p.m.)

San Bernardino, Cal., April 6.—To prevent the hanging of his three brothers by their drunken father, Harry Thomas, 13 years old, shot and killed his parent, William Thomas, near Delmar camp in Nevada. When the boys ran the father tried to kill them with an axe. Seizing a loaded shot gun, which was resting on a nearby stump, Harry Thomas fire at his father, the shot tearing the man's head almost off his shoulders.

Simpson Is To Race Svanberg Does Fast Trial Yesterday

Examiner Special (2:45 p.m.)

Toronto, April 6.—Fred Simpson, "the Ojibway Thunderbolt," who meets Fred Appleby, the English runner, in a twenty-mile race at Rosedale Good Friday, has been matched to run John Svanberg, the Swedish champion, the Marathon distance at Celtic Park, N.Y., on April 17. In a training stunt at Varsity track yesterday, Simpson covered twelve miles in 1.08.40 1-5. The twelve-mile time in Saturday's big race in New York was 1.18.36.

Graduating Students Of Normal School Were Entertained

The graduating students of the Peterborough Normal School were entertained by Principal Walker and his staff last evening. The graduates to the number of thirty-five gathered in the Assembly hall at five o'clock. Short addresses were given by Mr. Walker and the other teachers and by Mr. A. Moyat, Inspector of the City Public Schools and by Mr. J. Coyle Brown, Inspector of the rural schools.

At the conclusion of the addresses dainty refreshments were served in dining hall. The results of the examinations will be published the latter part of the month.

Has Returned From Business Trip In Interest Of His Company

Mr. H. B. Collier, of the Collier-Cunningham Co., Limited, has just returned from a business trip to Ottawa, Montreal and Toronto. The demand for the company's electric specialties is growing rapidly, as wherever introduced much interest in their practical utility, comfort, labour-saving efficiency is created among householders and others. Mr. Collier's visit to these large cities was productive of very gratifying results—the orders secured being an additional indication of the extreme value of these handy electrical inventions. Mr. Collier also reports that he found the tendency of general trade to be much more healthy and active than for many months past.

THE GRAND TRUNK PACIFIC

The Grand Trunk Pacific Railway will not only do a great work in developing the resources of the Great West and the hinterland of Ontario and Quebec but it will incidentally aid our industrial interests. A contract has been awarded the Dominion Steel Company for rails for the first hundred miles east of Prince Rupert. Sixteen thousand tones are to be deliered by way of Cape Horn next August. The steel rail works at the "Soo" are busy on contracts for railing the prairie section. Thus has the building of the Transcontinental benefited the infancy of what promises to be our great national industry. Mr. Dalrymple, Assistant Traffice Manager, of the G. T. R., says that the engineers assert that there is nothing to prevent the railway from being finished from coast to coast by the year 1911. This event will be facilitated by the Government of Canada coming to the rescue with the guarantee of a loan of ten million dollars. Financiers decline to underwrite bonds of railways under course of completion. By the Dominion guarantee of the loan the money market will be easier. The line must be completed and Canada is in duty bond to lend its aid temporarily to assist in the completion of this great under taking. The Government of the day on similar terms lent Canada's name for a loan of thirty millions of dollars to the C. P. R., after having given it bonuses, in cash completed line and lands 225 million dollars. The loan was met and Canada had nothing to pay, and the loan will be met in the present case, without the country having to be out a dollar. This ten millions of guarantee seems to have been made necessary by the Conservative attitude, which has done a great deal of unpatriotic "bearing" of the credit of the Grand Trunk Pacific. Statements from time to time in the British press inspired from Conservative sources, have had a prejudicial effect upon the credit of the company. So that indirectly and to a degree Conservative tactics has made the ten millions loan guarantee a necessity. Under the completion and operation of the Grand Trunk Pacific the development of the country from coast to coast will take an increased activity. It was delay by the inadequacy of transportation. This obstruction will be removed in a couple of years and three great transcontinental ines will unite in doing, in a threefold degree, what the Canadian Pacific Railway has done in building up Canada, expanding its trade, increasing its population and placing it in the forefront of the young nations.

The first C. P. R. train crossed the continent in 1886.

BIRTH OF STEAM NAVIGATION

This is a year of important centenaries. The centenary of the birth of great men like Gladstone, Darwin, Lincoln, Tennyson, Mendelssohn, Chopin and others falls in 1909. Among these the name of Hon. John Molson, one of Canada's foremost captains of industry, connected with the beginnings of great interprises, can well be naturally associated. The hundredth anniversary of steam navigation on the St. Lawrence, inaugurated in 1809 by John Molson, the founder also of Molson's Bank, falls this summer. It will be celebrated by various commercial bodies. The story of steamboat navigation in Canada is an interesting one, especially as this country was the pioneer in ocean navigation by steam. The first steamer to cross the Atlantic was the Royal William, from Quebec to Gravesend, in 1833. The "Accommodation" was the first passenger steamer to ply on the St. Lawrence; it was a side-wheeler with the paddle wheels exposed. She made her first trip in 1809 from Montreal to Quebec, and her departure and arrival were hailed with as much wonder as would be a whale swimming up the Otonabee. To-day the St Lawrence and all our inland waters are ploughed by steamers in hundreds. History tells us that when Jacques Cartier came up the St. Lawrence, he imagined he was exploring a new route to China. He was not in one sense, very far wrong; for to-day, after the lapse of three centuries the St. Lawrence is no mean feature of the commercial highway between the West and China and the Orient. The first steamer on the St. Lawrence was 85 feet over all and had berths for twenty passengers. She was propelled by an open double-spoked perpendicular wheel without casing and at the end of each double spoke was a square board which by the rotary motion of the wheel, imparted by a crude steam engine located forward, acted like a paddle. A Quebec newspaper recorded the arrival of the "Accommodation" in these words:

> "On Saturday morning at 8 o'clock arrived here from Montreal, being her first trip, the steamboat, "Accommodation," with ten passengers. This is the first vessel of the kind that has ever appeared in this harbour. She is continually crowded with visitants. She left Montreal on Wednesday at 2 o'clock, so that her passage was 66 hours, 30 of which she was at anchor. She arrived at Three Rivers in 24 hours. No wind or tide can stop her. The price for a passage up is $9 and $8 down, the vessel supplying provisions. The great advantage attending a vessel so constructed is, that a passage may be calculated on to a degree of certainly in point of time, which cannot be the case with any vessel propelled by sail only."

In 1812 John Molson built another steamer, the "Swiftsure," 130 feet keel and 24 feet beam; and this vessel was used in conveying troops and munitions of war from Quebec to Montreal during the war of 1812-14. Next the "Lady Sherbrooke," 170 fet long, was added to the fleet. As time progressed improvements in style, speed and equipment came till we now have the St. Lawrence alive with the steamers of various companies, on this route as well as ocean liners, as common as skiffs. The first iron steamers were placed on the St. Lawrence in 1843, the pioneer having been the "Iron Duke," the forerunner of hundreds of others. The immense improvements made by the Liberal Government of the Dominion in the matter of deepening, straightening, lighting and buoying the river St. Lawrence has made this route under the enterprise of the Richelieu and Ontario Navigation Company, one of the best equipped and most popular internal pleasure routes on this continent or in the world.

Canada has now 3,007 steamers of a total tonnage of 1,029,442.

COBALT'S SQUEAL

Cobalt is talking secession, and the erection of Northern Ontario into an independent principality. There is abundance of evidence that the feeling is general, that, as the "Cobalt Citizen" expresses it, "old Ontario is playing this north country for a sucker." This journal fills more than half of its front page with an expression of various forms of the spirit of discontent that exists. A sample of these protests consists in the following under the heading "Cobalt Should Squeal".

> It is something like going into ancient history now to recall the fact that Cobalt, too, was knocked down by an auctioneer and the proceeds carried three hundred miles away to endow public institutions in Toronto or have automobile roads in Oxford County.
>
> Cobalt, as a town, has had great natural advantages, but with the advantages were corresponding difficulties to overcome. One of these difficulties is the installation in a bed of solid rock of a water works and sewage disposal system. The chief advantage possessed by the town lies in the fact that it is located in the midst of the richest silver mines in the world. This is an advantage of location, which is directly represented in the value attaching to sites. The credit entry was knocked down by the auctioneer and the debt was left standing.
>
> The great natural advantage—or rather the equivalent, which was movable—was got away with by the strong hand—for revenue.
>
> No thought was given to the imperative necessities of the place for water and drainage. The sell out took place three years ago and yet the town is only now in a position to face the engineering problem.
>
> The money which the Province got away with belonged to Cobalt. It came from Cobalt. It was because of Cobalt. It was the spontaneous product of Cobalt, the result of the presence of the Cobalt business community, the natural fund to provide for the natural communal needs of Cobalt.
>
> The great central need has come down through the years. It is with us still. We are about to face the problem. We want that money now for a costly system of waterworks and sewers. Why not go after it?
>
> We were too small when the touch was made, too young and unorganized to make an effective protest. Our little "holler" was scarcely heard. But we are bigger now and much more lusty.
>
> Let's take a hint from the suffragettes.

Sir James is likely to have some experience of the "suffragette" system a la Cobalt, which not content with exploiting its own grievance is teaching Gowganda its grievances, which is the latest and rawest victim of "the revenue hunters" of Queen's Park. We shall hear more of this matter. The northern country in the silver belt has a mouth piece in "Jed" of the Cobalt Citizen, a mouthpiece that can both talk and bite, and Gowganda will soon have a mouthpiece for the Citizen tells us that an enterprising Torontonian has shipped in the plant for a newspaper for the nine-months old mining town.

THE RUSH FOR WEALTH

(Vancouver, B. C., World.)

One of the most remarkable of recent utterances on the material considerations which form the underlying motive in political life, was made in London by Mr. Arthur Ponsonby, M.P., son of Queen Victoria's secretary and formerly secretary to Sir Henry Campbell Bannerman. The dominant note to-day, he said, was materialism, and this was very injurious to the public welfare. The spirit of materialism expressed itself in the sole consideration of how national prosperity could be exemplified in figures, in monetary value, trade returns and development. For example, they were told that wonderful work had been accomplished in Egypt in the last quarter of a century, but nothing was heard about how the Egyptians had fared in the process of change. The extent of the Empire was measured in square miles, in the hundreds and thousands of population. Boasting and aggression, he declared, were encouraged to-day under the name of Imperialism. The first result of this materialism was that there were more rich men in the country now than there ever had been in the history of the world.

"I should like to see," he said, "the same investigations made regarding the rich as have been made as to the numbers of poor, with statistics as to what they pay on luxuries and all the accessories of this wild, reckless extravagance. They are not capable of spending vast sums of money, even as a man cannot eat vast quantities of food.

"We see what the result is, in the huge numbers of unemployed, and those who are physically, morally, and intellectually unfit. It is the natural consequence of this wild, material pursuit of wealth. And yet one of the wretched, demoralized, physically unfit, moral wrecks is not as great a danger to this country as the man who is amassing this vast wealth."

He said he thought the alternative to the mad rush for money was some sort of idealism, a desire for service instead of gain. Why, for instance, he asked, could they not have an organization like this army and navy, of a peaceful character, concentrating its energies in trying to help all the suffering and destitute around them—a great Government organization?

CHASE AWAY THE TIRED FEELING

Dodd's Kidney Pills Will Do It Quickly And Naturally.

It is Caused by Sluggish Circulation Brought on by Deranged Kidneys Failing to Strain Impurities Out of the Blood.

Stayner, Ont., April 5.—(Special.)—In the Spring the Kidneys always need attention. They have additional work in straining the winter's accumulation of impurities out of the blood and if they are at all out of order, it is sure to tell on them. It is only a question of the best method of treating them and Ernest Colwell of this place, adds his testimony to the great mass of proof that the one sure cure for sick Kidneys is Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"Some time ago," says Mr. Colwell, "I had severe Pains and Soreness in the small of my back, and sometimes noticed a brick dust sediment in my urine, so of course I knew my Kidneys were affected. I procured some of Dodd's Kidney Pills, which readily cured the pains and soreness and restored the urine to its natural colour. I always recommend Dodd's Kidney Pills."

Everybody needs medicine in the Spring, and the medicine they need is Dodd's Kidney Pills. They clear the blood of impurities and by giving the blood free circulation, speedily and naturally chase away that tired feeling. It is caused by sluggish circulation, and Dodd's Kidney Pills always cure it.

INSURANCE BENEFITS FOR COMMERCIAL TRAVELLERS

A City Traveller Writes an Important Communication on the Subject.

There is quite a colony of Commercitl Travellers in Peterborough who will be interested in the following letter appearing in "The Railway News and Commerical Traveller," from the pen of Mr. W. J. Hopwood:

To the Members of Board of Directors,
Commerical Travellers' Association of Canada:

Dear Sirs,—In connection with the impending adoption of a new insurance act at Ottawa, I would take the liberty of drawing your attention to a feature which has a strong bearing on our standing as an association distributing mortuary benefits to the heirs of its members.

Under Section 43 of the said act it reads. "Nothing contained in this act shall apply to any association of persons for fraternal or benevolent purposes for the purposes of life insurance in connection with its members and which insures the lives of such members only."

Now our Travellers' Associations are probably unique in the fact that they seem to be the only ones in Canada fulfilling the provision of the section, but not strictly selling life insurance or soliciting business, but merely distributing benefits among their members.

The provision under this section was probably our best safeguard when a few years ago an attempt was made with the authority of the inspector of insurance, to compel us to reduce our mortuary benefit to a straight life insurance basis with a guaranteed reserve on a 3½ per cent. basis as required on the line companies by the government.

Now in the proposed new act as far as I can see the section referred to is entirely omitted, and as in this new act the inspector of insurance is to be invested with the power of a deputy minister, and from what I know of him probably one of his first acts would be to compel us to either reduce our benefits or increase our reserve to the government standard as he advised before, and as under his new standing we would probably not have the same power to appeal against his rulings. I would take the liberty of suggesting that a strong deputation be sent to Ottawa to interview the government and solicit the interest of the members of Parliament in having a similar provision retained in the new act, and also to secure the co-operation of the sister associations in the matter.

I might say that I have mentioned this matter personally to one or two of the executive, but did not receive any assurance that they attached any importance to it.

I would therefore solicit your influence and interest in the matter on the board and trust that you will take such actions as will lead to the necessary steps being taken immediately to protect our mutual interests in the present cretical situation.

Thanking you in advance and wishing you every success, I remain,

Yours faithfully,
W. J. HOPWOOD.

Peterborough, March 29, 1909.

The above communication is from the pen of W. J. Hopwood, one of the best known and highly esteemed commercial men in Canada and speaks for itself.—Editor.

MR. C. G. GRAHAM

President of the City Hockey League Who Was Toast Master at Last Night's Successful Banquet and Who With Mr. Clarke, Presented the Junior Cup.

A fitting climax to a most successful season was the annual banquet of the City Hockey League, held last evening in the dining room of the Oriental Hotel, and at which some seventy-five hockey enthusiasts gathered to do honour to the senior and junior champions, the Lakefield and Chieftain teams respectively. Cordiality was the keynote of the gathering, and although the greater part of those who sat down was composed of members of the teams which had been defeated in the League race, the best of spirit was displayed and many and hearty were the compliments and congratulations paid to the members of the Lakefield team, who richly deserve the honours that were given them last night. The battles of the season were fought over again in merry conversation, while the many good things on the bill-of-fare were being discussed.

Thanks to the energetic efforts of President C. G. Graham, the banquet was one of the most successful in the history of the League. Every preparation had been made for the enjoyment and entertainment of the guests, and the evening will long be remembered by those who were fortunate enough to be present. It was a representative gathering that sat around the gaily decorated tables, as in addition to the Lakefield and Chieftain teams all the other clubs in the League were well represented, while in addition there were others not connected with any club but who are keenly interested in the welfare of that flourishing organization — the City Hockey League.

Last night's affair was a double function, inasmuch as the presentation of the Stratton Cup was followed by the giving of the Clarke-Graham Cup to the Chieftains, first year winners of the Junior League which was organized at the beginning of the season. All the Chieftains were present and were the recipients of many compliments during the evening, on the splendid showing they had made.

The Lakefield and Chieftain teams occupied seats of honour, while the other clubs were grouped together.

The colours of the champion teams were prominently displayed in the decorations, the tables presenting a most tasteful appearance.

There were present: President C. G. Graham, who acted as toast master in a most acceptable manner; R. M. Glover, Hon. President; Fred A. Clarke, 1st Vice-President; E. N. McWilliams, J. M. Bygott, W. The Toast List

After a most enjoyable repast had been done full justice to, the second part of the programme was opened with a song by Mr. W. McIlroy, who sang the Stein Song from the "Prince of Pilsen" in excellent voice, his effort being received with a warm expression of approval.

Mr. C. G. Graham, President of the League, before commencing the toast list, read a letter from the Hon. Mr. Stratton, in which that gentleman expressed his regret that urgent business kept him away from the banquet, and wishing the Lakefield team and the City League every success.

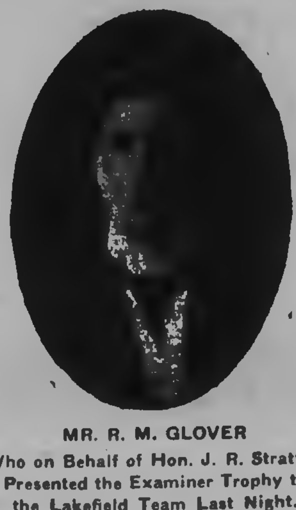
THE EXAMINER TROPHY

Donated by Hon. J. R. Stratton, M.P. and Emblematic of the City Hockey League Championship This Year Held by the Lakefield Team.

Mr. Graham remarked that he was sure every one connected with the League was pleased to be present to entertain the Lakefield team and to see presented to them the Stratton Cup. The winners had put up a plucky fight ever since their coming into the League, and they had a fine record during the past season, winning every League game they played. While the League had not been a success financially during the season, from a playing standpoint it could not be improved upon. Next season he was sure that all the old teams would be back in line, and possible a couple of new clubs,

The toast to the King was heartily honoured, after which Mr. Graham called upon Mr. R. M. Glover to present the Stratton Cup to the victorious Lakefield team.

Presentation of the Cup



MR. R. M. GLOVER

Who on Behalf of Hon. J. R. Stratton Presented the Examiner Trophy to the Lakefield Team Last Night.

In doing so Mr. Glover congratulated first the officers of the League upon the way in which it had been conducted since its inception, and then the Lakefield team on their great showing. Ever since they had become members of the League, the winners of 1908-09 had been putting up a plucky fight. They had been handicapped on account of the fact that they had to play all their games on outside ice, and he was sure that if home and home games had been played, the cup had been won by Lakefield before last season. They were deserving of all the more praise on that account, and their success indicated the moral that success in anything was gained only by keeping at it with perseverance.

Praise for the Straths

The Strathconas were another club that was deserving of much credit for the success of the League. They, with Lakefield, had remained faithfully in the League since they had first joined it, and established the record of having met with only one defeat in a championship game in three years, which mark he was sure would stand for some time. The other teams in the League had played good hockey and would be heard from again.

Mr. Glover complimented the City Hockey League on its success. "The City League," he remarked, "has done a whole lot for hockey in Peterborough. This is shown by the fact that from time to time, players have been taken from its ranks for the O.H.A. teams and there would have been no O.H.A. team in Peterborough during the past season if it had not been for the City League. The Strathconas, Lakefield and the other teams willingly assisted by lending players, and if the older members of the team had started earlier and with the same spirit as the City League players, the O.H.A. Intermediate Championship might have come to Peterborough, and the team might have been worthy of a banquet such as is being given to Lakefield here to-night."

Sport Beneficial

Mr. Glover remarked that hockey had done much for the young men, but it should not be taken too seriously or regarded as the most important thing in life. Sports developed a man physically, morally and socially, but should not be allowed to interfere with business. Mr. Stratton was always anxious to encourage sport, especially amateur sport, and had shown that by the many trophies that he had been glad to present to the different organizations.

In concluding he again congratulated Lakefield, and asked them to accept the Stratton Cup.

The Junior Cup

Mr. C. G. Graham presented the Clarke-Graham Cup, emblematic of the Junior Championship, to the Chieftains. In doing so he stated that the Chieftains had played fine hockey during the season, and were deserving of the greatest of credit for their showing as were the Junior T.A.S. and the George street and Otonabee teams for their playing. Mr. Clarke and himself had decided that some recognition of the playing of the juniors should be made and accordingly they had donated a silver trophy for competition in the Junior League, which he asked the Chieftains to accept as champions for 1908-09.

The toast was honoured in a most enthusiastic manner, the gathering singing "They are jolly good fellows," and giving three cheers and a tiger for the Lakefield and Chieftain teams.

The Champions Reply

Mr. Harry Simpson made a neat speech in reply, on behalf of the Lakefield Club. He thanked Mr. Glover for the Examiner trophy and the kind words that he had spoken and regretted that the Hon. Mr. Stratton had not been present so that they could thank him in person. He expressed the thanks of the Lakefield team to the officers of the League and the other League teams for the reception they had given them, and for the generous treatment they had received all through. He especially wished to thank the hockey fans of Peterborough for the support they had given Lakefield. Although they were an outside team they had always been supported by the people of Peterborough. In conclusion, he complimented the League on its selection of referees during the season.

Mr. E. N. McWilliams replied for the Chieftains, thanking Messrs. Clarke Graham for the beautiful trophy they had presented, and expressed the opinion that if there were more men in Peterborough like the donors of the cup it would be better for sport in this city.

Mr. Jas. Browne favoured the gathering with an excellent rendition of the solo "Some Day when Dreams come True," and was received with hearty applause.

The Referees

The next toast, that to the referees, was a popular one, and was heartily honoured. Mr. L. J. Picard, in proposing the health of the referees, remarked that a great deal of the success of any league depended on the referees, and from what he had seen of the City League officials, he was sure that they were essentially fair and impartial in their rulings and so much so that he had never seen any dispute over their decisions.

Mr. S. W. Rose, replying for the referees, thanked Mr. Picard for his praise, and then congratulated the Lakefield team on winning the City League. They had been coming down to Peterborough for years after the cup, in face of obstacles, and were to be praised for their perseverance. Mr. Rose also congratulated the Chieftains on their fine playing during the year and added a word of praise for the other junior teams.

Mr. George Lynch, another of the League's referees, by way of reply told several funny stories in his inimitable manner amid hearty laughter.

Miss Nellie Graham was heard to great advantage in the song "Take Plenty of Shoes," from "The Boys and Betty," her rendition of the number making such a hit that she had to respond to an encore, singing "You Can Look and You Can Listen, but M-u-m is the Word."

The Ladies

Mr. Irving Beers was called upon to propose the toast to "The Ladies," which he did in a graceful manner. The toast, as might be expected, was enthusiastically honoured. Messrs. F. D. Craig and W. D. Metheral replied suitably on behalf of the fair sex.

President Graham proposed the last toast of the evening, to "The Press," which was responded to by Mr. Chas. Curtis, after which one of the most enjoyable banquets the City League has ever held passed into history amidst the singing of "Auld Lang Syne."

To Miss Kate Graham, who presided at the piano, and who played many selections in her usual clever manner, during the repast, and afterwards acted as accompanist to the singers, the thanks, not only of the City League officers, but of all those who were present last night are due. The officers also wish to express their thanks to Miss Nellie Graham, Messrs. McIlroy and Browne for their kindness in contributing to the musical end of the programme.

The officers of the City League are as follows:—

Patrons and Patronesses: Mayor and Mrs. Rush; Mr. and Mrs. James Kendry; Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Merrell; Mr. and Mrs. V. Eastwood.

Hon. J. R. Stratton, Hon. President.
Geo. N. Graham, Hon. Vice-President.
C. G. Graham, President.
E. N. McWilliams, 1st Vice-President.
Dr. A. W. MacPherson, 2nd Vice-Pres.
Fred D. Craig, Secretary-Treasurer.

Every "Caloric" lower burner-cup, besides being deep, is made with an air-mixer, which latter section has nickel-plated cover for air adjustment. Upper face of burner being corrugated causes a current of air to pass between the corrugations and intermix with the gas. The air and gas are thus thoroughly blended before ignition takes place, which prevents the escape of gas.

Every burner automatically drilled, hence the uniform flame. The "Caloric" system stands for rigid gas economy, great velocity of flame, and safety of operation.

CIT COUNCIL BESIEGED BY MANY DEPUTATIONS LAST NIGHT AT THE BUSIEST SESSION IN MANY MONTHS

American Company Claims City Has Infringed Upon Their Patent—Ald. Hicks Gives Important Notice of Motion—57th Regiment Asks Assistance From City to Entertain Visiting Regiments.

AN AFFAIR AT FIRE HALL.

DEPUTATIONS HEARD.

The following deputations waited upon the Council last night at their regular meeting:

From the 57th Regiment, asking if the City would help entertain the visiting regiments on May 24th.

R. E. Leary and C. E. Dettman, asking for the extension of their franchise in connection with boring for gas.—Granted until June 30th.

From Horticultural Society, in regard to the preventing of persons walking on the grass of the city's parks.

From the Peterborough Gun Club re the privilege of shooting at clay birds on Riverside Park.

From the citizens asking that a local option by-law be prepared for next January's elections.

From a number of electricians re a measure to guarantee the efficiency of electric wiring.

Last night was reception night for the City Council. It was the regular monthly meeting, but the outstanding feature was the number of deputations that were heard. Their requests were listened to with respect, and treated with due consideration, and also despatch. As one of the city fathers stated, the requests of the deputations were received with courtesy, caution and celerity. The session was one of the busiest of the present year.

The Council assembled first downstairs on Committee of the Whole, with all the aldermen present excepting Ald. Turner, who arrived later.

The business done in committee was almost entirely confined to the hearing of the deputations.

From the 57th Regiment.

Col. Stevenson, Major Clegg and Major Bennett comprised a deputation from the 57th Regiment. The presence of the military in complete uniform was something very much out of the ordinary in the affairs of the Council. Col. Stevenson, acting as spokesman, stated that the Regiment intended to bring the Brantford Regiment to the city on May 24th, and would probably invite one or two other regiments to come here on the same day. Following the precedent the Council had established on the occasion of the Ottawa regiment's visit to Peterborough when the city had financially assisted the Regiment to entertain the visitors, Cal. Stevenson asked for a similar assurance that the Council would lend their help on this occasion. The visitors left a considerable amount of money here, and if two or more regiments are invited the sum will reach a large figure. Boats will likely be chartered to convey the "invaders" over the lift lock and by other means steps will be taken to entertain them.

Mayor Rush promised that the Council would carefully consider the question.

Mr. Leary Heard.

After the "militia" representatives had retired "in good order" ex-Ald. Leary and Mr. C. E. Dettman were heard in connection with the extension of their franchise for the distribution of gas in the city. Mr. Leary stated that it was only recently that the entire lease of the land had been secured and the former franchise expired on March 31st last. Mr. Leary stated that Mr. Dettman was now ready to go on with the work of drilling. On motion of Ald. Duffus and Morgan the franchise was extended for two months, until June 30th.

The Horticultural Society.

Messrs. Peter Campbell and Harry L. Beal addressed the Council on behalf of the Horticultural Society in regard to the city parks. The Society experiences great trouble from men and boys crossing the sod of the parks by which a damage is done which costs considerable to repair. A man had been placed at Victoria Park to try to persuade them to walk around, but he could not stop them and was further told that he had no authority in the matter. The Chief of Police was communicated with, but stated that he had no authority to arrest those who persisted in the practice. The society has a ten-year lease of Victoria Park from the county. They asked, through their representatives, that a by-law be prepared to put a stop to this nuisance or in some way to prevent it. The Council will have the City Solicitor consider the question and upon his report defends future action.

The Gun Club.

Messrs. Llewellyn Hall and Chris. Wood apeared in the interests of the Peterborough Gun Club. They asked for the privilege of shooting at clay birds on Riverside Park, a privilege which they had formerly enjoyed several years ago.

On motion of Ald. Duncan and Bradburn their request was granted, providing the Club assumes all responsibility. The members of the Club shoot from the south end of the Park, towards the river. Mr. Hall stated that the force of the bullets was spent in less than 100 yards. The Club would assume all responsibility.

At the Council meeting later, as a matter of precaution, it was moved by Ald. Duffus and Turner that the matter of the Gun Club's practising be referred to the City Solicitor, in order to guarantee that the City would not be liable for any accident which might happen.

Fire Hall Affair.

Ald. Buller brought up Saturday night's affair at the fire hall. He stated that the man (Frank Reynolds) had been duly warned to keep away from the hall. Ald. Buller had also instructed the Chief to eject anyone who entered under the influence of liquor. Reynolds had received a letter notifying him not to go there. Ald. Buller understood that he was in that condition on Saturday night and had told the Chief that he had received the letter and he was "going in and out when he liked." He would not go out as asked, and had to be put out, and as a result there was a Police Court case to materialize in a few days.

On motion of Ald. Buller and Morrow the City Solicitor will be asked to represent the city's interests in the case. The former stated that the Fire Chief was a city official and should be treated just the same as if some person tried to throw the City Clerk around in his office. Ald. Metherall, Morgan and Duncan asked several questions and expressed their opinions before the motion was voted on.

At this stage Rev. Mr. Webb entered and stated that a deputation had been waiting patiently for some time in the Council Chamber, and desired to know when the Council would go upstairs. The Committee of the Whole immediately adjourned.

The Council's Work.

A deputation of citizens was heard in regard to the submitting of a local option by-law to be voted on next January. An account of this is found in another column.

Mr. J. H. Burnham appeared on behalf of Mr. Kennedy, who has asked for $60 damages from the city for injuries received by falling on the sidewalk at the corner of Hunter and Chambers streets, February 22, 1908. Mr. Burnham had remarked the dangerous condition of the sidewalk on that occasion. The sun melted the snow on Chambers street, but the water froze on Hunter street sidewalk in the shade of the buildings on the south side of the street. He himself hed fallen three times on the spot where Mr. Kennedy had met with the mishap on the sidewalk on the north side. Mr. Burnham pointed out the danger that existed and asked the Council to favourably consider Mr. Kennedy's petition. The petition was referred to one of the standing committees.

Communications.

A communication was received from the legal firm of Cox, Kimball and Stowe of Buffalo, N. Y., as follows:

To the Mayor of Peterborough,

Dear Sir, We desire to call your attention to the claim of our client, the Cameron Septic Tank Co., of Chicago, against your City for an infringement of its patented process for the disposal of sewage, patent No. 58527, dated Dec. 27th, 1897, issued to D. Cameron and others, like patents for which process are held by our client in the U. S., the validity of which have been recognized by our highest courts. We will be glad to negotiate with your city for the purpose of adjusting our clients' claim, and permitting the future use of the process.

We might state for your information that when the City of Toronto installed a similar process for the disposal of its sewage, it negotiated with our client, recognized the patents and paid a license fee for the privilege of using the process.

If you will kindly let us know how long your disposal plant has been in use and the cost of constructing the same we will be pleased to take up the matter of giving you a definite figure for the purpose of settlement.

Mr. A. P. Poussette wrote asking for an amendment to the peddlers' by-law. Received.

The Tax Roll.

The statement of the tax roll, ending March 31st, was received from City Tax Collector Green, and was as follows:

Total amount deposited	151,647.34

Mr. F. H. Dobbin, on behalf of the Publishers' Association of Peterborough, wrote thanking the Council for what they had done in entertaining the members of the Canadian Press Association on their recent visit to Peterborough.—Received.

James Fairley asked that something be done to allow the water to get away from the corner of Bolivar and William streets, and thereby avoid an action for damages.—Board of Works.

W. Little wrote asking for a rebate on street watering for the five-house terrace on Stewart street, between Brock street and Hunter street. He stated that the terrace is not on the plan where the watering cart works.—Board of Works.

From Dennistoun, Peck, and Kerr, representing Mr. David Evans, asking for damages for their client, who, it was stated, had received injuries by falling on the north side of London street on March 18. The charge is made that the sidewalk is defective.—Legal Committee.

In connection with the claim the City Engineer wrote stating that he had investigated the matter and found that Mr. Evans had not been seriously injured.

John Meharry wrote asking permission to build a boat house at the foot of Sherbrooke street at the water edge.—Property Committee.

W. H. Moore, acting for Edmund Conroy, put in a claim of six dollars for damages done to his client's automobile on Charlotte street, near the Snowden House, on Feb. 28th. It was stated in Mr. Moore's letter that the damage resulted from a deep gutter on the street.—Legal Committee.

Street Commissioner Evans reported in connection with Mr. Conroy's claim that the gutter had been made by the Street Railway Company's employees, that it was not more than 6 inches deep and that the city was not responsible for the claim.

City Solicitor Hall also gave the opinion that the city was not liable.

Claims Fifty Dollars.

Messrs. O'Connell and Gordon wrote in behalf of Dr. Jas. V. Gallivan, asking $50.00 on account of damage caused to their client's goods and effects in his home at the corner of Hunter and Aylmer streets, as a result of a defective sewer.—Legal Committee.

Kerr, Davidson, Patterson and McFarland, of Toronto, solicitors for the C. G. E. Co., L't'd., wrote regarding the building of the new waterworks dam. They stated that they hoped the building of the new dam would not affect the power privileges of the C. G. E. dam at Nassau, and notifying the city that the Canadian General Electric Co. would protect their rights in that regard.

H. L. Beal, secretary of the Peterborough and Ashburnham Horticultural Society, wrote stating that the Society intended making extensive improvements to the upper part of Victoria Park, as had been arranged with the County Council. To do this work properly the Society requests the Council to have the band concerts in Central Park this summer. They also ask for all the road scrapings available to be used in making the improvements. Mr. Beal, in his letter, also suggested that a meeting of the Council, the Board of Education, the 57th Regiment and the Horticultural Society be held in order to come to an understanding as to what improvements, if any, will be best suited to all parties in connection with Central Park.

Mr. John Riddell and a number of others wrote asking for a cement crossing on Walton street.—Referred to Board of Works.

From T. Q. Quartermaine, Secretary of the Board of Trade, thanking the City Council for the use of the Council chamber for the meetings of the Board.

Ald. Gillespie requested the construction of a short stretch of walk in East City, and asked the Board of Works to put it on their list of sidewalks for this year.

Notice of Motion.

Ald. Hicks gave notice that he would bring up the following motion at another meeting:

Moved by Ald. Hicks, seconded by Ald. Morgan, that a petition be prepared by the City Solicitor to the Legislature of Ontario, asking that authority be given to the Council of this city to provide for the management of the streets and fire department and other public departments, and the expenditure of money for these purposes by Commissioners elected by the municipal electors.

Report of Finances.

The report of the Finance Committee was presented by Ald. Morrow, recommending that the following accounts be paid:

Wilson and Cousins, $7.00; J. Edgar $34.15; The Peterborough Fuel and Cartage Co., $9.50; Weir & O'Brien, $38.59; Kingan Hardware Co., $11.35; The Market Drug Store, $7.75; Hugh S. Macdonald, $1.50; Fanning's Steam Laundry, $10.13; Fitzgerald & Co., $1.50; F. C. Cubitt, $4.95; W. J. Kennedy, $3.65; Benj. Shortly, $7.95; Messrs. Bullied & Irwin, 50c.; C. P. R. Co., telegraph, $1.68; F. L. Robinson, $4.00; The Municipal World, $1.30; B. Morrow, $14.00; Dr. G. C. Leach, $5.00; Grand Trunk Railway system, $12.03; Bell Telephone Co., $1.45; Peterborough Water Commissioners, $3.07; Times Printing Co., $110.09; A. J. Cameron, $21.00; The Peterborough Examiner, $8.50; Wm. Hetherington, $3.00.

Legal Committee.

The report of the Legal Committee was read as follows, by Ald. Turner:

1. That Johnston Greer be paid $90.00 in settlement of his claim for damages on account of an accident on Water street in accordance with an offer made by him.

2. That no action be taken on the claim of W. G. Metheral for damages on account of interference with his business, while the Brock Street bridge was being rebuilt.

Property Committee.

Ald. Bradburn read the following report of the Property Committee:

1. That the offer from G. H. Savigny for a strip of land on the southwest corner of Aylmer and Westcott streets, and an offer from W. S. Robinson of $100 for a strip of land on the northwest corner of Aylmed and Westcott streets, be accepted.

2. That this Committee be authorized to sell a lot, 40 feet by 30 feet, owned by the city on Aylmer street, between Lake and Westcott streets.

3. That this Committee be authorized to have the roof of the building on the north side of Simcoe street, owned by the city, repaired.

Ald. Metheral [illegible] the cost of constructing cement crossings to be met by debentures, but that it be paid out of the current account. Ald. Hicks supported him. Ald. Phelan and Turner moved that the question be referred back to the Board of Works.

Ald. Morrow suggested that they find out how many crossings were going to be built during the year. This was agreed upon and other motions were withdrawn.

Ald. Turner considered that the city was liable for the damage done to Mr. T. H. Hooper's illuminated sign, by the road roller. Ald. Phelan replied that the Board of Works had acted upon the advice of the City Solicitor.

Ald. Morrow asked if the Board of Works intended to build a cement walk across Central Park. It was suggested that the cinder path was preferable. The matter was referred to the Board of Works.

A communication was received from Mr. P. Thompson, Plumbing Inspector, asking for an increase in salary, from $525.00 to $600.00.—Referred to Finance Committee.

DEATH OF A FORMER PETERBOROUGH RESIDENT

Narcisse Feeley, at the Advanced Age of 83, Died in Michigan.

The following obituary of the death of Narcisse Feeley, former resident of Peterborough, which appeared in a Michigan paper, was sent to Miss Rudkins of this city, to whom we are indebted for the information:

"Narcisse Feeley died Saturday evening at the home of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Rousseau, after an attack of lagrippe which sickness now confines his widow also to a sick bed at her daughter's home. The aged pair came from Cheboygan to spend the winter with the Rousseau family. Mr. Feeley was 83 years of age.

"Deceased was born at St. Isidore, Montreal, and came to Cheboygan twenty-five years ago. For some time Mr. Feeley resided at Peterborough, Ont.; and here he was married fifty-five years ago to Miss Siserine Fisher, who survives him.

"By his wife, who survives him, he had twelve children, four of whom are still living—one son, Joseph, living in Milwaukee, and three daughters, Mrs. Joseph Rosseau of St. Ignace, Mrs. St. Germain of Baraga and Mrs. Gauthier of Denver, Col.

"The funeral took place from St. Ignatius Church Tuesday morning, Rev. Father Geers, of Newberry, who was here to assist in the "Forty Hours" devotion, celebrating high requiem mass; the emains were intered in St. Ignatius cemetery. There was a large attendance in the church, and a number of floral tributes from friends.

"Relatives and friends from a distance attending the funeral included, Joseph Feeley, the son, from Milwaukee; Miss St. Germain, a granddaughter, from Baraga; T. Fisher, a brother of Mrs. Feeley, from Peterborough, Ont.; Mr. and Mrs. Capstram, Mrs. St. Louis and daughter, Mr. George Clark and sister, Mr. Taunt, all from Cheboygan."

FERROZONE

A case showing how Ferrozone acts is illustrated by the following from Mrs. H. Wright, of Enfield, N.S.:

"Six months ago I experienced a serious illness. It commenced with splitting headaches, dull pains through my chest and shoulders. I found it hard to get satisfying sleep—would roll and toss, and in the morning felt tired all over. Then I grew nervous, lost flesh, got pale, and had heavy dark circles under my eyes. My strength got so low I couldn't do housework. I was worried and unable to eat, and feared I would not get well. Ferrozone braced me up in a few weeks. It seemed to supply wonderful strength. I gained in flesh, looked better, and was able to sleep. In all I took twelve boxes of Ferrozone, and my cure was complete."

If Ferrozone doesn't help you, and cure you—then nothing ever will; your druggist sells it in 50c boxes. Better try Ferrozone.

TO-DAY IN THE STOCK MARKET.

Furnished by J. N. Barber.—

New York, April 6.—Influenced by lower prices from London stocks opened quiet and generally a fraction lower. There seemed to be a cessation of bull activity in the stocks, which have been so strong of late, and a disposition was shown to let some of the followers take their profits. A few specialists were taken in hand and boosted, as was to be expected in a market like to-day's. Lead was the strongest, opening up a full point and then gaining two more. Smelters advanced in sympathy, too, while the Gould issues were strong under the lead of Mo. Pac. Rock Islands were also taken in hand, and put to new high figures, and later reacting. The tone in the general list was reactionary, however, and at noon the active rails were a point under last night. There was no news of a disturbing nature, and it looked as if the leading interests wanted to give the market a breathing spell after the recent advances.

Aldermen Discuss Electing By The Ward System And Others

The members of the Council discussed the question of the present method of electing the representatives of the people for municipal matters. Some want to go back to the old method of election for one year. Others want the ward system. There are some that are satisfied with existing conditions and, apparently, there is a wide divergence of opinion.

Ald. Morgan introduced the question by moving that a by-law be prepared for the purpose of changing the system of voting to the ward system. Ald. Buller seconded his motion.

Ald. Hicks was not in favour of the ward system, and he also considered that it would be better to revert to the former system of electing the aldermen for one year. Ald. Buller supported the ward system and also the one-year term. Ald. Bradburn and Phelan considered that the present plan should be given a fair trial. It had just been introduced at the last elections and ought not be discarded until a fair trial was given it.

Ald. Metheral and Duncan were in favour of the one-year term, but as to the system of electing by wards they considered that the voice of the people should be obtained.

Ald. Gillespie favoured the general vote. Better men, he thought, were elected and it does away with "pulling."

Ald Duncan laughingly remarked that the two members from the east ward were pulling as strongly now as they would under any system.

Moved by Ald. Phelan and Morrow in amendment, that the question be left over for three months.—Carried by a vote of seven to five.

Ald. Morgan asked for the ayes and nays, which resulted as follows.

Nays—Ald. Metheral, Morgan, Duncan, Turner and Buller.

Ayes—Ald. Phelan, Morrow, McIntyre, Gillespie, Bradburn, Duffus and Hicks.

Ald. Morgan asked the Mayor to vote. He replied that he did not care to vote on it as it was not necessary, and then said, "Oh, I am not afraid to vote," and cast his ballot with the Ayes.

The original motion was therefore defeated and the question as to changing the system of voting was shelved for three months.

The lacrosse enthusiasts of the city are reminded of the meeting to-night in the Crown Hotel, for the purpose of considering the season's outlook, of selecting a representative for the C. L. A. meeting in Toronto on Good Friday and also to elect the officers of the local club, and get ready for the first practices. The younger blood are requested to be present and are urged to get into the game as they will be given a chance with the older players who have decided to play the game for the locals this summer. There is a strong evidence of a revival of the old time favourite game and everyone in any way interested is asked to attend to-night's meeting.

ANNUAL MEETING OF LAWN BOWLERS

Will be Held on Thursday Evening—A Large Attendance Expected

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Lawn Bowling Association will be held on Thursday evening in the chambers of the Dominion Bank, when the reports of the several officers will be reeived, the officers for the coming year elected and the prospects for the coming summer will be discussed. Last year was one of the most successful in the history of the local club. The membership was large, the grounds had been improved and as a result the games were highly interesting. It is felt that the club will have even a better season this summer and it is desired that as large as number of the members as possible attend the meeting on Thursday night.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

THE LORAIN AMUSEMENT CO.

Commencing next Thursday evening, April 8th, the Lorain Amusement Company will appear at the Grand Opera House. The local management have been working on a plan for some time by which they would give the people a great big evening's entertainment at the ridiculously low price of 10 cents for adults and 5 cents for children. Ridiculous as it may seem, however, they have been able to make arrangements whereby a complete entertaining show of two hours' duration will be given at these low prices. Besides running 4,000 to 5,000 feet of the very latest and best moving pictures, the Lorain people bring with them five real good vaudeville acts that cannot fail to be popular. The newest illustrated songs will also be put on and the entire programme changed for each performance. A special matinee will be given Good Friday afternoon at 2:30.

Watch for Amateur Night.

LT.-COL. C. CLARKE HAS PASSED AWAY

Father of Mr. Jas. D. Clarke of the Examiner Staff is Dead at Elora—Was Formerly Clerk of the Legislature.

Mr. James D. Clarke, of the Examiner business staff, has been summoned to Elora, Ont., through the death of his father, Lieut.-Col. Chas. Clarke, who died at 1 o'clock this morning, after an illness of three weeks. Mr. Clarke's many friends in Peterborough will sympathize with him in his bereavement. A despatch from Elora says:

Elora, April 6—Lieut.-Colonel Chas. Clarke, formerly Clerk of the House for the Legislative Assembly of Ontario, died this morning after an illness of three weeks. Colonel Clarke caught cold in returning from a dinner at Government House, Toronto, three weeks ago. The cold developed into la grippe, and from that time his condition grew rapidly worse, his advanced age giving him little chance to throw off the attack. At the aged gentleman's bedside at the moment of death were his wife and five daughters. He was born in 1826.

The deceased is survived by a widow and three sons, Dr. Charles K. Clarke, Superintendent of the Toronto Hospital for the Insane; Richard, now in New Ontario; James, of the Peterborough Examiner, and five daughters, Mrs. Ballantyne, wife of Rev. Prof. Ballantyne, of Toronto; Mrs. Thomas Ballantyne, of Stratford, Mrs. W. Workman of Kingston, Mrs. James Metcalf of Grimsby, and Miss Gerda, at home.

Speaking of his death the Toronto Globe of to-day says:

Lieut.-Colonel Clarke, who resigned his position as Clerk of the House for the Legislative Assembly of Ontario, was one of the most kindly and loving of men. His good nature was as unfailing as his courtesy and desire to aid. Not only will his death be regretted by many past and present members of the Legislature and many who are in the civil service of the province, as well as by a large circle of general friends and acquaintances, but also by a host of newspapermen throughout Ontario. During his term of office as Clerk, the newspapermen made many demands upon his time and assistance, and he never failed them.

GENTLEMEN WHO ARE BALD.

It is not often an opportunity occurs at your door to see the latest Parisian and New York styles in Hair Goods, yet such is the case, as Prof. Dorenwend of Toronto, is visiting this town, and invites your inspection of these goods at his private apartments reserved at the Hotel.

These Hair Goods styles, when properly adjusted protect and ornament the head, soften and beautify the expression of the face, and consequently tone up an aged appearance. Be sure and see them at Oriental Hotel, Peterborough, on Wednesday, April 7th.

BOWLING

The Novice Bowling League was inaugurated at the I.B.C. alleys last night, when the first game of the schedule arranged was played between the Quakers and Gay Cats, the Porridge men putting it over the festive felines in three straight games. The games were close, especially the second, which the Cereal men captured by the scanty margin of five pins. Some good rolling was done, Dusty getting 194 and Kirn 191 in the last game, which is pretty classy bowling for the novices. The second game will be played tomorrow night when the Kids and the Fresh Air Club will clash.

Last night's scores were as follows:

QUAKERS—
Pratt	116	127	134—	377
Sullivan	150	142	153—	445
Kirn	91	145	191—	427

OPENING OF THE DAIRY SEASON

From Farm and Dairy.

The dairy season is opening up under more favorable conditions than a year ago, especially the cheese branch of it. There has been no serious scarcity offered, and cows have come through the winter under normal conditions and are in shape to enter upon a season of milk production unhampered by being run down and in this condition, as was the case a year ago, where there was not enough feed to go round. Given warm spring weather and favorable comes, they should be able to give a good return to the producer. A good start is important. Last year cows did not have a good start and the season was pretty well over before many of them regained normal condition as to flesh and vitality, and were in a position to give a good account of themselves at the milk pail.

The present condition of the cheese trade is favorable for a good start. Old stocks were already pretty well cleaned out and it will be clear sailing for the new make when it is ready for market. Prices are satisfactory. A little fodder cheese was made during March but not enough to base any conclusions upon as to what the price will be. All of it was sold locally. There will probably be considerable cheese made in April. The low price of butter will cause more cheese to be made than would otherwise be the case were butter selling at the prices of a year ago at this time. The number of dairymen, who prefer to make butter in the early months of the season rather than cheese, in order to give their calves a start has increased of late years. But the high price of cheese and the low price of butter will have considerable influence and, at least a fair make of cheese may be looked for from the start.

The outlook for butter might be better. Prices to-day are fully 7c. or 8c. a lb. less than they were a year ago. Dealers who have handled butter have lost money. This will make them desire to keep prices down in order to recover their losses. Were the present conditions of the butter market a local one the situation would not be so bad. But nearly every butter producing country is in the same box. The United States, Australia, New Zealand, Argentina, Great Britain and other European countries will, therefore, take some time for the market to recover, and producers may be thankful if prices do not go any lower. For a couple of years prices in Canada have been too high to make it profitable to export butter and consequently our trade with Great Britain has dwindled to a pretty small compass. The general reduction in values may make it possible to extend the export trade considerably the coming season. That, however, will depend upon conditions abroad as well as at home.

The tickets for Lulu Glaser in "M'lle Mischief" The banner Musical Comedy of the Continent are selling rapidly. If you have not booked your seats yet, do so to-night. Box Office open until 9 o'clock.

A WOMAN POISONED

Moose Jaw Merchant's Wife Comes to a Mysterious End.

SHE TOOK GOPHER POISON

Parcel Supposed to Contain Medicine Sent to Home of Mrs. A. J. Kent by a Strange Woman Proves to Be Deadly Mixture—Police Do Not Know Whether It Is a Case of Murder or Suicide.

Moose Jaw, Sask., April 7.—Mrs. A. J. Kent, wife of a prominent city merchant, died suddenly Saturday evening. Yesterday sensational circumstances developed which render a coroner's inquest necessary. The deceased woman visited friends on Saturday evening, where she expired suddenly after appearing in the best of health.

It now appears that during Saturday afternoon a parcel containing medicine was left at the Kent house. About six o'clock Mrs. Kent was called on the telephone by a party having sent the medicine over. After eating supper she took a considerable quantity of the alleged medicine, which has since turned out to be gopher poison.

It has been learned that the party who called over the telephone was a woman speaking from the C.P.R. pay station.

No replies have been received to an advertisement offering $25 reward for the discovery of the boy who left the parcel containing the poison at the Kent home Saturday afternoon. The general impression is that it is a case either of murder or suicide. The bottle containing the poison bore no poison label and the police are satisfied that it was procured outside the city.

There was evidently some understanding between the deceased and the woman who furnished the supposed "medicine." Snatches of 'phone conversation between the two, overheard by the telephone operator, go to show that the parcel was expected by the deceased. The late Mrs. Kent was born at Gibson, N.B., 32 years ago, and was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Kyle. For some years before her marriage she lived at Vancouver. Three and a half years ago she married. She was an active church and temperance worker.

DISAPPOINTED IN LOVE.

Canadian Nurse In Albany, N.Y., Commits Suicide.

Albany, N.Y., April 7.—Disappointed in love, Ethel C. Shaw, an attractive woman about 28 years of age, was found dead in her room in the Ten Eyck Hotel yesterday morning. Death was due to an overdose of morphine and strychnine taken hypodermically. Miss Shaw was a nurse and registered from New York City. She has a brother living in Montreal.

The woman left several letters, including one addressed to Dr. G. Scott Towne, health officer of Saratoga, in which she said:

"My Dear Boy,—Unfortunately I have got very fond of you, so the breaking of our engagement means to me complete wreckage. Don't get any other girl to love you.

"Yours, Ethel C. S."

The postscript read: "No mother has a right to spoil a son's life. When two people marry they should be given a chance. Every woman knows this."

Claims For Death.

Lindsay, April 7.—Mrs. Mulvihill, whose husband was killed recently which working on the Grand Trunk as engineer, was awarded by the company's claims agent $1,800 damages. Last fall a son of James Capstick of Bobcaygeon had his leg amputated by a G.T.R. yard engine and died. Mr. Capstick has been allowed $550.

Have Sleuth's Murderer.

Palermo, April 7.—The police believe that they have in custody the murderer of Joseph Petrosino, the chief of the Italian Bureau of the New York police force, who was killed in this city on March 12. The man is Carlo Constantine and Antonio Passanante and Vito Casieferro are regarded as his accomplices.

They Voted For The Opposition Against The Government's Canadian Northern Grant

Toronto, April 7.—The first division of the Legislature took place last night on the second reading of Sir James Whitney's bill to grant aid to the Canadian Northern Ontario Railway.

The debate lasted from 3 in the afternoon until 11 o'clock, when the Opposition moved in amendment that the bill be "read this day six months."

The members were called in and the amendment declared lost on a division of 21 yeas, 73 nays, the Government majority being 52. Allan Studholme (East Hamilton), P. H. Bowyer (East Kent), and W. P. Tubman (West Kent), voted with the Opposition.

To facilitate progress the other Government bills respecting aid to railways were given a second reading, the Opposition retaining the right to move an amendment on the third reading.

"And, now," said the Premier, "in extension) I wish to say that the Gov. transaction. They are proud that everybody in the country approves of what has been done.

"They are proud of the fact that they are not afraid, even in the face of probable opposition, to take an open stand.

"They are proud of the fact, and naturally so, being human, that this bill shows for the first time in civilisation that the prospective settlers gets such treatment as he deserves.

"They are proud of the fact that this bill, the more it is considered, will commend itself to reasonable men wherever reasonable men can be found.

In a spirited address Mr. MacKay moved a six months' postponement of the measure.

Sir James had declared that a finite mind could scarcely grapple with the problem, and Mr. MacKay, after listening to Sir James' labored explanation was almost convinced of that. The Canadian Northern had asked for a cash grant and been refused. They were receiving what they did not ask. Mr. MacKay regretted they had not asked for a land grant. He declared that the road would be built anyway, claimed that most of the land was equal to that of Manitoba and that the timber values averaged $52,000 a mile.

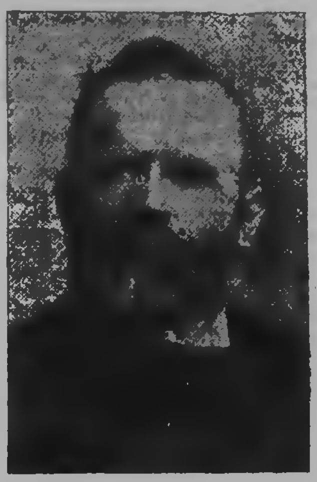
In moving the second reading the Premier referred to the general principle of the measure, which was to grant 4,000 acres per mile for a line of railway from Sellwood to Port Arthur, approximately 500 miles, 350 of which will traverse the clay belt.

The Premier drew an analogy from the exactions of the Canada Company in its treatment of settlers, which the Government would altogether prevent in this instance. At the same time he proposed to amend the bill in regard to the clause by which the Government would regulate the sale of this land. If the grant is to be of value for financing they would have to deal fairly with the company. The amendment read: "Provided that the terms and conditions set out in any such order in council and referring to any specific act shall not be set aside, changed or varied in any subsequent order in council unless by agreement."

George Taylor, M.P., Raises A Row In House Of Commons

Ottawa, April 7.—George Taylor, chief Conservative "whip," on Friday night made a speech which yesterday aroused the Minister of Marine and Fisheries to get up and make a reply. Mr. Taylor's reply to the reply came almost to the point of raising another tempest.

The Taylor contribution of Friday night was a selection from the chief whip's favorite volume, the Auditor-General's report. Therein he professed to have found that the country was paying $25 for one lady's cloak, $13 a piece for seven ladies' blouses, and $30 a piece for eight ladies' costumes, amounting in all to $744.50.



GEORGE TAYLOR, M.P.
Who Tried Hard to Make Trouble In the House Yesterday.

These items for ladies' finery were concealed in the appropriation for the St. Lawrence ship channel, he declared.

Mr. Taylor asked how much mud this amount would take out, and he proceeded to ask the Prime Minister why he had allowed the Minister of Marine to put his hand in the public chest and take out money for this purpose.

Mr. Brodeur made no reply, and the Liberal members treated the whole matter as a pleasantry.

Rising to a question of privilege Hon. Mr. Brodeur yesterday detailed the Taylor speech and proceeded to say that he had remonstrated with his officers for allowing the public money to be wasted.

When he saw Mr. Taylor reading from the Auditor-General's report he took his word for it, but the explanation he got from his officers was that there was nothing in the accounts for ladies' wearing apparel. The "blouses" and "costumes" were for the sailors of the Government fleet.

Then Taylor rose to reply, but he did not have the expected apology ready at hand. He had said nothing personal against the Minister, he maintained.

"Be a man," cried several Government supporters, and Taylor came back with the retort, "If the right hon. gentleman wants this debate to continue, he'd better call off his bull dogs."

Mr. Speaker was prompt to take the floor with the demand for order.

"Then I withdraw the word," said Taylor, "but they are acting like them. If they want to get up a row like Friday night, we can go on."

Hon. Sydney Fisher claimed that the last sentence was a threat, and Mr. Speaker so held it.

"No member is allowed to use threatening words," he declared and Mr. Taylor withdrew, adding that he would obey the ruling of the chair. It was true that the word "ladies" did not appear in the accounts, "but the Auditor-Geenral condenses," he said.

"Too thin," put in Mr. Fisher.

"The Minister of Agriculture knows nothing about ladies' blouses," replied Taylor, who went on to say that if one would go into any store and ask for a blouse he would be shown to the ladies' department. He promised to move at the next meeting of the public accounts committee to have the accounts produced, and he would show that the Department bought any amount of stuff for ladies.

"Fancy," he went on, "blouses at $15 a piece for men to work on the dredging barges." The incident then closed.

The Conservatives yesterday challenged the vote of a million dollars for the Trent Canal.

The House was in concurrence, which is usually a dull proceeding, the clerk reading the items of estimates already passed in committee of the whole and Mr. Speaker declaring them carried. When the Trent Canal item was reached Major Currie moved, seconded by Mr. Middleboro, that the amount be reduced by whatever expenditure is required for the Newmarket Canal.

The division resulted as follows: Yeas, 52; nays, 80.

M. Crothers (West Elgin) called the attention of the Minister of Public Works yesterday to a communication he had received from Port Stanley that the wages of the laborers on the Government pier were in arrears three months.

It was a great hardship that these men should be kept out of their money for such a length of time, especially at his time of the year.

Mr. Pugsley replied that he had no complaint, but he would look into the matter.

CONFERENCE OVER TREATY.

Messrs. Aylesworth and Gibbons Argue at Washington.

Washington, April 7.—The treaty relating to the disposition of the waters of St. Mary's river, between Michigan and the Canadian boundaries, which was ratified by the Senate in an amended form, was yesterday the subject of a conference by representatives of the Canadian and American Governments.

Hon A. B. Aylesworth, Minister of Justice, and George C. Gibbons, represented the Dominion of Canada, while Secretary Knox, Senator Root, Attorney-General Wickerham, Secretary Dickinson, of the War Department, and Charlier Anderson, attorney for the Department of State, represented the United States.

The visitors, it is understood, were favorably impressed with the statements made to them by the Americans regarding their interpretation of the Senate amendment by which a disposition of the waters of the St. Mary's river available for power purposes, shall be on a basis of the territorial rights of the two Governments.

The conference yesterday led to the hope that a speedy disposition of the controversy over the treaty will be reached.

The Canadians will remain in Washington for several days, but no further conferences have been arranged.

Charity's Reward.

By MURIEL HAYNES.

Copyrighted, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.

"Dicky Ames, you're the most provoking"—

"But best brother that ever lived," concluded Richard Ames. "Look here, Maude; I'll give up my intention of taking Miss Hempsted out driving and devote the time instead to the noble cause of rummage, but only with the understanding that if I give up the society of the beautiful Miss Hempsted for sweet charity I am to pick my own company.

"The way you fired me at Nella Brewster's head the night of the church sociable was nothing short of indecent. If she doesn't want to speak to me again, why should you deprive her of that satisfaction?"

"It's not a satisfaction," insisted Dick's sister. "Nella is as utterly miserable as you, and you know it."

"She didn't look that way this afternoon when I passed her skating with Ben Harkinson," commented Dick.

"She's game. She would smile if she had the toothache and happened to see you coming," persisted Maude. "She wouldn't let you see that she was hurt by the way you have acted, but—well, any woman can see that she is dreadfully hurt."

"So much hurt that she could not answer a letter of abject apology I sent her," suggested Dick.

"Did you really send it?" demanded Maude curiously. "She says she never got it and that you didn't even answer hers."

"Because there was none to answer," retorted Dick. "Come on, now! Let us get down to the church and to that charity which is its own reward."

Maude paused uncertainly. It was the first time that Dick had spoken freely about his quarrel with Nella Brewster, and she wanted to sound the trouble to its greatest depths. But here was Dick drawing off just as she had seemed about to reach the bottom.

That the trouble had been trivial at the start she knew, and with two persons like her brother and Nella it was hard to tell where the trouble might end, but the chances were that they would drift farther and farther apart.

Meekly she slipped into her wraps and prepared for the walk to the church, where a rummage sale for the poor was being prepared.

Old clothes were pouring in to be sold to the needy for whatever their slender purses could afford. When Maude led Dick into the Sunday school room he whistled in surprise at the stacks of clothing.

"They are stopping all the time to talk about styles," explained Cheevers. "The moment they get a dress that is out of the ordinary they all stop to see how it's made."

"I heard Gracie Chester say that at last she could be certain that Mrs. Pomeroy's dress wasn't silk lined," answered Dick, with a chuckle.

"By the way," went on Cheevers, "here's something I found in the overcoat of that little darky that the Brewsters brought up from the south with them last winter. Looks as though Alexander had been holding out some letters on you."

He passed over a thin package of letters, and Dick gasped. The envelopes were grimy and worn, but he could see that they were some letters from himself that never had been delivered and others from Nella that had shared the same fate.

He recognized even the letter, in which he had sought to win her forgiveness for all he had said during their last quarrel—a quarrel which had started over some of her letters which he now held in his hand for the first time.

There was a bulky one from Nella that he opened first, and his heart glowed as he realized that without waiting for him to speak Nella had written her own letter of forgiveness.

"I didn't know that there were so many old clothes in town," he declared wonderingly, and one of the workers directed him briskly toward one of the piles

"This is only the first lot," she said. "These are the men's and boys' clothes. Will you help get those straightened out? We want them sorted roughly by sizes."

Dick followed the example of the other men in the room and slipped off his coat before he attacked the pile of garments.

Here were clothes of all sizes and weights, and as he picked up the first garment one of the men on the other side called to him:

"Better go through all the pockets first. I found a dollar bill in a vest awhile ago, and Cheevers did better than that. He found two."

"We should leave them in the clothing," suggested Dick. "Perhaps the donors put them there on purpose."

"They forgot them," declared the other man as he turned to lay a coat on its proper heap, and Dick again bent to his task.

The pile of clothing seemed formidable, but with half a dozen men working briskly they had disposed of the entire lot before the mounds of feminine wear were half sorted.

It was clear now. Alexander was worse than forgotten. He could not forget because he never seemed to know anything.

The letters that were handed him he failed to deliver and then lied out of it when he was taxed. Now Nella was angry because Dick had not answered her gracious little note, and he could not blame her when he knew that she never had received any of his more recent letters.

He slipped the package into his pocket with a word of thanks to Cheevers, and then he left the turmoil of the rummage sale to look for Nella.

He met her just leaving her home, and as he came up the walk she regarded him curiously.

"I came to deliver my letters in person and to make certain of their delivery," announced Dick. "Can you give me a few minutes?"

Nella made no move to re-enter the house, and Dick was too wise to press the point.

"I was helping Maude at the rummage sale," he explained. "Cheevers found these letters in Alexander's old overcoat. I might explain that when I left my letter—this thick one—Alexander was just going out, and he had his overcoat on when he came to the door, but he promised to deliver it to you at once. His ideas of delivery seem to be to stuff things in his pocket and forget all about them."

Nella started as she recognized her own letters, and hastily she glanced over some of them. She saw in a moment what Dick had already realized, and her lips trembled as she recalled the misery she had suffered since the quarrel.

She loved Dick very dearly, even well enough to offer forgiveness when she had felt that he was in the wrong, and to have him make no reply to the kindly letter had hurt both heart and pride.

Now she could see that Dick had promptly concealed his error and that all the suffering had been caused by one small and very black youngster, who had been brought home from the south because he had seemed so "cute."

"I am afraid that Alexander will never make a messenger for Cupid," said Nella softly. "I am so sorry, Dick, that we trusted too much to him, but I had no idea that he was so careless. Think of the trouble that he has caused us both. Will you come in and"—

"Make up?" asked Dick promptly. "To be sure I will and only too glad to do it."

She led the way into the house, and as the great hall door swung shut behind them he caught her in his arms and covered her face with kisses. A low chuckle from the far end of the hall disturbed them, and without a word Dick darted down into the shadows.

There followed wild yells and the sound of strange expletives. Dick came back flushed, but smiling.

"I shook him some," he explained, "for both you and me. Wasn't it just like Alexander to be hanging around?"

"He will be sent home," declared Nella. "We cannot trust him again. You were a dear, Dick, that you didn't kill him."

"I wanted to," admitted Dick, "but, then, what's the use? I've got you again. And all because I helped Maude at the rummage sale. She said that charity, like virtue, was its own reward, but I didn't realize the high premium it paid."

YES!

And if you have been ailing a long time don't lose your courage. It takes a little time—takes some constitutions longer than others. But Doan's Kidney Pills will gradually drain the poisons out of your system; the pain in your back will stop; the sediment in the urine will cease; there will be no rheumatic pains; you will feel freer and brighter, and when the last of the poisons have gone you will be well.

There is no way of getting the kidney poisons out of the system except through the kidneys, and no medicine so effective in taking them out as Doan's Kidney Pills.

Mr. W. Perkins, South Maitland, N.S., writes: "I feel it my duty to let you know of the great cure I have obtained by using Doan's Kidney Pills. For six months I could not obtain a good night's rest, had to get up four or five times to urinate, and the urine was very thick and red. I commenced using Doan's Kidney Pills and in a very short time I was right and fit again. I am very thankful to have found so speedy a cure."

HOW VARIOUS NATIONS LAUGH.

Anglo-Saxons Are Worst Laughers of All Says Singer.

A tenor singer, Mr. Noel Fliming, has just opened in Milan a "school of laughing." Mr. Fliming contends that very few people know how to laugh. They laugh without taking any account of the effect on their listeners, and with a total disregard of the laws of harmony. Mr. Fliming's complete course of "harmonious hilarity" consists of ten lessons, and it is said that a pupil who has gone through the course conscientiously will be able to laugh with that musical modulation and artistic finish which are usually associated with the character of Marguerite in "Faust." It is said that the professor already has a large clientele, and has received numerous letters of encouragement from influential people.

It seems that laughter betokens nationality. The German has a sonorous laugh, without bounds and without purpose. The English laugh is cold, unfeeling, almost condescending, and among the gentry we learn it is a rule never to laugh at all. The Austrian has an elegant, light, and infectious laugh. The Viennese girl laughs frequently, probably on account of her good teeth. The Belgian laughs freely—the laughter of the fair. The American has a ringing and domineering laugh. The American girl's laughter is that of a people who dring good wine, but for some years there has been less laughter in France, possibly due to the great consumption of mineral waters, snobbism, and dental deterioration. The city which laughs the most is Brussels, that which laughs the least is Madrid, and that which laughs best Paris.

CARRIED AWAY BY INDIANS.

Maud Allan Once Had Narrow Escape From Being Squaw.

Perhaps one of the most interesting stories told by Miss Maud Allan, the popular dancer, is that which tells how she was once nearly ran away with by Indians. It was while, as a child, she was journeying from Canada to San Francisco. "The train stopped at a wayside station," she says, "and most of the passengers alighted to obtain glimpses of the many Indians who haunted the place to sell their wares. I don't think my mother once thought of any danger to me, but suddenly she missed me, just as the train was pulling out of the station. There was a hurried search, but I was nowhere to be found. Instantly the conductor pulled back to the platform, and there, running off towards the woods with a glint of flaxen hair under her arm discernible beneath the edge of the red blanket, was an Indian squaw, with another red woman in her trail. My mother says that it was the vivid color of my hair flying in the wind that attracted the attention of my friends. Of course, I was rescued immediately, and soon, baby-like, I forgot my fear, and before we were half-way to our destination I was making free with my fellow-passengers, as brave as ever. But even to-day I can close my eyes and see the reddish-brown face bending over mine as the Indian woman whipped me under her arm and started off."

A Big Deer Park.

It is strange how the number seventeen occurs in the present generation of the family of Lord Leconfield, who, to the great regret of the hunting men in Cumberland, has resigned the mastership of the Cumberland West Foxhounds. His lordship was born on February 17, 1872, at Coates House, Sussex. His elder brother and one of his sisters were born on November 17 in 1868 and 1870 respectively, and the 17th Lancers claimed the services of the present heir-presumptive to the title. Lord Leconfield served in the South African war, was wounded, and acquired a reputation for pluck on the veldt; but up to the present his name has not been seen in Cupid's casualty list. Petworth House, his stately home, near Chichester, is famed for its magnificent collection of pictures—nearly 700 in number, and including Turners, Reynolds, Van Dycks, and Holbeins—its china, embroideries, library, and Grinling Gibbons carvings. The deer park is a very large one, being fourteen miles round, and embraces some striking scenery.

Constipation

Headache

When the bowels are constipated and you have stomach trouble and headache, try Dr. Hamilton's Pills, they are so mild you can scarcely feel their action, yet so effective that the entire secretory apparatus is stimulated to healthy action.

DR. HAMILTON'S PILLS CURE QUICKLY

Thus writes Mrs. D. P. Fowler, from Yarmouth: "I used to feel drowsy and heavy, my color was shallow and there was usualy a bad taste in my mouth. I had vague pains all through my limbs, and an annoying headache as well.

"After one dose of Dr. Hamilton's Pills there was a sudden change. I felt better, my appetite increased, and that exhaustion and depression gradually left me. Life seemed brighter and happier after I used Dr Hamilton's Pills, so I strongly recommend such a good medicine."

160 ACRES FREE

Homesteading Is Not Always the Pleasant Affair It Seems.

Homesteading sounds easy. Ten dollars cash—three years' duties — and the broad acres are yours. But, as The Eye Opener pithily observed, it is a bet between you and the Government that you won't stay on the land for the length of time required to prove upon it; they taking chances that loneliness will drive you away before you can win the wager. Of course, scores and scores have made good at it, having thus obtained valuable farms now worth from $25 to $50 per acre. But, on the other hand, innumerable homesteads are abandoned. The inspection of homestead duties and improvements has tended to become more stringent of late years. But there are always some persons—and a pretty large number—who travel on the thin edge in the matter of "proving up." Consequently, other sharp people are constantly on the lookout for these delinquents—generally absentees—who do not comply with the regulations. A good deal of cancellation is thus done—the investigating party, if not seeking to obtain possession himself, usually having some outside friend whom he is anxious to settle on the land.

Homesteads are abandoned for various reasons. Numbers of settlers drift into the country with little more than the entry fee of $10 in their jeans. These take up land, trusting to luck to worry through somehow. They don't worry through. Others, with money, settle on free Government land, just because it is free. Possibly, after a while they discover that their 160 acres of side hill, alkali, rock, or muskeg, is an elephant of the cream-colored variety. They repent and go elsewhere. And still more get sick to death of the loneliness. It is something akin to imprisonment to think that one is more or less chained to a place for a certain period. Probably this idea, more than anything else, weighs on lonely shackers.

Provided that the homestead is good land, well situated, and that the right kind of man takes it up, he can work away contentedly with the knowledge that when he gets his patent he will be worth from $2,000 to $3,000. In addition to this he can pre-empt (by recent legislation) another quarter section, which he may thus purchase from the Government on very easy terms, but nowadays one might hunt far and wide for free grants, and yet be unsuited.

So the intending settler had best be prepared to buy his land if necessary, which he may do at all prices and on a variety of terms, which include crop payments in some cases. Values range from the improved Manitoba farm property at from $25 to $100 per acre, down to the wild land in the new provinces, which may be had in places, we understand, as low as $7(?). Of this latter the numerous land companies will give the enquirer particulars ad nausea. And the enquirer, on his part, should be equally particular not to buy one foot until he has personally inspected it.

British Money In Canada.

During 1908 Canada has enjoyed the favor of the British investor to an extraordinary extent. Out of a total issue of Canadian securities in the shape of bonds amounting to $196,357,000, Great Britain absorbed $165,000,000, Canada $25,000,000, and the United States $6,000,000, and Government issues were represented by $77,500,000, municipal borrowings by $71,300,000, and bonds and railway and industrial enterprises by $71,300,000. With regard to the small amount taken by the United States, it must be pointed out that the U. S. capitalist's activity in Canada takes another form to that of his fellow-investor in the British Isles. He is exclusively interested in industrial undertakings, in which he invests his capital, and personally controls its application and management; thus most of the great power enterprises of the Dominion have been financed by the United States. Again numerous manufacturing companies in the United States have established branches on Canadian soil, and the purchase of farm lands, timber concessions, mineral lands, etc., represent the character of United States investment, which, according to a conservative estimate, represents an outlay of $200,000,000 during the last ten years. There is no question that the more intimate form of personal investment and interest is one which offers great openings for British captains of industry, and Canadians, while thoroughly appreciating the generous flow of capital that is now taking place to the Dominion from Great Britain, would welcome a new departure in the sense of the United States example, which would bring Englishmen of all classes into close touch with the development of Canada's great natural resources.—Standard of Empire.

Eczema, Salt Rheum.

Eczema or Salt Rheum, as it is often called, is one of the most agonizing of skin diseases. It manifests itself in little round blisters, which contain an extremely irritating fluid. These break and subsequently a crust or scale is formed.

The intense burning, itching and smarting, especially at night or when the part is exposed to any strong heat, are almost unbearable.

The pre-eminent success which Burdock Blood Bitters has met with in permanently curing a disease of such severity is due to its wonderful blood cleansing and purifying properties.

No other remedy has done, or can do, so much for those who are almost driven to distraction with the terrible torture, as our thousands of signed testimonials can testify to.

Mrs. John O'Connor, Burlington, N.S., writes:—"For years I suffered with Salt Rheum. I tried a dozen different medicines, but most of them only made it worse. I was advised to try Burdock Blood Bitters. I got a bottle and before I had taken half a dozen doses I could see a change so I continued its use and now I am completely cured. I cannot say too much for your wonderful medicine."

CANADIANS ON BIBLE.

Toronto Possesses Two High Experts on Holy Writ.

Torontonians will have more than a passing interest in the "Standard Bible Dictionary," which has just been published by Messrs. Funk and Wagnalls, of New York, inasmuch as the list of thirty-seven distinguished Biblical scholars whose names appear as editors includes President R. A. Falconer and Prof. J. F. McCurdy, of Toronto University.

To these gentlemen were assigned some of the most important subjects treated of in this new dictionary, which is one of the most complete and concise works of the kind ever issued.

The fame of Prof. McCurdy as a specialist in Oriental literature is world-wide, and it is no surprise that he should have been chosen to write such historical articles as "Assyria," "Babylonia," "Egypt," "Ethiopia," "Israel," and "The Semitic Religion," each of which is treated to an extent of several pages.

The Pauline epistles to Timothy form the subject of one of Dr. Falconer's principal contributions. Four or five pages are taken up by him in an illustrated historical sketch of the "Money" of the East. About fifty minor topics, such as "Geresa," "Macedonia," "Cyprus," "Crete," "Amen," "Jacob's Well," "Judas Iscariot," also appear over his initials.

The dictionary has been evolved along new lines, and is the result of several years' labor under the supervision of Dean M. W. Jacobus, of Hartford Theological Seminary, Prof. F. E. Nourse, who lectures on biblical theology in the same institution, and A. C. Zenos, professor of ecclesiastical history in McCormick Theological Seminary, Chicago. Associated with them have been thirty-four American, British, and German scholars of first rank, including such well-known men as Marcus Dodds, Edward Konig, Shailer Matthews, J. Vernon Bartlett, etc.

Most recent Bible dictionaries have been too bulky, too discursive, too much given to speculation, and much too expensive. The Standard has in one volume all the information that the average Bible student, be he minister or layman, has time to read and digest. It is thoroughly evangelical in tone.

Inquirer Was Stung.

A man of inquisitive mind often takes a chance when he asks questions. This fact was impressed on Mr. W. C. Wilkinson, secretary-treasurer of the Toronto Board of Education, by a rather amusing incident on his recent trip through the British Isles.

It was in good old Glasgow that Mr. Wilkinson got up on the seat beside the driver of a bus, and started to converse with a rather taciturn Scot. The man answered his questions civilly, though, and finally the Canadian showed a thirst for information on the wage question.

After learning what men in the various trades earned, the Toronto traveler thought he'd sound the cabby.

"If it's not too personal a question, my man, how much do you make."

The canny Scot turned and looked him straight in the face without even the suspicion of a smile.

"I drive his bus eighteen hours every day, sir, for a pound a week, and I couldn't support my wife and six children on that if it wasn't for the tips I get from gentlemen like you, sir."

Mr. Wilkinson was fairly caught. He knew it, and without a word his hand went into his right trousers' pocket and emerged with a coin. Then the Scot smiled.

The Present Coiffure.

Gone are the rows of stiff puffs.

And the "all around the head" pompadour has accompanied it.

Only elderly or middle aged women now wear the hair high on the head.

Instead, the lovely Psyche knot and the full, fluffy pompadour are worn universally.

With the Grecian knot there are permitted a few graceful curls or a chance puff.

Barrettes this season are very beautiful things of filigree and are worn low on the head.

The Grecian styles are emphatically employed by young girls.

These are fond of the fillets of ribbon or shell wound about the classic coiffure.

One very simple coiffure is made by waving the front hair and bringing it back over the head.

In the back it is then arranged in knot, figure 8 or any Grecian effect.

HOW B. C. WAS WON.

Lord Dufferin's Diplomacy Got Confederation of West.

During his term as Governor-General of Canada Lord Dufferin had one diplomatic mission to carry out especially difficult and trying; and that was the pacification of the people of British Columbia in 1876 when, owing to the delay in constructing the Canadian Pacific Railway by the Mackenzie Government, the people of the Coast were seriously considering the question of seceding from the Dominion, which they had joined five years before with the pledge of the Federal Government that the railway should be commenced within two and completed within ten years of July 20, 1871.

Mr. Edgar, afterwards Sir James and the first Speaker of the House of Commons under the Laurier regime, went out first as the agent of the Federal Government, but a question being raised as to his authority he returned to Ottawa, and little came of his visit. Then, in 1876, Dufferin went out to the Coast to pour oil on the troubled waters.

In gala attire the city of Victoria received him with open arms. Among the street decorations were several arches bearing inscriptions or mottoes, some of them reading—"United Without Union," "Confederated Without Confederation." One bore these words, "The Railway or Separation." As the vice-regal carriage approached, the arch bearing the offensive motto Lord Dufferin, upon being informed of the words, halted the procession and called for the reception committee. "Gentlemen," said he to them, "I will go under your beautiful arch on one condition. I will not ask you to do much. I beg but a trifling favor. I only ask that you allow me to suggest a slight change in the phrase you have set up. I merely ask you to alter one letter in your motto. Turn the 'S' into an 'R.' Make it read 'The Railway and Reparation,' and I will gladly pass under it."

The members of the committee were not equal to the occasion, for they made a sorry exhibition of their loyalty and their good taste by brusquely refusing Lord Dufferin's reasonable request, and the distinguished visitor was obliged to continue his progress through the back streets of the city.

In the execution of his British Columbia mission, Lord Dufferin gave a striking example of his great ability as a diplomatist and peacemaker, and on more than one occasion he displayed his rare gift of exceedingly pleasing and persuasive eloquence. His last, and perhaps his greatest, speech in British Columbia was delivered at Victoria on the eve of his departure, and never did a Governor-General do more or go farther to defend his Prime Minister than Lord Dufferin did on that occasion to defend Mr. Mackenzie. False statements had been circulated respecting Mr. Mackenzie's actions in connection with the building of the proposed railway to British Columbia. These Lord Dufferin refuted; he set many things right; he dispelled many suspicions; he allayed much hard feeling. It was a speech filled with loyalty to his constitutional advisers, to the interests of Canada, and to the interests of British Columbia.

In closing, Lord Dufferin said: "Most earnestly do I desire the accomplishment of all your aspirations, and if ever I have the good fortune to come to British Columbia again I hope it may be—by rail."

It was not until seven years after Lord Dufferin had left Canada that such a journey could have been made; and it was largely due to Lord Dufferin's visit in 1876 that British Columbia waited with some impatience for the completion of the band of steel that supplemented the Act of Union in binding the province to Confederation.

Tune The Telegram Doesn't Like.

The members of the staff of The Toronto Evening Telegram are devoted to sport. The news editor curls with the Granites for the Tankard, the city editor sails to Put-in-Bay with the yacht squadron. There are lawn bowlers and ten-pin rollers, youthful hockeyists, and veteran riflemen, among the journal's writers. Each follows the recreation of his taste, be it baseball or lawn tennis, but in gentler pastimes diversity does not rule. They nearly all sing, and the favorite song is "O Canada." It is a glad sight, if not a glad sound, when the news editor and the exchange editor, the Queen's Park reporter and the police court reporter, with a lot of undesignated reporters, line up under the baton of a former wooer of Melpomene, and shout lustily Canada's National Anthem.

Considering the editorial attitude, it would be difficult to tell whether independence or a sense of humor is better typified when these "vocal voices out-vociferize even sound itself"; but the noise suggests either, rather than anything related to music. "O Canada" may recall to the untutored "the tune which the organ plays when the pall-bearers are entering the church," but when sung by The Telegram choir it more strongly resembles the tune which the Irishman sings about the poor man that had but one cow.

A Caribou Trek.

Despatches from Dawson City report that trappers from Ladue Valley brought news of the most remarkable caribou trek on record. It was estimated that a body of these animals, numbering half a million, was making a sudden change of winter quarters in the middle of January from Sixty Mile Creek to the Tanana River, the line of march being close on twenty miles in width. Pressing hard on their trail, and securing many stragglers, was a band of expert Yukon Indian scouts, who disposed of some hundredweights of caribou meat to the Klondike and Dawson miners.

HOW TO BRUSH TEETH.

Dr. Wilbor Describes Lengthy Process to Clubwomen.

Dr. Albert M. Wilbor told some clubwomen at the Hotel Astor, New York, recently how to brush their teeth. No doubt they all supposed that they knew this already, but Dr. Wilbor said they probably didn't, as very few persons understood the proper use of a toothbrush.

"Do not," urged the speaker, "get a stiff toothbrush and file away at your teeth with some gritty powder. Choose one of medium strength and after sifting on it some soft powder, which should not be used oftener than once a day, move the brush from the root to the crown and never from the crown to the gums. After the walls of the teeth have been brushed in this manner on both tongue and cheek surfaces give the brush a rotary motion across the grinding surfaces and then brush thoroughly the gums, palate and tongue. What good does it do to cleanse the teeth and leave enough material lodged in the surrounding soft tissues to corrupt the morals of 10,000 teeth? It is plain to see that the space between the teeth cannot be reached by the brush. Here the floss silk plays its important part. These operations should be followed with a good mouth wash of alkaline reaction. Then with the thumb and finger treat the gums to some good rotary massage. The mouth may now be considered clean, and if this treatment is kept up regularly the gums will preserve their natural pink color and hardness. This thorough cleaning is most necessary just before retiring, for it is in the sleeping hours that decay is most active."

Dr. Wilbor said that the common idea that polishing the teeth injured the enamel was erroneous. On the contrary, he said, a highly polished surface was less likely to decay. He thinks that it is the business of the dentist to instruct patients in the care of their teeth, but he has found that they commonly neglect the duty.

THE HOME HOSPITAL.

Things That Are Useful in Times of Illness.

The hospital drawer should be fitted up with the following articles:

Two large and four small bed pads. To make these use two old bedquilts, one cut in two pieces and the other in four. Fold these together, the best side out, and quilt on the machine. Have two covers for each pad. The best is cheap unbleached canvas, as it washes white and looks well.

Three packages of thin cloth. This is to be used for mustard plasters. Cut in various sizes, some square and some longer than wide.

One roll of old linen. This cloth is used for bathing the face or for burns, cuts or sores where lint or cotton cloth would be harmful. Save for this purpose all old tablecloths, napkins and handkerchiefs.

One roll of long strips of muslin and flannel. Use this for sore throats, sprains, cuts and abscesses.

One roll of cotton.

One package of large, square, soft cloths. Sew on two sides for making bran, slippery elm, hop and flaxseed meal poultices.

One package of small sacks for dry, hot poultices, such as salt or hops.

One and one-half yards of rubber sheeting.

One box of mustard.

One cake of pure castile soap.

One hot water bag.

One bottle of smelling salts.

One small jar of air slaked lime and linseed oil, as it affords instant relief for burns.

Pin a label on the rolls so that no matter who goes to the drawer they can lay their hands on just what is wanted and not keep the suffering one waiting.

Accommodating.

"Cynthia Brown has such a nice young man," confided the postmistress at Bacon Ridge. "He is much better than that other beau she used to have."

"Have you ever met him, dear?" asked old Mrs. Scribbs, who came in with a bucket of eggs.

"Er—no, but he writes all his love letters right on postal cards, and I don't have the least bit of trouble to read every word of them."—Chicago News.

In Lilac Days

By GERTRUDE MANSFIELD.

Copyrighted, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.

"Eh, what's that?" Alan Berresford, tall, athletic, good looking, swinging at a rattling pace down the city streets, flung around as an odor, fraint, fragrant, delicious, assailed his nostrils. "Lilacs, by Jupiter!"

Lilacs, in truth. The street stand at the corner brimmed over with them—great purple swaying plumes of sweetness among their cool, green, smooth, heart shaped leaves.

"Lilacs, sir?" The swarthy skinned young vender evidently expected a liberal purchaser.

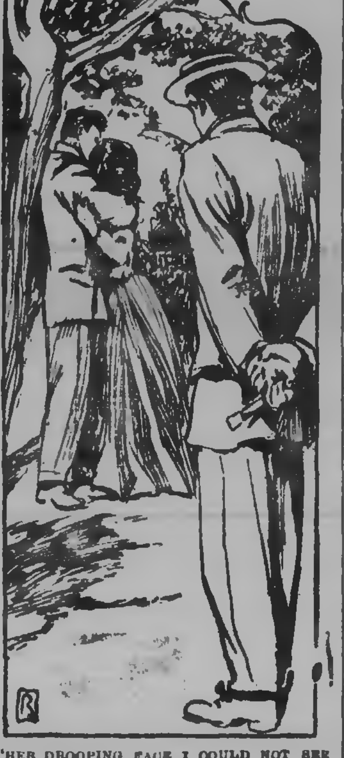
"Yes—no; wait a minute!" And this prosperous man of affairs, whose dictum could shake the board of trade building over on Lasalle street to its foundations, stood looking absently at the flowers, lost in retrospection.

Lilacs! He saw all at once the quaint home in a pretty, peaceful country town. He saw, too, the overgrown old garden where the peonies and gooseberries interlaced silken stems and briery branches, and farther back still, just where the emerald slopes of the orchard came gently dimpling down, a secluded green stretch of pathway. At either side a row of lilac bushes grew higher than a man's head —a way of bloom and beauty, of overwhelming fragrance. Lilac lane they called it. And when the moon rose and set shifting shadows about the place it was a luminous mosaic of moving leaves and silvery lights where he and Elsie walked.

"Lilacs, sir?"

"Yes—a lot." Berresford pulled himself together with a start. Ah, that all seemed so long ago! Had he been letting himself drift into a sentimental dream—here, in broad daylight, on one of the most crowded streets of a great city? He glanced around half guiltily.

Then, with a little cynical smile and shrug of his shoulders, he turned to the Greek flower seller. "Send those to my hotel." He motioned to a great earthen jar full of the beautiful blooms. He penciled name and number on his business card and handed it to the man with a bill.



"HER DROOPING FACE I COULD NOT SEE DISTINCTLY."

Then, receiving his change, he walked on, the scent of the lilacs still seeming to perfume the surging city street.

"Hello, Berresford!"

But the man addressed apparently did not hear. In this place of blare and bustle his thoughts had gone astray. He was no longer walking down the street of a western metropolis.

He was walking with a girl in a gown of palest rose and green through the changeful lights and shadows that flickered over Lilac lane.

"Hold on, Alan! What is the matter with you? You'll get run over the first thing you know! Can't you speak to an old friend?"

Berresford swung around. An old friend! All the dreaminess went out of his eyes. His jaws were set—hard. Yes, a Judas friend—one who could and did betray! And that now, just now, in this crowded city street he should loom up—he who had been responsible for such disillusion, such sorrow, such loneliness!

"Ronald!" he cried in scorn. "How dare you speak to me?"

Amazement was apparent on the face of the man who had addressed him. "Alan Berresford, have you gone clean daft? Why should I not speak to you? We who sat side by side in the same school, went swimming in the same creek, went sweethearting together"—

Berresford controlled himself with an effort. Men were passing whom he knew — whose salutations, deferential and admiring, he mechanically acknowledged. The necessity for self control was obvious. "We must not attract attention," he said. "Let us walk on."

And walk on in silence they did. It was not until they had gone several blocks that Berresford could control himself sufficiently to explain his repudiation of Ronald Dever.

"It is a queer coincidence," he said, "that you should have spoken to me just when I was dreaming of the little old town in which we both grew to manhood." He had himself so well in hand now that he spoke almost dreamily.

"Of course I was thinking most of the Rivers' home, where we both used to visit. You probably know that I was engaged to Elsie Rivers when that fortune—which is the cornerstone of my wealth today—was left me, and I was obliged to go abroad to claim it."

The other gave a startled glance. "No; I never knew that!" he said.

Berresford pressed his lips tightly together before he spoke again. "It was midwinter when I left—springtime when I returned. And, of course, I went at once to our old home town. Elsie was out, her mother said, somewhere around the grounds. I went immediately to our old trysting place in Lilac lane. There was the same familiar walk, all odorous with bloom and the moonlight falling in a thousand shifting lights and shadows, just as I always loved to remember"—

His voice broke curiously. His companion, a slight, dark man, younger than he, looked at him with frank anxiety in his eyes.

"She was there," went on Berresford. "So was a man whose arm encircled her as they walked. Her head almost touched his shoulder. Her drooping face I could not see distinctly, but the height and walk were those of Elsie, whom I had called my Elsie. I believe," with a sudden chill change of tone, "that is all I need explain, Dever!"

"No," said Dever quietly. "It isn't quite all. Who was her escort? Who was the man?"

A great wrath shook Berresford from head to feet. He whirled around upon his companion, white to the lips. "You!" he cried. "You, Ronald Dever! I saw you distinctly. You were the man!"

Dever spoke in a level and commanding voice. "Come! Let us walk still a little farther. Neither you nor I can afford to invite public comment. I hope to prove to you that you have been mistaken."

Startled, but incredulous, Berresford accepted the suggestion.

"What made you turn, like another Enoch Arden, and leave the place?" Dever asked.

"Because, being supplanted in my absence, I was another Enoch Arden!" came the reply, passionately spoken.

"Listen. After you went abroad Elsie's cousin came to live with her. They were of the same height and general appearance, although when considered together they do not look alike. I fell in love with Laura. She has been my wife for three years, and—a mighty sweet wife she is. Will you dine with us tonight, Berresford?"

Berresford flushed and trembled like a girl. "It was she—not Elsie—that I saw with you?"

"Assuredly, as you might have discovered had you been less impulsive in your flight. He mentioned their address. "We'll expect you at 6."

"No, no; I must go at once to Elsie—if she will listen, if she will forgive me. But there may now be some other person, some other claim."

"There isn't any one but you. I don't think there ever would or will be. But come to dinner at 6, as I said Elsie is just now visiting at our home."

"What?" shouted Berresford. "Give me that card with your address—quick! Hi, cabby! Double fare if you make good time! Wait until 6, indeed. Well, I guess not!"

Then he was being driven swiftly southward, and for him all the world —the gracious, sweet, delicious, springtime world—was full of the waving of lilac plumes, the prescient fragrance of lilac blossoms.

Plateau Plains of the West.

A phenomenal feature of the desert plains is the plateau plain. Mesas they are called in the southwestern United States and Mexico. These mesas, as their Spanish name signifies, are extensive, flat topped, table-like areas rising abruptly from the general plain to heights of from 100 or 200 feet to 1,000 feet or more. The great Mesa de Maya, in northeastern New Mexico, is 3,500 feet above the next lower plain. The surface of the plateau plain is usually found to be composed of some hard rock layer, as in the case of the vast Llano Estacado, or "walled plains," or staked plains, as it is called by the Texans, or is made up of an extensive lava flow—as, for example, the Mesa de Maya, the Ocate mesa and the majority of the plains of this kind. The surface beneath the lava flows of the mesas is itself a plain worn out on the beveled edges of the strata. The plateau plain thus represents a former position of the general plains level. It is the best example of circumdenudation through vigorous wind scour.—Popular Science Monthly.

Part of the Game.

"I come," said the great actress to the modest lawyer, "to engage you to get a divorce for me."

"I suppose you have a good case," said the lawyer.

"A perfect one," responded the actress.

"And want it got as quietly as possible," said the lawyer.

"Quietly as possible! I should say not! What is the use of getting a divorce, I'd like to know, if there is to be no advertising in it?"

Practical Superstition.

Where Johnson Didn't Sleep.

The Scottish seat of the Earl of Erroll, who has celebrated his fifty-seventh birthday, is the historic Castle of Slains, in Aberdeenshire, facing the wild North Sea. Many famous persons have visited there in bygone days. Dr. Johnson, with Boswell, is said to have stayed there on one occasion, and complained bitterly at being kept awake by the roaring of the waves beneath his window, and also by the smell of the "sea-fowls' feathers," with which his pillow was stuffed. Lord Erroll is High Constable of Scotland, a former Lord-in-Waiting to the King, late lieutenant-colonel commanding the Royal Horse Guards, and hon. colonel of the 5th Battalion Gordon Highlanders. To his brother officers in the Blues he was known by the nickname of "Killy." The late Lord Erroll served in the Crimean war, and was accompanied to the front by his wife, who landed at Varna, fully uniformed and armed. She was with her husband during the whole of the campaign, and at the close the officers of the Rifle Brigade presented her with a portrait of herself mounted on a white horse.

A Boy's Essay on Ducks.

A schoolboy assigned to prepare an essay on ducks wrote: "The duck is a low, heavy set bird composed mostly of meat and feathers. He is a mighty poor singer, having a hoarse voice, caused by getting so many frogs in his neck. He likes the water and carries a toy balloon in his stomach to keep from sinking. The duck has only two legs, and they are set so far back on his running gears by nature that they came pretty near missing his body. Some ducks when they get big have curls on their tails and are called drakes. Drakes don't have to set or hatch, but just loaf, go swimming and eat. If I was to be a duck, I'd rather be a drake."

New Flower Holder.

A pretty holder for a flowerpot has the appearance of a white fence around a pale green painted tub. The effect is both attractive and novel. The lovely pink begonia especially shows to advantage in it. These stands also adapt themselves well to an arrangement of cut flowers, under which circumstance the tin lining should be filled with sand or moss, so as to provide moisture for the flowers. Daffodil bulbs would look charming growing in them.

It All Rests With You.

It is all up to you to succeed or to fail,
To sit down and grumble or take to the trail,
To climb to the heights or to sit down supine
Far below where the rays of the morning sun shine
On the steeps. It isn't genius or talent at all
That takes a man up where the morn's voices call.
It's just work, and more work, and still work all the time!
Will you sit still or start out and climb?

EQUAL TO DENMARK.

Nova Scotia Has All Possibilities of European Country.

The possibilities of Nova Scotia as a food-producing centre are well expressed by Principal Cumming, secretary for Agriculture to the province, in an article in The Halifax Chronicle. I doubt, he writes, if anyone, who has not given the matter serious consideration, realizes what a province like Nova Scotia could produce were her farmers to direct their attention to the production of butter and cheese, beef, pork, poultry, etc. Perhaps I could make this most clear by briefly comparing the agriculture of Nova Scotia with that of Denmark. Denmark is about two-thirds the size of Nova Scotia and has an arable acreage of about 9,000,000 acres, on which she not only supports the population of 2,500,000 people, but exports over $90,000,000 worth of agricultural produce, mostly in the form of butter and bacon, i.e., she exports at the rate of $10 per acre. The total acreage owned by farmers in Nova Scotia is about 5,000,000, a considerable part of which, however, is constituted of rough pasture lands and wood lots. Were the population to become congested it is estimated that nearly 10,000,000 acres could be farmed.

Supposing, therefore, that instead of migrating, Nova Scotia's sons were to remain at home and that they would apply themselves to dairying, hog raising, sheep and beef raising, along similar lines to the Danish farmers; not only could she support her own increasing population, but at the rate of $10 per acre she could export, on the basis of lands at present owned by farmers, $50,000,000 worth of agricultural produce, and, on the basis of lands which might be occupied, $100,000,000. Nor is this a mere fancy, for this whole development of Danish agriculture is a product of the present generation. Following the Prussian-Danish War in 1864, Denmark experienced a period of agricultural depression. The soils had become largely depleted of their fertility, through wheat-growing and selling. Recognizing that they could not continue along this line of selling the crude produce of the farm, the Danes turned their attention to dairying and hog raising, the result of which has been the development of one of the most prosperous agricultural communities in the world. The soil of the average Nova Scotia farm is to-day in about the same condition as was the soil of Danish farms 40 years ago. By following somewhat similar lines Nova Scotian farmers could make of this Maritime Province a country fully equal to modern Denmark.

Even at present we know of farms in Nova Scotia on which there was realized last year, over and above running expenses, an amount equal to $25 for every acre owned. We know of much higher returns from small orchard and fruit and market garden areas. We could also point to many farms, from which there has been marketed over and above the necessaries of livelihood, amounts running from $10 to $25 per acre. All that is required to make of Nova Scotia a Denmark is to apply to all our farms the same up-to-date business methods which, at present, are resulting in some of our farms far surpassing the average Danish farm. Lest, too, the relevancy of this Denmark example should be lost, we may add that feeds in Denmark are, for the most part, a little more expensive than in Nova Scotia, the Danish farmers having to import a large amount of grain, bran, middlings, and oil cake from America and elsewhere. There is no gainsaying the fact that theory and practice and the example of other countries all unite in directing Nova Scotian agriculture along live stock lines.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY.

Liquid green soap is excellent for the complexion, but it is so strong that it should not be used more than once a week.

If there is a sensation of tightness after using a particular soap it is because the soap is too drying. Another should be substituted.

A healthful and refreshing mouth wash is made by boiling cinnamon bark in water and mixing it with equal parts of the purest alcohol. This is good both for the gums and teeth and makes the breath more fragrant.

Oil in slight quantity should be applied to the straw dry hair to make it wave, while drying liquids will have the same effect applied to greasy hair. Five drops of oil poured on one hand, rubbed on the other and then into the hair will be enough when done several times a week.

The best nerve food in the world is sleep. Good, sound, refreshing sleep will do more to replenish the nerve centers and build up a fagged brain than anything that can be devised. Nervous people ought to cultivate the practice of sleeping after dinner. A short nap after the noon meal will strengthen the nerves and make it much more liable that the rest of the day will be spent in some sort of comfort.

A prolific cause of chronic indigestion is eating from habit and simply because it is mealtime and others are eating. To eat when not hungry is to eat without relish, and food taken without relish is worse than wasted. Without relish the salivary glands do not act, the gastric fluids are not freely secreted, and the best of foods will not be digested. Many perfectly harmless dishes are severely condemned for no other reason than that they were given perfunctorily and without relish and due insalivation.

TAKE PLENTY OF FOOD.

This Authority Says We Should Eat Heartily to Remain Well.

Statistics have shown the great value of abundant food. Dr. J. Robertson, an eminent surgeon of Manchester, England, has remarked that the families of working people when well fed maintained their health surprisingly, even while living in cellars. And he observed that during four years of prosperity the number of fever cases admitted to the Manchester House of Recovery was 421 per annum, while in two pinching years 1,207 cases per annum were admitted.

The ultimate effect of curtailing the food supply is to weaken the stomach so that it cannot digest what it once could easily. Thus the source from which our energy is derived is weakened to our great detriment. Now, as man is really no stronger than his stomach and as "good digestion waits on appetite and health on both" should we not rather seek to strengthen the stomach by giving it exercise than to enfeeble it by dieting? I think we should, and I think that persons with common sense will agree with me, Chittenden, Horace Fletcher and other dietarians notwithstanding. Loss of weight is the first symptom of failing health, and cutting the food supply invariably causes loss of weight.

To develop strong muscles we train them gradually to do strong work. In the same way we can by judicious care accustom even a weak stomach to digest hearty meals. But we cannot do this by forcing into the stomach more food than it calls for. We must first create the need of a greater quantity of a proper amount of bodily exercise. Of all cures for dyspepsia, with its accompanying languor, exercise is the best cure I know of.—G. Elliott Flint in Outing Magazine.

A Result of the Earthquake.

Of the destruction of Messina a by-result is the loss of lineage and all trace of family. Many children too young to know their surnames or to pronounce them intelligibly have been rescued, and their names, fortunes, titles, descents and origin have been absolutely cut off. They can tell no more than that they are "Bimbo" or "Bambina," "Nino" or "Nina." Many are obviously children whom women of rank have borne and loved and nurses tended. Italians take root in their provincial cities, and it often happens that a family has no connections beyond the walls. Even if distant uncles and aunts exist they cannot recognize children so young. Documents exist to attest the civil standing of many rescued adults, but the young children begin the world without genealogy or rights.

Savage Eagle Hawk.

Perhaps the deadliest foe of the Australian sheep farmer is the eagle hawk, and many and wonderful are the contrivances invented for its destruction or capture. A correspondent at Singleton says it is no uncommon thing for a farmer with a run of quite average extent to lose a hundred sheep in a season through the depredations of these carnivorous birds. "Their strength," he writes, "is so abnormal that it is practically impossible for the sheep on which one pounces to resist the attack, and their appetite for live mutton appears to be insatiable. They are occasionally caught by means of a trap attached to the carcass of a sheep and sometimes poisoned. But their numbers are nevertheless continually increasing."—London Standard.

The Fluctuating Sun.

Professor Charles Lane Poor of the Columbia university observatory is continuing his researches on the figure of the sun, from which he concludes that its exact shape is not known. The generally accepted idea that the sun is a sphere is, he holds, at least open to question. Practically every series of measures shows departures from a spherical form. Of course the departures, considering the great size of the solar globe, are very minute. There seems to be a fluctuation in the shape of the sun corresponding in period with the sun spot cycle. There are also indications of a fluctuation having a period of about twenty-eight days.

The Next Station.

In New Zealand an automatic device has just been patented for telling railway passengers the name of the next station. The names of the various stations are printed on a roll, which is rotated by toothed wheels. A "tripper" is placed either on the track or by its side between each station, and this is so adjusted as to strike a lever on the passing car. The motion is communicated to the toothed wheels governing the roll bearing the station names, and the ringing of an automatic bell announces to the passengers the fact that the name of the next station is on view.

The Power of Caste.

That caste has a great power in modern India is shown by an incident which occurred during the recent trial of dynamite bomb conspirators in Calcutta. An Indian inspector of police happened to stumble against one of the prisoners, a Brahman, as he was passing to his place in court. Instantly the police officer bent down and, taking the dust from the Brahman's feet, humbly begged his pardon. And the prisoner, who resented the accidental contact, accepted his apology as no more than his due.

He Used His Knife.

A short time ago a doctor was a guest at a dinner in one of Philadelphia's most exclusive homes. When the last course had been served and the cigars were being passed the doctor reached down into his trousers pocket and extracted a penknife. Slowly he opened a blade. To the horror of all the select persons present, it was the finger nail blade. Every one gasped. Could it be that Dr. —— would so far forget himself as to manicure his nails at the table? All watched with bated breath. Slowly the doctor reached out and secured a match which was near his place. Then he deliberately struck the match on the rough part of the nail file and lit his cigar. The suspense was over, and the doctor had not committed the frightful breach of etiquette which his associates had feared. Now the custom is spreading fast, for it is less effort than it is to stand on one leg to strike the match on one's shoe and decidedly more elegant than the time honored method of striking it on one's trousers.—Philadelphia Record.

Boston's Narrowest Building.

What is thought to be the narrowest building in Boston is the little white structure numbered 112 State street. It is rarely noticed by the passerby, as one might easily suppose it to be the entrance to one of the adjoining buildings, which tower far above it on either side. It is a wooden building, two stories high, with a long, sloping shingled roof. It is built in an alley not more than five feet wide. The little building runs the full length of the alley through to Commerce street. This alley is said to have been a passageway to the original Long wharf, which extended up to near a point where the custom house now stands. Commerce street and the site of the present State street block were at that time docks.—Boston Globe.

Canal Zone Buildings.

On the many million dollars' worth of buildings owned by the United States government in the Panama canal zone no insurance is carried. The government has spent $10,250,000 in buildings in the zone, which amount takes no account of the value of the buildings purchased from the French both in the canal zone and the republic of Panama nor value of the property in all the buildings, including the large amount of stores. However, the canal fire department has been developed to a high state of efficiency.

This Is 6,000 Years Old.

What is probably one of the oldest pieces of statuary in the world is now in the Museum of the University of Toronto. It has seen about six thousand years, and was picked up in Egypt by Dr. Charles Currelley recently. It is the figure of a man, about eight inches high, the interior of the mannikin is made of rolled spices compressed into the required shape, and the whole overlaid with gold beaten to the fineness of paper. The intrinsic value of this, aside from its historical worth, is of course great.

New Oil Fields.

Chatham oil and natural gas promoters are enthusiastic over what they think are strong indications of a promising field heretofore untouched, two miles west of the present field in Tilbury.

A man named Gurd has sunk a well on the Shepley farm, near the Raleigh town line, which at a depth of 1,500 feet is producing two million cubic feet of gas per day.

Several new wells are being sunk in the old fields.

PUZZLED CONAN DOYLE.

Toronto Murder Proved Too Much For Creator of Sherlock Holmes.

One of the most deplorable things about a mysterious murder is the manner in which the general public loses its head and manufactures evidence out of airy imaginings. There has been repeated precisely what happened in this city a dozen years ago, when a prominent young man of Parkdale was shot in the doorway of his own home under most mysterious circumstances. The great grief of his family was augmented in a most terrible degree by the base and morbid suspicions of the local public, not unassisted by one or two indiscreet police officers.

It subsequently turned out that the murder has been committed in a manner exceeding the sensations of the crudest melodrama by a young woman in men's clothing who took this means of avenging a fancied insult. Then the public mind was relieved, but people turned about and made a heroine of the young woman.

It is interesting to note that in connection with this case the services of Sir A. Conan Doyle were enlisted and shown to be much less efficient than that of his creation, Sherlock Holmes. At the time the murder occurred Doyle was lecturing in America under Major Pond's management. It occurred to the city editor of a morning newspaper that an opinion from him would intensely interest the public. He was pretty sure of an answer, because the novelist was booked to appear in Toronto and his management was far too astute to let slip such a chance for publicity. So a plain story of the crime was sent to him, together with newspaper clippings covering all available points in the story. Conan Doyle courteously replied, stating that it would be impossible for him to formulate a theory, that the facts were all so curious as to admit of many theories.

By the time he came to Toronto the mystery had been unravelled, and in an interview he told the reporter of the journal in question that there was one very good reason why he never publicly attempted to solve real murders.

"You see," said he, "in my stories I reach my solution first, and invent my details afterward."

It will be seen that the demand for Sherlock Holmes, whenever a capital crime occurs, is a bit illogical.

An Ecclesiastical Joke.

The name Cowley is one to conjure with in Church of England circles in the Canadian West. It is a name borne by clergymen and educationists, and comes down from Archdeacon Cowley, who was for fifty years a leader in missionary work on the lower Red River, both among Indians and white men. In those days of laying the foundations he was the bishop's right-hand man. In particular he was the bishop's examining chaplain. It was his duty to examine candidates for the ministry and test their fitness intellectually, morally, and physically for the work in that strenuous country. Candidates say he never failed to put them through a rigorous examination, but when the candidate was successful he used to wind up with an ecclesiastical joke. The list of doctrinal and historical questions would be closed with this one:

"Tell me, sir, how did David like his meat cooked?"

No student was ever known to answer. It took his breath away, and generally when he admitted he could not answer he asked the examiner to tell him.

"He liked it well done."

"But where are we told that?"

"Why in the Psalms does he not say that certain conduct vexes his soul a thing that is raw?"

And the way the austere examiner enjoyed this little joke showed the nervous candidate that his examination had been satisfactory.

Canadian on Airships.

Mr. Casey Baldwin, the young Canadian aeronautic expert, who is at present associated with Prof. Graham Bell in his experiments with aeroplanes at Baddeck, Cape Breton, was a visitor in Toronto the other day. While there he gave a couple of lectures on the aeroplane, and explained what is now being accomplished at Baddeck and elsewhere with the new craft. One side of it on which he dwelt lightly was its attractions to sporting men. According to him automobiling is not to be compared with it for sheer pleasure and zest. And indeed Mr. Baldwin's account of the sensation of gliding through the air is enough to make anyone want to go out and get an aeroplane right away. He pointed out that one of the finest things about it was its perfect smoothness and its sense of freedom. High speeds were attained, but one never had the usual sensations of speed. There was no roughness, no jolting, but just a smooth, easy glide. He said that he expected it to become quite a sport, and that in this way much of its development might come, just as the racing motor had taught many useful lessons in motoring.

SWORD OF CLAVERHOUSE.

Famous Scot's Weapon is In Possession of Toronto Man.

A sword worn by none other than John Graham, of Claverhouse, is among the prized possessions of Mr. Roderick Cameron, the Toronto park superintendent. Needless to say, this pride in the ownership of the relic does not spring from admiration of the man who wielded the weapon, for, to quote Macaulay, he has left "a name that wherever the Scottish race is settled on the face of the globe is mentioned with a peculiar energy of hatred. To recapitulate all the crimes with which this man, and men like him, goaded the peasantry of the Western Lowlands, would be an endless task." The sword calls to mind one of the darkest and most troublous times in Scottish history, when to differ from the established religion of the land was a crime, when the Covenanters had to meet in secluded spots to escape detection, and when they were butchered like sheep for practicing the faith they held so dear.

The sword is thirty-seven inches long, the blade from the hilt to the tip being thirty-two inches. The point is worn away about an inch. It is a two-edged blade, but of course is not as sharp as it was some 250 years ago, when a dull sword would have been a useless tool in the hands of its owner. It is rusty now from age, but on both sides can be seen impressed the name of the maker, Andra Farrara, a famous manufacturer of swords in that age. There are also other letters and marks on the blade, some H's, and a number of crosses, but what they mean is difficult to say. Perhaps the crosses marked the battles in which Claverhouse had engaged. Two shallow grooves run its entire length on both sides.

On the hilt are letters and figures, E.W., No. 68. This part is made of brass, and is loose, being probably made so by actual use, for in the hands of Claverhouse it was seldom out of action. The protection for the hand consists in a circular shield at the top of the blade, and a thin band circling from this to the round knob at the top of the hilt.

The steel in the blade is the very finest, and can be bent so that the point will touch the top of the hilt without any danger of breaking. Such was the sword wielded by John Graham of Claverhouse, Viscount of Dundee.

There is absolutely no doubt in Mr. Cameron's mind that this was actually in the possession of Claverhouse. It is an heirloom in the family of Mrs. Cameron. She received it from her mother, who got it from her father, who lived near the seat of Claverhouse, Bonnie Dundee. After the death of Claverhouse, according to the story handed down, all his relics were collected in one room of the castle. This it was decided to tear down, as it was fast falling into ruins, and there was a general distribution among the relatives of the contents of the room. This sword, which was among them, went to one of them, from whom it was received by Mrs. Cameron's grandfather, but how he happened to come by it she is at a loss to say.

Recalls War of 1812.

To live a hundred years and still be hale and hearty is the record of Mrs. Sarah McCully, who at present is living with her grandson, Ralph McCully of 753 Lorne avenue, London, Ont., and who celebrated her one hundredth birthday recently.

She was born in Halifax, N.S., and remembers well the troublesome times of 1812. The battle of Chesapeake and the Shannon is also firmly impressed on her memory. When the two vessels arrived at the harbor she was taken by her father to see them, and he held her in his arms while she clung to him in horror when she witnessed the awful sight of the dead and dying men. The deck of the Chesapeake, she said, was covered with the heads and trunks of men lying in their life blood, which reached well up on the boots of those who were on the deck.

While living in Halifax Mrs. McCully moved in the best circles, and was a society leader. She taught Sunday school class and Sir Charles Tupper was one of her pupils.

Mrs. McCully leaves her bed every morning at daylight, and retires at dark, both winter and summer. The only faculties impaired by the lapse of time are her eyesight and her hearing. Some time ago she lost the sight of one eye through an attack of la grippe.

Parker's First Stories.

Gilbert Parker said of his first attempt at authorship: "I went to Archibald Forbes, with whom I was acquainted, to have him give me a note to the Macmillans, as I wanted to see whether they would not bring out a book of short stories for me. He read the stories and then invited me around to dine to give me the letter of introduction and his opinion of the stories. 'I have read your sketches,' he said after dinner, 'and I must say this of them—I have never seen such a fine collection of titles in my life.' 'There, don't say another word, Mr. Forbes,' I said. 'I understand perfectly. Each title suggests a complete idea which the story fails to carry out. I understand perfectly.' Thereupon I went home and burned every one of them. Then I sat down and wrote the first of the 'Pierre' series, which was the beginning of what success I ever had."

Futile.

"Help!"

The man was clearly in great distress.

"Help, help!"

In agonized tones the cry was repeated.

But, alas, he lived in the suburbs and wanted a woman for general housework, so the help in all the employment agencies treated him with calm scorn, and thus was he left to his fate.—New York Times.

Indicative of Genius.

"Horace was a great poet," declared the man with the chewed looking mustache.

"But," replies the man with the overgrown ears, "somebody said the other day that Horace wrote his poems to advertise the wines of Italy."

"Sure! If he could write what he did on the inspiration of the table d'hote wine we get at restaurants he must have been a real genius."—Chicago Post.

THE BODY WAS FOUND

Searching Party Discovered The Remains Of The Late Augustus Sawers While Looking For John Mortimer.

FUNERAL HERE TO-MORROW.

The body of the late Augustus Sawers, who was drowned in the Trent River at Campbellford at the beginning of the winter, was found yesterday afternoon, after having been in the water for about four months. A number of men were searching for the body of John Mortimer, the young Englishman, who met his death in the river on Monday night, and about three miles from Campbellford, at the head of Myer's Island, they found Mr. Sawer's body. The remains, as might be expected, were terribly decomposed, so much so that it was almost impossible to identify them.

It will be remembered that the unfortunate man was drowned in a fit of mental aberration, caused by illness, his footsteps being traced to the river bank in the snow. A search was made for the body then but it could not be found.

The funeral, which will be private, will take place to-morrow morning, at 10 o'clock from the family residence to Little Lake cemetery.

FOUR CHIMNEY FIRES IN CITY THIS MORNING

The fire brigade had a busy morning to-day, having had to answer four calls, but fortunately none of them were of a serious nature. The first one was to Park and Patterson Sts., the second entailed a run to Bolivar, the third to Downie St., and the last one was shortly before twelve o'clock to Dublin St. They were all chimney fires, and were extinguished by means of chemicals.

WILL T.A.S. PLAY IN MIDLAND LEAGUE

Meeting on Thursday Night Will Settle The Question.

All those who are interested in the T. A. S. Baseball club are asked to attend the meeting on Thursday evening at eight o'clock, when the summer's programme will be discussed and the baseball plans will be considered. The team's career last summer was highly satisfactory and it is thought that even better results may be obtained during the coming summer. It is understood that the T. A. S. have not as yet a clear line adopted as to their future, and one rumour is to the effect that a Midland League team representing Peterborough will wear red and black colours. A large attendance is looked for as baseball throughout the city is getting brisker every day as the teams are beginning to find out what material they are going to have.

JEWS THROW AWAY THEIR OLD CLOTHES AND EAT UNLEAVENED BREAD DURING THE PASSOVER

The "Pesach" Began on Monday to Continue Eight Days—Some of the Ceremonies and the Methods of Celebrating This Ancient Feast.

SERVICES IN PETERBOROUGH.

The Jewish people are celebrating this week the Pesach or the feast of the Passover. In metropolitan cities where their numbers are large the ceremonies are carried out as closely as if they were in their Asiatic homes.

Peterborough's representatives are not amiss in their religious duties and are celebrating according to prescribed rites. The Pesach commenced on Monday night and continues for 8 days 7½ hours approximately. During this time they do not eat bread of any kind and also eschew the use of potatoes.

Unleavened bread, however, is eaten. It is made from a particular brand of flour and milk and is known as "Matzos."

Throw Away Clothes

The custom among the faithful is to throw away their old clothes, a symbol of the throwing off of sin. Where the Jews are numerous, particularly in the large cities of the United States the big stores reap a harvest on this account. They also erect a place in which their ceremonies are held and where they eat of the unleavened bread. This place is called a "butkee."

The local Jews have not a butkee but they meet every night at the houses of two of their brethren, their number being too large for the accommodation of one house.

Family Services.

On the first two nights of the Passover a family service called "Seder" is held around the table in each Jewish home. All the members of the household take part in it and picture to themselves how their ancestors stood eating the paschal lamb in haste, ready dressed for the journey, staff in hand and sandals on their feet.

On the first night of the feast of Passover a service is read from a little book called the "Hagadah," which contains the history of all that concerns the Passover.

On the table set for the special Seder service are laid matzah or unleavened bread, a roasted lamb bone and an egg, various sweet and bitter herbs, salt and water, a sweet mixture called charoseth and some wine.

The lamb bone is a memorial of the paschal lamb and the egg is a memorial of a special Passover offering which was made yearly until after the destruction of the temple. The salt and water, bitter herbs and the charoseth are symbols of the hardships endured by the Israelites, and the wine is the sanctification.

The special service begins with a blessing in which the household thank God for his Guardianship, and other blessings are said as the different things on the table are tasted.

Impressive Questioning.

Then the youngest of the party asks, "Why is this night to be distinguished from all other nights? Why do we to-night dip the herbs and eat the unleavened bread and sit at our ease?"

And the answer given is: "If the Most High, blesed be He, had not brought forth our ancestors from Egypt, then we and our children and our children's children would still have been slaves in Egypt."

Then there is read the story of the departure from Egypt, the evening meal is eaten and psalms are recited and rhymes sung.

CHANGE IN DIVISION OF THE NICHOLLS SCHOLARSHIP MONEY

As was stated at the last meeting of the Board of Education it was thought advisable to make a more suitable division of the Nicholl's scholarship money, and upon the recommendation of Principal Kenner of the Collegiate Institute, the Supervision committee made the following report at last night's meeting:

To the Chairman and members of the Board of Education.

Gentlemen,—Your Supervision committee beg to report and recommend as follows:

That the present method of awarding the Nicholls scholarship prizes be discontinued and that the following constitute the conditions under which the prizes will be given:

1. To the successful student obtaining the highest aggregate number of marks of the junior matriculation examination, $15.00.
2. To the successful student obtaining the highest aggregate number of marks of the Normal entrance examination, $15.00.
3. To the successful student obtaining the highest number of marks in the Part I. Faculty of Education examination, $20.00.
4. To the successful student obtaining the highest aggregate number of marks in the Part II. Faculty of Education examination, $20.00.
5. To the successful student obtaining the highest aggregate number of marks at the Honour Matriculation examination, $15.00.

Your committee feel that the present method is not productive of the best results and also that it affords to some students advantages over others.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

John Crane, Chairman.

Upon motion of Mr. Crane and Dr. Burnham the report was adopted.

FALL WHEAT IS DOING WELL AND FARMERS BEGIN PLOUGHING

Evidences of Spring are becoming more numerous and substantial every day, and the farmers are beginning their work. Everyone has been told that the welcome warmth and sunshine, the first notes of the returning songbirds, the soft lulling winds from the south and the sound of the beating of carpets in the back yard were combining to stir up in the breast of the young man, deep sentiments of love.

However in connection with the more material things, the things of earth and not of the dreamer, Reeve Fife, of Otonabee, was in the city yesterday, and stated that he had seen farmers plowing, while driving in. It is further believed that the work of turning up the sod will soon become general throughout the county within a week or more. The conditions for plowing are reported most favourable, and it should not be long now before the ploughman's stentorian commands to his faithful horses resound from across the newly-released earth.

Mr. W. A. Stabler is responsible for the statement that the fall wheat is coming along vigorously and is already three or four inches above the ground, green and looking fine. If the frost remains away there will be great rejoicing among the tillers of the soil.

COMPLAINANT TOO ILL TO ATTEND COURT AND CASE WAS ADJOURNED

The case of Chief Howard, charged with assaulting Frank Reynolds at the Fire Station on Saturday night last, came up before Magistrate Dumble, at the Police Court this morning, but was enlarged for another week.

Mr. R. F. McWilliams appeared for Reynolds, and asked for an adjournment. He stated that Dr. McClelland had told him that Reynolds was too ill to attend court. Mr. G. N. Gordon appeared for Chief Howard, and Mr. E. H. D. Hall was present in the City's interests.

His Worship thought that no one would be inconvenienced by a week's adjournment, and granted it at the request of complainant's counsel.

HAVELOCK MAN, HANDCUFFED, MAKES GOOD HIS ESCAPE AND IS HUNTED BY THREE CONSTABLES

Fred and Frank Varty "Came to Town to Make the Villagers Sit Up"—Fred Was Arrested and Left With Citizens But Got Clear Away.

BOTH ARE NOW WANTED.

Examiner Special.

Havelock, April 7.—Fred Varty, a young man living about a mile from this village, was arrested last night on the charge of creating a disturbance, was handcuffed, but subsequently made good his escape, taking the "bracelets" with him. In spite of a diligent search he has up to the present eluded his pursuers. Constables Cochrane and Moore of Peterborough, and Brill, of Havelock, are searching this afternoon, the former two having arrived on the noon train to-day.

Fred and Frank Varty came into the village last night, imbibed generously of the fiery liquid, and under its influence started to paint the town a bright vermilion. From all accounts they soon stirred up trouble, and, after several mixups, the police were summoned.

Got Clear Away.

Fred was arrested by Constable Brill and was handcuffed, when Frank interfered, and drew the attention of the law towards himself. Quite a crowd had gathered and over one hundred men were looking on. The Constable left Fred in charge of a number of the citizens and went to arrest Frank. Fred took French leave of the crowd, disappearing suddenly and with the steel bands tightly clasping his wrists. Both men are at liberty with the Constables scouring around, determined to run them to earth.

Mr. Pearson will go down to Campbellford as soon as the body is found to give what assistance he can and will communicate with the unfortunate young man's parents in the Old Country.

PETERBOROUGH MAN IN GOWGANDA WRITES INTERESTING LETTER HOME

Mr. Michael Tooley has received the following letter from Mr. A. Blade, who is prospecting in Gowganda:

Welcome Lake, March 24, 1909.

To Mr. Snowden and Uncle Tooley:

A few lines to let you know that we are living and not frozen, but lots of snow, over four feet on the level and no game moving. A prospector got a bear's den with three small cubs and the old one. The cubs were about the size of kittens. The fishing is good. We got a trout 7¼ lbs. We have staked four claims of forty acres each with a better showing than any we have seen. Hypson went out today to record theme at Sudbury and to bring in the balance of our supplies. We have decided to remain here for the break up as the more we prospect it the better we like this part of the country.

If any of the company can spare the time come up and see what we have got and we will try and make you comfortable. You can get to the camp in one day from Sudbury. Tell Tom Rutherford and J. Robinson that we hear that there is a great building boom on in Gowganda, that they are paying four dollars a day for carpenters.

Our camp is at the north end of Welcome Lake. Remember me to all the boys.

Yours truly,

A. BLADE.

INFORMATION REGARDING CLAIM OF SEPTIC TANK CO. OF BUFFALO

An Examiner reporter enquired at the city buildings this morning in regard to the letter from the lawyers representing the Septic Tank Co. of Buffalo, in which they state that the city has infringed upon their patent and they also demand a royalty, the amount of which they are trying to arange.

The septic tank referred to was constructed for the sewage system in East City. The plans were procured before the amalgamation of Peterborough and Ashburnham, but the work was performed after the union. The man who designed this tank or system of disposing of sewage was Mr. Willis Chipman, Sanitary Engineer of Toronto. He constructed many of the same systems throughout the country, and Mr. T. A. S. Hay states that if there is anyone against whom the Company could bring an action for infringing on the patent it would be against Mr. Chipman. He has been communicated with, but is at present in British Columbia. The city officials could not give any further information than that which was contained in the letter from the Company's counsel.

It was stated that if there was any case possible in connection with the tank in this city, there are a great many more places in the same position. The Company states that the City of Toronto made arrangements with them before installing the system.

COLLEGIATE STUDENTS TO START TO SCHOOL HALF AN HOUR EARLIER

Commencing on May the first, a new schedule of school hours will be inaugurated at the Collegiate Institute. It will only be for May and June but if it proves satisfactory it will be continued during the month of September.

The change which was recommended by Principal Kenner was introduced at last night's meeting of the Board of Education by Mr. Crane, chairman of the Supervision Committee. It was proposed to open the school at 8:30 in the morning and close at half past eleven. In the afternoon the school would open at one o'clock and close at half past three. It was intimated that the change would be quite satisfactory to the pupils. During the warm months the students did not care to be in school any more than they could possibly avoid. They were willing to start a half hour earlier and they would be free for the best part of the day.

It was moved by Mr. Crane and seconded by Mr. Dumble that the change go into effect for the months of May and June and in case it proved satisfactory it could be continued during September.

THE UNEMPLOYED.

Unemployment is bad enough when it is enforced, and deserves all our sympathy; but when it is voluntary there is little pity. There is reason for believeing that a good deal of the unemployment in the city is the fault of many of the unemployed. Through its free employment bureau the Examiner is aware that farmers are badly in need of farm hands. There are many applicants from farmers, but there are few applications from men wanting work. The local immigration officer has the same experience. Why is it? There are considerable numbers of the unemployed throughout the city, but few of them seem to want to work on farms. There may be prejudice against working on a farm but one would think that any sort of work was better than idleness, or living on the toil of a wife willing to do any sort of work to earn an honest loaf. The man with a really honest spirit of independence will do any sort of work rather than take charity. A man from the Old Country was all winter without work, living on the fruits of last summer's labour. To get employment he offered to do any sort of work. Though a skilled mechanic, he took employment in house cleaning—taking up, cleaning and putting down carpets, washing wood work and windows—and so well did he do his work that he won the confidence of the ladies who employed him and they interested themselves in getting him a permanent place at good pay. The man who honestly seeks work will come to it as a rule in one form or another, but the man who seeks work in fear and trembling lest he should find it, won't find it.

All work, even cotton spinning, is noble; work alone is noble.—Thomas Carlyle.

GOOD ROADS

It is a truth, as old as the intercourse of man, that the most important, the greatest material aid to betterment of material conditions, to improved social and, consequently, moral conditions is facility of transportation—in plain words, good roads. There seems to be need for the reiteration of this truth, for like the prophecies of Cassandra it is doomed to unbelief. At least, if it is believed it is not acted upon which amounts to the same thing. In this country, in this county, in this city, the road question is iniquitously neglected. Our county highways and our streets, compared to what they might be made, are a disgrace to civilization, the one relic of primitive barbarity we retain in the midst of all our other boasted progress. We build palatial business houses, stock them with goods which the people come to buy and have delivered. Yet we bar the way to both processes by our unrighteous city streets. We establish a market for the convenience of our farmers and for our own; and the farmer contents himself with roads of such roughness and impassability that he loses money every trip he makes to the market—in the course of the year many times more than the cost he would incur by contributing to good roads that would be a comfort to use and a saving of time, money and temper.

The state has done its best. The Liberal Government of Ontario set apart a million dollars to help build good roads, giving a certain percentage of the cost of a system of county roads in every county of the province—"found money" for the farmers of these counties. Though this money has been "on tap" a good many years only forty per cent. of the counties have taken advantage of it. This is a subject of such momentous interest to farmers and the townspeople as well—for it is to the interest of the latter to make the farmers' way to town as easy as possible—that the annual report of the Ontario Government on Highways contains a good deal of information and suggestion relative to the good roads movement, worthy of careful study and heed. We learn this from the report.

County road systems have at the present time been established in fifteen counties, comprising over forty per cent. in area of the province to which the Highway Improvement Act is applicable. The counties which are constructing these improved systems of leading roads are Prince Edward, Halton, Perth, Frontenac, Lennox and Addington, Middlesex, Peel, Lincoln, Oxford, Wellington, Hastings, Lanark, Wentworth, Simcoe and Waterloo. The counties operating under the Good Roads Act have assumed an average of about twelve per cent. of the road mileage in each county, the total now amounting 2,800 miles of road. Were county systems established throughout the province on the same ratio, there would be 6,000 miles to be permanently constructed.

The report states that county highway systems are meeting with success throughout the province. In addition to making a substantial improvement on the leading roads, they are affording an example of how good roads should be built, and through the influence upon township councils a considerable amount of benefit has thus been reaped. One of the aims of the county system has been to secure more permanent, and in consequence more experienced, management, than is provided by townships.

It is asked that the meaning of county roads be not misunderstood. They are not expected to comprise the old system of through roads, which may have been established years ago. While a county system should, if possible, be a connected one, yet this is not necessary. It is expected that the roads improved will be those leading to the local market centres and railway stations, such as are now most heavily travelled, or which if improved would be heavily travelled. It is felt desirable that every farmer be within convenient distance from a good road leading to his local market.

On the score of economy, it is claimed that the county system is to be preferred, and as to this the report says:

> It is sometimes asked if county councils can perform the work as cheaply as township councils could do it. County councils are made up of men representing each of the local councils. While exceptional instances may no doubt be pointed to, it is an incontrovertible fact that county councils are doing the work more cheaply than township councils can perform the same class of work. In bridge construction, county councils secure more competition among bridge companies and concrete contractors. In methods of doing ordinary road work, more efficient methods can be insisted upon. As a single instance may be pointed out the size of loads required by county councils, which are from one-and-a-half to two cubic yards of gravel and stone. They can fix the number of loads to constitute a day's work, and see that no favours are given.

County systems of highways, where they have been established for two and three years and the results are becoming apparent, are giving splendid satisfaction. The cost is found to be much less than extreme opponents are urging. In the great majority of cases roads are being built at an outlay not exceeding $1,500 per mile. Some roads cost less, and there are occasional instances where for special reasons they cost considerably more. The cost, in general, is dependent upon the distance road material has to be transported. The best work gives the best satisfaction, irrespective of cost, so long as money is not misapplied and the ratepayers are receiving value for the expenditure.

In this county, it is to be regretted that the matter of good roads has not recived the attention it deserves. In many townships the old discredited and useless statute labour system is still retained, and the highways show the results in their bad condition. Other townships have wholly or partly broken away from the statute labour or rather statute idleness, system, with results evident in far better highways than those existing in other townships. Systematic and intelligent application of commuting statute labour tax has had its effect. We people in the city cannot in many ways, throw stones at our rural neighbours, but that should not prevent the latter from taking advantage of improved highways to which the Ontario Department of Good Roads points the way and gives the information, the impulse, and the material assistance.

We can't boast of our superior civilization, while the blot of bad roads in town and country remains upon our escutchem.

THE SPRING OF NATIONAL GROWTH

If there were in the vicinity of the city unoccupied land of great fertility our merchants and business men would be delighted to see it occupied and tilled. They know that wants would be created which they would be called upon to supply. In the same light, we of the east of Canada, can regard the settlement of the West, which is breaking out this spring with intensified energy. A superior class of settlers—from the United States—is pouring into the West, equipped with capital and effects to enable them to become immediate tillers of the soil, immediate producers and later creating immediate demands upon the industrial products and commercial wares of Eastern Canada. Last year 53,723 persons crossed the border separating us from the United States, and became agricultural Canadians; this year, judging by the way the inflow sets in, the number will reach at least 70,000. A simple calculation will show what this means. Each new settler, assuming that he is an adult, taking up a least 160 acres, will mean a total acreage of more than eelen million acres. With only a tenth of each farm tilled and with ten bushels only to the acre, this will mean a crop of ten million bushels. At a dollar a bushel we have a total addition to our circulation of money of ten million dollars. Take this, however, as a fancy picture and discount it one half and we have a striking illustration of what the right kind of immigration means to Canada. It seems plain that we are emerging from the zone of depression into the highway of prosperity. In fact there is some danger of a boom which almost invariably spells reaction. In Winnipeg and in every city and town in the West, there is unusual activity of development and growth, and the prosperity of the West is our prosperity. The industrial and commercial needs of the West are, at present and will be for some time to come, supplied from the manufacturing establishments of the East. The West turns to wheat and the East turns to wheels, and the West makes the wheels go round.

During the ten years ending March 31st, 1908, there entered Canada 1,166,126 immigrants, one-sixth of our present population.

THE TRIUMPH OF ALBERTA
(The Canadian Miller.)

Some years ago, with a view to furnishing settlers with a fresh supply of seed and stimulating the cultivation of winter wheat in Alberta, the Canadian Pacific Railway Company imported a couple of cars of Turkey red winter wheat from the State of Kansas, and this wheat was carefully distributed throughout the southern portions of the Province, notably in the Pincher Creek and Cardston districts. The new seed was planted and surprisingly good crops were obtained, and owing to the peculiarly favourable climatic factors of Alberta, the dryness of the air, the many hours of sunshine, and the nature and amount of mineral substances in solution in the soil moisture, Turkey red winter wheat in Alberta has steadily increased in quantity from year to year, until at the present time it is regarded as one of the standard grades and as a hard wheat is in great demand by eastern and European millers.

Strange to say, however, while Alberta has been increasing yearly the area sown to winter wheat and improving its quality, the State of Kansas has been experiencing a reverse process, and consequent upon the continuous crop sequence, combined with climatic and other conditions, the quality and yield of Turkey Red winter wheat in that State have been steadily decreasing. Matters have now reached the stage that the State of Kansas is compelled to go beyond the boundaries of the United States for new winter wheat seed, and after a number of experiments with a view to ascertaining the germinating qualities of different berries, it has been decided that the wheat now grown in Alberta from the original Kansas seed would be the best producer.

Strenuous efforts are now being made to induce the United States Congress to reduce the duties on seed wheat to permit of the importation of sufficient from Alberta to give Kansas a fresh start. If this be done, the farmers of our western province will be provided with another admirable market for their best grades of wheat, and its wonderful capabilities for high-class production will receive a fine advertisement.

Turkey Red wheat and varieties of the same group which probably originated in Russia, are all bearded, have white chaff and medium hard red berries. They are very heavy yielders, but do not attain to any great height. They are in great demand as a milling wheat.

Besides this, Alberta wheat is meeting with a splendid reception in Mexico, and in fact is displacing grain from the United States. One large firm of Kansas City, J. Sydney Smith & Company, who ship large quantities of wheat every year to Mexico, are said to be making arrangements to ship Canadian wheat from Vancouver, and will probably erect elevators at that place unless the C. P. R. or Government do so. Not only is Alberta wheat regarded with high favour, but the all-ocean transportation is cheaper than by rail to Mexico through the United States.

CLEAR OFF THE MUD DON'T MIND DUST

"Ratepayer" Says the Streets of Peterborough Are a Disgrace.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir:—Having noticed in your columns of last night's issue of Mr. Health's complaints of dust, I have a better proposition to make, that the City might see their way clear to buy a few more hoes and shovels and put a few more men on to clear away the vast amount of mud, etc. For such a town as Peterborough, it is a disgrace to have such streets. I would also suggest that our friend goes north, so he might get a few months more winter. Not only does he want us to be stuck in some of those large piles of mud in the main streets, but he wants to sprinkle water over us, besides it is wasting good water on such dirty roads. From that economic point of view our worthy Mayor and Council might approve of the latest suggestion and have our streets made respectable, so that when the Easter visitors arrive they will find this noted city clear of mud mountains.

Yours, etc.,
RATEPAYER.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

Furnished by J. N. Barber.—

New York, April 7.—Stocks opened 1-4 to 1-2 higher than last night's close and for the first hour some fair strength, with Reading in the lead. Smelters ran up to 90 and then reacted. C. & O. made a new high record. It looked like pool manipulation in this and one or two other specialties. The tone became reactionary toward noon and the early gains were lost, while Steel common sold down below yesterday's figures. The market seemed to be waiting for the crop report at noon, and was probably influenced unfavourably by the strength of wheat in Chicago. Dulness ensued as prices fell away and this was regarded as a favourable sign. We do not expect much activity before the holidays.

Grain News

Chicago, April 7.—There were sensational advances in wheat at the opening to-day, and the pit was the scene of great excitement. May wheat sold up to 125 1-4, July 1.11, and Sept. 102 3-4. Much higher cables from Liverpool created a panic among the shorts and they covered at any price at all. After these demands were satisfied the market quieted down and prices lost a cent or more. When the government crop report showed the condition of wheat as 82.2 on April 1st, the market became furiously active and jumped nearly two cents up to the previous high. The report was even more bullish than had been expected.

Corn and oats did not share in the strength in wheat and after opening higher lost the gain and went a cent lower.

Liverpool close: Wheat 1 3-8d. to 1 5-8d. higher; corn 1-8 to 1-4 higher.

ECONOMICAL PRIZES.

Dainty Little Bows Made From Short Lengths of Silk.

It is the custom to give prizes for all game and contest entertainments; therefore the woman who does much entertaining is ever on the lookout for new ideas.

A girl who has not much money to spend, but whose parties are enjoyed for their informality and the touch of novelty found in the arrangements, hit upon a set of prizes for a recent card party that proved so popular they may be suggestive.

Dainty handkerchief boxes covered with stylish blue and white Japanese paper were lined with white tissue paper, and in each box were put two belts and two small silk bows to match. Tinseled and fancy belting was used, and the double bows were not more than two inches across when finished.

The belts can be picked up quite cheaply when sales are watched, and each tie takes less than an eighth of a yard of silk. They are simple to make, a consideration with a busy girl.

A pattern for each loop was a semicircle about two inches and a half long and two inches deep. The straight edge was put on the fold of the silk and the material cut double. Four of these pieces were cut, and each one was gathered around the curved edge and drawn up into as tight a neck as possible.

Two loops were then sewed together neck to neck, and one set of loops was placed on top of the other and the joining covered with a narrow fold of silk.

Half a dozen such bows can be made in a short time, and if pretty colors are chosen they are extremely becoming, besides making an artistic looking gift when combined in the box with contrasting shades.

WE LIKE TO MEET HER.

The Girl Who Is Always Glad to See Us.

The girl who makes us think she has been pining to see us. She may have not been, but her assumption is pleasing to our self esteem.

She who has some graceful word of praise. Pounds of taffy may cloy, but the occasional piece usually goes to the spot.

The girl who laughs.

The girl who can calm us down. When the flame of ire is stirred it is easier to find those who will throw on fuel than be an extinguisher.

She who stops for a kindly greeting, though we know she can ill spare the time. The few minutes of our busy friends are more prized than hours from the girl who is trying to kill time.

The girl who has the latest news. We may disapprove of malice in gossip, but most of us will not seek for ear cotton when simple gossip comes our way.

The girl with whom we can afford to let off steam. There are few among our friends who are trustworthy enough to prove safety valves. Their intention is usually better than their discretion.

She who can make our day brighter. There are some people who can put a damper on our whole day without resorting to a word. A cheer bringer is a mascot.

The girl who is always the same. Variety is an overestimated virtue when it is found in the disposition of our friends.

The girl who leaves us quite in love with ourselves. Meeting some women is like an unexpected glimpse in a distorting mirror—our after humility is painful.

Luckier Than Swastika.

A new good luck emblem has been found.

Its discoverer—cynics might remark its inventor—says it is 5,000 years old and that it brings far more good luck to its wearer than the swastika—for instance, health, money, love, friends, happiness—scarcely any good thing is left out of its catalogue. It is in the form of a T with the center bar quite long and the suggestion of a horseshoe across the center of the top.

If you are superstitious add this to your collection of good luck emblems. But, as a tip, don't sit down with happy folded hands and expect all these blessings to come to you. The world's experience has usually been that if you want these good things of life you must get up and amble after them quite hurriedly.

THINGS WORTH KNOWING.

Five cents' worth of whiting kept in a bathroom closet is a cheap and quick polisher of nickel fixings.

If oilcloth is given a coat of varnish twice a year it wears longer, is more easily kept clean and does not lose the pattern.

A paste of thick starch and water put on blood stains and allowed to stand for a short time will remove them when not too old.

In cutting bread for sandwiches if a hot instead of cold knife is used the slices will be thinner and more easily cut.

A saucerful of lime placed in a damp closet will act as a disinfectant and absorb dampness. The lime should be renewed once in two weeks or as often as it slakes.

The cheaper grade of almonds with hard shells are quite as good as the better almonds for salting. They are no more trouble to prepare if a nutcracker is used to break them.

Cold shrimp or cold chicken cut into dice and mixed with cold peas makes a delicious leftover when creamed with butter, salt, pepper and a little milk or cream in a chafing dish.

PILES CURED IN 6 TO 14 DAYS
PAZO OINTMENT is guaranteed to cure any case of Itching, Blind, Bleeding or Protruding Piles in 6 to 14 days or money refunded. 50 cents.

IMMEDIATE RELIEF

From Coughs, Colds, Sore Throats and Hoarseness by Using Hyomei.

When you catch cold you want to get rid of it as quickly as you can. You don't want to lie around the house for a week swallowing nauseating drugs.

Why not avoid all this? Why not relieve your cold in five minutes? Why not cure it over night? You can do it by using Hyomei, the sure and guaranteed cure for colds, coughs, sore throat, catarrh, bronchitis and asthma.

William Guest, of Ayr, Ont., says: "Booth's Hyomei, has proven to be a most satisfactory treatment for nasal catarrh and bronchial trouble. I have doctored considerably for these troubles and conscientiously say that nothing ever used has given me such quick and lasting benefit as this remedy. I have found it especially good for cold in the head and cough. I am very glad to endorse Hyomei as an article of uncommon merit."

Hyomei (pronounced High-o-me) is medicated and antiseptic air. You breathe it into the lungs through a small pocket inhaler and its soothing influence as it passes over the inflamed membrane of the respiratory tract, stops the mucous discharge, allays the inflammation and the cold is cured. A complete Hyomei Outfit costs $1.00 and Wm. Madill will refund your money if it fails to cure.

Future of British Columbia.

The announcement of Mr. D. D. Mann, vice-president of the Canadian Northern Railway Co., that his road will seek an entrance into British Columbia, has aroused great attention in all parts of that province. This railway now extends from Lake Superior to a point west of Edmonton at the beginning of the foothills of the Rocky Mountains. It proposes to utilize the Yellow Head Pass, which is that through which the Grand Trunk Pacific line will be built. Instead of going to the northwest after crossing the Rockies, the Canadian Northern will extend to the southwest by the valley of the North Thomson River to Kamloops, on the main line of the Canadian Pacific. From Kamloops two routes are being considered. One is by way of the Fraser River on the side opposite that whereon the Canadian Pacific Railway is located, and the other is somewhat east of the Fraser, but both routes have the fertile lands south of the Fraser in common. The road will reach New Westminster and Vancouver, and will connect with Vancouver Island by car-ferry, which will be across thirty miles of water. The Provincial Government will be asked to guarantee the company's bonds. The Grand Trunk Pacific asks for the same assistance in aid of a branch line from Fort George to Vancouver, and also promises a Vancouver Island connection. Railway construction from Victoria to Barkley Sound is being promoted by a syndicate of United States capitalists.—Standard of Empire.

The Strong, Silent Man.

You know the chap—broad shouldered, square chinned, a trifle gray about the temples, with not much to say for himself, but so strong? Every one admires him—not at first perhaps, but always before the end of the last act, for the strong, silent man's existence is confined exclusively to the stage.

In real life it is practically impossible to be a strong, silent man.

We know a man who when a mere boy thought that he would be an S. S. M. What happened? Did relatives flock round, murmuring, "How exceptionally strong and silent young Herbert is?" Not at all. When he smiled cynically instead of answering questions he was accused of sulkiness. When he laughed short, quiet laughs the charge was changed to one of rudeness. The thing is literally impossible off the stage. Women always love the quiet, determined men—on the stage. Somehow their tastes don't seem to lie in the same direction "off." "It is the silly ass with a smirk, who knows all about the forthcoming light opera, who seems to corral the sex," says a mere man. The strong, silent man may found, as a rule, in a corner fiddling with a photograph album. In real life he never seems to get a chance, as he does on the stage. No great heroism or tremendous renunciation is required of him. He is practically one of the unemployed.—Philadelphia Record.

In an Alligator's Mouth.

The alligator of South America, says a traveler in that region, is the reptile most disliked by the natives. That terrible creature feeds on fish, carrion and animals which it is successful enough to surprise as they come to drink at the water's edge. Man also frequently falls a victim, and for that reason the natives of places where the alligator is common have devised various methods for killing it. There was a pond near where I was once staying, where the wild cattle went in herds to drink, and there hunters used to lay in wait for them. One day one of the hunters, going into the water, came across an alligator, which seized him by the knee.

He began to call for help, but his comrades, instead of going to his rescue, ran away, thinking he had fallen into the hands of the hostile natives. The alligator had not a good hold of his knee, but would not let go while the man struggled. The hunter had presence of mind enough, however, to become still and pretend that he was dead, whereupon the alligator loosened his hold to take a new and securer one. When it did so the man pulled away his knee and interposed his gun, which the creature at once seized so savagely and firmly that it was jerked out of the man's hands.

An Unusual Plea.

Regarding the humors of skating a volume might be written. The following interesting card appeared last season at the entrance to a rink in Western Canada:

"Notice! Rink closed. Too cold for skating. By order."

TO AN ENGAGED GIRL.

Congratulatory Note Should Be Sent Immediately After Announcement.

When a girl is engaged it becomes necessary for her friends to treat her with a formality they never before approached, for she often becomes an astonishingly touchy person in many particulars, and if etiquette is not observed and she is not paid the deference due her new status her feelings are likely to be hurt.

For instance, just as soon as one knows of her engagement the fact should be acknowledged by the sending of a congratulatory note. This is not always a very easy duty to perform, but if the girl who is writing does not know her friend's fiance she may still be able to send a note such as this:

My Dear Miss Smith—The pleasant news of your engagement has just come to me, and I want to be among those who most cordially congratulate Mr. Jones upon his great good fortune.

I am glad, too, to wish you all happiness, and I am hoping that before long I may be so fortunate as to meet Mr. Jones and give him my good wishes personally. Most sincerely,

MARY JAMES.

A girl who knows intimately the engaged person to whom she is writing will have no difficulty with her note, for she will simply express the interest and pleasure she feels in the event.

According to the strictest etiquette, it is the man and not the girl who is felicitated, the theory being that the good fortune is his, not hers. But in custom both are congratulated.

It is expected that the engaged girl will answer all the notes she receives, and her response may read something in this form:

My Dear Miss James—It is very kind of you to be interested in my new happiness, and I appreciate your good wishes for Mr. Jones and myself. Indeed, I hope before long that I may have the pleasure of making you known to each other, for I want him to know my friends. Cordially,

MARY SMITH.

PROGRESS OF WOMEN.

A Feminine Reporter In the Berlin Landtag.

A woman journalist, Mme. Flamonkova, has just been allowed to sit in the press gallery and report the proceedings of the Berlin lantag. Never before has one of her sex had this privilege in Germany.

In England, of course, the same rule prevails. A woman cannot report parliamentary doings and is not eligible for the press gallery.

The Turkish women, who are continually demonstrating their independence, have now expressed a wish to be allowed to be present at the opening of parliament and to assist at future debates in the chamber of deputies.

Some of the leaders of the women's cause went to the Young Turk leaders several days ago and formally asked for the privilege, pointing out that if Christian women are to be allowed to follow the proceedings they also should be permitted to do so and that a latticed gallery could be reserved for them.

They added that if only Christian women were admitted at any future date and Turkish women excluded they would follow the example of the London suffragettes and make a demonstration outside the parliament building.

The committee did not reply to this demand of the deputation, pleading that it must take some time for consideration of the matter.

THE STRAIGHT AND NARROW.

Lady, with your soup bowl hat,
  Near-directoire gown and makeup,
With your curves all to the flat,
  Quite in line with fashion's shakeup,
With your long plumes all a-wave,
When you gayly trip the pave
As on toward the shops you hike it,
Do you like it?

When reform has done its work,
  E'en though hubby much has scolded,
And with many a strain and jerk
  You into new shade are molded,
Do you wholly feel at ease
In your efforts thus to please?
Smiles that match your costume rakish—
Are they fakish?

And when you have closed your tour
  Of the downtown streets for shopping
And you're home again are your
  Inclinations to be stopping
Long before you want to take
'Em all off for comfort's sake
And put on, though not so dapper,
Just a wrapper?

—W. L. W. in Brooklyn Life.

Vision In Battle Smoke.

Mr. William Goscombe John, the well-known Welsh sculptor, who has been elected a full R.A., was born at Cardiff, and as a boy sang in the Llandaff Cathedral choir. Among Mr. John's many noted works of statuary are the "Boy at Play," in the Tate Gallery, the Liverpool War Memorial, and a memorial to the Coldstream Guards. The latter is a particularly beautiful piece of work. In the foreground a khaki-clad Coldstreamer lies dying in the arms of a comrade, whilst in the background he sees, amid the curling wreaths of battle smoke, a vision of the old guard from the Crimean veteran back to swarthy General Monk, first colonel of the Coldstreams, looking on with pitying but approving eyes. Mr. John has studied in Greece, France, Italy, Spain, Cairo, Constantinople, Morocco, and Algeria. He stayed in Paris a year.

The Ox's Affections.

Oxen usually die in pairs. One yoke-fellow seldom survives the other. Working and resting side by side through many long years, those patient animals develop so strong, so deep and abiding an affection for one another that separation means death. When a pair of oxen are yoked together in youth they fight. Their mutual hatred is as great as would be that of two men yoked together. But with the years' passage they cease to kick and butt. They become friends. And this friendship ripens at last into an over-mastering affection, which, it may be, consoles the mild, laborious creatures in some measure for the lifelong cruelties heaped on them by man.

EARTHQUAKES.

They Are Not the Most Terrible of the World's Catastrophes.

It is the general opinion that earthquakes constitute the most terrible of the world's catastrophes both as regards loss of life and destruction of property.

This, however, is not so.

The convulsion in southern Italy killed not less than 200,000 people, and in this respect it is easily the most dreadful occurrence of its kind. The historic Lisbon earthquake, which ranks next below it in regard to the number of fatalities, caused 50,000 deaths in that one city alone and about an equal number elsewhere. The South American one of 1867 was responsible for 30,000. That which destroyed Aleppo in 1822 slew 20,000. These are the four worst earthquakes concerning which anything like reliable statistics are obtainable, and the total combined loss of life, it will be observed, did not, at any rate, exceed 350,000.

But when the Yellow river burst its banks in September, 1867, more than 7,000,000 people were drowned in the resultant great flood, which covered to an average depth of six feet a populous Chinese province the size of Scotland. Thus in this one catastrophe more lives were lost than in all the earthquakes recorded in the world's history.

Then, again, there is pestilence. The black death killed in China, where it broke out, 13,000,000 people, in the rest of Asia 24,000,000 and 30,000,000 in Europe, or 67,000,000 in all. In India alone, and that within the past twelve years, the bubonic plague has slain over 6,000,000 of our fellow subjects, and the epidemic still rages.

Or there are famines, which run plagues a close second. The one that raged in Bombay and Madras in 1877, for example, slew 5,000,000 people, and that which prevailed in northern China in the same year and which was due to the same climatic causes cost 9,500,000 lives.

No! Earthquakes, terrible though they strike the imagination as being at the time they occur, are mere flea bites when compared with these other manifestations of nature's power to kill.—Pearson's Weekly.

A Terrible Loss.

As is the case with all occurrences where tragedy is uppermost, the collision between the Republic and the Florida brought out some amusing incidents. Here is one:

When the Republic passengers were taken on board the Baltic many of them had saved practically none of their belongings. One lady, arrayed in a nightgown and fur coat, all she had brought with her from the sinking ship, climbed over the side of the Baltic and spied a sort of bulletin board on which notices of interest to the passengers were posted. The following caught that lady's eye:

"Lost—One gold button. Finder ple[illegible]m to"—

The possessor of one nightgown and one fur coat looked long and solemnly at that notice.

"Lost, one gold button," she murmured dreamily. "Think of it—one button lost!"

Then she went into hysterics.—New York Times.

The Eagle Dam.

The dam of the Rio Grande, opposite Eagle, N. M., is to be one of the largest in the world, and it is intended to end the ancient war between old Mexico, New Mexico and Texas, says Roy Crandall in the Van Norden Magazine. It will form a lake forty-five miles in length, 200 feet deep, with a capacity great enough to flood 2,000,000 acres to the uniform depth of one foot. The dam which is destined to work this wonder will be a mountain of concrete, the estimates now being figured calling for 410,000 cubic feet of that material. The vast retaining bank will be 265 feet high, 180 feet thick at the base, 20 feet thick on top, while the length of the crest will be 1,150 feet. It will cost $8,000,000.

The Speaker's Wife.

In view of the fact that by her husband's appointment to the position of Speaker, she has become the mistress of the House of Commons, Madame Charles Marcil occupies a place in the public eye scarcely less notable than that of her husband. And it may be said that one reason why Mr. Marcil's appointment has been so popular is that Madame Marcil is a very great favorite in Ottawa and Montreal society.

Madame Marcil is the daughter of the late James Pearson of Montreal, and in February, 1892, when only 18, became the bride of Mr. Marcil. The marriage has proven a most happy one, and Madame Marcil, by her unswerving devotion and lively interest is a tower of strength to her husband, having accompanied him always throughout his political campaigns and electioneering, and having found her greatest pleasure in keeping in touch with all he undertakes and accomplishes. Particularly by the younger set in society is Madame Marcil most warmly welcomed and admired, her characteristic vivacity and geniality and innate love for all that is bright and joyous drawing them irresistibly around her.—Saturday Night.

Alfie Shrubb's Joke.

Alfie Shrubb, the noted English runner, was an interested listener a few days ago at Magistrate Denison's morning Police Court. And afterwards some officials took the speedy man to the detective offices and made him acquainted all round.

Now the Toronto detectives are drafted from the regular police force as a rule. That means that usually they are big men. Shrubb's idea of a detective apparently was somewhat different from the type of men who ferret out crime in that city. The English runner is rather small, and, as he looked at the big detectives and pictured them trying to run down a speedy thief, he couldn't help smiling.

Then he had his little joke.

"Why," he said, "you fellows couldn't catch cold if you were locked up in a refrigerator."

PERUNA A WONDERFUL BOON IN MY OLD AGE.

MRS. MAHALA REID.
Heartily Approves of Pe-ru-na and Man-a-lin for Kidney and Bowel Trouble

MRS. MAHALA REID, Corbyville, Ont., Canada, writes:

"Your celebrated remedies have been a wonderful boon to me in my old age.

"I have not been in so good health for several years as now. I was troubled with constipation, rheumatism and kidney trouble.

"A little over two years ago, I completely lost my health, becoming almost helpless, when a dear friend sent me your remedies, Peruna and Manalin. I began to take them, following the directions on the bottle. I very soon began to feel benefited by their use and continued to take them.

"I am now completely recovered from the above ailments, in fact, better than I have been for years past. I cannot praise the remedies too highly and will always recommend them to others."

Constipation is almost sure to set up other derangements.

Retained accumulations within the bowels are partly reabsorbed into the system, producing sometimes rheumatism, sometimes kidney trouble.

The blood being surcharged with acids, which ordinarily find their escape through the bowels when they are regular, rheumatism is the result.

Acid blood forms crystals, which accumulate about the ligaments, cartilages and sometimes the bones in the joints.

Such morbid accumulations of blood throw extra work upon the kidneys. The kidneys being unable to perform the unusual labor of excreting these poisons, often give way and kidney trouble is the result.

Permanent relief cannot be reasonably expected except by correcting the constipation.

Regular bowels are a great safeguard to health. Peruna and Manalin are unexcelled the world over for chronic diseases affecting the bowels and kidneys.

Mrs. W. W. Lamaster, 3127 McAtee, Ave., Louisville, Ky., writes:

"I suffered for twenty-six years with bladder and kidney trouble, and being advised to give Peruna a trial, I did so. Eight bottles of Peruna and three bottles of Manalin entirely cured me."

Diamond Mine Near Lindsay?

Set Violet of Toronto, a former resident of Lindsay, who has been on the Tracy farm, east of the latter town, for the past few days in search for diamonds, which he believes are to be found here, has returned home and will not return to the diamond mine until spring.

Mr. Violet and Mr. George Thomas sank a shaft three feet in the ground, but, owing to the cold weather, decided not to do anything further until spring, when they will build a house and obtain the necessary machinery for the sinking of several shafts.

Mr. Violet has every confidence that he will find diamonds on the farm within six months.

Carrying Coals to Newcastle.

There have been some amusing presentations to public men in Toronto, but none more so in one sense than that made recently by the Canadian National Exposition Board to its popular retiring president, Mr. W. K. George.

It was literally a case of the old saying that some people would even carry coals to Newcastle.

Mr. George is the moving spirit in a company which manufactures all kinds of silverware. What more fitting than that the Exposition Board should make him a present of a cabinet of silver as an evidence of their appreciation of his services.

That's exactly what they did!

Lots of Land Yet.

Statistics compiled by the Department of Immigration at Winnipeg show there are still 200,000 homesteads available in the three prairie provinces under the surveys which have been completed. The extension of the surveys, of course, will increase this number greatly. The free farms are located as follows, according to provinces: Manitoba, 18,118; Saskatchewan, 106,560, and Alberta, 71,286. Much of the land is desirable, quite as good as anything in the country, and all that is required to make it equal is adequate railway facilities.

Building Up the West.

It is estimated that thirty million dollars' worth of new building will be erected in ten cities of western Canada during the present season. In this amount the twin cities at the head of the lakes are expected to share to the extent of six millions. Winnipeg will run between ten and twelve millions, and the balance will be distributed between Brandon, Regina, Moose Jaw, Calgary, Edmonton, Victoria and Vancouver.

A Canadian Victory.

The winning of the International Cup at the great bonspiel in Switzerland by the McDiarmid rink of Canadian curlers was the culmination of a splendid career of conquest. The Canadians showed themselves to be better than the best, and the honor they won is shared in by the whole country.—Toronto Saturday Night.

Robt. Fair, Chairman.

Upon motion of Dr. Morrison, seconded by Mr. Crane, the accounts were ordered to be paid.

Committee Disbands.

Dr. Morrison thought that since the Collegiate Institute Committee had performed all its duties that body might disband and brought in a motion, which was seconded by Mr. E. F. Mason, to the effect that the committee be disbanded, and that the Finance Committee give over to Mr. C. Duranceau, contractor for the plumbing and heating, his bonds, and that an appropriation of $75 be made towards beautifying the grounds surrounding the Collegiate, Messrs. W. F. Nelson, W. H. Hill and D. W. Dumble to look after the work of decoration. The motion was carried.

To Attend Convention.

It was moved by Messrs. Hill and Crane that the Chairman of the various committees represent the Board of Education at the annual convention of school trustees to be held in Toronto during Easter week. It was pointed out that this Convention was a valuable source of instruction for a member of a school Board, and as many as possible should avail themselves of the opportunity to attend.

Other Matters.

The Property Committee was authorized to ask for tenders for coal for next year, also to purchase jacket heaters and attachments for the Queen Alexandra and the Collegiate Institute.

The Secretary was instructed to write the City Council, asking them to build a cement walk, ten feet in width across Central Park.

It was moved by Dr. Morrison, seconded by Mr. Crane, that the teachers be paid their cheques to-day, instead of having to wait until the fifteenth.—Carried.

The board then adjourned.

Thirtieth Annual Meeting Of Women's Mission Circle Of Murray Street Baptist Church

Mrs. (Dr.) Hunter and Mrs. (Rev.) J. R. Webb Received Presentations—Address by Dr. Hulet on Missionary Effort in India.

REPORTS OF THE OFFICERS.

The annual meeting of the Ladies' Mission Circle of the Murray St. Baptist Church was held last night in the Sunday School room, proving to be an affair not only of success but of pleasant memories. It also afforded the large assembly an opportunity of hearing Dr. Gertrude Hulet's address or rather account of her experiences in India acquired during the seven years she spent in that country as a medical missionary of the Baptist Church.

The meeting which was open to everyone included in the attendance a fairly large number of men. After the usual introductory exercises, the president of the circle, Mrs. Dr.) Hunter, called upon the secretary, Miss M. A. Nicholls, to read her report. In her statement Miss Nicholls pointed out that this was the thirtieth annual meeting. On January 29th, 1879, a foreign mission circle was organized with Mrs. Gilmour as president, a position she held for nine consecutive years. At the end of the first year the membership had reached the encouraging figure of 54 and the treasurer reported $61.60. In 1887 home missions were included. In 1906 the young ladies formed a branch. The present year closes with a membership of 84. Of these 55 contributed to home missions and 51 to foreign.

Miss Nicholls gave a careful review of the work that had been done during 1908, showing that much had been accomplished and the circle was now flourishing and continuing in the service which had marked its inception.

Miss Aldridge presented the report of the Home Mission and Mrs. Porter White that of the Foreign Missions. Miss Pringle read the report of the Willing Workers and Miss Hardwicke read the Mission Band's statement. Miss Blade gave a review of the work done by the Baby Band.

Two Presentations

At this stage a felicitous event occurred when Miss Nicholls presented Mrs Hunter with a framed certificate of life membership in the Women's Baptist Foreign Missionary Society, signed by Mrs. Frances L. Firstbrook, president, and Mrs. Sarah J. Webster, secretary. Miss Nicholls referred to the pleasant association which had always existed among the members of the circle and which had been fostered in no small degree by Mrs. Hunter in her position as president, which position she has held for the past three years consecutively. The success of the circle was largely due to her zeal and efforts.

Mrs. Hunter, taken by surprise, expressed her gratitude to the circle for their kindness, and for this mark of honour. In her long connection with it, she felt that the circle had not benefitted so much by her work as she had from the pleasant relations which had always existed in a work which had its object in assisting to spread the Gospel.

Mrs. (Rev.) J. R. Webb was also the object of the kind and appreciative regards of her co-workers in the circle. She was presented by Mrs. (Dr.) Scott with an autograph quilt, which contained the names of over 500 members of the congregation. Mrs. Webb expressed her thanks to the ladies for their remembrance and assured them that the spirit of love accompanying the gift impressed her deeply.

The report of the committee for electing the officers was as follows:

President—Mrs. Hunter.

Vice-Presidents—Mrs. W. J. Scott and Mrs. Wood.

Secretary—Miss M. A. Nicholls.

Treasurer Foreign Missions—Mrs. Porter White.

Treasurer Home Missions—Miss Aldridge.

Collectors—Mesdames Chalmers and W. Montgomery, and Misses Cochrane and Matthews.

Treasurer North West Indian Missions—Mrs. W. J. Scott.

Collector Medical Fund—Mrs. Cunningham.

Treasurer Mite Fund—Mrs. Wood.

The Address

Mrs. Hunter as president presented her address after which she introduced Dr. Hulet, the speaker of the evening.

"Does India Need Christ," was Dr. Hulet's opening remark. Ignorant though the Hindu may be he has an idea of what we call sin. These people are hungry for God and are anxious to free themselves from sin. Dr. Hulet told of one woman whom she had seen with a large scar on her back. This had been formed by being suspended by a hook, hanging by her flesh for a long time. These people will endure this torture for days at a time, abstaining from food and water in expiation for their sins.

The natives endeavour to suspend animation, that is to hold their breath for long intervals believing that during these intervals they are free from sin. They give up their work, ambition, everything to try to accomplish this great thing. Dr. Hulet enumerated other methods of torture and trial in which the natives attempt to deliver themselves from sin.

The Pilgrimages

Speaking of the pilgrimages and the bathing Dr. Hulet stated that this occurs during harvest time and the natives at any cost go to the waters they hold sacred in which to bathe and cleanse themselves from their sins. The grain is left standing in the fields so deep is the Hindu's desire to free himself from sin.

Instances were enumerated of the difficulties the idea of caste presented but Dr. Hulet cited examples to show that it is not deep rooted and she had seen this prejudice frequently thrown aside. Instances were also shown that the people of India will accept Christ and Dr. Hulet had seen many who listened to the missionaries and were finally won for Christ.

The work among the native children was referred to at length and their influence in the homes was pointed out as a strong asset in the missionary work.

Dr. Hulet asked her hearers to assist in the work of giving Christ to India. Even as she was speaking she stated many were dying and it was imperative that the work be hurried on now, while the time was most opportune. One of the pitiable affairs among the women in India is child widowhood. The girls are married in their early teens and if widowed they are looked upon with disgrace, the stigma of which is unbreakable. These young girls, very numerous they are, are sunk into the deepest despair, the only relief for which is the Gospel of Christ. Dr. Hulet impressively portrayed the awfulness of this strange but universal condition among the natives, which blights the lives of those young women whose husbands have died, and which finally ends in their slow but sure deaths pining from the taunts and the cruel stigma of their so-called disgrace.

Dr. Hulet said that if any young people feel the call to the missionary work they should hearken to it as there was nothing which brought such joy as in God's business the winning of souls for Him.

In conclusion Dr. Hulet gave an interesting account of the hospital work in which she has been engaged.

A vote of thanks was extended the lecturer on motion of Miss Aldridge and Mr. Harding.

Rev. J. R. Webb before concluding with the benediction expressed his pleasure at having listened to the address.

'ROUND THE STORES.

To women of fashion, to lovers of the beautiful, to everyone, there is a welcome to come and enjoy the magnificent displays in the millinery and dry goods stores of the city as Easter approaches. The stores are in accord with the brilliant Spring openings, forming a delightful setting for the beautiful new modes for Spring and Summer. The millinery, outer-garment, dress goods, and silk sections form the most important and notable displays. Especially beautiful are the showings in Turnbull's, Hall & Son's and Cressman's. To see these meritorious displays aright, a visit to each store is necessary.

The wall paperers are getting busy. It looks now as if there was going to be an active season. Who hasn't been impressed with the beauty of the new styles in wall papers this Spring? It seems as if the millenium in wall decorations had come at last. People who liked soft-toned walls have been crying for greys and fawns and delicate buffs in solid colours for paper and hangings. And now you may find in the shops just the tint of grey that you see in the far-away sky at dawn, just the soft apricot that lingers in the west, and makes a background for the evening star. The fawn that is the colour of a dry beech leaf gives you every atom of beauty in a picture framed in gold. A visit to Stratton's bookstore, where a display of some of the ultra fashionable in wall paper is made, will be found full of interest just now. This store is one of the sights of the city.

It was a "happy thought" of the Best Stove and Hardware Co. to do "a little practical advertising" that will benefit others. The firm announces that they will give away five very useful articles: (1) A Happy Thought Range; (2) a Radiant Home Heater; (3) A Caloric Fireless Cooker; a Washing Machine and a Clothes Wringer. These are to be given away on January 2nd, 1910, to the five customers whose cash purchases from the opening until the closing days of this competition reach the five largest amounts. The contest opened last Saturday, April 3rd, and closes on Friday, December 31st. If you are interested in this proposition it will be to your advantage to start early.

It is quite evident that the silk blouse will never be left entirely aside. It is too serviceable and too pretty. And this season they are more serviceable than ever. For it is with these that the Japanese, Chinese effects on the occidental world of fashion become most apparent. The silk blouse of the springtime will rival in colouring both in the silks employed and in the embroideries, the great mandarins whom they are intended to imitate. But the plain shirtwaist, which washes so nicely, and comes home to us crisp and fresh, will always be the preferred garment for the busy woman. And this year, as if in an imitation of the striped shirts of the men, the most interesting ones are striped. The stripes are in fine delicate greens, blues, yellows, mauve or in a combination of these colours, on a white background. The bosoms are plaited, the sleeves are small, the cuffs ditto, and the collars are, of course, white and embroidered, to be worn separately. The range of both silk and plain Shirtwaists at Harry Adams'store combines some of the prettiest effects seen this season.

The clothing stores, as well as the millinery shops, are all in their readiness trim for Easter. There is a marked tendency this season towards refined simplicity in men's dress. As a matter of fact, one is always safe in avoiding the extreme or freakish styles. We are happy to see that this is well within the fashion edicts of this season. If "the young man's fancy turns" to Lang & Maher's, the daylight clothiers, he will find some of the best makers' efforts in suits, top coats, hats, neckwear and Easter haberdashery.

It is said that the man who goes with his wife to help select a hat is regarded by most milliners as the enemy of human progress. Milliners have four kinds of customers: The woman who knows what she wants and buys it; secondly, the woman who buys with a proviso that her husband must approve of the purchase; thirdly, the woman who buys from behind the coat-tails of her lord and master; and fourthly, the heroic male who attempts to buy a surprise present for his wife. It is claimed that the purchase of a milliner's creation is a task requiring the greatest possible concentration of mind, and that the presence of a male during the seance has the same effect upon feminine mentality that a magnet has on a compass. Whether this be true or not must be left to the individual. One thing, however, is certain that the choice of hats at Fair's would seem to preclude the possibility of any difficulty in making a correct selection, no matter who was present.

Messrs. Merrell and Meredith are enjoying their store change which recently took place. Speaking to one of the members of the firm, it was learned that the indications are for a larger and more satisfactory volume of business than ever before. This firm have now on display, in addition to their stocks of ready-to-wear clothing hats and haberdashery, their Spring importations of choice suitings and overcoatings of unusual merit, direct from the world's best makers. The patterns and colourings are exceptionally handsome. The happy combination of the best English fabrics and the smartest American styles is well worth investigation. The firm claims to be in a better position than ever to give the biggest value and smartest styles for whatever money you have to spend on wearing apparel; "your money's worth or your money back" is their guarantee.

In men's scarfs for Easter, the styles are very neat and artistic effects. Stripes on a long bias and Persian effects are noteworthy. Diaphanous accessories for both day and evening wear are shown, beautiful as a rainbow in a mist. The high colours fashionable are Burgundy, Catawba, Hunter's green, heliotrope, lavender and purple. In your search you'll find these are well represented in LeBrun's neckwear department.

THE DOG TAX AND OTHER THINGS

Sir:—The point of my letter yesterday was not that I had written to the Prime Minister, but that the methods upon their achievements of last year. cherous and wicked. I have no desire for such publicity, and should write anonymously, only that I find it impossible so to gain my object. May I draw your attention, Sir, to the Dog Tax notice, and ask whether the public will stand such an outrage?

Board Of Education Will Not Change Place Of Meeting

Motion to Hold Future Meeting in the Board Room of Collegiate Institute Did Not Meet With Unanimous Approval

NOT BE CONVENIENT.

The Board of Education will not change their place of meeting. At least they won't for a year at any rate. Mr. Nelson's motion at last evening's session of the board to hereafter gather in the board room at the Collegiate, did not meet with the unanimous approval of the members, it being the opinion that too much inconvenience would be caused by the change.

Mr. Nelson brought up the question of having the meetings of the Board of Education open to the public and of holding them in the board room at the Collegiate Institute. Mr. Nelson moved in this direction, having given notice of motion at the last meeting of the board. He outlined a number of reasons why the change should be made, the principal one being that the board should have the fullest confidence of the public.

Mr. Crane said that while many things Mr. Nelson said were true, it would almost require a permanent secretary, if the meetings were held in the Collegiate. He said that he had sometimes occasion to call up the secretary two or three times a day and if the books and records of the board were kept at the Collegiate great inconvenience would be caused.

Mr. Mason said that it was almost an imposition on the secretary to have him furnish a place for meeting and other conveniences. He saw many advantages in the proposition made by Mr. Nelson and would second his motion.

Mr. Dumble said that the meetings of the board were not closed to the public and full reports of the meetings always appeared in the press. He did not think the removal would be satisfactory to the secretary.

Mr. Hill did not favour the change unless a vault was installed at the Collegiate. The board had some very valuable records as far back as fifty years. He did not think any appropriation had been made this year for a vault and the great inconvenience that would be caused would not warrant the removal.

Dr. Morrison was favourable to the motion but realized the difficulties as outlined by Mr. Dumble. He suggested that the Property Committee try and get an appropriation next year to have the vault built but at the present he did not think that the change would be a desirable one.

Mr. Crane moved in amendment that no action be taken on the matter this year but that the press, make known the fact that the meetings of the board are always open to the public. It was seconded by Mr. Hill and Carried. Mr. Nelson and Mr. Mason withdrawing their motion.

PRO BONO PUBLICO'S PLEA FOR PRESERVING PARK FOR THE PUBLIC

Editor Examiner.

Dear Sir,—I think it is an outrage. It's all very well to talk of "improving" the upper half of Victoria Park and make it forbidden ground like the lower section is now. "Improvement" is not always improvement. Where can we find a place for band concerts like the upper part of the park, as it is now—a place where the multitudes can seat themselves on the grass, and, lounging at ease, enjoy the beautiful music of our band? Where can the public find such a resting place under the trees like the upper part of the park? The park is for the public enjoyment in every sense—not of the sense of sight only. I enjoy as much as anybody the sight of beautiful flowers, but I enjoy a rest, too; and I don't know a better place to have both enjoyments combined than Victoria Park,as it is now. One can lie on the grass under the shelter of the trees, enjoying shade and rest, and at the same time can enjoy the delight of seeing the glowing parterre of flowers in the valley below. Don't do it. Leave the park as it is now; only improve it in the interests of public enjoyment. If money is to be spent, put in a new flight of central steps and add more seats. Don't destroy public enjoyment of the park. It belongs to the people; let the people enjoy it.

Yours, etc.,

PARTICULARS OF DROWNING OF JOHN MORTIMER AT CAMPBELLFORD

Additional particulars have been received from Campbellford in connection with the drowning of John Mortimer, the former Peterborough man, who met his death there on Monday night. It appears that Mortimer with a companion named Barnett were engaged in picking up driftwood in the river and went out with only a pike pole, having neither oars nor paddle. The current at that point is very swift and when in some manner one of them dropped the pike pole over board the two men became panic stricken as their boat drifted towards the dam and jumped into the swiftly flowing water. Barnett succeeded in swimming to a boom and saved himself in that way, but his companion was not so fortunate. Being unable to reach the boom he swam back to the boat and seizing hold of it was carried over the dam and drowned in the water below. The body had not ben found at noon to-day.

LACROSSE CLUB ORGANIZED AT A VERY ENTHUSIASTIC MEETING AN INTERMEDIATE C. L. A. TEAM

At an enthusiastic and largely attended meeting held in the Crown Hotel last night the Peterborough Lacrosse Club was re-organized under most encouraging auspices. Over a score of players and supporters were in attendance and Canada's national pastime promises to boom in Peterborough this year as it has not done for several seasons. It is felt that there is plenty of material for a fast team, and a twelve can be selected that will make them all step some to head them off.

It was unanimously decided to place a team in the intermediate series of the C. L. A. and a big effort will be made to capture the championship.

The following officers were elected:

Patrons and Patronesses—Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Morrow, Mr. and Mrs. H. Neill, Mr. and Mrs. H. LeBrun, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Stratton, Mr. and Mrs. James Kendry.

Hon President—Mr. J. J. Howden.
Hon Vice-Pres.—Mr. W. Rudkins.
President—Mr. J. Cottingham.
1st Vice Pres.—Dr. Wightman.
2nd Vice Pres.—Mr. M. Halpin.
Sec.-Treas.—Len. Dobson.

Executive—R. M. Glover, N. E. McWilliams, F. A. Clarke, Jack McCabe, and the captain, to be elected by the players.

Manager—Fred Dobbin.

Delegate to the C. L. A. meeting, Fred Dobbin.

DOES IT MEAN EARLY COMPLETION OF LINE?

Can the following paragraph from the "Canadian Miller" be taken to mean the early completion of the C. P. R. grain line from Victoria Harbour to Peterborough? The Miller says that:

"The Canadian Pacific Railway has let the contract for the erection of a new grain elevator at Victoria Harbour, Georgian Bay, to the John S. Metcalf Co., Chicago. The capacity of the new elevator will be two million bushels, and the price is in the neighbourhood of $900,000. Work will be commenced immediately, as the elevator and wharves are to be completed within a year."

CLAN ALPINES HAD GOOD MEETING

There was a good attendance at the meeting of Clan Alpine Camp, Sons of Scotland, in the Knights of Pythias Hall on Monday night. The meeting was of much interest, several initiations being given and a number of applications for admission received. In the absence of Chief McKay his duties were assumed in the installation ceremonies by Mr. Robt. Grieve, Grand Organizer. On account of the removal from the city of Bro. Chalmers, financial secretary, Bro. Simpson Orr was duly appointed in his stead. Other and routine business brought a very satisfactory meeting to a close. The local camp is flourishing and gaining numerical strength rapidly.

SOME INTERESTING INFORMATION ABOUT MIDLAND FOOTBALL LEAGUE ITS HISTORY AND ITS PROSPECTS

At the annual meeting ofthe Midland Association Football League held on Saturday last in the Y.M.C.A., there was a large and enthusiastic attendance, and the prospects before the League this year were decidedly bright. The report of the Treasurer showed the League to be in a good condition financially.

Dr. J. C. Devitt, of Bowmanville, was selected to represent the Midland Football League at the Ontario Association Meeting in Toronto on Easter Monday.

It was decided to hold the annual meeting of the League in future on a C.A. parlours on Saturday, April 24th, March.

A meeting to draw up the schedule for the season will be held in the Y.M.C.A. parlours on Satrday, April 24th, at 1.30 o'clock.

The following officers were elected:—
Hon. President—Hon. J. R. Stratton.
Hon Vice-Pres.—Dr. George Burnham.
President—Dr. Devitt, Bowmanville.
1st Vice-President—Mr. P. Fitzgerald.
2nd—Mr. W. Hurl, Lakefield.
Secretary-Treasurer—Mr. E. Brumwell.
Executive—Dr. A. W. McPherson, Geo. W. James, Bowmanville, W. Hitchen, Havelock.

The following teams have signified their intention of entering this year, and the full returns are not in yet.

Bethany, Bowmanville, Cobourg, Y.M.C.A. (Peterborough), Lakefield, Norwood, Brinton Carpet Co. (Peterboro), Havelock.

The winners of the championships have been as follows:—
1903—Peterborough Y.M.C.A.
1904—Locust Hill.
1905—Bowmanville.
1906—Quakers 1.
1907—Senior and Intermediate, Quakers; Junior, Bowmanville.
1908—Warsaw.

An entirely new planet has appeared on the football horizon, in the form of a team from the Brinton Carpet Co. of this city. This team is composed exclusively of Britishers who have recently arrived here, and it is said that some of the players are famous in their own country, and hold medals denoting that they were members of champion teams "Brinton's Britishers" are anxious to get into action with some of the Canadian teams, and for that purpose have asked for admission to the Midland League. To have this team in the league will add new interest to the game in this vicinity, as it is well known that football draws tremendous crowds in the Old Country, where the attendance at the final games reaches as high as 75,000.

Any club wishing to become affiliated with the Midland League is requested to communicate with the Secretary-Treasurer at its earliest convenience.

The Midland Football League was organized on March 25, 1903, at the Y.M.C.A., at a meeting attended by Drs. Morgan and Keith, and Messrs. Black, Forsyth, Sherin, MacPherson, Brumwell and Ayers.

COLLEGIATE ATHLETES ASK AID OF BOARD TO SECURE GROUNDS

A deputation consisting of Messrs. Harry Hall and Stewart Anderson, from the Collegiate Athletic Association, waited upon the Board of Education last evening.

Mr. Hall addressed the members stating that the Association wanted grounds on which to play their games. It was desirous to get the best available and the ones nearest the school. Riverside Park had been decided upon as the most suitable. But in order to play there the Association would be required to pay a fee of twenty-five dollars. It was intended to ask the Board, he said, for some assistance in meeting this amount last fall but in view of the many demands upon the Board at that time, the Association waited until the spring. The members would be pleased if the Board of Education could see fit to make them a grant.

The young men were promised that the matter would be given due consideration. Upon motion of Messrs. Hill and Nelson, the matter was referred to the Supervision Committee.

STRATHCONAS FOR SENIOR BALL LEAGUE

Will Enter a Fast Team if the Organization is Formed.

The Strathcona Athletic Club held an enthusiastic meeting at the Y.M.C.A. last night at which it was decided to re-organize the baseball team for the season and to enter a team in the Senior City League if one is formed. The Straths won the Intermediate Baseball League last year, and as the same men are still available with a number of other good players it is felt that they should make a creditable showing in senior company.

The election of officers will tae place later on.

ANNUAL BANQUET INTHON BIBLE CLASS SUCCESSFUL AN ENJOYABLE EVENT

The annual banquet of the Inthon Bible Class in connection with George Street Church was held last night and was a gratifying sucess in every way. The company, which numbered about one hundred and twenty, was composed largely of members of the class and the enthusiasm which prevailed augurs well for the continued success of the organization. The total membership of the class is nearly one hundred and seventy-five and it is doing a good work in connection with the church. The teacher is the Rev. E. A. Pearson and he is assisted by a capable body of officers. The speeches of the evening were of a very flattering nature in regard to the class who must feel highly gratified at the success they have attained in their work of serving the Master.

The banquet was held in the Sunday School room which was a fitting place for an affair of this kind to be held. Tea was served from seven to eight and the ladies who supplied the many good things on the tables are to be congratulated on the efficient manner in which they carried out the arrangements to such a successful issue. After those present had done full justice to the repast prepared for them, the following toast list was carried out.

Toast List

The King.

Our City—Proposed by Alderman A. A. McIntyre, responded to by Mr. F. G. Hassard.

Our Church—Proposed by Ex-Alderman W. J. Johnston, responded to by Mr. W. Eyres.

Our Class—Proposed by Mr. S. R. Armstrong, responded to by Mr. F. C. Moore.

The Ladies—Proposed by Dr. G. E. Marshall, responded to by Mr. S. A. Oke.

Mr. W. B. Warne acted in the capacity of toastmaster and the first toast was to the King, which was fittingly honoured and the National Anthem was sung by all present.

Mr. Fred Miles next rendered a vocal solo in a pleasing manner.

Our City

Alderman McIntyre proposed the toast to Our City and said that we should be proud to be called citizens of Peterborough. We had all the conditions needed for the advancement of Peterborough. Our dairy products were known in all the chief markets of the world. Likewise Peterborough was prominent in agriculture and manufacturing. Our educational institutes were in the first rank in the province. We have a number of beautiful and commodious churches and only a week ago another church had been dedicated in the south end of the city. Sister denominations were also going ahead and from a moral and spiritual standpoint Peterborough was far ahead of most places, and there was no reason why this city should not enjoy further progress in the years to come.

Mr. F. G. Hassard in responding said he considered it a great honour to be called upon to respond to the toast of Our City as he was practically a newcomer. If those who had been brought up in the county were to recall their boyhood days he considered that they would remember that their thoughts had been mostly of what they might expect to see in a city. But as we became older we realized that a city was made up of individuals and the future success of any place depends on the efforts of those individuals. It was not the extent of material things that brought success but it depended upon the right living of those who made up the city. We were responsible for the uplifting of our city and it depended mainly on us whether our town was a success or a failure. In conclusion he wished the Bible Class all success in their work.

A song by Mr. Fred Skitch was well received by the company.

Our Church

Ex-Alderman W. J. Johnston proposed the toast to Our Church and said that if we as men paid more attention to what was preached in the church we would be better citizens. For every good man in the church there were one thousand out of it and we ought to be thankful to the men and women who give their time to try and lead our children along the proper path. He paid a high tribute to the president of the Bible Class and in conclusion said that it gave him much pleasure to propose the toast to Our Church coupled with the name of Mr. Wm. Eyres.

Mr. Eyres in responding explained that he was only taking the place of Mr. Cressman, who was unable to be present. A pleasant feature of the success of the church was the big conference that was held in Toronto last week. The conference was not brought about by the efforts of any particular church but was the result of the whole Christian Church combining. Speaking of the manner in which the Bible had been attacked recently, he said that the Book had withstood the test and without it the church would be an utter failure. He was thankful that he had been brought up in the church which would only be successful as long as the members showed by their manner of living that they were what they professed to be. He was glad to have the pleasure of being present and was pleased to be able to respond to the toast of Our Church.

Mr. F. H. Dobbin next delighted his audience by narrating many interesting reminiscences of "When I was a Boy." The speaker was thoroughly at home with his subject and received close attention at the hands of the large company present.

A selection by the Inthon Bible Class orchestra was next rendered in a capable manner.

Our Class

Mr. S. R. Armstrong proposed this toast and in beginning said he was pleased to be present at such a delightful gathering. Next Sunday would be his twenty-seventh year as an official of the school. He had watched with interest and satisfaction the progress made by the class and he thought that those present had done the same. As the class continued to grow larger more room would be needed and he hoped that the officials would come to the rescue. The principles that we should allow to guide our lives would be found in this class. What we believed was of great importance to us in our daily life as it was thought on which we acted. He had served many offices in the Sunday School and he was pleased at the progress made in all departments.

Mr. F. C. Moore responded to this toast and said although he had not had the privilege of attending the banquet last year he was pleased to be present last night. He believed that the class was growing in more ways than one and was glad that he had joined. The speaker explained the mottos followed by the class in which the members found how to live for peace in this world and happiness in eternity with Christ. The earth was a place for preparation and the Inthon Bible Class was a good place to prepare. The class was second to none in Ontario and the members and officers were to be congratulated in the success that had followed it. The Bible Class was an important part of the church and nation and in conclusion wished this branch of the church every success.

A quartette composed of Messrs. Miles, Gray, Warne and Pollard sang in a very pleasing manner and received much applause.

The Ladies

Dr. G. E. Marshall proposed the toast to the Ladies and said it gave him much pleasure in doing so. Women had played a prominent part in the world's history right from the beginning. They had a big influence in many things and they were responsible for a lot of good being done in the world. They had a big opportunity of being influential in the great temperance movement of the day and he felt sure that the women of George Street Church would do their part.

Mr. S. A. Oke responded to the toast to the Ladies and said he appreciated the honour very much. He could only endorse that which had been already said about the ladies and he was sure everybody was pleased with the showing that had been made last night.

Vote of Thanks.

A hearty vote of thanks on behalf of those present was accorded to the Bible Class by Mr. J. J. Hartley and was seconded by Mr. J. S. [illegible]man, after which the affair was brought to a close by the singing of Auld Lang Syne and the Doxology and the Benediction was pronounced by Rev. E. A. Pearson.

CHATS ABOUT FAMOUS BOOKS AND THEIR AUTHORS

By F. M. D.

On the restoration of Charles, Evelyn entered public life and proved himself, through many years of hard and unselfish work, a most useful and devoted servant of the Crown. In early life he had married a daughter of Sir Richard Browne, whom he had met at the embassy at Paris, and she proved throughout a long wedded life, a most devoted and estimable helpmeet to her husband. We have space for no more than a partial enumeration of the offices which Evelyn filled. Amongst others, however, he was appointed commissioner for the building of Greenwich Hospital, and he it was who laid the corner stone of that splendid structure. He was also chief commissioner for the care of the sick and wounded prisoners taken during the war with the Dutch.

In 1698 the Czar Peter arrived in England for the purpose of studying the art of ship-building. For three weeks of his stay, Sayes Court, Evelyn's town house, near Deptford, was rented for the use of the Imperial visitor and his suite.

Admiral Benbow, the famous seaman, had just completed a lease of the house and had left it in fairly bad shape, but the Czar's entourage treated the property so badly that £150 worth of damage was done during their short occupancy. The Czar seems to have contributed not a little to the damage himself, as he completely destroyed a favourite holly hedge of Evelyn's by daily trundling a wheelbarrow through it for the sake of exercise.

The autocrat, who could imbibe a pint of brandy and a bottle of sherry as a morning draught and after dinner polish off eight bottles of sack was one of the most eccentric beings that has ever sat upon a throne, so we need not be astonished at this particular vagary.

When he was departing from England he gave a further instance of his unconventionality by presenting King William with a ruby valued at £10,000, which he took from his waistcoat pocket and handed him, wrapped up in a piece of brown paper.

The following extract from Evelyn's diary has reference to the great fire in London.

The Great Fire

2nd Sept. 1666. This fatal night, about ten, began the deplorable fire, near Fish street in London.

3rd Sept. 1666. I had public prayers at home. The fire continuing after dinner, I took coach with my wife and son and went to the Bankside in Southwark, where we beheld that dismal spectacle, the whole city in dreadful flames near the waterside, all the houses from the bridge, all Thames street, and upward toward Cheapside, down to the Three Cranes, were now consumed; and so returned exceedingly astonished what would become of the rest. The fire having continued all this night (if I may call that night which was as light as day for ten miles round about, after a dreadful manner) when conspiring with a fierce eastern wind in a very dry season, I went on foot to the same place, and saw the whole south part of the city burning from Cheapside to the Thames, and all along Cornhill (for it likewise kindled back against the wind as well as forward) Tower street, Fenchurch street Gracious street, and so along to Baynard's Castle, and was now taking hold of St. Paul's Church, to which the scaffolds contributed exceedingly. The conflagration was so universal, and the people so astonished that from the beginning, I know not by what despondency or fate they hardly stirred to quench it; so that there was nothing heard or seen, but crying out and lamentation, running about like distracted creatures, without at all attempting to save even their goods; such a strange consternation there was upon them, so as it burned both in breadth and length, the churches, public halls, exchange, hospitals, monuments and ornaments, leaping after a prodigious manner, from house to house and street to street, at great distances one from the other. For the heat, with a long set of fair and warm weather, had even ignited the air, and prepared the materials to conceive the fire, which devoured after an incredible manner, houses, furniture and everything. Here we saw the Thames covered with goods floating, all the barges and boats laden with what some had time and courage to save, as, on the other side, the carts, etc., carrying out to the fields, which for many miles were strewn with movables of all sorts, and tents erecting to shelter both people and what goods they could get away. Oh, the miserable and calamitous spectacle! Such as haply the world had not seen since the foundation of it, nor can be outdone till the universal conflagration thereof. All the sky was of a fiery aspect, like the top of a burning oven, and the light seen above forty miles round about for many nights. God grant mine eyes may never behold the like who now saw above 10,000 houses all in one flame! The noise and crackling and thunder of the impetuous flames, the shrieking of women and children, the hurry of people, the fall of towers, houses, and churches was like a hideous storm, and the air all about so hot and inflamed, that at last one was not able to approach it, so that they were forced to stand still and let the flames burn on which they did, for near two miles in length and one in breadth. The clouds also of smoke were dismal and reached upon computation near fifty miles in length. Thus, I left it this afternoon burning, a resemblance of Sodom, or the last day. It forcibly called to my mind that passage 'non enim hic habemus stabilem civitatem' (for we have here no abiding city), the ruins resembling the picture of Troy. London was but is no more! Thus, I returned."

There are further passages in Evelyn's diary relating to the fire but lack of space precludes a longer transcription.

On the 14th March, 1685, Evelyn's daughter Mary died of smallpox. She was evidently a young woman of extraordinary parts, and Evelyn's touching account of her many good qualities gives us a glimpse of the beautiful home-relations of this splendid family. The following is taken from the account:

"It was in the 19th year of her age that this sickness happened to her. An accident contributed to this disease; she had an apprehension of it in particular, which struck her but two days before she came home, by an imprudent gentlewoman who she went with Lady Falkland to visit, who after they had been a good while in the house, told them she had a servant sick of the smallpox (who indeed died the next day). This my poor child acknowledged made an impression on her spirits. There were four gentlemen of quality offering to treat with me about marriage, and I freely gave her her own choice, knowing her discretion. She showed great indifference to marrying at all, for truly, says she to her mother (the other day) were I assured of your life and my dear father's, never would I part from you; I love you and this home where we serve God, above all things, nor ever shall I be so happy: I know and consider the vicissitudes of the world, I have some experience of its vanities, and but for decency more than inclination, and that you judge it expedient for me, I would not change my condition, but rather add the fortune you design me to my sisters, and keep up the reputation of our family. This was so discreetly and sincerely uttered that it could not but proceed from an extraordinary child, and one who loved her parents beyond example."

John Evelyn died on February 27, 1706, in Dover, St Piccadilly. He was in the 86th year of his age—having witnessed the rules of Charles I, Cromwell, Charles II, James II, and William of Orange. His remains were laid to rest by the side of his wife in a raised coffin-shaped tomb in Wotton Church.

Sophy of Kravonia

by ANTHONY HOPE

Author of "The Prisoner of Zenda"

Copyright, 1906, Anthony Hope Hawkins

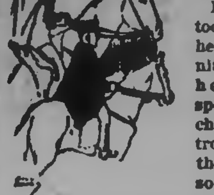
The streets were quiet. Soldiers occupied the corners of the ways. They looked curiously at Markart's pale face and disordered uniform. A dull roar came from the direction of St. Michael's square, and thither Markart aimed his course. He found all one side of the square full of a dense crowd, swaying, jostling, talking. On the other side troops were massed. In an open space in front of the troops, facing the crowd, was Colonel Stafnitz and by his side a little boy on a white pony.



Young Alexis was proclaimed king.

Markart was too far off to hear what Stafnitz said when he began to speak—nay, the cheers of the troops behind the colonel came so sharp on his words as almost to drown them, and after a moment's hesitation, as it seemed to Markart, the crowd of people on the other side of the square echoed back the acclamations of the soldiers.

All Countess Ellenburg's ambitions were at stake. For Stenovics and Stafnitz it was a matter of life itself now, so daringly had they raised their hands against King Sergius. Countess Ellenburg had indeed prayed, and now prayed all alone in a deserted palace, but not one of the three had hesitated. At the head of a united army, in the name of a united people, Stafnitz had demanded the proclamation of young Alexis as king. For an hour Stenovics had made a show of demurring; then he bowed to the national will. That night young Alexis enjoyed more honor than he had asked of Lepage the valet—he was called not prince, but majesty. He was king in Slavna, and the first work to which they set his childish hand was the proclamation of a state of siege.

Slavna chose him willingly or because it must at the bidding of the soldiers, but Volseni was of another mind. They would not have the German woman's son to reign over them. Into that faithful city the wounded king threw himself, with all his friends.

The body of Mistitch lay all day and all night by the wayside. Next morning at dawn the king's grooms came back from Volseni and buried it under a clump of trees by the side of the lane running down to Lake Taiti. Their curses were the only words spoken over the grave, and they flattened the earth level with the ground again that none might know where the man rested who had lifted his hand against their master.

The king was carried to Volseni sore stricken. They did not know whether he would live or die. He had a dangerous wound in the lungs, and, to make matters worse, the surgical skill available at Volseni was very primitive.

But in that regard fortune brought aid and brought also to Sophy a strange conjecture of the new life with the old. The landlord of the inn sent word to Lukovitch that two foreign gentlemen had arrived at his house that afternoon and that the passport of one of them described him as a surgeon. The landlord had told him how things stood, and he was anxious to render help.

It was Basil Williamson. Dunstanbury and he, accompanied by Henry Brown, Dunstanbury's servant, had reached Volseni that day on their return from a tour in the Crimea and around the shores of the sea of Azof.

Chapter Twentyeight

It was late at night, and quiet reigned in Volseni—the quiet not of security, but of ordered vigilance. A light burned in every house; men lined the time worn walls and camped in the market place; there were scouts out on the road as far as Praslok. No news came from outside and no news yet from the room in the guardhouse where the wounded king lay. The street on which the room looked was empty save for one man, who walked patiently up and down, smoking a cigar. Dunstanbury waited for Basil Williamson, who was in attendance on the king and was to pronounce to Volseni whether he could live or must die.

Dunstanbury had been glad that Basil could be of use, but for the rest he had listened to the story which Zerkovitch told him with an amused, rather contemptuous indifference, with an Englishman's wonder why other countries cannot manage their affairs better and something of a traveler's pleasure at coming in for a bit of such vivid, almost blazing, "local color" in the course of his journey. But whether Alexis reigned or Sergius mattered nothing to him and, in his opinion, very little to anybody else.

Nor had he given much thought to the lady whose name figured so prominently in Zerkovitch's narrative, the Baroness Dobrava. Such a personage seemed no less appropriate to the surroundings than the rest of the story—no less appropriate and certainly not a whit more important. Of course he hoped Basil would make a good report, but his mind was not disturbed. His chief hope was that the claims of humanity would not prolong his stay in Volseni beyond a few days. It was a picturesque little place, but not one for a long visit, and, in any case, he was homeward bound now, rather eager for the pleasures of the London season after his winter journey—the third he had made in the interests of a book on Russia which he had in contemplation, a book designed to recommend him as an expert student of foreign affairs. He could hardly consider that these goings on in Kravonia came within the purview of a serious study of his subject, but it was a pleasant, moonlit night, the old street was very quaint, the crisis he had happened on bizarre and amusing. He smoked his cigar and waited for Basil without impatience.

He had strolled a hundred yards away and just turned to loiter back when he saw a figure come out of the guardhouse, pause a moment and then advance slowly toward him. The sheepskin cap and tunic made him think at first that the stranger was one of the Volsenian levy. The next moment he saw the skirt. At once he guessed that he was in the presence of Baroness Dobrava, the heroine of the piece, as he had called her in his own mind and with a smile.

Evidently she meant to speak to him. He threw away his cigar and walked to meet her. As they drew near to each other he raised his hat. Sophy bowed gravely. Thus they met for the first time since Sophy washed her lettuces in the scullery at Morpingham and at the young lord's bidding fetched Lorenzo the Magnificent a bone. This meeting was, however remotely, the result of that. Dunstanbury had started her career on the road which had led her to where she was.

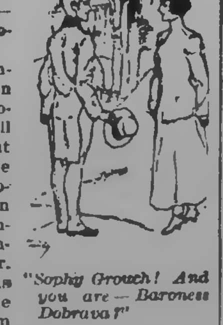
"I've seen Mr. Williamson," she said, "and he knows me now. But you don't yet, do you, Lord Dunstanbury? And, anyhow, perhaps you wouldn't remember."

She had been a slip of a girl when he first saw her, in a print frock, washing lettuces. With a smile and a deprecatory gesture he confessed his ignorance and his surprise. "Really, I'm afraid I—I don't. I've been such a traveler and meet so many"— An acquaintance with the Baroness Dobrava was among the last with which he would have credited himself or perhaps, to speak his true thoughts, charged his reputation.

"Mr. Williamson knew me almost directly—the moment I reminded him of my mark." She touched her cheek. Dunstanbury looked more closely at her, a vague recollection stirring in him. Sophy's face was very sad, yet she smiled just a little as she added: "I remember you so well—and your dog Lorenzo. I'm Sophy Grouch of Morpingham, and I became Lady Meg's companion. Now do you remember?"

He stepped quickly up to her, peered into her eyes and saw the red star.

"Good heavens!" he said, smiling at her in an almost helpless way. "Well, that is curious!" he added. "Sophy Grouch! And you are—Baroness Dobrava?"



"Sophy Grouch! And you are—Baroness Dobrava?"

"There's nothing much in that," said Sophy. "I'll tell you all about that soon if we have time. To-night I can think of nothing but monseigneur. Mr. Williamson has extracted the bullet, but I'm afraid he's very bad. You won't take Mr. Williamson away until—until it's settled—one way or the other, will you?"

"Neither Basil nor I will leave so long as we can be of the least service to you," he told her.

With a sudden impulse she put her hands in his. "It's strangely good to find you here tonight—so strange and so good! It gives me strength, and I want strength. Oh, my friends are brave men, but you—well, there's something in home and the same blood, I suppose."

Dunstanbury thought that there was certainly something in having two Englishmen about, instead of Kravonians only, but such a blunt sentiment might not be acceptable. He pressed her hands as he released them.

"I rejoice in the chance that brings us here. You can have every confidence in Basil. He's a first rate man. But tell me about yourself. We have time now, haven't we?"

"Really, I suppose we have! Monseigneur has been put to sleep, but I couldn't sleep. Come, we'll go up on the wall."

They mounted on to the city wall just by the gate and leaned against the moldering parapets. Below lay Lake Taiti in the moonlight, and beyond it the masses of the mountains. Yet while Sophy talked Dunstanbury's eyes seldom left her face—nay, once or twice he caught himself not listening, but only looking, tracing how she had grown from Sophy Grouch in her scullery to this. He had never forgotten the strange girl. Once or twice he and Basil had talked of her. He had resented Lady Meg's brusque and unceremonious dismissal of her protege. In his memory, half overgrown, had lain the mark on Sophy's cheek. Now here she was, in Kravonia, of all places—Baroness Dobrava, of all people! And what else, who knew? The train of events which had brought this about was strange, yet his greater wonder was for the woman herself.

"And here we are!" she ended, with a woful smile. "If monseigneur lives I think we shall win. For the moment we can do no more than hold Volseni. I think we can do that. But presently, when he's better and can lead us, we shall attack. Down in Slavna they won't like being ruled by the countess and Stenovics as much as they expect. Little by little we shall grow stronger." Her voice rose a little. "At last monseigneur will sit firm on his throne," she said. "Then we'll see what we can do for Kravonia. It's a fine country and rich, Lord Dunstanbury, and outside Slavna the people are good material. We shall be able to make it very different if monseigneur lives."

"And if not?" he asked in a low voice.

"What is it to me except for monseigneur? If he dies"— Her hands thrown wide in a gesture of despair ended her sentence.

If she lived and worked for Kravonia it was for monseigneur's sake. Without him, what was Kravonia to her? Such was her mood. Plainly she took no pains to conceal it from Dunstanbury. The next moment she turned to him, with a smile. "You think I talk strangely, saying, 'We'll do this and that!' Yes, you must, and it's suddenly become strange to me to say it—to say it to you, because you've brought back the old things to my mind, and all this is so out of keeping with the old things—with Sophy Grouch and Julia Robins and Morpingham! But until you came it didn't seem strange. Everything that has happened since I came to this country seemed to leap up to it—to bring it about naturally and irresistibly. I forgot till just now how funny it must sound to you—and how—how bad, I suppose. Well, you must accustom yourself to Kravonia. It's not Essex, you know."

"If the king lives?" he asked.

"I shall be with monseigneur if he lives," she answered.

Yes, it was strange. Yet already, even now—when he had known her again for half an hour, had seen her and talked to her—gradually and insidiously it began to seem less strange, less fantastic, more natural. Dunstanbury had to give himself a mental shake to get back to Essex and to Sophy Grouch. Volseni set old and gray amid the hills, the king whose breath struggled with his blood for life, the beautiful woman who would be with the king if and so long as he lived—these were the present realities he saw in vivid immediate vision. They made the shadows of the past seem not indeed dim—they kept all their distinctness of outline in memory—but in their turn fantastic and in no relation to the actual. Was that the air of Kravonia working on him or was it a woman's voice, the pallid pride of a woman's face?

"In Slavna they call me a witch," she said, "and tell terrible tales about this little mark—my red star—but here in Volseni they like me—yes, and I can win over Slavna, too, if I get the opportunity. No, I shan't be a weakness to monseigneur if he lives."

"You'll be"—

"His wife?" she interrupted. "Yes." She smiled again—nay, almost laughed. "That seems worst of all—worse than anything else?"

Dunstanbury allowed himself to smile too. "Well, yes, of course that's true," he said. "Out of Kravonia anyhow. What's true in Kravonia I really don't know yet."

"I suppose it's true in Kravonia, too, but what I tell you is monseigneur's will about me."

He looked hard at her. "You love him?" he asked.

"As my life, and more," said Sophy simply.

At last Dunstanbury ceased to look at her. He laid his elbows on the battlements and stood there, his eyes roaming over the lake in the valley to the mountains beyond. Sophy left his side and began to walk slowly up and down the rugged, uneven, overgrown surface of the walls.

The moon was sinking in the sky. There would be three or four dark hours before dawn. A man galloped up to the gate and gave a countersign in return to a challenge; the heavy gates rolled open; he rode in; another rode out and cantered off along the road toward Praslok. There was watch and ward. Volseni was not to be caught napping as Praslok had been. Whether the king lived or died, his Volsenians were on guard. Dunstanbury turned his back on the hills and came up to Sophy.

"We Essex folk ought to stand by one another," he said. "It's the merest chance that has brought me here, but I'm glad of the chance now, and it's beginning to feel not the least strange. So long as you've need of help count me among your soldiers."

"But you oughtn't to mix yourself up"—

"Did you act on that principle when you came to Kravonia?"

With a smile Sophy gave him her hand. "So be it. I accept your service—for monseigneur."

"I give it to you," he persisted.

"Yes, and all that is mine I give to monseigneur," said Sophy.

Any man who meets or after an interval of time again meets an attractive woman only to find that her thoughts are pre-empted and totally preoccupied suffers an annoyance not the less real because he sees the absurdity of it. It is to find shut a gate which with better luck might have been open. The unusual circumstances of his new encounter with Sophy did not save Dunstanbury from this common form of chagrin. The tragic element in her situation gave it a rather uncommon flavor. He would fain have appeared as the knight errant to rescue such beauty in such distress, but the nature of the distress did not seem favorable to the proper romantic sequel.

He made his offer of service to her. She assigned him to the service of monseigneur! He laughed at his own annoyance and determined to serve monseigneur as well as he could. At the same time, while conceding most amply—nay, even feeling—monseigneur's excuse, he could not admire his policy in the choice of a bride. That was doubtless a sample of how things were done in Kravonia. He lived to feel the excuse more strongly and to pronounce the judgment with greater hesitation.

Sophy had given him her hand again as she accepted his offer in monseigneur's name. He had not yet released it when she was called from the street below in a woman's voice—a voice full of haste and alarm.

"Marie Zerkovitch calls me! I must go at once," she said. "I expect monseigneur is awake." She hurried off, with a nod of farewell.

Dunstanbury stayed a little while on the wall, smoking a cigarette, and then went down into the street. The door of the guardhouse was shut. All was very quiet as he passed along to the market place, where the inn was situated. He went up to his room overlooking the street and, taking off his coat only, flung himself on the bed. He was minded thus to await Basil Williamson's return with news of the king, but the excitement of the day had wearied him. In ten minutes he was sound asleep.

He was aroused by Basil Williamson's hand on his shoulder. The young doctor, a slim built, dark, wiry fellow, looked very weary and sad.

Answer This Question

When thousands of women say that they have been cured of their ailments by a certain remedy, does this not prove the merit of that remedy?

Thousands of women have written the story of their suffering, and have told how they were freed from it by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—for thirty years these reports have been published all over America.

Without great merit this medicine could never have gained the largest sale of any remedy for woman's ills—never could have become known and prized in nearly every country in the world.

Can any woman let prejudice stand between her and that which will restore her health? If you believe those who have tried it you know this medicine does cure.

Read this letter from a grateful woman, then make up your mind to give Mrs. Pinkham's medicine a chance to cure you.

Canifton, Ont.—"I had been a great sufferer for five years. One doctor told me it was ulcers of the uterus, and another told me it was a fibroid tumor. No one knows what I suffered. I would always be worse at certain periods, and never was regular, and the bearing-down pains were terrible. I was very ill in bed, and the doctor told me I would have to have an operation, and that I might die during the operation. I wrote to my sister about it and she advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Through personal experience I have found it the best medicine in the world for female troubles, for it has cured me, and I did not have to have the operation after all. The Compound also helped me while passing through Change of Life."—Mrs. Letitia Blair, Canifton, Ontario.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health free of charge. Address Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.

COLLEGE WOMEN.

Miss Woolley's Belief Is They Have a Sense of the Values of Life.

"It isn't the number of marriages, it is the quality of marriages, that matters, both to us and to future generations," said Miss Mary F. Woolley, president of Mount Holyoke college, in her talk at a college alumnae luncheon held recently. "College women," she said, "have a sense of the values of life. Their attitude toward marriage is not unlike that of the little girl who was being tutored in ethics.

"'What is the best thing and the hardest thing in the world to do?' asked the teacher, expecting the child to say, 'Tell the truth.'

"'Getting married,' piped the pupil."

Miss Woolley said she believed the professional woman's love of home was deeper and stronger often than that of the nonprofessional woman. "As to whether women ought to go out in the world, ought to be economically independent—that is a question to be decided by the individual. It depends on temperament, the individual needs. It is entirely personal. The question of what woman's work is was never so broad as it is today or so ill defined."

Miss Woolley adjured the college women to work for the welfare of "the homeless newsboys, the women herded in tenements which it is a travesty to call homes" and especially "to abolish sweatshops if it takes every drop of bargain loving blood you have in your veins."

Dr. Balliet, another speaker at this luncheon, said the life of America's higher institutions of learning was seriously threatened by the readjustments that were taking place. "But we can more easily spare men's colleges than women's colleges," he said. "Men's work in the world seems to demand that they specialize; women can afford time to take a broad, liberal training. They do not require to specialize so much. Perhaps nature has specialized them less."

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

In massaging wrinkles use the tips of the fingers and thumb, always working across the line. Never follow the lines of the creases.

Washing the eyes morning and night in water as hot as it can be borne is a wonderful tonic for those useful servants, which are so easily injured.

When a child is restless from teething it can often be quieted by giving it a warm bath. The water should be as hot as can be endured without burning. Do not allow the child to stay in the bath long, or weakness will follow.

To reduce the hips stand up straight and by bending forward make the finger tips touch the floor. Do not wear tight clothing and do not bend the knees. This is an old exercise, known as the "setting up" exercise, and is much used in the army for this purpose.

Often when one has a cold the eyes feel hot and are red and inflamed. The best way to effect a cure is to bathe the eyes frequently with a solution of boric acid and water. If the eyes do not feel improved after your cold disappears it would be well to consult an oculist.

DYSPEPTIC
Food Does You No Good

Half the time you're afraid to eat; your tongue is coated, mouth tastes bad, stomach is bloated. If you want to get well, stop using dyspepsia tablets, and go to the source of the trouble before it is too late. Strengthen your stomach, cast out the bile, regulate the bowels—do this, and dyspepsia will be no more.

For your condition the best prescription is Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which are made specially for the stomach, kidneys and liver. No better remedy will be devised, for Dr. Hamilton's Pills are perfect.

DR. HAMILTON'S PILLS A SURE CURE

"No one could realize my sufferings from stomach trouble and indigestion. For five years I have not been well. My food did me no good, because I couldn't digest or assimilate. My doctor said constipation was at the root of my trouble, so I got Dr. Hamilton's Pills. My appetite improved, pain after eating ceased, and my food digested quickly. I am delighted with the thorough cure I derived from Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

"(Signed) MARTIN E. WALKER,
"Bridgewater."

Quick results attend the use of Dr. Hamilton's Pills; this medicine cures all trouble in the stomach and digestive organs by removing the cause.

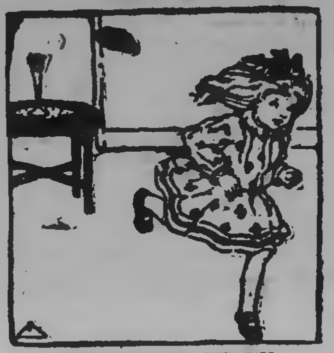
Young Folks

FUN WITH A BALLOON.

Interesting Experiment That Mystifies Until Explained.

The toy balloon that you buy from the man on the street corner is a pretty thing to play with for a day, but then its color becomes deadened, its beautiful roundness departs, and it looks like a misshapen, wrinkled ghost of itself. But, though it can no longer perform the duty for which it was made and sail proudly aloft to the extent of its tether, a ball of brilliant red, it still has the power to afford amusement to little folk and in a way that you would scarcely expect.

Take up the poor, wilted little thing and lay it on the edge of a chair or a table. It seems dead beyond the power of anything to restore it to life. But let a woman or a girl stand near it and then start away from it at a run, all through the room, out into the hall and into another room, and see how the dead thing will come to life, for it will follow her everywhere at a distance of two or three feet, moving rapidly if she moves rapidly, slowly if she moves slowly, stopping if she stops—in fact, it seems to be endowed with life and regulates its movements by hers. It acts precisely as if it were tied to the girl's dress.



THE TOY BALLOON FOLLOWS.

This apparently mysterious action of the half empty balloon is caused by the displacement of the air by the girl's movements. That is to say, at every step she takes she pushes the air in front of her aside and leaves a hole in the air (or vacuum, as it is called) in the place where she last stood. Into this partial vacuum a light current of air flows to fill it, bearing the balloon with it. The more rapidly the girl moves the faster will the balloon follow, because the more air is thus displaced.

It takes a woman or a girl to succeed in this experiment because her skirts make more of a vacuum than a man's clothing can make.—Philadelphia Record.

BATHS A MONTH LONG.

Patients at Japanese Health Resort Live in the Water.

The Japanese are fond of bathing in extremely hot water. They are, in fact, the most cleanly, according to our western notion, of any of the eastern peoples. Their bath is taken as frequently as twice a day, often at a temperature of about 110 degrees F., says the Chicago News.

An odd description has been given of the amphibious lives, half in water and half out, like frogs, led by the visitors at a health resort where there are warm mineral springs in the heart of the Japanese mountains. Patients at this sanitarium often remain in the water for a month at a time. At night they put a stone on their laps to keep them from floating downstream. And if it should be objected that this is an unhealthy method of conducting a health resort reference has only to be made to the caretaker of the establishment, a hearty old man over eighty years of age, who frequently remains in the bath all winter, directing the business of the place from a station waist deep in the warm, flowing water.

Some Odd Fishes.

Among the more curious of the fishes received lately at the New York city aquarium from Bermuda was a slippery dick. The slippery dick is only a little fish not more than five or six inches long, but it is shapely and remarkable for its coloring. Its head is of a dark green, and in a solid line just back of its head runs a well defined band of a lighter color than either head or body, like a collar.

TERRIBLE CALCULI

What Causes Stone in the Bladder and Inflammation of the Bladder

The kidney always. The kidneys should filter urine and urea (or waste matter) from the blood. When they do not, urea stays in the blood and is changed into uric acid. This uric acid inflames the bladder, and worse still, forms Stones or Calculi. The only possible way to cure these serious bladder troubles is to cure the kidneys.

Gin Pills Cure

They act directly on the kidneys—strengthen them—heal them—and enable them to filter the blood properly. This prevents uric acid being formed at all. With no excess of uric acid, the bladder is no longer irritated and stones cannot be formed.

Hamilton Man Tortured By Stone in the Bladder

TREATED BY DOCTORS FOR A YEAR AND GREW STEADILY WORSE

THEN CAME GIN PILLS—AND A CURE

Cut Out The Coupon and Mail Today For Trial Box.

Everyone who lives in the neighborhood of Hamilton, Ont. knows about the strange case of Mr. Herman.

For a year, he puzzled Hamilton physicians. They said he had "Inflammation of the Bladder." But all their treatment did him no good. Two and a half boxes of GIN PILLS (at a cost of 50 cents per box) did what the doctors couldn't.

Messrs. The National Drug and Chemical Co., Toronto.

Gentlemen—

I cannot express myself strongly enough when I speak of what Gin Pills have done for me. When I remember how I suffered not so long ago from Kidney and Bladder trouble, and how now I am healthy and well and strong and able to do a full day's work, I feel I should speak and tell other sufferers of my experience and of the wonderful merits of Gin Pills.

Something over four years ago I was taken down with what the doctors called inflammation of the bladder, intense pains in the back and loins, great pain and difficulty in urinating, and agony at times confined me to bed for three or four days at a time. Poultices were laid across my back and front, and by laying in a certain position I could get relief and then get up and go to work, although frequently I would have to leave my work before nine o'clock and return home to bed.

The pain was greatest in the region of the bladder, and during the attacks, which occurred more and more frequently, amounted to unbearable agony, and I became so weak that I could not walk across the floor.

For over a year I continued to get worse, and the doctors could do nothing to relieve or cure me. My case seemed hopeless but my wife noticed in the paper one day what Gin Pills had done for others, and sent for a box to try and see if they would help me.

From the very first I noticed and felt that Gin Pills were doing me good. The pain was relieved at once and the attacks began to come at longer intervals, and hope that perhaps I might be cured returned to me once more.

I continued taking the pills for about six weeks, and then to my surprise and delight, the stone I sent you some time ago, come away from me and my pain stopped. I continued to take the pills for a short time longer, and rapidly regained health and strength. It is now three years since Gin Pills cured me, I have had no return of the trouble and I have not lost a day's work on account of it since.

You cannot understand how grateful we are for Gin Pills. There is not the slightest doubt that they saved my life, and we recommend them to anyone who complains of pains in the back or bladder.

Yours gratefully,
JOHN HERMAN.

This is an Exact Reproduction of the Stone which GIN PILLS Brought Away From Mr. Herman

You have often gotten a speck of dust in the eye. It felt as big as an egg, and seemed to tear the eyeball like a barb wire fence. But when you got the speck out, it was so small that you could hardly see it.

Imagine how a stone, the size of the one above, would irritate and inflame the delicate lining of the bladder. Then you can imagine what Mr. Herman suffered, until he took GIN PILLS.

GIN PILLS cost 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, at all drug stores. Money refunded if GIN PILLS do not cure.

WELL KNOWN PHRASES.

Sentences One Quotes, but Often Can't "Place."

The phrase "leave no stone unturned" is frequently employed in everyday conversation, but yet nine people out of ten who use it would be unable to tell its derivation.

The expression is taken from "Euripides" and relates to an answer given by the Delphic oracle to Polycrates about treasure buried by Xerxes' general, Mardonius, on the battlefield of Plataea.

The oracle said that to discover the treasure it would be necessary to (translated literally) "turn every stone," which has gradually taken the form of "leave no stone unturned" used nowadays.

"A Feather In His Cap."

This familiar saying originated in warlike days, when it was customary for knights to honor such of their followers as distinguished themselves in battle by presenting them with a feather to wear in their caps, which when not in armor was the covering of their heads, and no one was permitted that privilege who had not "killed his man."

Why They're "Quakers."

Members of the Society of Friends are frequently designated by outsiders as "Quakers," but few people probably have any idea that Quakers is a nickname given in scorn.

George Fox, the founder of the sect, gives the origin of the name in his journal: "Justice Bennett of Derby was the first to call us 'Quakers,' because I bade him quake and tremble at the word of the Lord." This occurred in 1650.

A Luncheon Dish.

Smelts skewered in rings with heads and tails together, dipped in milk and flour and fried in deep fat make an attractive fish course.

Garnish the plate on which they are served with cress and slices of lemon that have been dipped in minced parsley. If they are to make the main part of the meal, serve them around a mound of potato or make a potato border and serve the fish rings in a mound.

The smelts may be skewered with a toothpick, and the skewer may be removed after the fish is cooked, as the ring will usually keep its shape.

A DAINTY GIFT.

An Attractive Heart Shaped Cushion in Cut Leather.

A dainty gift or favor is a heart shaped pincushion made in the popular cutwork leather. It is odd and pretty in appearance and may easily be made at home. It is formed of two heart shaped pieces of chamois leather with scalloped edges, the front piece showing a sprinkling of cut-out hearts. The back piece is cut exactly the same size, and the two portions are laced together with rose colored ribbons, a small satin cushion being slipped inside.

"Its Only a Cold, A Trifling Cough."

Thousands have said this when they caught cold. Thousands have neglected to cure the cold. Thousands have filled a Consumptive grave through neglect. Never neglect a cough or cold. It can have but one result. It leaves the throat or lungs, or both, affected. Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is the medicine you need. It strikes at the very foundation of all throat or lung complaints, relieving or curing Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Asthma, Croup, Sore Throat, and preventing Pneumonia and Consumption.

It has stood the test for many years, and is now more generally used than ever. It contains all the lung healing virtues of the pine tree combined with Wild Cherry Bark and other pectoral remedies. It stimulates the weakened bronchial organs, allays irritation and subdues inflammation, soothes and heals the irritated parts, loosens the phlegm and mucous, and aids nature to easily dislodge the morbid accumulations. Don't be humbugged into accepting an imitation of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. It is put up in a yellow wrapper, three pine trees the trade mark, and price 25 cents.

"Mrs. J. Brewster, Grafton, N.S., writes:—"Two winters ago I suffered severely with a very bad cold and asthma. I was so bad I could not get my breath, and very often thought I would choke. My husband became very much frightened, and got me a bottle of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup and it gave me almost instant relief. I can recommend it to anyone having the least kind of a cold."

WOULD YOU CONVICT ON CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE?

The BROKEN LINK

A TRUE STORY

(Copyright, 1909, by the New York Herald Co. All Rights Reserved.)

MARTIN W. LITTLETON, formerly Assistant Prosecuting Attorney in Parker and Dallas counties, Texas, and Assistant District Attorney of Kings county, says:—

"Just about twice as much reliability can be placed upon circumstantial evidence as upon direct evidence supplied by the average witness. I'll take my chances with circumstantial evidence if some beneficent power will take care of the lying witness. It is my belief that the only innocent men, if any, convicted nowadays owe it to deliberately false testimony.

"Circumstantial evidence is the only weapon left to an innocent defendant with which to combat an incriminating lie. It is the object of the defence in such a case to place the lie in relation with the true circumstances and thus reveal its falsity.

"The great rule for all jurors to bear constantly in mind is this:—Circumstantial evidence consists of a chain of circumstances, each one consistent with the other and leading, on the whole, to a conclusion which excludes every other reasonable hypothesis or supposition than that of the guilt of the defendant."

IT was an ominous thunder that echoed through the sleeping streets of the hamlet of Wallingfen of a chill December midnight. A hollow tattoo sounding from the plain beyond deepened in note and volume to a hoarse rumble that woke the good villagers with a choking fear upon them and set them to trembling where they lay, bed clothes about their ears. It intermitted, only to begin again, and continued at intervals with startling violence.

The less timid of them, undeterred by the whispered warnings of their wives, clothed themselves with what came handiest in no great haste and ventured to their front doors or windows, where anxious questions as to what the unnatural alarm might portend passed from mouth to mouth. Still each man hesitated and hung back upon his own threshold until a point of light, swinging rapidly up the road, restored them to good courage.

"'Tis Henry Johnson, the constable," cried neighbor to neighbor, "and now we shall soon know the trouble."

The guardian of the peace of Wallingfen, carrying his lantern, passed along between the rows of cottages, striding toward the source of the noise. With their natural protector, incidentally one of the strongest men in the North of England, to lead them, the townsmen followed in his wake, stung thereto by a word or two that Henry Johnson let fall as he moved on to his investigation.

The way led past the last house of the hamlet and over a cropped field toward a low, sprawling structure that bulked black and mysterious at the end of a short avenue of overhanging trees. As they tramped on in silence a sharp wind plucked at them, and from the vaguely defined dwelling ahead the hollow roar crashed threateningly and stopped with a suddenness that made them catch their breaths. Some began to lag behind, nor was the spirit of any one heartened by the thought of the place which they were to visit. Crook Farm bore no smiling reputation.

For a moment the advance wavered, but Johnson bade them think shame of themselves, and since he did not slacken his pace they pressed on at his heels. When another booming rattle had fallen away into silence they had entered the avenue. At the end of it the constable bore around to the right, where was the side entrance and whence the noise had come. With staring eyes the villagers looked over his shoulder, fearful at what they might find. In the yellow splash of light, where Johnson's lantern drove back the shadows from the steps and massive door, stood two figures which every member of the group recognized with a sigh of relief. The full voice of Johnson challenged them.

"Now, then, Farmer Armstrong, what is wrong with you and the mistress, that you stand without your own house and wake the parish in the dead of night?"

The neighbors crowded in about the couple, their fear forgotten, but a mighty curiosity in its place. Armstrong was standing with a thick blackthorn in his hand, and as they watched the source of the mimic thunder that had aroused them was made clear when he turned to shower heavy blows on the door, which vibrated like the skin of a titanic drum. Johnson questioned more sharply and the farmer gave a hurried explanation of how he came to be playing the insistent visitor on his own doorstep.

The Crime Revealed.

He and his wife had been away from Wallingfen for upward of a week. They had returned from Hull but half an hour before, and, finding the house dark, had since been trying to arouse either their boarder, Mr. Wilson, or the boarder's servant, Mary Strugnell. It might well be, he added, that Mary Strugnell had gone off on a night's visit to the adjoining town of South Cave. But he was puzzled to account for the fact that Wilson, a man not yet forty years old and a light sleeper, had failed thus far to answer the summons, though he had pounded this half hour.

Discussion of the problem was interrupted by a shout from a lad who had ridden along with his [illegible] unobserved and had been eyeing the upper walls of the house, where the lantern's glow picked out outlying surfaces [illegible]. He pointed to a window on the [illegible] Johnson already had seen enough to convince him that further investigation was warranted, and the appearance of a sheet depending in a suggestive manner from an open window on a winter night put a sinister color upon the situation. He announced that they must break in the door immediately. Several of those who lived in the nearest houses were sent for crowbars.

During the few minutes that elapsed before their return the constable followed his first instinctive impulse in the possible presence of a crime and quietly made keen scrutiny of the faces, words and actions among the members of the group, not in the absolute hope of discovering traces of guilt, but to watch for suggestions or for indications of a possible trend of suspicion. Johnson, the most obscure of Lecoqs, was a man of remarkable shrewdness and penetration for one in his position. His appointment as constable had been made rather as a concession to his muscular development than to the more rightful claim upon police service that his natural qualities of a first class detective gave him. His experience had included several small criminal cases, in which he had had the opportunity to sharpen his abilities, and in a larger community his value would have been discerned. But to those with whom he lived he was nothing more than that solid, indispensable, ordinary institution, the town officer.

Through some twist of chance the good people of Wallingfen had unwittingly supplied themselves not only with a policeman of notable physical powers but with an investigator of a high order. Meanwhile his arm, rather than his brain, had been called into requisition in the discharge of his duties.

As Johnson scanned the circle of villagers, each of whom he had known from childhood, he saw no more than tense, frank interest on any countenance. Nor could he discover that a man there held in his mind the weight of a secret knowledge bearing upon the strange mystery of darkened Crook House. He turned to the Armstrongs and was conscious of a sharp stimulus to his faculties of observation. The couple were comparative strangers to the village, where they had dwelt but three years, and the constable did not know their lives and their thoughts as he did those of the others.

But in the lantern light he recognized upon the face of the woman the drawn and whitened cast of terror. Mrs. Armstrong was clutching her husband's arm for support. The man made no sign. But as Johnson eyed them curiously he noted that the vapor of the farmer's breath came sharp and quick. He set it down for reference that here were two persons who fell an easy prey to fright.

His reflections were brought to a close by the arrival of the crowbars, and an immediate attack was made upon the door, which resisted stubbornly for a time. When the lock gave way a dozen men, expecting none could have told what, rushed in, but the constable paused a moment outside through professional caution.

Irritated by Suggestion.

The Armstrongs passed in just ahead of him, and he saw the woman catch at her husband's shoulder, lean close to him and whisper something briefly into his ear. He could not understand the action and it irritated him. He forced himself through the group, which was now gathered at the foot of the stairs, and called to Armstrong roughly:—

"Now, farmer, lead the way up and let's get done with the queer business."

Armstrong obeyed, and, with Johnson at his side, led the crowd of [illegible] up the stairway. On reaching the landing he turned into the hall [illegible] on the door of the room in which he said Mr. Wilson slept, and tapped lightly. The constable pushed him aside and struck with his heavy fist against the panelling. There was no sound from within. Johnson tried the latch, found that the door was not locked, and threw it wide, his light held above his head.

On the floor, half wrapped in the coverings that had slipped with it from the bed, lay the body of Wilson, the boarder. The stab wounds in the right breast showed the manner of his taking off. The constable ordered back the band of horrified villagers that crowded in the doorway and proceeded to a swift inspection.

The body was not yet cold. Wilson had not been dead an hour, he thought. The window was flung wide and the sheet hanging from it had been knotted firmly to one of the shutter fastenings. On the table lay several bundles, which, as he rapidly assured himself, contained clothes, jewelry, plate and other valuables, as if the murderer had been interrupted and had not succeeded in making off with his booty. A wardrobe, a bureau and a writing desk had been forced by an unpractised hand, as the mangled locks testified.

In a corner lay a stained knife. He was examining this, confident that he held the weapon with which Wilson had been killed, when one of those in the background broke in with a question as to whether any one had seen Mary Strugnell.

The words aroused Armstrong from his awe stricken contemplation of the scene, at which his wife was staring wide eyed.

"She is not at home yet; her door is locked," said the farmer absently. Johnson was upon him in a flash.

"How come you to know so much about it?" he asked, snapping the question out sharply. "How do you know her door is locked?"

Armstrong answered with a faint suggestion of effort in his speech, but a stolid and sullen face:—

"Because she always locks it when she goes out."

"Which is her room?"

"The next to this."

The constable hastened into the hall and tried the next door, which he found locked, as Armstrong had said. He knocked and called upon the woman to open it if she was there, but gained no response.

"She often stays with friends at South Cave over night," volunteered Armstrong, with some assurance.

The same lad who had noticed the sheet at the window had been using his short stature to good advantage while the constable had been listening, and had applied his eye to the keyhole. He now broke upon the situation with his second startling announcement.

"The key is in the lock on the inside," he cried.

The effect of this phrase upon the Armstrongs was unmarked by any but Johnson, who had not for a second given over his vigilance concerning all details, however scant, within the field of his observation. He saw a sudden tremor run through the farmer's frame, instantly brought under control again. He also saw Mrs. Armstrong catch her husband's arm, as she had at the outer door.

The Woman's Story.

"Mrs. Strugnell, are you there?" shouted the constable once more. In answer this time came a moan, and Johnson's shoulder tore the door from its hinges. For a moment it seemed as if the wind about the cornices had played them a prank, but Johnson caught the edge of a skirt under the bed. Willing hands pulled the woman out and placed her in a chair while simple restoratives were applied. It appeared that she had fainted from fright, but had suffered no injury.

As soon as she was able to speak Johnson obtained from her an important statement. She had [illegible] in the afternoon [illegible] at the school at which Miss Wilson, the daughter of the boarder, was staying, and had returned to the farm about ten o'clock. Letting herself in, she had gone to her own room. About fifteen minutes later she had heard the creaking of the side door. Her first thought had been that the Armstrongs had returned, but she remembered with alarm that they were not expected for several days.

She had quietly extinguished her light and locked the door when she heard persons lightly ascending the stairs. She thought there were two. The footsteps of one had been plainer than those of the other. A moment later her door had been tried. There had been a movement along the hall toward Mr. Wilson's room.' After a long period of silence she had heard this door open slowly and a moment later the sound of two blows and a groan. She had crawled under the bed in the extremity of her fear and had not stirred until dragged out by the constable.

Johnson leaped to the point of the matter as she finished. He suddenly thrust the dripping knife, which he had held concealed, before the face of Mary Strugnell.

"Do you know whose this is?" he demanded. The woman screamed and fell back a step, staring at the weapon.

"Know it?" she cried; "I have seen it a thousand times. It is Farmer Armstrong's."

"Be careful, Mary Strugnell," said the constable sternly; "this may mean life or death to an honest man."

"Indeed and I know it is his," said the woman earnestly, "though 'tis like he was not the one used it."

The butcher of the village shouldered through the group and asked to see the knife. He looked at it closely and declared that he would know it among a thousand for Armstrong's. It had originally been his, he said, but the farmer had purchased it from him a year before and he had since sharpened it on his stone for Armstrong.

Johnson felt justified in arresting the couple on the strength of these statements. With the Armstrongs safe in the village jail and Crook House secured against the entrance of any but the proper authorities, he then proceeded with his investigation.

The facts concerning the household he knew in outline. The farm, consisting of a hundred acres, had been sold to Armstrong three years before at the conclusion of a long course of litigation, during which the house had stood empty. The Armstrongs were childless and had ample room in the great, rambling dwelling for Mr. Wilson, who had applied for quarters soon after they came. They were industrious, reserved folk who seldom left their place except for market, and in all their dealings maintained a morose, unfriendly demeanor.

Wilson had remained an enigma since his arrival. He had placed his daughter in a school at South Cave, but seldom saw her. It was understood that he possessed considerable property. Armstrong was frequently absent for a week or more, and it was believed that he acted as agent for his boarder in managing affairs and an estate at some distant point. The prisoner admitted that, with his wife, he had been on such a trip during his recent absence.

Tracing the Clews.

On examining Wilson's room the constable became convinced that the abandoned bundles on the table did not represent all the property missing from the receptacles that had been forced. There was an inner drawer of the writing desk in which the boarder would have been likely to keep his money, and while the desk itself had been wrenched open this flimsy drawer was found locked. The key to it was in the side pocket of Wilson's coat, and when the investigator opened the drawer it was empty. The care that the intruder had taken in refraining from prying it open aroused a presumption in his mind that the real robbery had been committed here, and that the key had been returned to Wilson's coat to throw investigation from the track.

He instituted an inquiry among the neighbors as to Armstrong's financial standing. The reports were almost all to the effect that the farmer seemed well supplied with money, but he found a man in South Cave who gave him a curious bit of information. This man owned a herd of cows which Armstrong frequently had expressed a desire to purchase. A fortnight before he had made a very advantageous offer to Armstrong, but the farmer had reluctantly refused, declaring that he was short of cash. The man swore, moreover, that Armstrong had said something concerning a mortgage that was pressing insistently upon him.

Johnson sought the notary on learning of this, but could find nothing to verify the existence of a mortgage on Crook House. This did not wholly invalidate the point, however, since the papers might have been drawn up in some other town.

His next step was the search of the other rooms in the dwelling, which he carried out with minute attention to each circumstantial trifle. His task, however, did not long lie among fine shades of evidence, for he came almost immediately to a weighty discovery. In a strong box in Armstrong's bedroom he found a bag containing £150 in gold, silver and country bank notes. And, what was of more significance, there was a very small blood stain on the bag. The strong box was closed with a heavy lock, which he had to smash, since he could not find the key.

Johnson's caution was one of his distinctive characteristics. While this circumstance alone would have led another man to absolute conviction of the farmer's guilt the constable retained an unbiased attitude, while aware of the value of his evidence. He followed the trail with no abatement of alert intelligence, but free from prejudice or premature positiveness concerning the solution of the matter. But before leaving Armstrong's room he came upon another thing that enormously strengthened the case of the prosecution. Under a rug before the hearth he found a mortgage deed. It was upon Crook House, for the sum of £1,000, and it was the property of Wilson, the murdered man.

In collecting all his data in the case the constable had occasion one day to visit the jailer for an inventory of the articles found upon the prisoners. He was awake to the possibilities of this point, and he examined the odds and ends with meticulous care. A bunch of four keys, tied with a string, which had been in Armstrong's possession, attracted his attention, and he took these with him for a final visit to the farm house. He more than half expected what he now was able to prove. One of the keys fitted the strong box in the farmer's room. Another was the key to the side door. Armstrong had aroused the village with pounding upon an entrance the key of which was in his pocket at the time.

With these facts for their case firmly established the prosecuting authorities were fully satisfied. They took the position that Armstrong had entered the house by the side door, committed the murder, concealed his loot, hung the sheet from the window as a blind and returned to the outside to make it appear that he had just returned. In this, they held, he had had the assistance of his wife. The trial soon came on and was rapidly pushed. The defence contented itself with a severe cross-examination of Mary Strugnell, but made little headway. The prisoners were found guilty and sentenced to die on Monday three weeks off.

* * *

The Logic of Johnson.

Constable Johnson was a peculiar genius. He had added new laurels to his record, had displayed a clever grasp of the ways of criminals and had brought about two important convictions. But, as he sat by himself on the Friday before the execution and looked back over the succession of accusatory circumstances he had so securely bound about the Armstrongs, he was forced, as a man with a passion for fairness, to admit himself dissatisfied. This feeling had been growing upon him, and became more acute as the time drew near when mistakes could not be rectified.

Johnson had no knowledge of the law beyond a few primitive precepts. He had had nothing more than a board school education, and the subtleties of the courts were beyond him. But as a man of straightforward common sense, of logical and perceptive mind, he seized on essential fact concerning circumstantial evidence. If one link in his chain of circumstances failed to be as strong as all the others the whole series was worthless. He felt, rather than understood, that to convict justly on circumstances alone it was necessary that every point must fall in naturally with every other point; that none could be inconsistent or withhold its support if the chain were rightly made. A single flaw made the hypothesis worthless.

All this the constable brought before himself as he sat by his fireside. He was a kindly man. He had a fundamental horror of the taking of human life. And now that life was to be taken through his efforts he found himself confronted with a crimson question mark.

For there was a single fact that he could not explain, that had no connection with, no probable bearing upon, the supposition of the guilt of the Armstrongs. In Wilson's room, under a chair, he had found a stiff, shiny hat of odd design, too small for the boarder, still smaller for the farmer's massive head.

It would have been easy for him to have overlooked this hat. He had mentioned it to counsel for the defence, who had, in turn, mentioned it in court, and nothing had come of it. Why bother? It probably meant nothing. But it was there. It could not be argued away. Who had worn it? As the keen follower upon the trail of circumstances the constable could not drive from himself the suspicion that here was one mark in a contradictory trail that led elsewhere. If such were the case it would be his duty to pursue it as loyally and perseveringly as he had the other.

He took the hat, wrapped himself in his great coat, hired a horse and light road cart and set out, resolved upon a final effort either to smash the flawed link or to weld it firmly.

A dreary, bleak, discomforting ride was that made by Constable Johnson in the cause of justice through a windy January night. Nor had he a due regard to the value of sleep through a countryside, for at every inn along his road he stopped and raised a clamor until mine host, blinking and protesting, unbarred the door to the person of the law. And when the sleepy man had looked upon a queer, stiff, shiny hat and had sworn by all he knew that he had never seen its like upon any one the disturber passed on to the next. The constable made seven inns during the night, in a circle about Wallingfen and South Cave. At dawn he rested for a few hours, obtained a fresh horse, and continued in a widening range.

It was three o'clock of Monday morning, the day of the execution, that Johnson aroused the mistress of an unfrequented tavern, about fifteen miles from the village. He showed the hat and asked his same question with the same feeble degree of hope that had backed its utterance since Friday at a score of places. The woman looked and nodded.

Testing the Link.

"I have seen a man who wore such a one," she said. "He was a strange little fellow of the name of Pearce, and, now I think of it, he forgot his portmanteau on the day he left me, a month gone by."

Johnson explained who he was and what his errand, and the woman brought the portmanteau, assuring him that it had remained unopened since the departure of the owner. The constable examined the contents. Under some garments at the bottom lay a gold watch, with chain and seals bearing the initial "W." He recognized these articles as the property of Wilson, mentioned by several witnesses. They had been missed, but it was supposed that Armstrong had hidden them successfully.

The execution was set for eight o'clock. Half an hour before the time a trembling, lathered horse, with a set of cart harness flapping loosely about him, clattered up to the Wallingfen Inn, at which the prosecuting officials were stopping. From the back of the weary animal leaped Henry Johnson. His story was soon told, and with the consent of the authorities he sought out the judge who had presided at the trial and was, by fortunate coincidence, in the same house. With some reluctance and only after earnest pleading on the part of the constable, an order upon the Sheriff postponing the execution was signed. Johnson delivered it at the jail himself, pushing through the crowd of spectators who had gathered for the event and arriving just as the prisoners were about to be led out.

One of the first discoveries of the renewed inquiry and one which was most favorable to the Armstrongs was the fact that Mary Strugnell had disappeared soon after the trial and could not be found. Johnson threw himself untiringly upon her track and followed doggedly for weeks. He finally found her dying in a London hospital from the effects of an accident in which she had been run over by a carriage. He obtained witnesses and took down her confession. By information which she furnished the constable found Pearce the same day. The man was under sentence of death for burglary and murder committed in London.

Five months later, after laborious winding and unwinding of much red tape, a full pardon was granted to the Armstrongs, although the farmer pleaded guilty to robbery. Miss Wilson refused to press the charge and it was felt that the couple had suffered enough. The truth of the matter was as follows:—

Armstrong and his wife were sent by Wilson to collect some rents for him at Hull. Returning, they entered by the side door and the farmer went up to Wilson's room to hand over the hundred and fifty pounds he had collected. He found Wilson murdered. When the two had recovered somewhat from their fright they determined to profit by the death of their boarder. They found the key to the inner drawer of the writing desk and took therefrom the mortgage deed, the hiding place of which they had discovered. Then they concealed the rent money in their strong box and the deed under a rug, went out, locked the door and raised the alarm.

The murder had been committed by Pearce, the lover of Mary Strugnell, with her assistance. She had met the man in Hull and her relations with him were not known in the community. He came down on receiving word from her that the Armstrongs were away, stopped at the unfrequented inn fifteen miles from the village and arrived at Crook House about ten o'clock that night. He was admitted by Mary Strugnell, armed himself with a knife from the kitchen, stole to Wilson's door, waited until he was sure the boarder was asleep and then killed him.

The conspirators were disturbed in their plans for escape together by the unexpected return of the Armstrongs. Pearce had only time to slip the watch and seals into his pocket, fasten the sheet to the shutter and drop to the ground, while Mary Strugnell hid herself under the bed in her room. Certain that he was being pursued, Pearce found the portmanteau an encumbrance and left it behind him at the inn. As he climbed over the sill in Wilson's room he had lost his hat, which had rolled back beyond his reach.

And thus Henry Johnson saved two lives by testing a link.

A Temperance Lecture On Unaccustomed Lines

There are many sides to almost any subject, and the following report of a temperance lecture is given as presenting a new aspect of a much-discussed subject. Mrs. Margaret Isabella Rice, one of the peculiar platform products of the Unted States, who has been lecturing on temperance since she was fourteen years of age, gave the address. It was delivered at Fairmount, Indiana and is thus reported by the Marion Times:

"Marguerite Isabelle Rice, known throughout the United States as the girl preacher, the crusader of the New York slums, and the woman evangelist, delivered a stirring temperance address before the people of Fairmount in Borrey Hall Tuesday evening. Hundreds of people crowded into the hall to hear the address. Mrs. Rice is twenty-nine years of age, the mother of five children, and one of the best known temperance speakers in the country. She began preaching at the age of fourteen, and it is claimed she has addressed more people than any woman in America, and much of her work has been accomplished in the great cities of this country, so that she is well qualified to speak on the temperance question.

"Mrs. Rice began her address in a simple, narrative way, and from time to time, drew beautiful word pictures which met with hearty approval of the audience. Mrs. Rice said:

"'We are just on the eve of a great battle. There is a question that is agitating the minds of every one in Grant county. The question is: Shall we remove the saloons?

Never Tasted Liquor.

"'I am a temperance woman, and I have never tasted liquor, yet I believe there is a vast difference between temperance and drinking. There are men in this hall, whom I dare say, are hogs in the matter of eating. The man that eats too much is a hog, and the man that drinks too much is another beast. I do not receive a dollar for preaching the gospel, for I have means of my own, and I speak for the love of God. I talk to you without money and without price and I am not going to embarrass you by taking a collection. I am going to make you an offer in all sincerity. I will give $1,000 to any person who will show me a single verse in the Bible where Christ talked of the sin or curse of liquor. That is a broad assertion, but I will make good my offer.

Is Whiskey Greatest Curse?

It is a lie when people say that whisky is the greatest evil in our country to-day. More people die from selfishness, lust, ignorance, and other kindred evil than from liquor. There is too much Churcianity and not not enough Christianity. We have Quakerism and shakerism, but not enough real Christianity. Strong drink is not the greatest curse. Last week two State legislators were found beastly drunk in Indianapolis in the company of fallen women. The Bible says, 'The love of money is the root of all evil.' Judas betrayed Christ for money, and David saw another man's wife and coveted her through his desire for lust. He sent her husband to the front rank in the battle, so he might have the woman. Lust, selfishness, ignorance and hypocrisy are the greatest sins, and not one crime in the Bible was committed through drink.

"'The W. C. T. U. women of Kansas City say girls are ruined in the road houses. Let me say to you that nearly every girl who drinks in a road house has been ruined before she goes there. Ladies are born, and not made. The majority of the female inmates of the New York brothels have gone to hell for a $10 Merry Widow hat and not through strong drink. The great church women who will sit in the front pews in the churches and sing 'Rescue the Perishing' will give a poor woman 50 cents for a big washing and say 'God bless you.'

Greatest Crime Not Drunkards.

"'I once wrote to the warden of a penitentiary and asked him regarding the criminals. I found the greatest criminals are not drunkards, but sober men. It takes a fellow with his wits about him to enter your house, steal your silverware, and money, go through your clothes, and then get away without waking you. The big criminals are in the penitentaries, while the poor drunkards are in the gaols. More good men go to hell through bad women than bad whisky. No respectable woman will paint her face, wear false hair, blacken her eyebrows, and paint her lips. Let us look into other evils than the liquor traffic. Liquor used to excess is a curse, but not as bad as the other things. I would just as soon see my son go into a saloon and listen to the talk around the bar as to have him go to one of those dirty, degenerate shows for men only. Kansas is a dry state,—a prohibition state. My family and I went to Kansas and I will tell you why I am not a prohibitionist, and why I would not vote out the saloons.

"'I never saw so many quart stores as there are in Kansas. I chanced to go into a harness store and I saw an old man sitting in the place. I asked him if whisky could be purchased in Kansas. 'We don't have any saloons here, but we don't need any. You can get all the liquor you want in the butcher shops, groceries and millinery stores.'

Drunkards' Wives Forgotten.

"'The anti-saloon league is working the preachers of Indiana to a finish, but the drunkards can rot in the gutters before these men would think of helping their wives. I was told I couldn't get whisky in Kansas, and I went into the first drug store I came to and asked for whisky. The clerk immediately answered 'Rye or bourbon?' They are shipping whisky into Oklahama in cocoanuts concealed in coffins and they have a funeral every day. As long as there is a law to manufacture whisky, sell it in your own town, and don't let foreigners poison your men. One of the worst evils of closing the saloons is that the drinking man changes from beer to whisky and goes to hell quick. With prohibition, every drinking man will have wihsky in his house and drink to excess. Making communities dry is making more drunkards.

Watch the "Blind Tigers."

"'Look at the 'near beer' places and jug trains in the South. It should not be 'God save the boys from the saloons,' but from blind tigers and dram shops. They are the hell holes. As long as liquor is manufactured in the United States, the most reasonable place to sell it is over the bar. A real temperance man would not drive out one thing and bring in something worse. You will remember that a sanctified minister in a nearby Grant county town was absent from home while his daughter lay at the point of death with diphtheria. She called 'Papa, papa,' with her dying breath. Where was her papa? He was out debauching another man's daughter, who returned to her parents a short time ago with a six weeks' old baby. Did whisky do that?

"At the conclusion of her address, Mrs. Rice was warmly congratulated by hundreds of the good people of Fairmount, and it was with reluctance they saw her depart from the community."

SPRING BLOOD IS BAD BLOOD

How Best to Get New Health and Strength in Spring.

The winter months are trying to the health of even the most robust. Confinement in-doors in over-heated and nearly always badly ventilated rooms—in the home, the office, the shop and the school—taxes the vitality of even the strongest. The blood becomes thin and watery or clogged with impurities. Sometimes you get up in the morning just as tired as when you went to bed. Some people have headaches; others are low spirited; some have pimples and skin eruptions. These are all spring symptoms that the blood is out of order. You can't cure these troubles with purgative medicines, which merely gallop through the system leaving you still weaker. What you need to give you health and strength in the spring is a tonic medicine, and the one always reliable tonic and blood builder is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These Pills not only banish spring ills but guard you against the more serious ailments that follow, such as anaemia, nervous debility, rheumatism, indigestion and kidney trouble. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills make new rich blood which strengthens every nerve, every organ and every part of the body. Try this medicine this spring and you will have strength and energy to resist the torrid heat of the coming summer. Mr. J. R. Johnson, Loch Broom, N.B., says:—"Some two years ago I began to feel that my constitution was weakening. I could not stand any exposure of knocking about. I finally sought the aid of a doctor who said my system was very much run down, and that the trouble might end in nervous prostration. As his medicine did not help me I decided, on the advice of a friend, to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial. I had used less than a half dozen boxes when my health was fully restored, and I think no other medicine can equal these Pills when one is run down and out of health."

Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON QUESTIONS

Suggestive Questions on the Sunday School Lesson by the Rev. Dr. Linscott for the International Newspaper Bible Study Club.

April 11th, 1909.

Easter Lesson. I. Cor. xv: 12-28.

Now is Christ risen from the dead, and become the first fruits of them that slept. I. Cor. xv: 20.

Verses 12-13 — Does the doctrine of the resurrection of the body rest upon revelation or upon reason?

Providing the soul is immortal is it, or not, of material importance whether the body is raised or not?

If there is no resurrection of the dead, it follows as Paul here states, that Christ is not risen; but is the converse true, that if Christ is risen then all human beings will necessarily be resurrected?

It seems that some in Corinth denied the resurrection of the dead in the sense that there is no life after death; now if that were true then how much would there be left of Christianity?

What is the process of reasoning that demonstrates the fact of immortality?

What is the scripture proof of life after death?

Can you mention a single nation or tribe of the past, or at the present, which has not believed in immortality in some shape?

Verses 14-17 — If there is no resurrection of the dead, how would that make their preaching vain, make our faith vain, and make them false witnesses?

Verses 18-19 — How is it that all men instinctively believe in the immortality of their departed friends and expect to meet them again?

It was doubtless true in Paul's day that if there was no immortality Christians were of all men the most miserable, because they were then despised, imprisoned and put to death; but is the same true to-day? Is not Christ's religion now a grand thing for this world, even if death did end all?

Verse 20 — What is the chief evidence of the truth of Christianity?

What is the proof that Jesus did rise from the dead? (See Matt. xxvi: 16-18; Mark xvi: 14; Luke xxiv; 36-38; John xx: 4, 5, 14, 26; xxi: 4; Acts i: 3, 13, 30, 31; I. Cor. xv: 5-8, etseq.)

Is the fact of the resurrection of Jesus to be proved by evidence, like any other fact, and is there any other historic fact better attested?

Why was it when Jesus was crucified that his disciples were a dispirited band, having lost heart and going back to their former occupation, and what was it afterwards that put new life in them, and made them the most courageous men that ever lived? (This question must be answered in writing by members of the Club).

What became the prominent theme of their preaching?

Is it credible that such noble men, who afterward laid down their lives for the truth, would testify that they had seen and talked to Jesus after his death, if they had not so seen him?

Verse 21-22 — Would there have been natural death if there had been no sin?

Would there have been any resurrection of the dead, if Jesus had not been resurrected?

Verses 23-28 — Was Christ the first man to rise from the dead?

When will the general resurrection be?

Will Christ finally abolish death and destroy sin?

Has God put all the forces of nature under the control of Jesus?

The Violet Hat

By VIRGINIA BLAIR.

Copyrighted, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.

It really was a beautiful hat, big and velvety and loaded with violets, and Theodora's new calling gown was of white broadcloth, and her hair was just the right shade of yellow to set it off, and the hat was just what she needed to wear to the hospital tea.

"I simply must have it!" said Theodora.

"I think you are very foolish not to buy it," remarked Cecilia Ray, who was with her.

But Theodora resisted the temptation.

"I'll go home and count up my pennies," she said. "I'm living on an allowance now, and last week I spent everything I had for that jeweled buckle."

But Cecilia was not listening.

"I'm going back," she said, "and ask Mme. Ashe to put that hat aside. If you decide not to take it, I shall."

Theodora laughed.

"If you buy that hat first, Cecilia, I'm your enemy forever."

Cecilia made a little grimace.

"Oh, you'd make up," she prophesied confidently. "We've quarreled before, Theo."

But she went back, and Mme. Ashe agreed, smiling. "No one else shall see it," she promised.

But two hours later, when Cynthia Albright had tried on every hat in the place, the complacent milliner brought out the violet beauty. "It's as good as sold," she said, "but if neither of the ladies takes it you may have it."

Cynthia tilted it over her eyes. "It's a beauty," she sighed, "and just what I want for the hospital tea. I'll come in again tomorrow."

"No one else shall see it," madame promised.

But when, after school, Mazie Marchmont, having taught all day, hurried into the millinery shop Mme. Ashe had gone to a belated lunch, and one of the languid young ladies who served her customers unearthed the violet hat and tried it on Marie.

"It suits you exactly," she said, standing off and surveying the pretty girl in the shabby gown.

"Oh, but the price!" Mazie objected. "I simply can't afford it. Take it away. It's too tempting." For she was thinking how it would brighten up her old crape afternoon gown and how she would like to look her best with Jerry Arnold home for the holidays and sure to be at the hospital tea.

"Show me something cheaper," she said, with a sigh. But, while the languid young lady superciliously got out toques in green and picture hats in blue and tailored hats in brown, Mazie's eyes went back to the velvet beauty.

"It is the only thing that is really becoming," she said, and she tried it on again and noted the simplicity of it, the curve of the brim against her burnished hair and the way the violets were massed on the crown.

"But I can't have it," she said as she took it off. "I'm sorry, but none of the others suits."

As the languid young lady started to put it back into the box there swept into the shop a regal individual, all rustle and perfume and glitter, and she pounced at once on the violet hat, and before Mazie had finished pinning on her veil the hat was sold.

When the regal individual had swept out again Mazie said to the girl, "Oh, just let me have one more look at it." And the languid young lady, unbending graciously in the glow of a good sale, smiled and said: "It's much more becoming to you. You are younger and prettier."

Mazie laughed and blushed, and suddenly her eyes were lighted by an idea, and she rushed out of the shop and into a big department store, and the next hour was spent in buying velvet and a hat frame and violets.

At 5 o'clock she hurried to Cecilia Ray's in time to meet Theodora and Cynthia, who, with Mazie and Cecilia, were to serve on Mrs. Ray's table at the hospital tea.

Cecilia took them into her own luxurious sitting room, and they had tea and muffins in the glow of pink candles.

"And, now, what shall we wear?" Cynthia asked.

"Our very bestest," said Cecilia.

"My bestest isn't much," said Mazie bravely. "I've made over my mauve crape and put some touches of gold on it, and it doesn't look bad, but it isn't fine by any means."

Cynthia smiled at her. "You are prettier than any of us, Mazie Marchmont," she said, "so you needn't worry."

Mazie smiled at them lovingly. That was the dear thing about these three rich friends of hers in the days of poverty since her father's death—she had never been left out of any of their pleasures.

"Shall we wear hats?" Theodora asked.

"Of course," said Cynthia.

And then there was dead silence.

For each girl was thinking of that violet hat—Theodora how it would perfect her white broadcloth, Cecilia lazily anxious to look her best, Cynthia reveling somewhat conceitedly in the effect her high bred loveliness would have on certain haughty Harvard seniors, Mazie seeing herself beautiful in Jerry Arnold's eyes.

Presently Theodora went on somewhat hurriedly, "I shall have to buy a new one."

"So shall I," said Cecilia.

"It's an awful bore," Cynthia drawled, "but I shall have to get a new one too."

But Mazie Marchmont said nothing, and that night when she went home she kissed her mother and inquired, "Did the things come from the store, mother, dear?"

And mother dear answered, "Yes, but what in the world, Mazie?" and Mazie laughed and said, "I'm going to trim a hat."

And just at that moment Theodora called up Cecilia and asked in an awful tone, "Did you buy that hat?"

Cecilia retorted: "Of course not. I wouldn't do such a mean trick."

"Well, of all things!" said Cecilia Ray.

And so, when the day of the hospital tea arrived, Cynthia wore a white lace picture hat, and Cecilia's was rosy with pink plumes, and Theodora was charming in a pale blue one with an aigret.

Mazie was late. "Poor little thing!" said Cecilia. "It's too bad she can't have pretty things like the rest of us."

"I love her for her independence," said Cynthia. "She is so dear and contented and uncomplaining. But everybody is so dressed up today that I am half afraid to see her in her old"—

But Theodora interrupted her. "Look," she gasped, "look!" And, following the direction of her eyes, they saw coming toward them down the length of the luxurious room the violet hat.

"And that," murmured Theodora, "is the creature who bought my hat."

"Why, it was the hat I tried to buy," said Cynthia.

"Well, of all the things!" said Cecilia Ray. "It's Mazie Marchmont!"

They watched her triumphant progress through the rooms, and when she came up to them Jerry Arnold was in her train.

They pounced on her. "Where did you get that hat?" they demanded.

For a moment Mazie hesitated, for fastidious Jerry Arnold was at her elbow.

"I made it myself," she confessed at last sturdily.

"What?" they gasped in consort. "Why, it is exactly like the one at Mme. Ashe's."

"That was sold," Mazie told them, "to a gorgeous lady who smacked of the stage."

"Who saw it sold?" Cecilia demanded.

"I saw it go,
With heart full of woe," chanted Mazie and flashed a glance at Jerry Arnold.

He smiled back at her. "Who ever heard of a schoolteacher trimming a hat?"

"Behold the scholarly result," and Mazie made an elaborate courtesy.

Then they all laughed so gayly that a half dozen bored Harvard seniors came over at once and asked for tea.

In the hubbub that followed Jerry said to Mazie.

"I wish you would give me the right to buy all of your hats, Mazie."

Mazie opened her eyes very wide and asked, "Are you asking me to marry you right here in this crowd, Jerry?"

Jerry flung up his head, and his eyes shone. "I'll shout it from the housetops if you'll let me."

"Little boy," Mazie's voice was steady, but her heart was beating violently, "what would you do with a wife? You haven't finished college."

"But this is my senior year," he asserted, "and after that my money is my own, and if I want to buy your hats for the rest of my days it's nobody's affair but mine."

"And mine," Mazie reminded him as some one came up for more tea.

"Look here," he whispered as she dangled her tea ball over a pale green cup, "can't you slip behind that Japanese screen presently, where we can become engaged decently and in order?"

Half an hour later, when Cynthia asked, "Where's Mazie?" Cecilia pointed to the screen.

"She's over there with Jerry Arnold," she said. "I can just see the top of the violet hat."

When Lincoln Died.

Terrible as was the tragedy of that April night, it is still true that Lincoln may have died at the right time for his imperishable fame. He had conducted an immense nation through the most tremendous civil war ever waged and never committed a single serious mistake. He did not possess Hamilton's brilliant genius, but Hamilton never saw the future more sagaciously. He made no pretensions to Daniel Webster's magnetic oratory, but Webster never put more truth in oratorical form for popular guidance. He possessed Benjamin Franklin's immense common sense, and that twenty line address on the battlefield of Gettysburg is the high water mark of American sententious eloquence. It is fitting that after such a career his own life should be the last to be lost in that stupendous struggle. He had called over 200,000 heroes to lay down their lives, and then his own life was laid down beside the humblest private soldier or drummer boy of Gettysburg or Chickamauga.—Rev. Dr. T. L. Cuyler in Homiletic Review.

SANDWICH WOMAN.

The Latest Outcrop of Feminism Seen In Paris Streets.

The latest outcrop of feminism is the sandwich woman, who has made her sensational appearance in the Paris streets, says a recent correspondent. A few years ago there were a few timid attempts on the part of members of the fair sex to join the honorable sandwich profession, but they proved failures. This time, however, we have the genuine article, and, what is more, the lady in question is of noble descent. Her name is Comtesse de Rosemont, nee Chabot de Lussay, one of the oldest families in France. And a plucky woman she is. We live in a democratic age, and in France, the most democratic country of all, it is impossible for a woman to trade on her title alone. The fact of being an authentic countess or baroness will secure one plenty of invitations in the American colony in Paris, where titles are at a premium, but it will bring no bread and butter. And, as in the old song, "too proud to beg, too honest to steal," Mme. de Rosemont, nee Chabot de Lussay, courageously took to work.

"I am not," she said, speaking of her work, "physically strong enough to become a cabwoman, like Countess Luttgen, or try my hand at billposting. The difficulty for me, therefore, was to find a profession wherein I could earn a crust of bread without being half killed by the exertion. And so I became a sandwich woman. I do not regret it. Yes, the Parisians still indulge in 'chaff' when they see me, but I do not mind it. My thoughts are elsewhere, and the good people in our city will soon become accustomed to what to them now seems a strange sight. How did I come to this? Don't ask me that. It is a long and painful story. All I can tell you is that I am an ardent feminist and that I want to set an example to some of my sisters in misfortune who from 'social pride' are ashamed to 'stoop to work.' Stoop, forsooth! I feel prouder of my work than of my title, which only brought me trouble." Thus spoke the Comtesse de Rosemont, and her words promise a new era in the employment of women.

WHEN YOU CAN'T SLEEP.

There is many a man and woman tossing night after night upon a sleepless bed. Their eyes do not close in the sweet and refreshing repose that comes to those whose heart and nerves are right. Some constitutional disturbance, worry or disease has so debilitated and irritated the nervous system, that it cannot be quieted.

Or again, you have a sinking sensation, a feeling you are going to die; or perhaps, you wake in your sleep feeling as though you were about to choke or smother, and rest leaves you for the night. If you allow these conditions to continue for a short period even, you will begin to feel your health declining. It is the nerves and heart not acting rightly, and they can only be set right by the use of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. They soon induce healthful, refreshing sleep, not by deadening the nerves, but by restoring them to healthy action.

Mrs. E. Nutt, St. Mary's, Ont., writes:—"I can gladly recommend your Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills as I was greatly troubled with my nerves. I was so bad I could not sleep at night without the lamp burning, but after taking four boxes of the pills I became all right again."

Price, 50 cents per box; 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers or The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

A GRAND KIDNEY MEDICINE

"Fruit-a-tives" Cured Him When Everything Else Failed.

Ulverton, Que., March 17th, 1908.

I wish to place on record, for the sake of others who may be suffering in the same way that I suffered, that no medicine I ever took did me so much real good as "Fruit-a-tives" did.

I suffered for many years with Kidney Trouble, with bad pain in the back.

I took every known kidney remedy and kidney pill, but nothing gave me any relief, and I was getting discouraged.

I was advised to try "Fruit-a-tives" and did so—and this medicine cured me when everything else failed.

I used altogether fifteen boxes of "Fruit-a-tives," and from the outset they gave me relief and I am now practically well again; no pain, no distress, and all symptoms of kidney disease have entirely left me. I am very thankful to be once more well, and I freely make this statement for the sake of others who may suffer as I did. To them, I say try "Fruit-a-tives," as they are a grand kidney medicine.

FIELD CROP COMPETITIONS.

From Farm and Dairy.

Having in view the excellent results obtained in 1907 and 1908 in stimulating a greater interest in the production of better seed grain. Agricultural Societies will again be assisted in the holding of competitions in standing field crops during 1909. Three lots of prizes are offered: First, for the standing field competitions, second, for the sheaf exhibit at the Industrial Fair, Toronto, and third, for the seed grain from standing field competitions to be held at the winter fairs at Guelph and Ottawa. The regulations follow.

Competitions will be limited to one crop, to be selected by the society, which should be the one of most importance to the farmers of the district. Entries for competition must consist of not less than one acre. Selection must be made from the following crops: Spring, Fall or Goose Wheat, oats, barley, rye, corn, peas, alsike, clover, red clover, potatoes, beans or any other staple crop produced for seed in Ontario.

Competition shall be limited to members of an agricultural society, and the fields entered must not be more than 15 miles from its headquarters. Competitors shall be allowed to make entry in only one society and but one entry can be made by each competitor. Societies desiring to enter this competition must notify the Superintendent not later than the first day of May, and must make not less than ten entries nor more than 25.

INDIVIDUAL ENTRIES.

All individual entries must be forwarded by the secretaries of the societies to J. Lockie Wilson, Superintendent of Agricultural Societies, Parliament Buildings, Toronto, before the first of June, 1909. Societies may, if thought advisable, charge competitors an entry fee of not more than one dollar. An amount of not less than $50 must be offered in prizes by each society, to be divided as follows: $15, $12, $10, $8, and $5. Of the above amount the Ontario Department of Agriculture will contribute $30. The balance is to be contributed by the society, and this $20 can be counted as expenditure for agricultural purposes in the yearly financial statement. The Ontario Department of Agriculture will furnish expert judges free of charge.

Large prizes will be offered by the Department for two bushel sacks of grain at both Guelph and Ottawa Winter Fairs, the competition for which will be confined to prize-winners in the Standing Field Crop Competitions. Full particulars will be furnished later to the prize winners.

SHEAF EXHIBIT.

In addition to the above, arrangements have been made with the Directors of the Canadian National Exhibition, to be held in Toronto August 28th to September 13th, to donate $240 in prizes for a sheaf exhibit of grain from the fields, the owners of which were awarded prizes in the Standing Field Crop Competitions. For this Sheaf Exhibit the Province has been divided into three districts and prizes amounting to $80 will be awarded to competitors in each of the three divisions mentioned below for the following kinds of grain:

	Wheat	Oats	Barley	Rye
First Prize ..	$6	$6	$6	$6
Second Prize ..	5	5	5	5
Third Prize ..	4	4	4	4
Fourth Prize ..	3	3	3	3
Fifth Prize ..	2	2	2	2

Division 1. Includes Muskoka, Parry Sound, Haliburton, Nipissing, Manitoulin, Algoma and other districts in New Ontario.

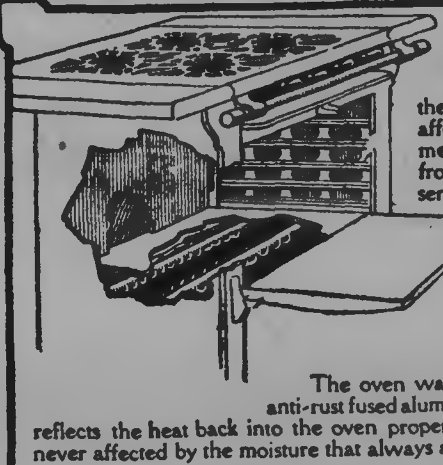
Division 2. All counties east of York and Simcoe.

Division 3. York, Simcoe and all counties west and south-west of same.

Each sheaf entered must contain not less than 1,000 stems and must be boxed and shipped C. O. D. to the Superintendent of Agricultural Products, Exhibition Park, Toronto, not later than August 20th. All entries for this exhibit must be made to J. Lockie Wilson, Parliament Buildings, Toronto, before August 2nd, 1909.

THE PILLARS OF THE HOME

On Sunday evening, the Rev. J. R. Webb, pastor of Murray street Baptist Church will preach the first of a series of four Sunday evening sermons on the above subject. The topic for Sunday evening will be "The Father"; on April 11th, "The Mother"; April 18th, "The Brother"; and April 25th, "The Sister." A discussion of the duties and privileges of these is not only practical, but will, no doubt, be of the highest spiritual value. The choir will render special music on these occasions, and no pew will be reserved for its occupant after five minutes to seven.



OVEN

To make use of the heat, but be unaffected by that heat, means sure service from the oven and long service for the oven.

"Caloric" gas range oven is constructed to perform on this two-fold basis.

The oven walls are coated with anti-rust fused aluminum, which coating reflects the heat back into the oven proper. This coating is never affected by the moisture that always accrues from heat.

The walls are double, likewise the oven bottom, the latter having an air space between, which renders impossible a pan of buns or a roast being burned.

A unique figure in the public life of Belfast has just pased away in the person of James Dempsey, better known perhaps as "The O'Dempsey." There were few better known or better liked citizens than Mr. Dempsey who, with all his peculiarities was extremely popular.

The most important case in the criminal calendar for the Co. Antrim Assizes came on for hearing last week, when Sarah Ann Jane Reid, a young woman of eighteen years, and Bridget Reid, her mother, were tried for and acquitted of the murder of the twelve days' old male infant child of the youngest prisoner.

Under the auspices of the Unionist Associations of Ireland, a large and enthusiastic meeting was held in the Corn Exchange, Abingdon, Berks, under the presidency of Major H. G. They believed if Home Rule were instituted there would be an end of civil liberty.

A largely attended meeting of the Unionists of South Dublin took place in Rathmines Town Hall in support of the candidature of Captain Bryan Cooper, who will stand for the constituency at next general election. PINGS' LOVE AFFAIR.

While It Lasted He Was a Very Busy Man.

Pings, the bookkeeper, was in love.

In fact, the new stenographer had him so dazzled that he was getting seven shaves a week, waxing the ends of his mustache and memorizing whole pages of love sonnets.

One day his hair fairly curled with pleasure as she handed him her ink eraser to sharpen, and when he returned it he beamed on her and said:

"Miss Peachly, if there is one thing I can do well it is to sharpen a knife, and whenever you have any of this work to be done please let me attend to it for you. Really, I will consider it a favor."

The next morning she brought down to the office a couple of penknives for him to try his skill on and two days later three pairs of shears, and after those had been attended to she handed him a package and said:

"Here are some razors, Mr. Pings. Father and the boys have such a time to keep them sharp, and I know how you love to do the work. I'll bring them to you every month."

Pings' jaw dropped when he opened the package and found twelve dull razors, and when he crawled into bed at midnight after working on the blades all evening he vowed it would be the last job of the kind he would ever do.

But it wasn't.

The very next day the handsome stenographer handed him another parcel, and this time it was several carving knives that needed attention, and it took just one smile to make him forget his vow. This might have ended the matter for a time had not the office force caught on to what the bookkeeper was doing, and then the boys decided to have some fun at his expense. Pings came down to the office one morning to find on his desk a hoe, an ax, a shovel, several ancient swords and a pickax, and pinned to the latter was a piece of paper on which was written:

"Please sharpen these at once, Mr. Pings. Will bring down the lawn mower tomorrow."

But Pings was through. When he had recovered from his astonishment he wasn't three minutes in looking for another position.—A. B. Lewis in Judge.

Touched.

Weeping bitterly, the poor man told her he had a wife and six children to support.

"All right, my poor man," she said sympathetically; "I will help you. After you have cleaned all the snow out of the path from here to the barn, milked four cows, curried two horses, watered the mule, fed the chickens and cut enough stove wood to last two or three days I'll give you a nickel and bid you luck on your way."

And still the poor man wept.

"Ah, you weep for your family?" asked the farmer's wife.

"No, mum," he said, brushing away a tear. "I weep because it touches me to know dat der are such generous people in de world, mum."—Chicago News.

His Prayer.

A good old deacon in Connecticut was very pious and very fond of clams. When once upon a time he attended a Rhode Island clambake he overtaxed his capacity and was sorely distressed. But his faith in prayer was unabated. Leaving the party and going down on his knees behind a tree, he was heard to supplicate: "Forgive me, O Lord, this great sin of gluttony. Restore my health and I will never eat any more clams." Then after a judicious pause: "Very few, if any. Amen."

The Main Thing.

"I must say," declared the manager after he had read the successful playwright's latest product, "that many of your lines seem very familiar to me To be perfectly frank, in fact, you have taken them bodily from the writings of other men."

"Well, what of it? Nearly every one of 'em's good for a laugh, ain't it?"—Chicago Record-Herald.

A Good Character.

They were trying an Irishman charged with a petty offense in an Oklahoma town when the judge asked:

"Have you any one in court who will vouch for your good character?"

"Yis, your honor," quickly responded the Celt. "There's the sheriff there."

Whereupon the sheriff evinced signs of great amazement.

"Why, your honor," he declared, "I don't even know the man."

"Observe, your honor," said the Irishman triumphantly—"observe that I've lived in the county for over twelve years an' the sheriff doesn't know me yit! Ain't that a character for ye?"—Kansas City Star.

Time to Change the Subject.

Minister (to small daughter of the house)—Such a pretty little kitten came to our house today. Would you like to have it to play with, my dear?

Small Daughter—I 'spect it belongs to my papa, anyhow.

Minister—How is that, my child?

Small Daughter—'Cause I heard papa tell a friend he had lost the kitty last night.—New York Herald.

The Cowcatcher.

While the visitor told how he had ridden thirty thrilling miles on the cowcatcher of a locomotive five-year-old Lorella listened attentively. As he concluded she asked, "Did you catch the cow, Mr. Blank?"—Chicago News.

RHEUMATISM Strikes the Heart and then Kills

Causes: A run down condition of the system, poisoned blood, and Uric Acid. The joints become clogged with irritating secretions and grow stiff. Every movement tortures and racks the sufferer. Cure is not possible until the blood is purified. The most potent blood purifier is Ferrozone. It is a perfect solvent for Uric Acid and an antidote for all other poisons liable to cause inflammation or Rheumatic Pains. But Ferrozone doesn't stop here. It provides the enfeebled sufferer with an abundant supply of pure, invigorating blood. This quickly results in more strength with which to fight the disease, starts a rebuilding of the system, ends in a permanent cure. Mr. Thos. Egan, of 92 Pearl Street, New York, suffered so intensely from Rheumatism that his friends believed he could not recover. "The Rheumatism," writes Mr. Egan, "crippled me for four years. It seemed to run to the joints, which swelled and caused dreadful pain. I wasn't able to walk and my strength rapidly decreased. My heart became so weak I had to be bolstered up in bed. I was at my wits' end when I heard of the wonderful cures of Ferrozone. Twelve boxes cured and I am now strong and perfectly well." There is no better remedy. Severe tests have proved it superlative to all others. If you want the BEST and most scientific treatment for Rheumatism, Gout, Neuralgia, or Sciatica, use Ferrozone. No case too chronic. Price 50 cents per box or six boxes for $2.50. Sold by all druggists.

STOMACH COMFORT

When the Stomach Rebels, Headache, Indigestion and Nerve Pain Follows—Mi-o-na Brings Relief.

Just as soon as you are done eating the healthy stomach commences to churn the food around and mixes it thoroughly with the juices of the stomach.

If the food is not churned it lays heavily in your stomach, turns sour and causes all kinds of distressing symptoms, such as headache, indigestion, stomach pain and dyspepsia. Mi-o-na helps the stomach to properly mix the food.

John S. May, of Isabella street Belleville, Ont., says, "For over seven months I was in constant agony with a case of nervous dyspepsia and indigestion that medical skill could not relieve. I was weak and had lost much weight through loss of appetite and suffering. My meals would fill me with gas and a feeling of oppression across the stomach and all up the left side, left me in a miserable condition. I was restless at night and as tired and unrefreshed in the morning as on going to bed. A choking sensation in my throat was always constant when lying down, and my heart seemed to flutter and pound as though it were coming through my side. I was benefited from the first two days' use of Mi-o-na. I began to feel like myself again, my appetite returned and the depressive feeling left me. I can enjoy my meals without the least worry of after suffering. I have gained in weight and can sleep the night through in comfort.

Go to Wm Madill, the druggist and get a 50 cent box of Mi-o-na Tablets. Money back if Mi-o-na does not cure.

Elephant Runs Amuck.

Des Moines, Ia., April 10.—"Tom," an elephant in the winter quarters of the Yankee Robinson Circus, ran amuck Thursday night and seizing his keeper, Charles Bellew, hurled him high into the air and then trampled him to death. Forty bullets were shot into the elephant before he was subdued.

I.O.O.F. PUT ON DEGREES

Visited Millbrook Yesterday To The Number Of Forty And Were Banquetted After Initiation Ceremonies Had Taken Place.

AN ENJOYABLE OCCASION

One of the most enjoyable events in the history of the Millbrook Lodge of Odd ellows was the degree work on Good Friday by a visiting team from Peterborough. About 40 of the members of Peterborough Lodge No. 111 comprised the visiting party. The three degrees were put on after which the Peterborough Odd Fellows were entertained to a sumptuous banquet, returning to Peterborough about two o'clock this morning on a special train.

MAN WHO ESCAPED HANDCUFFED IS STILL AT LIBERTY---BROTHER CAPTURED IN CELLAR OF HOME

County Constables Cochrane and Moore are reported to have had an exciting time on Wednesday while in Havelock searching for the Varty Bros. who, like "Brogan and Hogan," painted up the village while out on a jubilee. The account of the trouble was given in a recent issue of the Examiner byt the denouement has not been published. The Peterborough Constables with Chief Brill drove out to the Varty residence where they announced the purpose of their visit. But neither Fred nor Frank were to be found. The family are all well built, tall and powerful, the father and his three sons being a very formidable family. The third son is reported to have drawn a knife at first but Constable Moore took care of him. The sister, built on the same lines as her brother, was very much incensed and from all accounts told the representatives of the law what she thought of them, and objected to their searching the house.

Found by a Ruse

Constable Cochrane had searched inside but without any result and was going away empty handed when he re-entered the house and started towards the cellar where he met Frank Varty on the stairs. He placed him under arrest and brought him to Peterborough, where he was remanded until April 14th by Magistrate Edmison. Fred, the young man with the handcuffs still on is at liberty but friends have undoubtedly released him of the steel bands. The latter was on the "Indian List" and an attempt is being made to learn the name of the party who supplied him with the fire water. The boys are reported to have many relations in the countryside among whom Fred is believed to be hiding.

Stallion Show On Market Square On Sat. April 24th

The stallion show on the Market Square under the auspices of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition directors promises to be a most successful affair. Great interest is being displayed in the event by the horse breeders of the district and the indications point to a very large attendance and a fine showing of horses. It should be understood that in order to exhibit stallions it is necessary that exhibitors should be members of the Association and those who are not members should take out tickets which will give them all the privileges of the Association during the fall fair. The exhibition on the Market Square will take place on Saturday, April 24th, and the classes will be as follows:

Imported Clydesdales.
Canadian Bred.
Three-year-old Imported Clydesdales.
Shire
Percheron.
Coach.
Hackney.
Standard Bred
Thorough Bred.
Pedigrees must be produced.

Spoke Of The Indifference Of The World To Good Friday

Rev. Father Galvin in the course of his sermon at St. Peter's Cathedral last night referred to the making of Good Friday a holiday by a great majority of the people. Special theatrical attractions and bills at amusement houses were all intended to draw the mind away from the greatest event of which history makes mention. Father Galvin eloquently cited reasons for all Christians taking a deep interest in the passion and death of Jesus. Had He been an ordinary Jew some good Samaritan would probably have poured oil in His wounds and have taken care of Him, or if He had been a Lazarus He would have had the sympathy of dogs but in this case He was the King of kings and with the exception of His mother and a few friends He had none to sympathize with Him. Those whom He had befriended, had healed of incurable diseases, whose vision He had restored, or whom He had brought back to life, where were they? Perhaps they were in the multitude, in the background of the throng. He might have had twelve legions of angels but He knew that the Scriptures were to be fulfilled to the very letter and even when near to death on the cross He exclaimed "I thirst," and was given vinegar to drink. Humility and obedience were the two great virtues He taught.

St. Peter's T.A.S. Dramatic Society's Second Performance

The presentation of "True Irish Hearts" by the dramatic section of St. Peter's T. A. S. will be given on Tuesday evening, April 13th. Many were unable to see this clever production on March 17th, when it captivated one of the largest audiences the box office of the Grand has reported this season. The play has not been changed but the former experience should give the players more confidence and add finesse to their work, although there seemed little or no room for improvement. The songs in themselves are delightful and the stage effects are charming and appropriate. Many who saw the initial performance have been among those who have asked for a reproduction.

BRADFORD ARRESTED

Young Man Sentenced Here To Eighteen Months In Central Prison In August, 1907, Was Re-arrested In New York.

THOUGHT WANTED HERE

Examiner Special.

New York, April 9.—On information leading them to believe that he had recently escaped from a Canadian prison the police to-day brought into court for arraignment a man whose name was given as Ray Bradford, also known as Raymond King and William Casey, and asked that he be held until the Canadian authorities could be communicated with. Bradford, the police said, was found guilty of picking pockets on three charges in Peterborough, Ont., in August, 1907, and sentenced to four and a half years in prison.

Chief Roszel received a a telegram from S. McGarrity, chief of the detective force in New York city, asking him if Bradford was wanted here. The Chief immediately replied that he wasn't. Bradford it will be remembered was arrested at the circus in June, 1907, by P. C. Newhall and with two others, was convicted of picking pockets and sentenced by His Honour Judge Weller to eighteen months in the Central Prison on August 1st, 1907. His term expired in January last and he evidently, on his release went to New York city. When here he gave his age as twenty-four and his vocation in life, that of an actor.

REVENGE THE MOTIVE

Mysterious Notes Have Given The Authorities a New Clue In The Aurora Fire Case—Several Warnings Received.

DETECTIVES AT WORK.

Examiner Special (2.45 p. m.)

Aurora, April 10.—Revenge, and not extortion, is now believed to have ben the motive which prompted the lighting of Mr. T. F. Cook's house, which early Thursday morning was gutted by fire. It is along this line the county police, assisted by Detective Greer, of Toronto, are working. The fire was at first believed to be the work of blackmailers for Black Hand letters have been sent to several residents of the town. Mrs. Young, a widow, was first to receive one of these missives, then Mr. T. F. Cook, Sr., received a like sinister message and at once it was concluded the same person or persons had sent both. Many people in the town knew about the letters to Mrs. Young, and it is believed that one man who had a grudge against Mr. Cook seized upon this as a good opportunity to divert suspicion from himself. He therefore wrote Black Hand notes for t his purpost, and fired the house of Mr. Cook for revenge.

SPECIAL COMMITTEE OF COUNCIL FAVOURS THE PLANS OF LOCAL ARCHITECTS FOR LIBRARY BUILDING

The committee of the Whole Council met on Thursday night, with the Mayor and all the aldermen present. The first business considered, and probably the most important were the plans of the Public Library. Ald. Bradburn made a brief report and stated that the matter had been left with a sub-committee of the Property Committee consisting of Ald. Morgan, Duncan and McIntyre. The latter gave the result of their examination of the different plans being in favour of that of the local architects, Messrs. Belcher and Blackwell.

The chief object of the council is to keep within the limited $25,000 which they have wherewith to build the library. Ald. McIntyre stated that he considerd that the cost could be kept within those figures. The plans of the Peterborough architect provided for an imposing building which would not only be an adornment to the city but would also meet the requirements for many years to come.

The architects themselves were then given an opportunity of speaking to the council in regard to their respective plans. Messrs. Strickland and Band of Toronto were first heard, the latter pointing out the features which he considered were most to be sought in the interior and exterior of the library. Mr. T. G. Proctor, son of Mr. Geo. Proctor of Sarnia, the contractor of the local armouries was next heard. He is quite a young man but has had a wide experience in building work besides being an architect. Some of the distinguishing points of his plans were favoured by the council. Messrs. Belcher and Blackwell were heard last. They stated that the cost of the building could be kept within the limited sum. The Toronto architects stated that their building would cost $28,000. Mr. Proctor's plans provided for a building at $27,000. The matter was was referred back to the Property committee to report on.

In regard to the expropriation of Westcott street, it was moved by Ald Morrow and Bradburn that the solicitor be instructed [illegible] take no action at present. The council feels that they have not abundance of money with which to indulge in extra expenses at present and the prices asked by the property owners who will be affected are reported to be rather exorbitant.

City Engineer Hay was instructed to strike the grade for a new walk in front of Mr. Thos. Moore's new house on Bethune street north.

The claim of Mr. Kennedy for damages for his accident was discussed at some length. Several of the Legal Committee were inclined to reverse their decision which was contrary to granting any damages.

On motion the matter was referred to the committee again.

Ald. Duncan reminded the council that the Master Painters were holding a convention here in July and the painters were getting out some thing like 16,000 souvenir books of the city. This book includes many cuts of the leading factories, etc., and he would like to have a cut of the council in it. He also asked that the council furnish that cut which would cost about $5.00.

It was moved that the City Council have its picture taken and that a cut be purchased for use in the painters' booklet. The photos will cost $15.00.

APPLEBY COLLAPSES IN FIFTEENTH MILE; SIMPSON WINS RACE ALL ALONE

Special Wire from Toronto to The Examiner.

Rosedale Grounds, Toronto, April 10.—The big twenty-mile race between Fred Simpson, the Hiawatha Indian, and Fred Appleby, the English fifteen mile champion, is taking place this afternoon on the 3½ lap track here. The weather is bright and cold with a chilly wind that may cause trouble to the runners and cramp them up before they cover twenty miles. In spite of the weather, however, a good-sized crowd is present, and both men have plenty of supporters, the Engishmen in the city turning out in large numbers to encourage Appleby. Among the noteworthy figures at the track is Alfie Shrubb, who returned from New York on Thursday to make arrangements for his fifteen-mile race with Longboat on Saturday, April 17th.

The track is in good shape in spite of the snow and rain of yesterday. Sand and sawdust have been placed on it and rolled and the going will be good nuder the circumstances. Appleby is a slight favourite, but a good many of the wise ones dope the Indian to win, figuring that he will cut down the Englishman's early lead in the last five miles.

APPLEBY SET THE PACE

Rosedale Grounds, Toronto. — The race between Simpson and Appleby started sharp at 3:40 o'clock this afternoon. Controller Geary started the pair at that hour and Appleby who looks and runs very much like his compatriot, Alfie Shrubb, sprang at once into the lead setting a lively clip. Simpson running with his long stride and his head thrown back swung in behind him and the two were running step for step with only a yard separating them at the end of the first two laps.

SIMPSON IS HOLDING ON.

Rosedale Grounds, Toronto.—Appleby is still setting the pace with Simpson gluing to him and only three yards behind at two miles. Both men are going fresh and strong and the manner in which Simpson is holding the Englishman is taken as a guarantee that he will give the Englishman an awful argument. It was thought that Appleby would leave Simpson for the first half of the race at least but from the form Simpson is showing now, he is determined not to let the man from over the seas get away from him. The time for two miles was 10 minutes 53:½ seconds, which is fairly fast considering the conditions.

APPLEBY STILL LEADS.

Rosedale Grounds, Toronto. — At the end of the fourth mile Appleby had slightly increased his lead and is now in front of Simpson by 4½ yards. The Indian, however, is running easily, and smiles at his handler, Tom Eck, every time he passes him. Appleby is plugging along doggedly, but is not showing the speed that was looked for from the world's champion fifteen miler. The Indian is well in hand and on present dope looks like a winner all over, but Appleby may be holding back. Time for four miles, 22 mins., 16 sec.

SIMPSON BEHIND AT SIX MILES

Rosedale Grounds, Toronto.—Simpson is still dogging Appleby, although the little Englishman continues to hold his lead and in fact has increased it during the last two miles, now leading by five yards. The Indian, acting unders from Tom Eck, is contenting himself with following Appleby's pace and the little runner from the Mother Country seems unable to leave the lanky redskin, who is following him without the least appearance of distress. It is a great race and there is much excitement. It is felt that if Appleby holds on there will be a rattling finish, but the wise ones look for Simpson to trail until the Englishman tires and then let loose with his characteristic strong finish.

SIMPSON GAINS

Rosedale Grounds, Toronto. — The two runners are still going strong, with Appleby doing the road work. The Englishman is still fresh although he has been doing the pacing from the start. Simpson continues to hold him and although in the last two miles he has closed in on Appleby and is only three yards behind, has made no effort to go out in front. His handlers state that he may stay there for fifteen miles or even further before he makes any attempt to leave the Englishman. Time for 8 miles, 45:36.

Rosedale Grounds, Toronto.—With the race half over at ten miles Appleby and Simpson still hold the same relative positions. Appleby out in front and Simpson still three yards in the rear. The time for the ten miles was 57.33.

APPLEBY STILL EADS.

Rosedale Grounds, Toronto.—At 12 miles Appleby continues to hold his lead and is four yards ahead now, but Simpson is still to the merry and is quite cheerful about the outcome. The time for twelve miles was 1.09:50. St. Yves' time for 12 miles was 1.08:36.

FRED SIMPSON,
Winner of the Big Twenty-Mile Race at the Rosedale Grounds, Toronto, To-Day.

Rosedale Grounds, Toronto.—Appleby has gained slightly on Simpson in the last two miles of the race, and is now five yards in front. The time for the fourteen miles was 1.22:20, just two minutes and seven seconds slower than St. Yves' made in New York last week. Both men are still running fresh and strong, and it will be a battle to the tape if present indications count for anything.

SIMPSON TAKES LEAD.

Rosedale Grounds, Toronto.—Simpson for the first time has taken the lead in the big race and at the fifteenth mile is leading by twenty-five yards. The Indian, who has been hanging grimly at Appleby's heels for nearly fifteen miles, was apparently holding back for the finish. Suddenly, however, as the runners were passing the grand stand the Indian let loose with a terible burst of speed at a word from Tom Eck, and torn down the stretch like a hundred yard man. Appleby could not hold him at all and the Indian gained 30 yards on the Englishman and is now leading by twenty-five yards. The excitement is intense and Simpson looks like a winner all over if his spurt has not been ill-timed.

APPLEBY COLLAPSES.

Rosedale Grounds, Toronto. — Appleby, the world's champion fifteen-miler, was forced to quit in to-day's race with Simpson, dropping on the track at the end of fifteen miles, and was carried off by his handlers, all in, down and out. The pacing he had done all through the race, accompanied by his efforts to hold Simpson when the redskin let loose with a terrific sprint was too much for the little Britisher, and, after toiling along gamely for a while he had to drop. Simpson was one quarter of a mile ahead at the time and Appleby was outclased. The time for fifteen miles was 1.22:43. Simpson is running alone and will finish the race by himself.

BEAUTIFY THE CITY.

In to-day's issue is printed the sixth of the articles on "The Methods and Principles of Landscape Gardening," by Mr. A. B. Cutting, editor of the Canadian Horticulturist. The present article treats of the best climbing and creeping vines. These are one of the most striking features of ornamenting lawns and grounds. Except when command of considerable means makes other conditions possible, there are places and objects in connection with almost all private premises, which, while useful, cannot be described as beautiful or sightly. But they can be made so by covering them with over-running vines, whose brightness of flower and delight of foliage convert a deformity and an eyesore into a thing of beauty. We urge all our readers who are advanced enough to sympathize with the beautiful in the form of sward, tree, shrub, flower, or vine, to read carefully Mr. Cutting's excellent articles and practically co-operate and compete, too, with their neighbours in adding to the beauty of their home surroundings. This can be done with a very small expenditure of money and labour. As to the labour, to the refined soul, labour like this is rest.

A general competitive co-operation in making homes beautiful will make Peterborough the city beautiful.

THE LIBERAL OPPOSITION.

A parliamentary Opposition need not be large to be effective. The Conservative Opposition at Ottawa demonstrates that an Opposition can be numerically large and at the same time small in spirit. The Liberal Opposition at Toronto, though weak in numbers, is strong in public spirit and debating talent. Under the leadership of Hon. A. G. MacKay the gallant little band has been responsible for much valuable constructive criticism, and in this way has left a beneficent impress upon a great deal of the government legislation. Though they attempted without success the reform of things popularly objectionable, among others the repeal of the three-fifths clause in the local option law, and failed to prevent the alienation to a powerful railway coporation of two million acres of the people's farming lands,, still they emphasized the government's remissness in regard to a vigorous and practicable forestery policy, an efficient system of technical education, civil service reform and the removal of the licensing system from political influences. The Opposition fought well under Hon. Mr. Mackay, who, in his courtesy, dignity and fidelity to his duties, well earned the encomium passed upon him by Sir James Whitney, at the close of the business of the session, in these words: "I would not be doing my duty if I did not state that in my twenty-one years of legislative experience, I have not known anyone who has been more careful or industrious or paid closer attention to the subjects which came up for discussion than the present leader of the Opposition." The applause which followed showed that Sir James had voiced the sentiments of the members of the House.

Honesty of purpose, and earnestness of effort are important factors in the realm of achievement.

EASTER LESSONS.

Easter comes to us as the symbol of the new creation—freighted with the resurrection idea, pervading all things, the divine, the human, and the material. The resurrection of our Blessed Lord as on this day, signalizes the completion, the climax, the triumph of the costly work of man's redemption. It is the token that man, who, like a seed of corn, has perished in the earth will rise to a new life. Easter is the sign of immortality, the promise of the endless life. The Eastertide marks the rebirth of nature. It unlocks the frost-sealed stream to babble on its seaward way; it brings the jocund bridal to the nesting birds. It awakens the pulse of life in the bosom of mother earth, from which springs the green blade and rises the limpid blood that pushes the swelling tree birds into tender emerald leaves. It rouses all nature from its deep wintry sleep into waking life, pulsing with promise and progressive performance. Why cannot we mortals take a leson from the resurrection idea? Even the grass shoots its tender spire from the withered deadness of its last year's life. Why can we not, under the impulse of the Easter spirit build a new life on our dead past; take on a new growth into higher living and doing, and grow heavenward? Christ's resurrection is the sign and token of a new life in the heavenly world. Why not make it the motive, as it makes the possibility, of a new and more heavenly life in the hearts of men? If there is no resurrection in our hearts from the death of trespass and sin then is Christ's rising vain.

Come, gentle Spring, etherial mildness, come!

NOT TWO OF A KIND.

Mr. James Thompson, West Peterborough, seems to have a core for his political scalp, a desire to "stand in" with the dominant sentiment of his constituency. He voted against the government and for the second reading of a bill to wipe out the three-fifths local option clause, which the Whitney Government, in the face of overwhelming public sentiment, insists on retaining. Mr. Thompson had to cater to no stronger a temperance element than Mr. T. E. Bradburn, of West Peterborough; nor as strong; for Mr. Bradburn was supported by some of the most blatant political temperance element in Peterborough, to be found anywhere in the Province. Will this element condemn Mr. Bradburn, who refused to join Mr. Thompson in the attempt to repeal the three-fifths clause? The honest temperance electorate will do so, but not the temperance element of which we have long had experience in Peterborough, and which has placed and places temperance interests secondary to political interests.

DR. GRENFELL'S NEXT NEED

Dr. Grenfell, who has taken and still takes such a deep and practical interest in the welfare of the fisher folk of the Labrador coast, has the following to say of the proposed complement to his work, the St. John Institute for fishermen:

After twenty years' work amongst them, I am absolutely convinced that no greater danger besets deep-sea fishermen than that of intoxicating liquors. They are naturally honest and straightforward; they are simple and generous to a fault. Alas, until debased by the associations that maintain in almost every seaport town, they are, from their natural shyness, less able to resist temptation put in their way.

The work laboriously done for the helping of their bodies, the improvement of their minds and the uplift of their souls, is undone when their vessels resort to the large seaports. There the crimp, the land shark, the brothel, and the saloon keeper pounce upon them like vultures on their prey. Along the whole coast of Labrador the saloon has been driven out; practically every seaport in Newfoundland has prohibited the sale of liquor. But as soon as the schooners carrying our young men and women resort to the city of St. John's, as they are forced to do twice a year, nothing but tempetation besets them. The only place of entertainment open to them is the saloon. Moreover, our coast is flooded with liquor from the same saloons that is brought in by the mail steamers, the sale being considered as taking place in St. John's, and we are powerless to prevent it landing. It is thus infinitely desirable that a centre should be established where we may develop anti-saloon sentiment, which would certainly end in driving it out altogether.

To expect men straight from the sea to spend all their evenings in a church or prayer meeting is ridiculous. The right human channel to carry the love of God to sailors under these conditions is to provide in each seaport an uplifting place for men whose callings has forced them from the influence of their homes. This place should afford them the opportunity to wash both themselves and their clothing; to rest: to keep a change of garments; to amuse themselves decently and rationally, and a place where they can expect to meet their friends; a place that shall enable them to write letters home; a place with attractions of simple and decent literature, and with a clean bed at a reasonable price.

Our northern fishermen have acquired no craving for intoxicating drink. The fatal lure of the saloon to them is not its liquors, but simply its material environment. What is needed to counteract this is some better environment. There can be no comparison in cost, for the present conditions cost the fishermen everything that makes human life worth having. It costs the wife and children away from them in their out-port homes all that this involves. To my mind, there can be no better investment; nothing more in line with what the Christ himself do for them to-day than to afford them just the opportunities that such a home of their own on the quay side would provide. This would afford them the welcome of the Christ in the twentieth century. This solution of the problem has received the endorsement of all men who have a heart for the true welfare of the toilers of the sea. It most certainly has every bit of mine. I would add that, under the peculiar circumstances of our northern life, it would be of infinite value to add a swimming tank, for our sea is far too cold for men to learn to swim. Hardly any of them are able to save themselves if they fall overboard. Yet on three separate occasions have I saved my own life by this simple accomplishment.

I desire to commend this plan for an Institute for Fishermen at St. John's with all my heart. It would be an invaluable assistance to us in our work in Labrador, for it would directly affect all our people and save them from these really avoidable perils. I sincerely pray that God may dispose the hearts of some who love "men that go down to the sea in ships that do business in great waters" to help to make this possible."

Dr. Grenfell will give an address in the interest of the Seaman's Institute at St. John's on Wednesday night, April 14th.

THE LATE EX-SPEAKER CLARKE

(From the Globe.)

In the person of Colonel Clarke, of Elora, death has removed one of the older of the western Ontario pioneers. By the aid of a robust constitution, a cheerful disposition, and a regular life he reached the quite unusual age of eighty-three years. Of these he spent sixty-five in Canada, and the great maojrity of them in Elora, which has been his home since 1852. He arrived in Canada in 1844, a young English Radical of eighteen, and, unlike many who call themselves "English Radicals," he remained a stalwart Canadian Liberal to the end.

The year 1844 was one of profound political unrest in Canada. The two Provinces—now Ontario and Quebec—had been in 1840 brought into union as one Province. The first Governor-General, Lord Sydenham, had passed away in 841, leaving his work of consolidation and progress not much more than well begun. He had accepted the principle of "responsible government," and he would no doubt have acted on it in good faith; but Lord Metcalfe, who became Governor in 1843, openly set the principle at nought and managed by his personal popularity to maintain for nearly three years a personal regime. The triumph of the Liberals of that day came in 1847, when Lord Elgin became Governor, and had for his advisers the members of the Baldwin-Lafontaine Ministry.

The troubles connected with the Rebellion of 1837-38 culminated ten years later in the tumults that caused in Montreal the destruction by fire of the Parliament buildings. This was followed a few months later by the celebrated annexation manifesto of 1849, but the movement of which it was the outcome soon subsided, and a period of contentment and prosperity followed the successful negotiation by Lord Elgin of the Reciprocity Treaty of 1854. Of all these stirring events young Clarke was an interested spectator, and he speedily drifted into political journalism as his vocation. He helped to fight the battle against State-Churchism and for representation by poulation. The agitation for the latter led to the confederation of the Provinces in 1867, and, true to his Radical bias, he used all his influence in favour of an elective Senate.

It was not surprising that one so well equipped for political polemics and so well able to do his own thinking should find his way into Parliament. He represented part of Wellington county continuously from 1871 to 1891 in the Ontario Legislative Assembly, and during six of those twenty years he presided over its proceedings as Speaker. In spite of the tenacity with which he held the views at which he had independently arrived he was always popular with his fellow-members. He was a fair controversialist and a courteous gentleman. Not many of his own generation survive to regret his passing, but by them he will continue to be held in high esteem until their time comes to follow him out of the arena.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Mr. T. E. Bradburn, West Peterborough, is not TE-total.

Sir James Whitney in "the last awful week" of 1909, gave away 200,000 hundred-acre farms to Mackenzie & Mann.

The right sort of people to bring to rural Ontario was in a lot of immigrants which arrived in Toronto on Wednesday night in charge of the Salvation Army. They were all used to farming and were well provided with money. In this case the Scotch shift (they were Scotch) was not in the form of "siller" but gold. Some of them had been born on farms in Scotland that had been occupied by their forebears for three hundred years. Such men will be valuable on our Ontario farms and there is little doubt of their success; that is if the new comers fall promptly in line with the new conditions and if farmers treat them with reasonable fairness.

THE GIRL AND THE BEE.

A Story of The Ignorance of a City Girl.

The city girl coming down to breakfast at the farm house and observing a plate of honey on the table said: "Oh, I see you keep a bee."

That's about the way some people talk about the blight of baldness—just as if a bald head was something one got all at once instead of being the result of long depletion by an insidious germ, which thrives upon the roots of the hair and succumbs to only one known remedy, Newbro's Herpicide.

Newbro's Herpicide is not a tonic any more than electricity is a fluid. It is an exterminator, pure and simple.

IN COMMENDATION OF DR. GRENFELL'S WORK

Mrs. F. W. Miller has received a letter from Mrs. Fred Farthing, of Teybridge, Devon, in which she refers to the health of her husband whose passage to England was made possible by the generous subscriptions of a number of Peterborough people who were interested in the case. Mr. Farthing is doing well although not very strong, and has a market garden which he expects to soon yield good returns. He wishes those people who helped him to return to England to feel that they have done him a favour which gratitude is powerless to repay. Mr. Farthing feels that with the fine weather he will regain strength and is hoping for the best.

Peterborough, April 10.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

I am pleased to notice that Dr. Grenfell is going to lecture in the Opera House on April 14th. He is doing a great work among the poor fisher folk in Labrador, and very much for the cause of temperance, so I hope there will be a large audience to hear him as the mission ought to be of great interest to the people of Peterborough.

W. S. MERRELL,
Ex-President of St. Peter's Total Abstinence Society.

HOW TO REDUCE FAT PROPORTIONATELY

Proportion is the thing. A fat woman yearns to reduce her abdomen, but she doesn't want to produce a scrawny neck. This fact condemns the dieting method of reducing. You can't starve the fat off one place and not off another. Simply impossible. But why try dieting, or even exercising, when there is a better way of reducing fat than either.

Try the following: One-half ounce Marmola, 3-4 ounce Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic, 4 3-4 ounces Peppermint Water. Any druggist will fill the above cheaply. Take a teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime and see if in a few weeks you are not losing about a pound of fat a day—not from places where you are normally plump, but from those that are overly fat. The receipt works like a charm, I am told, and though it produces delightfully apparent results, yet it is perfectly harmless. Doesn't even cause wrinkles, they say who have used it, nor interfere with one's diet, which are two other exclusive and important differences it possesses over all other fat reducers I ever heard of. Instead of being harmful, in fact, as so many of the advertised remedies are, it improves the health and appetite and complexion.

MORE LIVES LOST.

Further Reports of Casualties in Wednesday's Storm.

Toronto, April 10.—Further details of loss of life and property by the great storm of Wednesday have been received. At Hamilton John Jamieson, a well-known athlete, went out in a boat to recover a hat belonging to another man and was unable to make his way back to shore. Several people saw him struggling, but were unable to help, and finally the boat was driven across the bay. It was picked up Wednesday morning, badly battered, but there was no trace of Jamieson, and he was undoubtedly drowned. At Norwich Miss Irene McCauley, stenographer, was killed in the Oxford flour mills elevator by a shower of bricks falling on a passageway where she was wrecking the roof and burying her under the debris. Near London Mr. James Tunks was struck by the limb of a falling tree and killed. One or two vessels are adrift on Lake Erie, and it is greatly feared that their crews have met death in the waters.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

A lot of damage was done by flood and ice in the Niagara river.

A Canadian contingent two thousand strong invaded New York for Easter.

A local option campaign will be started in several municipalities in Huron county.

It is stated that Prince George of Servia asks 1,000,000 rubles as his price for leaving the country.

Mrs. Georgia Allyn Sampson, accused at Lyons, N.Y., of the murder of her husband, was found not guilty.

The C.P.R. has not yielded to the demands of its mechanics, but insists on the award of the Conciliation Board being extended.

Miss Jeannette Harkness, formerly of Toronto, a nurse in a St. Louis hospital, gave a patient a dose of poison by mistake and he died soon after.

Contractors Balk.

Edmonton, Ala., April 10.—Rumor explains the inactivity of railroad contractors in preparing for the season's construction on the G.T.P., as caused by the allegation that Foley, Welch and Stewart are creditors of the road to the extent of three million, due on progress estimates, and they are unwilling to go ahead or leave the scene of activities without a settlement.

Contractors should be concentrating men and material, but instead three of the largest contractors have pulled south to take contracts on C.P.R. irrigation ditches. Much is to be done to the west of Edmonton. To the east every effort is being made to complete the line.

Rules For Militia.

Ottawa, April 10.—Militia orders announce that to be eligible for promotion to the rank of brigadier-general (temporary) one must be among the first six officers on the seniority list, member of the militia council, or in charge of a command.

For promotion to colonel, the first 30 lieutenant-colonels are eligible, who must have at least 20 years' continuous or 25 years' non-continuous service, and must pass a practical qualifying examination. Also eligible are members of the militia council, those with a command, or in command of a first-class district, or a brigade, or hold other rank which the Minister of Militia may hold equal.

Three New Quebec Judges.

Montreal, April 10.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier will appoint the three new Superior Court judges in the district of Montreal, as provided by the law passed some time since by he Quebec Government. It is understood that the Ottawa leader was influenced by his Minister of Justice, who favored the system of decentralization as practiced in Ontario, but Sir Wilfrid could not stand the pressure brought to bear by the local authorities, hence the coming appointment of Mr. Dugas, M.P. for Montcalm, G. Desaulniers of this city and Lt.-Col. F. W. Hibbard.

Attack on Woman.

Toronto, April 10.—Because she ceased to smile upon his suit, Alfred Baker, an Englishman, but a short time in the country, at 10 o'clock last night made a savage attack upon his sweetheart, Bertha Augustine, at her home, 338 Brock avenue.

Baker had been paying attention to the girl, but had recently fallen from her favor. Purchasing a hatchet he went to her home and when the girl came to the door forced it open and brutally attacked the girl.

He was arrested and charged with attempted murder.

Nurse's Fatal Error.

St. Louis, Mo., April 10.—Miss Jeanette Harkness, formerly of Toronto, a hospital nurse, yesterday mistook poison for medicine, as a result of which her patient is dead.

MOTHER BELIEVES IN PERUNA.

Mrs. K. Kane, of Chicago, Uses Pe-ru-na in her family of five children, Grace, Myrtle, Edward, Reeves and George.

EDWARD GRACE
MYRTLE
REEVES
GEORGE

Pe-ru-na in the Home.

After all, experience is the best teacher. Some doctors may write in favor of Peruna. Other doctors may write against it. But it is the testimony of the mothers and fathers who are rearing families, who love their children, who must economize as to doctor bills, who are raising little boys and girls into men and women of the future, it is the testimony of such people that really counts.

There is no way to positively ascertain how many families in the United States rely upon Peruna for the many climatic ailments to which the family is subject. The number must be a great one. Several millions perhaps. They have learned how to use Peruna for ordinary ailments, and in that way are guarding their homes against more serious diseases.

Such ailments as coughs and colds, sore throat and catarrh, croup and colic, indigestion and loss of appetite, anemia and nervousness, all these ailments are promptly relieved by a few doses of Peruna at the right time.

Millions of provident mothers and fathers are guarding the interests of the home by using Dr. Hartman's great remedy, and profiting by his medical booklets and personal advice.

Catarrhal Croup.

Few people realize how frequently croup is caused by catarrhal congestion of the throat. Probably nine cases out of ten of croup is of the catarrhal variety.

The medical profession recognizes three forms of croup. The spasmodic variety, membranous croup and catarrhal croup.

Nearly every case is of the catarrhal variety, and a few doses of Peruna taken at the first appearance of the catarrhal symptoms is generally sufficient to avert the attack of croup altogether.

Croup is a frightful disease. No disease of children so alarms the household.

A HEALTHY FAMILY

Kept the Children Well.

Mrs. K. Kane, 196 Sebor St., Flat 1, Chicago, Ill., writes:

"Peruna has been used so long in our family that I do not know how I could get along without it.

"I have given it to all of my five children at different times when they suffered with croup, colds and the many ailments that children are subject to, and am pleased to say that it has kept them in splendid health.

"I have also used it for a catarrhal difficulty of long standing, and it cured me in a short time, so I have every reason to praise Peruna."

FATHER AND CHILD.
MR. J. M. STANSBERRY AND DAUGHTER

Catarrh of Stomach.

Mr. John M. Stansberry, Amarillo, Tex., writes:

"For several years I had catarrh of the stomach. I was hardly able to do anything, and could not eat with any satisfaction.

"When I commenced using Peruna, I weighed only 110 pounds. I took six bottles, commencing in the spring, and by the following winter I had gained 63 pounds.

"I owe it all to Peruna. It cannot be praised too highly.

"I am forty-five years old, and my occupation is that of architect and builder."

It is impossible to estimate how many homes have been protected against croup by the proper use of Peruna.

Household Remedies.

There is no remedy in the world which has proven so popular for catarrh as Peruna. It has been used for more than thirty years and cured thousands of cases, as proven by our testimonials.

In the early history of this country every family had its home-made medicines. Herb teas, bitters, laxatives and tonics were to be found in almost every house, compounded by the housewife, sometimes assisted by the apothecary or the family doctor.

Furnishing medical compounds direct to the people, through the druggists, is simply the extension of the practice begun by the people themselves.

Nervous System a Wreck.

John G. Hirdler, Garfield, Kas., writes: "On December 2, 1899, I was injured by a fall on the Santa Fe R. R., and my entire nervous system was impaired by the same. The help of a physician was useless. I believe I tried every one in the vicinity, but all were alike and I remained without strength.

"I then tried Peruna, and after using it for three months was totally well. I am seventy-one years old, and my work on the railroad is hard and tedious, but I can work like a young man in all kinds of weather, heat, cold, rain, snow or storm alike.

"Peruna is the purest and best medicine, and if used according to directions, it will help any person and cure any disease for which it is recommended. I recommend this medicine by my own experience to any one suffering from an ailment on the order of mine."

For Herself and Children.

Mrs. Aline DePasse, 776 E. 165th St., New York, N. Y., writes:

"It gives me pleasure to testify to the curative qualities of Peruna and Manalin.

"I was afflicted for over seven years with catarrh of the head, throat and digestive organs. I consulted many physicians, but they did me no good.

"One day I happened to read some testimonials in your Peruna almanac. I decided to try Peruna and Manalin. I bought a bottle of each and after taking them for a week, I noticed a change for the better. So I kept it up and after using twelve bottles I was perfectly cured.

"I also gave the medicine to my children and they had the same beneficial result. I would never be without these remedies in the house.

"I highly recommend Peruna and Manalin to all my friends, and, in fact, to everybody."

Thousands of families have learned to trust and believe in Dr. Hartman's judgment, and to rely on his remedy, Peruna.

Messina Still Suffering.

London, April 10.—A special despatch from Messina to London newspapers declares notwithstanding reports to the contrary the King and Queen, who recently visited the earthquake districts, are greatly displeased with the small amount of work so far accomplished.

No attempt has been made to clear away the ruins and there is neither water supply, proper sanitation, nor the means of transit. Hundreds of wretched survivors, the despatch says, are still dwelling in misery in huts which they themselves have created or in broken down railway carriages.

Outlet For Alberta Wheat.

Vancouver, B.C., April 10.—Second Vice-President William Whyte of the C.P.R. arrived yesterday to settle details regarding the facilities for handling Alberta wheat here. Mr. Whyte believes that Alberta export wheat is all destined to go through Vancouver, probably in sacks by the Tehuantepec route rather than around the Horn. But if wheat should be put on the free list a large quantity may be sent from Alberta to Minneapolis for milling rather than to the old country.

F. W. Peters has returned from Mexico.

England Must Face Austria.

Vienna, April 10.—The Fremdenblatt declares that it is only natural that Austria should co-operate with the German navy and that England must calculate on meeting, not thirteen Dreadnoughts, but twenty battleships of that class.

A Menace.

Stratford, April 10.—A resolution declaring that religious training in the state universities is a menace to the commonwealth was passed last night by the conference of the Baptist Young People's Union of Ontario and Quebec.

Caught by Falling Tree.

Brantford, April 10.—John Donohue, a farmer residing near Alberton, Brant County, while cutting down a tree Thursday, met with a serious accident. The tree fell on him, breaking one leg and so badly mangling the other that it had to be amputated.

Carnegie's Tribute to Root.

Utica, N.Y., April 10.—President A. W. Stryker of Hamilton College announced yesterday that Andrew Carnegie had just notified him that he had given $200,000 to the college, which fund will be known as the Elihu Root peace fund.

Found Dead on the Prairie.

Yorkton, S[illegible], April 10.—About a month ago a [illegible] named Rebeza disappeared from his home at [illegible] and the [illegible] has only now been [illegible] by finding his dead body on the prairie. He had died of exposure.

$16,000,000 In Condensed Milk.

Washington, April 10.—During the past ten years the United States exported $16,000,000 worth of condensed milk, according to reports made by customs officers to the bureau of statistics.

Commissioners Wrong.

St. John, N.B., April 10.—In both the St. John Liberal papers yesterday morning Hon. Dr. Wm. Pugsley declares that the finding of the commissioners was not based upon the evidence.

He contends that their verdict covers a period of the road over which he and Tweedie had no control.

Hon. Mr. Pugsley will not be in Ottawa in time for the Cabinet meeting to-day. It is rumored here that he already has tendered his resignation.

The report of the royal commission is eagerly discussed and incoming maritime newspapers are rapidly bought up.

Guide Ate Companions.

Montreal, April 10.—A report from Roberval last night says: The coroner's jury in a suspected case of cannabalism against Grasset, the Belgian guide, who was brought from the far north the other day to tell what he knew about the case, exonerates Grasset, but suspects Bernard, another companion of Lemieux, the victim, of being the guilty man. Bernard will be arrested, if found. It is thought he has perished, probably by drowning.

Police Are Reticent.

Hamilton, April 10.—The police are still mysterious about the evidence they have against Jack Neville, arrested Thursday on the charge of shooting Constable Smith. They won't take the public into their confidence until the evidence is given in the Police Court a week from to-day, to which date he will be remanded, as the constable is not well enough to appear. He claimed he would be able to identify his assailant.

BOOK BORROWERS.

Good Points For Guilty Members of the Community.

Have you on your bookshelves the first volume of a four volume edition de luxe numbered set of "The Count of Monte Cristo—full levant, limited edition, hand sewed, deckled edges, etc.?

If you have, you know you borrowed it, and you had better take it back.

Perhaps you don't know from whom you borrowed it. Neither does the woman who lent it know to whom she lent it, worse luck, and there for years that gaping row in her bookcase has jeered at her like a man with a missing front tooth.

Through tears of aggravation she gazes at those three remaining volumes—useless without the first.

"Lost!" you say. "Why, the thing can't be lost. Books like that aren't dropped inadvertently upon the street. People don't sweep them up by mistake in their dustpans. It must be somewhere." Yes, but who's to know where?

Some day the lost and found columns of the newspapers will contain a notice like this:

"Will the person who borrowed my second volume of 'Lamb's Essays' please return it at my expense and receive reward? No questions asked."

If this doesn't work there would be a profitable field for some one who would organize a sort of secret service book detective agency.

Now, it is a beautiful thing to lend books. It adds to the joy of having them to share them with other people, but sharing doesn't usually mean giving.

It's no crime to borrow a book either. It gives one a delightful sense of comradeship with the person from whom you borrow.

But the point is to return it.

There's a moral in all this, by the way, for the lenders as well as for the offending borrowers. The good lady who mourns her precious first volume was a little at fault herself.

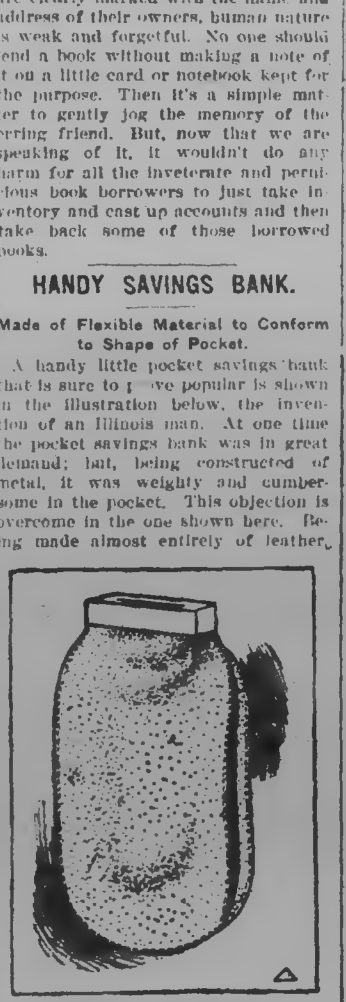
In the first place, she was not sure that her name was in the book, so that the guilty person may be as much at sea as herself. If her name had been in the book the matter would have been promptly reduced to one of willful carelessness.

In the second place, even if books are clearly marked with the name and address of their owners, human nature is weak and forgetful. No one should lend a book without making a note of it on a little card or notebook kept for the purpose. Then it's a simple matter to gently jog the memory of the erring friend. But, now that we are speaking of it, it wouldn't do any harm for all the inveterate and pernicious book borrowers to just take inventory and cast up accounts and then take back some of those borrowed books.

HANDY SAVINGS BANK.

Made of Flexible Material to Conform to Shape of Pocket.

A handy little pocket savings bank that is sure to prove popular is shown in the illustration below, the invention of an Illinois man. At one time the pocket savings bank was in great demand; but, being constructed of metal, it was weighty and cumbersome in the pocket. This objection is overcome in the one shown here. Being made almost entirely of leather, with the exception of the small metal slot for the reception of the coin, it can readily be carried without inconvenience in any pocket. Being pliable and flexible, it readily conforms to the shape of the pocket. The idea of the inventor is to make these pocket savings banks as cheaply as possible, so that they must be destroyed to remove the contents. A new one can then be purchased at an outlay of a few cents.



POCKET SAVINGS BANK.

HOUSEHOLD NOTES.

If a muff is carried to the opera, thin white gloves should be slipped over the delicately tinted ones to keep them clean, for muff linings get badly soiled.

To clean stained tinware use borax. This brings the best results. A discolored teapot or coffeepot may be made to look like new by boiling in a strong solution of borax for a short time.

When making a fricassee of fowl set it aside with the prepared sauce for two or three hours, so that the pieces of meat may become thoroughly impregnated with the sauce. This applies also to game or rabbit.

Fruit, vegetable, coffee and tea stains may be removed from white goods as follows: Heap salt on the spot, rub hard, then rinse in hot water in which a good amount of borax has been dissolved, and the stain will disappear immediately.

In planning the wardrobe women should never neglect to supply themselves with kitchen aprons. They should be selected with a view to utility, which means that they must well cover the front of the dress and have two good, large pockets into which all sorts of things can be tumbled.

If your furs have been rubbed or crushed from being frequently placed in their boxes the best way to freshen them is to brush with a clothesbrush that has been dipped in cold water and then shaken as dry as possible. Brush the wrong way, then shake thoroughly and dry in the open air, beating occasionally with a stick. Some kinds of fur need to be combed dry but it must be carefully done, or the hair will be combed out in the process.

Shoeing Geese With Tar.

Every year in December a goose fair is held in Warsaw on a gigantic scale. It is estimated that on an average no fewer than 5,000,000 geese are driven to town and sold. These have to travel from 40 to 150 miles on foot. Most of them come from the Vilna district, to the northeast of Poland. To enable the birds to stand these long journeys the geese are shod. The method of shoeing them is simple and interesting. They are made to walk to and fro for a time in melted tar hot enough to stick, but not so hot as to burn. Then they are turned loose on a sand heap. The result is a pair of shoes durable enough to last on the journey.

The Methods And Principles Of Landscape Gardening

The Best Climbing and Creeping Vines for Covering Walls, Fences, Trellises and for Screens—They are Specially Useful for Planting on Small Lots.

(Written for The Examiner by A. B. Cutting, editor of "The Canadian Horticulturist.")

NUMBER VI.

In garden and lawn-planting material, nothing contributes so much towards natural effect as vines, both climbing and creeping. They are particularly useful on small lots as they give much beauty in small space. They do not take up much room. On large places they are also valuable. They may be employed with advantage for hiding unsightly objects, fences, outbuildings, barnyards and other features that are not ornamental in themselves. Stone fences and the bare walls of the house may be covered with them. They may be used to relieve all bareness and all spots that are not pleasing to the eye. For the making of summer houses and for covering those already made of wood or other material they are indispensable. A common place for them is by the verandah up and over which they may be made to climb with marked effect. Not only for ornament are they appreciated but also for shade.

Vines have a place in semi-formal gardening. By growing them on trellises at the back of the flower border, they may be made to appear as a part of the whole. Tree trunks and old stumps may be covered with them very effectively. For covering rockeries, natural and artificial, creeping vines make excellent material. They give an air of wildness greater perhaps than any other class of plants. Steep banks that cannot be sodded or terraced may be covered with creepers. There is always a place for climbing and creeping vines.

Woody Climbers

An excellent vine for ornamental purposes and one that is not appreciated as it should be is the grape vine. It grows rapidly and is graceful in habit. It is an excellent subject for training stumps, fences, outbuildings or for training upon a trellis for a screen. Wild grape vines may be used or any of the hardy cultivated varieties. The latter furnish not only shade and beauty but also luscious fruit. Grape vines grown for ornament, however, cannot be expected to produce as good fruit as those grown specially for their grapes. The systems of training and trimming are different.

The common Virginia creeper (Ampelopsis quinquefolia) performs more efficient work than any other vine, in covering with rapidity and perfection old stone walls, banks and any large objects that need herbaceous covering. It soon affords plenty of growth and shade. Its rich autumn colouring is especially attractive. This vine needs some support upon which to climb. One of the same type that clings by itself is Ampelopsis hirsuta. It is hardy and is just as serviceable as the former.

The Japanese ivy (Ampelopsis tricuspidata) clings firmly and covers walls densely. It is also called Boston ivy. On a wall, its foliage masses together like shingles on a house, one leaf over the other. In this respect it is not in a class with those vines that are planted for their naturalness; it is too formal. The Japanese ivy is tender when young and requires protection. It is best to plant three-year-old vines.

The clematis gives a number of species that have beauty of form and flowers. Among the best of these are Clematis Jackmanii, large-flowering, creamy-white; and C. paniculata, small-flowering, white. These are poor growers in some soils and locations.

The Japan or Hall's honey-suckle (Lonicera Japonica Halliana) is a valuable climber. The flowers are white and change to yellow. It blooms in fall. A variety of the woodbine, Lonicera Periclymenum Belgica, has yellowish-white flowers that are bright red on the outside. It is vigorous and blooms all summer, but requires some winter protection.

One of our most beautiful climbers that we have, but one that is somewhat difficult to start, is the Chinese wistaria (Wistaria Chinensis). A warm soil and a sunny position are the conditions most desirable for the production of flowers. The flowers are purple. The plant needs protection in winter.

An excellent vine for porches is the Dutchman's pipe (Aristolochia macrophylla), as its great leaves afford dense shade. It grows a little slowly at first but eventually reaches a great height. The flowers are pipe-shaped.

In the climbing roses, we find a quality of excellence that is not equalled by any other climber. They are the leaders for bloom. They require a rich clay-loam soil, well-drained. Varieties of these were mentioned in Article No. V.

Herbaceous Climbers

The common hop (Humulus lupulus) is an old time favourite and makes an excellent arbour or screen plant, but is subject to insects. It grows best from cuttings of the shoots, as, when grown from seeds, the particular varieties or strains are not strictly reproduced. The Japanese hop (Humulus Japonicus), which is treated as an annual, grows readily from seed. The foliage is streaked and splashed with white. It has a distinct charm in its great hanging hops. Sow the seed outdoors about the end of May. The cinnamon vine or Chinese yam (Dioscorea divaricata) will do well in protected locations. It bears small clusters of white flowers that have the odour of cinnamon. It is a pretty vine to train over a trellis or around a window.

Annual Climbers

Probably the most popular vines among the annuals is the sweet pea. To have the best satisfaction purchase named varieties. The ordinary mixtures seldom give the best class of bloom. Sweet peas require deep fairly rich soil. Dig a trench about ten inches deep, at the bottom of which dig in some well rotted manure and pack down fairly firmly. Fill the trench with good soil within two inches of the surface. Then make a shallow opening about three inches deep the whole length of the trench. In this sow the seed about one or two inches apart and cover with soil, leaving a slight depression when the ground is raked over peas. When the plants are three inches high, they may be thinned to six inches apart. Give the plants plenty of water at the roots applying it at least once a week during hot weather. With wire netting, brush or ordinary twine, make a trellis upon which the vines may climb. Sow sweet peas as early as the ground can be worked in spring. When they commence to bloom pick off the blossoms every day to help prolong the flowering season.

The common morning glory, the Japanese mornig glory and the moon flower make good climbers. They do better in localities that do not receive the direct rays of the sun all day. About the end of May is early enough to plant morning glories out-of-doors. Start seeds of moon flowers indoors or in a hotbed about the middle of April.

The wild cucumber (Echinocystis lobata) is effective for covering a trellis quickly. Sow the seed in rich soil. Give the plants plenty of moisture. A position shaded from the noon-day sun will hold the foliage in good colour.

Climbing nasturtiums are always acceptable. Sow the seed out-of-doors soon after the middle of May. Earlier results may be had by starting the seeds indoors or in a hotbed in April and transplanting to the open when the plants are large enough.

Scarlet Runner and Hyacinth beans are very useful annual climbers. Sow the seed late in May. Make a trench for them as recommended for sweat peas. Give plenty of water.

Although a perennial, Cobea scandens succeeds well when grown from seed as an annual. The seed must be started indoors or in a hotbed early in April. Plant outdoors about the second week in June. The plants prefer a light rich soil. The flowers are cup-and-saucer-shaped and blue and white.

Gourds are excellent annual climbers. They produce blossoms profusely and the curious fruits hanging in clusters add novelty and attractiveness to the garden. They are grown somewhat in the same manner as squashes and cucumbers. A better way is to start the seed in the house in April and transfer the plants to the open when the right time comes. Good results may be obtained, however, by planting the seeds outside. Give them a location that is fully exposed to sun.

Gourds must be trained on some support, such as fences, trellises, arbours and summer houses. A rustic effect may be produced by allowing the gourds to run over a dead tree. Go to the woods or fields and find a small tree or old top. Nail on this in irregular fashion any old sticks or limbs that are available. Unless you intend to give the larger varieties particular attention in the way of support when they attain their size, it is advisable to use the smaller sorts so that they will not be damaged in case of a windstorm.

The arrangement and care of walks and drives and a few pointers on fences that were promised for this issue will be given in the next article of this series.

MARRIED.

DUNFORD—PETERS—At the residence of the bride's father, Norwood, Ont., on Wednesday, April 7th, 1909, by Rev. George A. MacLennan, B.A., Fred E. Dunford, Hall's Glen, Ont., to Miss Lillian, only daughter of George Peters, Esq., Norwood.

LOCAL OPTION CAMPAIGN.

The matter appearing in this space from time to time is furnished by the Temperance and Moral Reform League of this City, who have arranged for its Publication.

PETERBOROUGH WILL VOTE ON LOCAL OPTION.

Last Monday night the Peterborough City Council passed a resolution instructing the city officials to prepare a local option by-law for submission to the ratepayers on the first of January next year, providing it was found that the names on the petition presented to the Council were found to comply with the requirements of the law. As there are over 500 more names on the list than the law requires and as the names have all been checked over carefully with the voters' list, it means that the citizens of Peterborough will be called upon next January to decide whether or not they will allow the liquor traffic to continue in operation in this city. It is a question on which the lives of some citizens at least will depend.

The fact that although the law requires that only twenty-five per cent. of the ratepayers of the city shall sign a petition asking for the submission of a local option by-law to the ratepayers and that over a third of the ratepayers of Peterborough have signed the petition, is an encouraging omen that the citizens intend arising in their might to banish the bar. Many more signatures than were secured might have been obtained had the canvassing for signatures been pushed more energetically as it might have been had it been necessary.

While upwards of 1,700 ratepayers signed the petition, this does not necessarily mean that all of these people will vote for the by-law. It may be taken for granted, however, that the great majority of them will. The fight for local option is now well under way. It is the most important question that the citizens of Peterborough have ever been called upon to decide at the polls.

CARDINAL VAUGHAN'S VIEWS.

The outspoken manner in which the dignitaries of the Catholic Church express their opinions on prohibition has done much to assist the Temperance movement that is sweeping over the world. Cardinal Vaughan, one of the best known dignitaries of the Catholic Church, has made the following statement in regard to the fight to do away with the liquor traffic: "It is a mockery to ask us to put down drunkenness by moral and religious means, when the legislature facilitates the multiplication of incitements to intemperance on every side. You might as well call upon me, as the captain of a sinking ship, and say, 'Why don't you pump the water out?' when you are scuttling the ship in every direction. If you will cut off the supply of temptation, I will be bound, by the help of God, to convert drunkards; but until you have taken off this perpetual supply of intoxicating drink, we never can cultivate the fields."

WHAT IS YOUR VOTE WORTH?

Recently a reputable citizen of Peterborough was approached by another who asked him if he was going to vote for local option. The good citizen replied that while he admitted that there was no moral ground for permitting the liquor traffic it paid some thousands of dollars a year towards the taxes of Peterborough. He thought that this seemed well worth considering. In effect the following dialogue then took place.

"What will you take for your vote?"

"You insult me, sir. I would not sell my vote for any money."

"Yes, that sounds all right, but they say that every man has his price."

"You anger me by continuing the insult. You are deceived by classing me with those who would barter their votes."

The no-license advocate turned the conversation to another topic until it was apparently forgotten, then said:

"How much actual benefit do you get from the money paid in taxes by the liquor traffic in Peterborough? Will it lower your taxes, all things being equal, one dollar?"

After a rapid calculation the respectable citizen said that probably it would not make more than seventy-five cents difference with him personally, but the money was a large sum to come back to the town. Then said the no-license advocate:

"You will not sell your vote for any money, but in this way you do vote for license to save yourself just seventy-five cents. You are a cheap one."

My friend, "How much will you take for your vote?" If you insist upon selling it your neighbour might afford, from a money point of view, to pay you seventy-five cents and keep temptation away from his boy."

COMPENSATION.

Occasionally we hear the old argument advanced that when we cut off the 23 licenses in Peterborough, we should give some compensation to the men now in the liquor business in Peterborough. A woman who signed herself "A pauper, from the liquor traffic" wrote recently to the Detroit Journal stating why she did not believe in the arguments for compensation. There are women in Peterborough who might write letters to the same effect. She said:

"Twelve years ago I married a mechanic in a town in Sanilac county. He was bright and intelligent and capable of earning $600 a year. He got into the habit of going to the barrooms, first for company and then for drinks, until I had to take in washing to support myself and children.

"After years of poverty and misery, two months ago he died of delirium tremens. He never was a bad man, but was lured to his doom, and I at middle age am left a pauper with two children to raise. There are a dozen men in this village that will soon follow him to their graves. Only for liquor we would have been the happiest couple in the country. About the time that I got married, a chum of mine married a bartender. He afterwards got a saloon of his own, and eight years ago he purchased a building that he turned into a hotel for $1,500. It cost $500 to make the changes. This building for liquor purposes, he says, is worth $10,000. He also bought a farm, has a race horse, two bull dogs, and an auto. His wife has four silk dresses and a seal-skin sacque. In ten years he got $3,000 of my husband's earnings.

"Now, if local option is carried in the county, he wants compensation. He no doubt wants about $8,000 on one hotel and a pension of about $1,000 a year for not having a business to make maniacs, drunkards, suicides tramps, orphan children, destitute wives and starving widows.

"The first thing we know hangmen will be wanting compensation for lost business in States where capital punishment has been abolished. I will send the price of my next week's washing to help purchase a coat-of-arms for the fellow who works against the bill with the compensation clause in it. A Representative or a Senator who would vote for such a measure could not get the votes of three honest men in our State."

CAMPAIGN NOTES.

Lindsay is now getting ready for a local option campaign next January. As a result of addresses delivered in leading churches in Lindsay, on March 28th, it is expected that very shortly the temperance committees of the various Lindsay churches will meet to consider the making of arrangements for a local option campaign.

The Gospel Temperance meeting in the Crystal, Sunday afternoon, at 4.15, to which the public is invited, will be in charge of members of the George Street Methodist Adult Bible Class. There will be excellent speeches and music. Those who are interested in the local option campaign in Peterborough should attend.

Speaking at a temperance meeting in Toronto, recently, Senator Francis Parker, of Chicago, said that the liquor traffic is doomed because it is contrary to the spirit of economy, which is becoming absolutely necessary to the life and development of a nation. Alcohol, he said, is the last great scourge of mankind and it will be abolished just as the others have been.

Appreciates The Post Cards And The Poetry In The Examiner

Dear Sir,—I congratulate the Examiner on the luscious quality of the poetry that occasionally find its way into its columns as well as on the exhilarating nature of its post card contributions. With Mr. John Bell as a loyal and inspired exponent of what is due to the Empire and with Mr. W. H. Bailey as the fearless champion of the public's outraged rights and privileges, Peterborough may proudly hold up its head amongst the greater towns of this grand and growing Dominion.

I confess, sir, that my heart thrilled with rapture as I read those flowing lines.

If foreign nations hold tariffs
  Against our Empire's trade,
Our Empire could retaliate
  Against all schemes that's laid.

And the tears welled to my eyes as I thought of our trade policy and of our being united in one great navy upon the raging sea. It somehow reminded me of Byron's Apostrophe to the Ocean and gave me a mal-de-mer feeling such as I have not experienced for many moons. While I admire the robust line of loyalty that marks Mr. Bell's verses, it must be remarked that there is a prose side to the subject. Poetical battleships cost nothing but gray matter, but real prosaic Dreadnoughts cost cash by the shipload and a huge debt can't be rhymed away. Mr. Bailey's post cards have long been a source of admiration to me. "Don't tread on the tail of my coat" is printed so plainly in all of them and their intelligibility is so obvious that it is a marvel to me that he has not long ere this made a greater mark in the literature of his adopted country. He possesses all the fire of a Geo. Brown with the lucidity of, well—of Mr. W. A. Bailey—I hope he will continue on in his chosen labours. It is not often that we get in these degenerate and unaesthetic days a person who poses so heroically in the limelight as does the caustic author of those little gems in prose which so often appear in your post card column.

JOHN SMITHERS.

WHAT TORONTO THINKS OF OF THE "LAND OF NOD."

Like cream puffs?

Then go to the Grand.

"The Land of Nod," which is showing here this week, is just a great big cream puff— a whole lot of cream with just enough substance in the shell to hold it together, and yet very delightful to the palate.

"The Land of Nod" is just what the title says. It's an extravaganza that portrays the adventures of Bonnie, a little mortal who falls asleep and dreams.

As the programme says, the "Land of Nod" is a quaint kingdom with its castles of cards, and peppermint river, where Bonnie meets many strange adventures, and which is inhabited by fanciful and grotesque figures of slumberland.

Further, the Land of Nod is "bounded on the north by the Sea of Sentiment, on the south by the Mountains of Mirth, on the east by the Lake of Laughter, and on the west by the Hills of Harmony."

Then just think of the marvellous people there, Jack of Hearts, who falls in love with Bonnie; the Telephone, who tells you the solution of all your troubles; the Chorus Girl, who got in the Land of Nod by mistake, and has a most exciting time shocking all the natives; and the King of Hearts, who rules the kingdom and does his best to have everybody fall in love with everybody else. Then there is April Fool, who is irresistibly foolish, and Welsh Rarebit, who is too grotesque to be true; the Man in the Moon, who makes love to Bonnie; Rory Bory Alice, his wife, who is frightfully jealous; and, finally, the sandman, timid Knockabout Drops, and the Big Devil, a most unholy trinity who make things lively for everybody else.

The whole play is just one long string of songs and jokes, and they all please the audience.

Knox Wilson, as April Fool, makes a big hit with his concertina and saxophone solos, and "The Same Old Moon,' sung by the Man in the Moon, gets half a dozen encores.

"Hello! A maiden shedding tears?" says Man in Moon to himself. "Then me to the shed."

The Chorus Girl gives a new definition of a Welsh Rarebit. She says it's a cross between Paris green and a cheese sandwich.

"No," says she, "a chorus girl ain't a saint, but then a saint don't work like a chorus girl."

like a chorus girl."—Toronto Globe.

STAINER'S "CRUCIFIXION" SUNG AT ST. JOHN'S CHURCH

The solemnly beautiful "Crucifixion," Sir John Stainer's musical setting of the divine tragedy, was on Thursday night presented to a fair congregation in St. John's church by the choir in a manner marked by deeply devotional spirit and musical excellence. Though the choir was not at its full strength some of the members being absent on the holiday, the choral work was strikingly effective, indicating that under Mr. Devey's leadership the choir takes its voluntary duties seriously and intelligently.

The soloists also acquitted themselves with the greatest credit. They were: Tenors, Mr. H. W. Morphet and Mr. George Chandler; bass, Mr. Edward Barton, of Toronto; the shorter passages being taken by Messrs. Greenhalgh, McCabe and Coleman, Mrs. R. J. Devey, Mrs. Geo. Evans, Mrs. Seward and Miss Martin, with the principal soloists, gave a beautiful presentation of the unaccompanied quartette "God so Loved the World." Miss Maggie Flowers assisted Mr. Devey in the accompaniments. Altogether the "Crucifixion" which has been presented five times in Peterborough, was a deeply devotional act of worship, a most appropriate prelude to the solemn significance of Good Friday.

At the offertory, the Gloria from Mozart's Twelfth Mass, was sung in a splendidly spirited manner.

FOSTER'S FORECAST FOR THE WEEK

Washington, D.C., April 10. — Last bulletin gave forecasts of disturbance to cross continent 9 to 15, warm wave 8 to 12, cool wave 11 to 15. This was expected to be the most important disturbance of the month; a great high temperature wave, a cold wave and frosts north, cool wave and cold rains south, severe storms and the beginning of a ten days' period of very bad crop weather.

Next disturbance will reach Pacific coast about 15, cross Pacific slope by close of 16, great central valleys 17 to 19, eastern states, 20. Warm wave will cross Pacific slope about 15, great central valleys 17, eastern states, 19. Cool wave will cross Pacific slope about 18, great central valleys 20, eastern states, 22.

This disturbance will come during a cold stormy period, and almost anything in the weather line may be expected. According to latitude cold rains or snows, accompanied by fierce storms, bad crop weather and all that goes to make up a disagreeable weather week.

This spell of weather will be most severe in the great central valleys. Not so cold in the eastern states and provinces which will get their coldest and most disagreeable weather later in the month. The weather in eastern sections will be more particularly noted for the great high temperature wave not far from April 14. About that date some of the eastern sections will have a visit by dangerous storms. Bad time to go boat riding. In north eastern states temperature will go near the freezing point last week in April, and killing frosts are probable.

Western Canada and our north western states are on the programme for cold weather and frosts April 15 to 21.

The United States weather bureau management has put Prof. Bigelow to studying tornadoes and hurricanes. This is a good move and Prof. Bigelow has probably entered on the most important feature of his life work. It is a most important work and will lead to valuable results.

Europe seems to be making no progress in meteorology; not any more progress than America. Government meteorologists are making no headway. They do not claim to have made any progress in forecasting in twenty years. Never will progress till they recognize the cycles found in the weather records. Why do cyclones whirl from right to left north of the earth's equator and in opposite direction south of the equator?

Scientists have reached a point where they generally admit that the sun and planets are great magnets and that they sometimes affect each other magnetically. Some day they will admit that along that line come all our weather changes.

The planets continue to catch the comets. Much of our earth's geological, animal and vegetable history is tied up in the undiscovered facts relating to the capture of our moon-comet, or comet-moon, many thousand years ago.

NO CONVENTION.

A. G. MacKay Says Liberals Will Not Hold One.

Toronto, April 10.—The Legislature business is concluded. At 7 o'clock Thursday evening the order paper had been cleaned up after an all-day sitting, and there remains only the ceremonial of prorogation. This will take place on Tuesday.

The last words were happy ones. Hon. A. G. MacKay had suggested that when the engineers were considering the question of improving the acoustics of the chamber, they should also provide for rearranging the lobbies of both Government and Opposition in order that these might have a semblance of privacy.

Sir James Whitney concurred in the suggestion. He would have the engineers communicate with the leader of the Opposition.

Hon. A. G. MacKay stated yesterday that it was not the intention to hold a Liberal convention in the near future, and probably not for two years.

It was only fair that those who had devoted time and energy upon the work of party organization should have a rest before preparation for another election was begun. He was communicating with those who had carried the Liberal banner in the last election, and a large majority concurred in this view.

General Booth's Message.

London, April 10.—General Booth has issued the following birthday message.

"After spending eighty years in this world with almost countless opportunities for observing the purposes for which men generally live, and the disappointments they so commonly suffer, it seems reasonable that I should have formed some opinion as to the course they ought to follow if they are to have any real success.

"So on this, my eightieth, birthday, I tell the people of America that if they will seek the honor of God, the reign of righteousness, the welfare of the friendless poor, and the riches that endure forever, with the same self-sacrificing avidity with which they seek the wealth and pleasures of this world, they will have a good chance of finding that life of satisfaction which now so often eludes them, and of building up a pattern nation for the world to imitate.

"William Booth, General."

Tug Lost In Gale.

Cleveland, April 10.—There is no doubt now that the tug George Floss with her crew of six and three passengers sank in Lake Erie during Wednesday's gale.

Wreckage from the boat washed ashore yesterday twelve miles east of Cleveland. It consisted of part of the cabin with the word "Floss" on it and some bucket racks. No bodies were found.

Searching parties are now going all along the east shore looking for bodies and other wreckage.

BETTER THAN SPANKING.
Spanking does not cure children of bed-wetting. There is a constitutional cause for this trouble. Mrs. M. Summers, Box 231 Windsor, Ont., will send free to any mother her successful home treatment, with full instructions. Send no money, but write her to-day if your children trouble you in this way. Don't blame the child, the chances are it can't help it. This treatment also cures adults and aged people troubled with urine difficulties by day or night.

Operator Asleep At His Key While Two Holiday Trains Crashed Together Near Tweed

C.P.R. Operator at Kaladar Responsible For Collision.

BAGGAGEMAN IS INJURED

Two Special Passenger Trains Crash Together at Tweed Because Telegrapher Failed to Get Order In Time—Man Resigns His Position on Learning of Accident —Passengers Badly Shaken.

Tweed, April 10.—Two C.P.R. special passenger trains, loaded with Easter holiday passengers, came together on a curve in a rock cutting, a mile east of Tweed shortly before dawn yesterday morning, apparently owing to the telegraph operator at Kaladar having fallen asleep at his post.

Conductors Scanlon and Webb were in charge of the trains. They had been ordered to cross at Buller siding, west of Tweed, but as No. 5 (westbound) was not there when No. 6 (eastbound) came along, Conductor Webb proceeded to Tweed. No. 5 passed Kaladar, and at East Hungerford siding broke an eccentric, which caused a delay of fully 40 minutes.

Operator Johnston was in charge of the station at Kaladar. When No. 6 reached Tweed Johnson was asked if No. 5 had passed and he reported "No." Conductor Webb was then ordered to proceed to Kaladar and meet train No. 5 there. Had he been two or three minutes later in leaving Tweed the wreck would have been averted. Had he been a few minutes earlier there is no telling what the horror of the disaster would have been.

When the engineers saw their position both applied the emergency brakes and jumped.

A baggage car on the westbound train in which Baggageman Emery O. Winters of Toronto was riding, was telescoped by an empty car next to it. Both ends of the car in which Winters was were piled with baggage and freight. Almost simultaneous with the applying of the brakes the baggage was thrown violently toward the centre of the car, where Winters was standing. When the brakes were applied he was thrown off his feet and when the collision occurred, hardly a second afterward, the tons of trunks and the wreckage of the car completely enveloped him.

When the passengers got there and saw the baggage and the debris piled in the centre of the car they began to tear down the pyramid. Everybody expected to find a mangled corpse beneath. After the pile had been reduced two large trunks were found to be standing up together, in the centre of the pile forming an inverted V.

"Are you hurt, baggageman?" yelled one of the rescuers. The reply came back above the noise made by those clearing away the freight that he was still alive.

When the baggage had been cleared away from the base of the two trunks and they had been turned on end Winters was found. A heavy case containing a cash register was on his legs from his knees down. The case was lifted off and soon he was on his way to the Western Hospital at Toronto on a special train. His injuries amounted to a bad shaking up, a number of minor bruises, and badly jammed legs.

When Engineer E. Williams of the westbound train jumped he was shaken up and his face was slightly lacerated.

No one else was hurt, though all the passengers were shaken up. Several who were riding with their backs to the engine were thrown forward on to the persons in front of them and more or less bruised.

Wrecking trains were soon on hand from Smith's Falls and Havelock, and the track was cleared for traffic by about half-past one in the afternoon.

The passengers going west were transferred to the local, due to leave Tweed for Toronto at 6 a.m., and those going east were sent forward on the afternoon train.

Operator Johnston of Kaladar immediately resigned his position on learning of the disaster.

Asleep When Train Passed.

Toronto, April 10.—Superintendent Oborne of Toronto started for the scene of the accident soon after he heard about it.

"Apparently owing to the night operator at Kaladar having fallen asleep and accepting orders, after he had awakened, for a train that had passed the station while he was asleep," he said last night when questioned as to the probable cause of the accident. Another prime factor in the cause was that they came together on a sharp curve, where the view was obstructed by trees.

Prominent Writer Of Modern Fiction Died On Good Friday

End Comes to Famous American Novelist at Sorrento.

HE WAS 55 YEARS OF AGE

One of Fiction's Cleverest Writers and Italy's Most Profound Historian After Illness of Two Weeks Succumbs to Weakness Following Bronchial Pleurisy—His Daughter With Him at Last.

Sorrento, April 10.—F. Marion Crawford, the novelist, died here at half past seven o'clock last night of bronchial pleurisy after an illness of about two weeks.

According to the attending physicians, Mr. Crawford collapsed last night owing to extreme weakness. [illegible]ally he expressed the presentiment he was soon to die, but almost immediately afterward alluding to the approaching Good Friday, said "[illegible] die with Christ." Mr. Crawford's [illegible]aughter, at his direction, read to him Plato's dialogues, the novelist declaring that they taught him serenity in death. His last words were: "I enter serenely into the eternity of the judge."

Francis Marion Crawford, born at Bagni de Lucca, Italy, on Aug. 2, 1854, was the son of Thomas Crawford, a well-known sculptor and a native of New York. Educated at St. Paul's School, U.S.A., the future novelist and historian entered Trinity College, Cambridge, and later studied at Heidelberg and Rome, having particular regard to Oriental languages. In 1873 Marion Crawford became a journalist, and in 1879 were to India, where he edited The Indian Herald of Allahabad. Retiring to the United States in 1880, he has lived for much the greater part of his literary life in Italy, of which he was as devoted a lover and admirer as Robert Browning.

Marion Crawford's long series of successful novels and romances began in 1882 with "Noi Isaacs" and this, with "Zoroaster," issued in 1885, are the fruit of his Oriental experience and knowledge. Italy, however, has always been his favorite field, and is the scene of most of his work. This series includes what is perhaps his finest achievement as a novelist, "Saracinesca," published in 1887. "Don Orsino" 1895. "Sant' Ilario" 1899, and many others which have made his name famous among English-speaking people. His point of view is thoroughly Italian, and for many years he has been regarded as more intimately conversant with Italy, its history, literature and characteristics than any not native born. No writer of foreign birth has managed to depict with greater insight and sympathy the atmosphere and modes of thought of old patrician Rome.

Boys Mangled by Car.

Montreal, April 10.—Two boys returning from church were crushed to death by a street car here last night. Joseph MacDonald, 9 years old, and Joseph Linner, 14 years, were standing on the tracks at the corner of Papineau road and Mount Royal avenue, immediately behind a car. There is a switch where the cars are turning and suddenly the car backed to the switch, knocking the boys down. One boy's head was completely severed, while the older lad's legs were cut off.

ALL INDIGESTION WILL VANISH PROMPTLY

Five Minutes After Taking Diapepsia You Are Relieved of Misery.

There would not be a case of Indigestion here if readers who are subject to Stomachic trouble knew the tremendous digestive virtue contained in Diapepsin. This harmless preparation will digest a heavy meal without the slightest fuss or discomfort, and relieve the sourest, acid stomach in five minutes besides overcoming all foul, nauseous odors from the breath.

Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula plainly printed on each 50 cent case of Pape's Diapepsin, then you will readily understand why this promptly cures Indigestion and removes such symptoms as Heartburn, a feeling like a lump of lead in the stomach, Belching of Gas and Eructations of undigested food, water brash, Nausea, Headaches, Biliousness and many other bad symptoms; and, besides, you will not need laxatives to keep your stomach and intestines clean and fresh.

If your Stomach is sour or your food doesn't digest, and your meals don't tempt you, why not get a 50 cent case to-day from your druggist and make life worth living? Absolute relief from Stomach misery and perfect digestion of anything you eat is sure to follow five minutes after, and, besides, one case is often sufficient to cure a whole family of such trouble.

Surely, a harmless, inexpensive preparation like Diapepsin, which will always, either at daytime or during night, relieve your stomach misery and digest your meals, is about as handy and valuable a thing as you could have in the house.

PAYNE'S TARIFF BILL IS PASSED

U. S. House of Representatives Adopts New Tariff Measure.

FIGHT IS JUST BEGINNING

Real Struggle Will Come When Bill Comes Before the Senate—Several Important Amendments Are Made In Text of Proposed Act—Republicans Are Jubilant Over Their Victory.

Washington, April 10.—After three weeks of consideration by the Payne Tariff Bill was passed by the House of Representatives last night by a vote of 217 to 161. One Republican, Austin, Tennessee, voted again the measure, and four Democrats, all from Louisiana, voted for it. An attempt by Champ. Clark, the minority leader, to re-commit the bill with instructions signally failed.

The final vote, 161, demonstrated the capacity of the Republican organization to get together. The situation with respect to lumber was greatly relieved to the Republican leaders when it became manifest that the advocates of the proposition placing it on the free list were in the minority. Because of that fact, Mr. Fitzgerald, New York, charged that a midnight deal had been made Wednesday night whereby free lumber was to be voted down and the rates on barley and barley malt increased, and this notwithstanding the denials of Messrs. Mann, Illinois, and Cushman, Washington, who offered the barley amendment.

When the bill actually was passed the Republicans cheered lustily, some dancing up and down the aisles, and patting their fellow members on the back.

The Dingley bill was under consideration in the House for two days longer than the Payne bill, but the House was not in session as long each day as during the consideration of the latter measure. All during the general debate on the Payne bill the House sat for ten and one-half hours each day, thus establishing a record for that body.

One of the principal changes effected in the Payne bill since its introduction was the placing of petraleum on the free list. This involved a seriously contested fight.

Among other important amendments that have been made since the bill came from committee were those striking out the provision for a duty on tea and the countervailing duties proviso on coffee. The elimination of the maximum duy of twenty per cent. on coffee, contained in the maximum section of the bill, was also significant.

The patent law provision, intended to retailiate for the new British patent law, was stricken out on account of an international convention.

The drawback section was added to so that it could not be taken advantage of at once, for the purpose of speculating in grain. There were several technical changes in the steel schedule, principally downward. Hides, hosiery and gloves were left as reported by the committee, hides remaining free and an increased duty being presented for gloves and stockings.

The fight over the tariff schedules has but just begun. It may deceive many persons in regard to the probable length of this special tariff session that the House has disposed of the bill in less than a month. The history of tariff legislation has usually been that the House has disposed of this class of legislation with much facility, for the rules governing that body are such that it is possible to bring the debate to a close within a reasonable time.

ELECTED PRESIDENT OF THE LAWN BOWLERS' ASSOCIATION

Annual Meeting Held on Thursday Evening---Prospects for the Coming Season Enthusiastically Discussed----the new Officers Retiring----Presidents' Reports and the Financial Statement.

The annual meeting of the Lawn Bowlers' Association was held last evening in the Dominion Bank chambers, when a fairly large number of the members were present and the prospects for the coming season were enthusiastically discussed. The chair was taken by the retiring president, Dr. T. N. Greer.

Upon motion of Mr. R. M. Waddell, seconded by Mr. Pratt, the minutes of the last annual meeting were taken as read.

President's Report

Peterborough, April 8, 1909

To the members of the Peterborough Lawn Bowling Association—

Gentlemen—I have the honour again to submit the Annual Report of the Peterborough Lawn Bowling Association, and it gives me pleasure to note the successful progress and continued prosperity of the club.

The past season was marked by increased interest on the part of the members. The very much improved condition of the green did a great deal to enhance the pleasure of the game and add to the enthusiasm of the players.

The games played with outside clubs were very much enjoyed and none the less because the local bowlers were usually victorious. Home and home games were played with Port Hope, Cobourg, Millbrook, Oshawa, Bowmanville and Keene, and friendly intercourse incident to these contests, has done much to develop and foster a deeper interest in lawn bowling in this district.

Representatives from our club also took part in the Ontario Dominion and Balmy Beach tournaments, and although they were not successful in winning any prizes, they made a very creditable record for themselves.

An excursion to Cobourg was run last summer under the auspices of the club and it turned out a success. We would do well to repeat it this year, and perhaps last year's experience will enable it to be run under improved conditions, with still greater success.

The club's financial standing is satisfactory. The receipts for the year exceeded the normal expenditure by about $100. This was applied in part for the purchase of some needed appliances, and the balance toward the reduction of the standing debt, which now amounts to $100 due the Dominion Bank. This shou'd easily be wiped out before the end of another season.

I must thank the Association for honouring me with the Presidency for the past two years and especially am I grateful to the other officers, who have by their assistance, contributed so much to the success of the club; and in retiring from office, I bespeak for my successor the cordial support you have given to me.

Respectfully submitted.

T. NEWTON GREER,
President.

At the conclusion of his report Dr. Greer tendered his resignation, thanking the members for their many favours and expressing his appreciation of them.

Financial Statement

Mr. Wm. Lang, secretary-treasurer, presented the financial report. It was a detailed statement of a very satisfactory nature, showing a balance in the bank of $13.22. The receipts exceeded the expenditures by over one hundred dollars, which amount was placed to the debt of securing the roller and other things.

Election of Officers

Hon Pres—Dr. Greer.
President—Mr J E A Fitzgerald
Vice Pres—Mr Thos Brightman.
Sec Treas—Dr. Marshall
Game secretary—Mr. T. [illegible]
Executive officers—D [illegible], T E B Yeates, R M Waddell, [illegible] Cottrell, Dr. Caldwell.

Membership Com.—Wm. Lang, chairman; W S Robinson, W E Talbot, D Kerneghan, T Pratt, Campbell E Runnels, J A McKone.

It was moved by Mr. Robinson, seconded by Mr. Waddell, that the executive committee be authorized to select a lawn committee from their own members. The name of Mr. D. Belleghem was added to this committee.

Dr. Marshall stated that it had been intimated to him that if the lot west of the building was put in condition it could be used for lawn tennis.

Dr Wightman who orginated the suggestion said that there were a number of young men in the city who played tennis and if courts were arranged there, they would be near the bowling green and in that way they would become interested .

Dr. Greer said that the property could be fixed up for thirty-five dollars and they have it for paying the taxes.
